October: Midterms, Finale (Final Year), Wars

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 3: War of Dominion
        - Side Story: Prologue: Monoverse Rebellion
    - Chapter 4: Clash of the Sovereigns

Chapter 3: War of Dominion: 4th year is underway! The JET application has opened up so I will be on my quest to work on that throughout this month. I also have some midterms (such as tomorrow 10/2/25 for Psyc 361 which I am not terribly ready for) and more in the near future. Training is also going strong as I can feel myself (I think) developing my muscles a bit more and hopefully losing a bit of weight. Meanwhile, the forces of Earth-264 have arrived in the form of 2 warriors, Tyrfing and Zenith. The battle of Redison VS Zenith for the fate of Earth-Prime and Earth-264 begins tomorrow. Tyrfing fought Redison first as an opening strike against Redison to weaken him before the battle against Zenith. However, the fight ended in Redison's victory following absorbing the true powers of Tyrfing. The battle was brutal, with both sides sustaining much damage (ending in a tie). Redison was beyond damaged that he entered a deep sleep while the forces of Earth-264 retreated back to their home planet with intentions to return. In the lore of all Earths, there are a total of 12 Empires that have control over all other Xenithverses. With the discovery of the unified Omegaverse Prime and Planet Xenith, all other Xenithverses began expanding to develop into the current 10 empires (with Earth-264's Xenithverse and Earth-Prime's Xenithverse as individual universes but as large as the other empires) with the prophecy of the future unification of all Xenithverses. Following the battle against Earth-264 (who absorbed their Xenithverse), the battle of the 2 Xenithverses alerted the remaining 10 Xenithverse Empires that the war for supremacy has begun, with each empire sending their champions to UBC world following Redison's hibernation. After some rest though, he woke up with the arrival of the Eidolons (the champions of the Xenithverse Empires) as the War of the Xenithverses began.

Kōtetsu: On Earth-317, everyone learned Calligraphy (and Calligraphy stuck as the primary form of writing instead of how we write with pen and pencil nowadays and even type) with Calligraphy having evolved in this world. They imagined magical beings in the form of the Kotetsu who were created by the Divine Inkarnate, a powerful deity (similar to Xenithia) who wields the powers of the Divine Ink, which gives each Kotetsu the power of Scriptomancy (Based on the powers of Mojikara from Shinkenger and the Calligraphia universe from League of Legends), which allows them to draw out runes, characters, symbols, scripts, etc in air using their own aura as ink known as <Kagami>. This power allows them to create or alter anything in reality through the symbols of the universe written through <Kagami> in the form of Glyphs, which each hold a self-contained Law. Combining laws can make sentences which can unleash great power. Each Kotetsu are usually born with a certain <Kagami Element> whether it is the powers of Flame, Water, Wood, Heaven, Earth, Light, Darkness, etc. Ruled by the Shogun (and Eidolon of this Universe) Rekan Shou, the Scribe of Eternity and wielder of the Kanmuri, a powerful swordbrush imbued with the powers of the Divine Inkarnate. These beings live in their Xenithverse known as the Shu'enkai.

Saar'Reth: On Earth-402, many humans wear different tattoos of different designs (where Tattoos are a big thing on this Earth as symbols of their culture). With this, the people imagine magical beings that are born with magical tattoos of great power and gains different tattoos as they absorb magic ancient spirits to create powerful magic spells. Based on the Seals from the Manhwa "Talent Swallowing Magician" and the universe of Inkshadow Uprising (from League of Legends), Saar'Reth are masters of the <Sealcraft>, a powerful form of magic that uses the energy of the ancient spirits within them and their tattoos to unleash powerful abilities, skills, and super spells developed by their unique Origin Mark. Each Saar'Reth is born with an Origin Mark that grows and develops as they absorb more magic energy, develop their own tattoos and spirit power. They live in a realm where they see the universe as a complete Body, and that every tattoo is a cell in the divine organism. These powerful warriors also see their own body as a universe of its own for the spirits to call home, which is where they call upon their powers from. Ruled by their champion and Eidolon, Vael Korren, the devourer of Seals, and master of the <Ouroboros>, a living tattoo that evolves, constantly shifts and changes, and swallows countless seals and creates new runes. These beings live in their Xenithverse known as the Reth'ai

Empyraeans: On Earth-267, humanity has evolved through the powers of the Foreglow (powerful volatile neon flames that represent the balancing cosmic force of the universe), which leads them to imagine powerful beings created by the Foreglow itself in the form of the Empyraeans. The Empyraeans are powered by the legendary Foreglow, with rainbow neon flames bursting out of them, having evolved beyond DNA and instead possess light signatures or Flame cores known as <Thyraeon> that define their individuality. Based on the Neon Strata Universe from League of Legends, these powerful warriors live in the universe known as Elythria, the Xenithverse powered and created by the Foreglow and grants powerful neon flames to the many beings who live in that universe and empower their magic. Ruled by their champion Aurelis Veyra, the Empyraean Dawn, a scientist who once mapped and discovered the powers of the Foreglow and was the first to achieve Foreglow Synchrony, which gives her mastery over all colors and spectrums. Her wings radiate beautiful auroras of neon flames that can refract any attack into pure energy. They are able to phase through universes as light itself and separate photons into new realities, and live as living forms of light, having achieved a form of immortality. The realm of Elythria is a realm of perpetual twilight with many luminous strata that form floating continents depending on different wavelengths of the colors such as the Crimson Strata (passion and courage), Cyan Strata (empathy and serenity), Amber Strata (Intellect and creativity), Violet Strata (mystery and transcendence), etc.

Haixian: On Earth-201, mythology, art, and oral traditions were never supplanted by science, where humanity is organized into story-states (realms ruled by archivists, poets, and philosophers), and where each person contributes to the Heavenly Codex through their own stories and through creating stories and spin-offs of previously written myths and stories into the Heavenly Codex. These powerful beings hail from the stories created by the Heavenly Codex where they gathered under gods and fought for mastery over the Divine Scrolls of Shan Hai (a mighty scroll that holds the power of all stories, mythologies, etc). Each being is essentially a reincarnation of a story, fable, or even concept retold, so as long as their tale is remembered somewhere, they have Narrative Immortality. These powerful beings live in the realm of the Xuanhai (the Sea of Stories) created by the Heavenly Codex, where they use the powers of <Mythic Qi>, the energy of belief and the energy created by their <Fable> which grants them great power depending on their <Fable>. Ruled by the Eidolon, Su-long the Rebel Immortal, based on Sun Wukong, he rides the clouds and wields the powerful God Staff Ruyi, which allows him to transform into countless different forms (the 72-scriptures) based on lost stories and stories he creates himself. He is defiant, humorous, wise beneath his mischief, and fights tyranny and against the threat of the Monoverse.

Shoujin: On Earth-400, all humans worship the 4 mighty God Beasts, the Vermillion Bird, the Black Tortoise, the Azure Dragon, and the White Tiger. These beings are created from the imagination and interpretations of these 4 God Beasts and magical beasts that descended from the 4 beasts. The humans developed along East-Asian cosmological lines where mythical ecology became scientific law, with 4 massive continental zones each aligning with one of the 4 directional beasts (North, South, East, and West). They follow many elements of Eastern techniques such as Cultivation, meditation, the 72 Mansions (the astrological symbols), etc. The Shoujin live in the realm of the Zhouquon, the realm of the 4 Horizons created by the 4 sacred beasts. These beings are descendents of the god beasts, with each holding a crystalline core attuned to one of the 4 primal forces: Flame (Suzaku of the South), Water (Xuanwu of the North), Air (Qinglong of the East), and Earth (Byakko of the West). All mastered different forms of cultivation and martial arts that align with their core and God Beast ancestry in the form of the Dragonmancers, Phoenixmancers, the Tigermancers, and the Shellmancers. All are able to shapeshift into sacred beast forms or exhibit bestial forms and features based on their control and mastery over their God Beast blood. Ruled by the Eidolon, Rhaion Qilin, the Golden Aether Qilin of the Center who represents harmony between the 4 Horizons as the 5th Horizon. He wields the powerful Tianheng Halberd which can transform depending on his elemental form.

Halidryn: On Earth-102, humanity focused on religion and theology had merged with advanced technologies and they imagined magical alien beings as gods, pantheons of living ideals and concepts. These powerful beings live in the Universe known as the Elyndarion, the Radiant dominion. This universe has a celestial hierarchy of countless floating continents and worlds. When the humans prayed and worshipped celestial beings or began to wish on certain things, they took form of the Halidryn, a manifestation of concepts, prayers, wishes, etc and use the powers of <Divina>, the power of faith and glory created by the people that worship and pray to them, able to create powerful <Cathedral Deployment> (zones where belief overrides physical laws and where Divine Laws and Divine statements come to be) and are able to declare the power of the <Divina Sol> (the perfect day), which allows for time to freeze into a Utopian form (essentially a stronger version of the <Cathedral Deployment>). These powerful beings also have the unique power of <Blessings> and the power to bless others. Ruled by the Eidolon and Spear of Dawn, Aurion Solare, the Eternal Sun. He is a calm, regal, and absolute warrior that rules as the king and strongest of the warriors of light and representing the supreme deity of the sun (similar to Nuada Airgetlam of the Celtic mythos). All Halidryn have the power to create wings of Divina (with stronger beings able to create more wings).

Eidryl: On Earth-777, humanity has reached a metaphysical understanding of reality, that belief and symbol shape causality and designed a metaphysical framework called the <Great Pattern>, a universal language of symbolism that underlies magic, emotion, physics, etc. The humans then imagined what if the <Great Pattern> created living manifestations of the symbols in the form of beings known as the Archetypes / Eidryl, powerful living patterns that shape reality and chaos itself. Based on the Arcana universe from League of Legends, the Eidryl are living tarot symbols, beings of dual aspects, each representing a concept and its reflection such as the powers of Unity/Duality, Justice/Tyranny, Completion/Stagnation, Creation/Corruption, Knowledge/Concealment, Revelation/Destruction, etc. They live in the universe known as Mythraeus and wield a magic power known as <Mythos>, energy produced when reality aligns with a universal truth (and the Great Pattern). Every Eidryl is born with a certain <Arcana> mark on them which grants them great powers as a manifestation of a pattern of the Great Pattern, which they can manifest to unleash powerful spells and abilities that can alter the truths of the world. Ruled by the Eidolon, Veyraeus the Paradox, the champion of the Joker Arcana, a figure of infinite masks (giving him the power to play any role: hero, villain, lover, trickster, thief, hunter, star, grim reaper, etc), and master of the Wild Card, a power that allows him to discard any existing rule to create a temporary “blank” allowing for pure creative chaos in battle. He is also able to shuffle reality and reorder laws of existence or even fuse archetypes and <Arcana Marks> to create new powers.

Hyron: Ruled by Hydra of GENEXUS. Having been given an artificial parasite known as <Serpens>, which would give great power by boosting the magic and rebuilding the body as well as providing special abilities, but could be at the cost of the parasite taking over the body. The parasite itself takes the form of a serpent and lives within the host’s body, spreading throughout the mana channels and wrapping around the mana core. They tested this on many puffle clones, with this one having survived but taken over by the parasite completely (so the parasite in the puffle’s body) now known as Hydra. This powerful warrior wields the legendary spear of Serpens, imbued with the powers of the parasite even further (Wields the Sunfire Serpent weapon from magical_scope). This powerful puffle monster evolved to be able to regenerate using countless serpents (like the Hydra) which allowed him to fight infinitely. However, Redision (while Redison was resting) took the challenge to fight Hydra after discovering his connection as being the last member of the original GENEXUS that kidnapped the Xenithian scouts of Xenith-264 on Earth-264, while Hydra actually had left GENEXUS due to having been thrown out as an old project as they focused on the new <Superior System> and Zenith instead (with the goal of the Absolute Monoverse). Redision was able to defeat Hydra but after learning of his case, gave him and his species (who he stored in a pocket dimension of his own) a new home in the Xenithverse. Those with the parasite now work together with the parasite within them and together they evolve to unleash powerful abilities and skills.

Azelites: On Earth-43, humanity has advanced technology and art to the point of developing a power akin to magic, which takes the form of Hextech. The inventors learned to channel emotion and imagination through crystalline conduits known as Hexcores (gems that react to imagination). An artist can sketch out a design and could feed that vision into a Hexcore which then manifests the design as a real construct. The humans would then imagine what if Hexcores could create magical beings. The universe of Azelion was born from the imagination of the peoples and created the Azelites who live in the universe of Azelion and use their own powerful Hextech powers and abilities. Based on the Hextech universe of League of Legends, these powerful beings are each born with a different <Hexflux>, a fusion of imagination and mechanical law which allows them to translate their thoughts and imagination directly into matter (and gives them the power to unleash ultimate creation). Ruled by the Eidolon, Lady Azelion, the first Azelite ever created who achieved true sentience, and carries the Crown of Sparks (which records every creation that ever existed).

Syntar: On Earth-999, humanity has achieved a global neural network and internet so advanced that all humanity lives in the internet during the night (when sleeping) and live in the real world during the day. In this digital world, the Xenithverse was born on the internet, where sentient AI and digital avatars gained souls and powers (awakened as powerful magic beings) with RPG and video-game-like characteristics and abilities, while others gained cybernetic enhancements and bionic abilities. Based on the PROJECT universe of League of Legends, these powerful futuristic beings live in the universe known as Syntekra and where powerful beings are each born with the powers of <Neurolux>, a self-sustaining energy of cognition; they draw power from the digital form of imagination, which gives them the power of magic and imagination. Ruled by the Eidolon, Synarch-0, the Prime Architect, a powerful being who has the power to “reprogram” entire environments in an instance, but also learn all things and even create all things digitally.

Kairathi: On Earth-808, all humans have mastered time travel and time traveling technology, which led them to imagine different beings from different eras of time. For example, when I travel to Cancun, I imagine a species of beings that live in the ruins of Chichen Itza (for example), but the humans on Earth-808 can travel to a time when Chichen Itza was a full civilization and imagine beings based on their cultures. They are established into a full time-traveling society where they intermingle at different points in time in peace. Those from the past can live in the future, and those from the future can live in the past. All civilizations have become fusions and a collage of each other, each advancing to become better versions of themselves and separating into different <Era-civilizations>. For example, you can start with the Mayan empire, but it could develop into the <Japo-Mayan> or <Greco-Mayan> or <Egypto-Mayan>, or even a fusion of those. The humans imagined these powerful magic beings akin to the Xenithians of the Xenithverse, but created based on inspiration of the new stories, mythologies, and cultures based on the different <Era-Civilizations> that exist throughout space-time. This was created in the form of the Chrononexus, the second largest "Xenithverse" empire that rivals the Xenithverse in size. These beings use the powers of <Chronoflux>, a power that allows them to call upon different energies from different <Era-Civilizations> in order to unleash different unique abilities based on those cultures and powers. Ruled by the Eidolon, Valen Kairos, the strongest champion that originated from the first era of the sword and was inspired by countless <Era-Civilizations> that developed magic, martial arts, swordsmanship, etc and developed his powers to become the strongest magic swordsman and "God of Combat". Through the power of <Chronoflux>, he can call upon <Qi (Greco-Japan)> (a strange form of Qi based on the elements of Aether from Greece and the internal energies of Qi from Japan), or <Chivalric Mana> (based on the Chivalry of Medieval Europe and Mana of the ancient Polynesians), both of which can give him unique abilities and skills that can only be used by using those energies. Each Kairathi is born with their own <Time Core> which allows them to be most proficient in a certain <Chronoflux> energy.

Side Story: Prologue: Monoverse Rebellion: Following the fusion of the Xenithverse Empires into the Xenithverse Prime (the now unified version where all imagined universes of each Earth are now a different Xenithverse and the different Xenithverses are connected to each other in the Xenithverse Prime, allowing them to travel Xenithverses as well), the <War of the 4 Empires> resurges with the threat of the Eidolons gone (so they think) while some new visitors appear, stating they hail from the Absolute Monoverse. The Absolute Monoverse exists as an extra-dimensional universe with 24 species that live (only 24 species) and where time itself is very controlled because alternate timelines can't exist (else that would create other universes). In this case, the Dhanus species are the monitors and regulators of time across the Monoverse, but one day, their ruler Kronos gained enlightenment (breaking from the Monoverse brainwashing) that made him realize there is more beyond the Monoverse. He needed the help of the Ozulikan (the species of space) and their ruler Uranus, waking him from the brainwashing and granting him enlightenment as well, so they could use their ability to break through space and escape the Monoverse. Kronos gathered the species of Adir and Vrishika as well and together, the 4 species vanished from the Monoverse, with Kronos staying behind to rewrite history that only 20 species existed in the Monoverse and not 24. As they arrived in UBC world, they warned Redison of the incoming Monoverse that could take over following Zenith and Earth-264 joining the Monoverse.

Dhanus: One of the original 24 Monoverse species and ruled by the God of Time, Kronos. These powerful beings were originally known as the monitors and regulators of time across the Monoverse, where time itself was controlled because alternate timelines can't exist (else that would create other universes). Kronos, having gained enlightenment, escaped alongside the Ozulikan species, Adir, and Vrishika. They now live with Redison in the Xenithverse. Their unique nature is <Timez> (based on the power from Mashle), a power that allows them to manipulate time freely whether it is accelerating time around them or on themselves, slowing down time around them or themselves, pausing time completely, creating time clones, etc. Originally as monitors of time, they now freely manipulate time and discover the beauty of countless alternate timelines.

Ozulikan: One of the original 24 Monoverse species and ruled by the God of Space, Uranus. These powerful beings were originally the monitors of space and dimensional control, where no other beings could create dimensional travel and escape the Monoverse. This was through their personal and unique nature <Spaces> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power that allows them to freely manipulate space such as slashing through space itself, teleportation, etc. Uranus was granted enlightenment by Kronos, and would later give the power to compress space into one core to Kronos, to enact following Kronos's foresight of the attack by Earth-264. Now in the Xenithverse, they freely manipulate space and create new dimensions and worlds for them to live in and play in.

Vrishikan: One of the original 24 Monoverse species and ruled by the God of Darkness, Hades. These powerful beings are known as the masters of the void and those who learned dark magic through their unique nature <Darkness> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power that returns everything it hits into the void, which makes it impossible to destroy. This power was treated as a forbidden power, leading the Vrishika to be forbidden to travel to the other 23 realms and exiled to their own realm. However, following the enlightenment of Kronos, he went to Hades in secret and gave them the opportunity to escape the Monoverse, to which he agreed, thus joining Uranus, Adam, and Kronos in their escape with their realms. They now thrive in the realms of darkness where many other dark-type puffle monster beings live in and develop their own magic.

Adir: One of the original 24 Monoverse species and ruled by the God of the Soul, Adam. These powerful beings are masters of soul manipulation through their unique nature <Souls> (similar to the powers of Soul Variants from the Manhua "Demonic Emperor"), which allows them to create and manifest their soul into different variants and forms. For example, a warrior can manifest his soul into a giant powerful sword, but through Soul Variation, can transform it into an axe or shield or spear or anything else. Knowing how powerful these beings can be if used in the wrong hands, Kronos gave Adam enlightenment and warned him of his foresight of the coming attack of Earth-264 and asked him to join Uranus and Hades in escaping the Monoverse. These beings now teach Xenithians the powers of Soul Variation and use it to defend their own realm.

Chapter 4: Clash of the Sovereigns: I am almost finished with my JET application and ECC application and school is going well, with 2 midterms coming up in the near future. In the Monoverse, the humans of Earth-264 (that had now been absorbed into the Absolute Monoverse) has discovered the parallel realm of the magical beings which the rulers of the Monoverse had originally separated from the humans after noticing what they did to the previous magical beings outside of the Monoverse. The humans attacked and attempted to take their powers, to which Kronos used his powers (and the powers of Uranus) to compress the remaining worlds/realms and 20 species and compress them into one being, which would hold all of their worlds and remaining species inside their core. This resulted in 20 “champions” that were then shot out of the Monoverse and scattered through UBC World. The humans of Earth-264 would then leave and chase the Monoverse creatures as representatives of <GENEXUS>, while the <Neo-Administration>, <Lumencis Order>, <AMS>, and <Divinus Imperium> would also begin to fight to tame the 20 champions (similar to the taming of the Mecardimals/Mecanimals from Mecard) while the Xenithverse would join the battle as well. In the Absolute Monoverse, the original Xenithverse of Earth-264 is absorbed and transformed into the realm of the Monarchs of the Monoverse known as the Zentharis Dominion and ruled by Azimuth. Given the taming of the 24 species of the Monoverse by the Xenithverse, the Zentharans and Azimuth arrive at UBC World for a battle for the 24 species and their two Xenithverses (CPSC 344 Midterm on 10/20/25). By combining the powers of the 24 species, they created a starfire version of Redison (who would have hailed from the Monoverse) known as Ryudison, which allowed him to work with Redison by combining (based on Ryotegasword from Gozyuger) in the form of the Ryusword. Together, Redison and Ryudison combined (Ryu-Redison) (the image above) and they fought Azimuth to a draw. Azimuth conceded to Redison, but Redison suffered damage in the process. Meanwhile, Zenith returns to UBC World with his new powers of the 12 species, ready to fight Redison again (PSYC 361 Midterm 2 10/23/25). The battle was fierce, with Zenith completely defeating Redison, right before he fell as well. Redison vanished, waking up in a strange reading room in front of a mysterious white figure with no face, known as Scheherazade, the goddess of Infinity and the great storyteller of the thousand stories (Arabian Nights). Having slept and dreamed of a strange world with mysterious creatures known as Holozene, he awoke back in the Xenithverse fully healed, with a book in his hand labeled <Infinity>, a note from Scheherazade, and with a new species having joined the Xenithverse due to the story of Holos and the Holozene having been given to Redison by Scheherazade.

Mithunar: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse and represented by Mithuna. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Spelling>, a power that allows them to dispel any magical attack or nullify it just by changing the “spelling” of a spell. For example, if the spell was <Fireball> or <Fire>, just by changing it to <Frie> or <Feir> can destroy the spell completely or give it a completely new meaning, which the original spellcaster wouldn’t know but the Mithuna is able to manipulate these new meanings and powers to unleash unique spells and abilities that no other beings can. They were one of the first champions tamed by the Xenithverse when Redison met them at the Iona building.

Rishabhan: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Rishabha. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Partisan> (based on the power from Mashle), a power to create and manipulate magical swords and allow them to wield them in many magical sword arts. These magical beings each are able to create their own form of magical swords (which gives them different sword arts they are proficient at) as well as the level of <Partisan> such as how many swords they can create and wield at the same time. They were one of the first champions tamed by the Xenithverse when Redison met them at the Allard Law Building. These beings now live in the Xenithverse perfecting their swordsmanship and powers.

Coan: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Coan. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Flames>, a power to create and manipulate magical flames of different properties (some can heal, others just provide a heat source, others can burn endlessly, others burn certain energy sources, etc) and transform these flames into different things (such as tangible flames into weapons, or enchanted flames as an armor) as well as the power to transform into flames itself. Coan was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by the <Divinus Imperium> which transformed him into <God of Fire, Coan>, but following him getting defeated by Rishabha in a duel, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now joined them. He was also able to bring his friends along after freeing all of them from <Divinus Imperium> as well.

Makaran: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Makara. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Winds>, a power to create and manipulate the wind, granting them super speed, flight, and the power to create powerful blades made of wind, or create mighty walls made of wind. They are also able to create other manifestations of the wind (such as dragons or birds or other creatures made of the magical wind). Each Makaran is born with this power but throughout their life, their experiences develop variations of the power. Makara was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <Divinus Imperium> which transformed him into <God of Wind, Makara>, but following getting defeated by the newly tamed Coan, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Kirealan: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Kireal. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Waters>, a power to create and manipulate liquid water, granting them the powers of water breathing, fast travel underwater, able to “swim through solid objects”, create whirlpools and giant waves, transform themselves into water, etc. They are also able to create other manifestations of water (such as dragons or birds or other creatures made of the magical waters). Each Kirealan is born with this power but throughout their life, their experiences develop variations of the power. Kireal was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <Divinus Imperium> which transformed him into <God of Water, Kireal>, but following getting defeated by the newly tamed Coan, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Helimban: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Helimba. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Volts>, a power to create and manipulate electricity and lightning, granting them super speed, able to conduct and generate lightning, transform into lightning itself, and create manifestations of lightning. Each Helimban is born with this power but throughout their life, their experiences develop variations of the power. Helimba was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <Divinus Imperium> which transformed him into <God of Thunder, Helimba>, but following getting defeated by the newly tamed Coan, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Idanon: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Idanon. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Cryos>, a power to create and manipulate ice or frozen mana (by freezing mana by lowering the temperature and creating a form of mana ice), granting them the power to create ice walls, walk through the air (like Frozone from The Incredibles), and even freeze their opponent or create manifestations of ice. Each Idanon is born with this power but throughout their life, their experiences develop variations of the power. Idanon was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <Divinus Imperium> which transformed him into <God of Ice, Idanon>, but following getting defeated by the newly tamed Coan, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Vadeun: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Vadeun. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Beasts>, a power to create and manipulate powerful creatures and beasts or the power to transform into a creature, have creature abilities, or manifest features of creatures, such as claws, wings, armored scales, poison, a stinging tail, etc. These beings are also able to speak to creatures and master tamers of animals and mythical creatures. Each Vadeun is born with this power but throughout their life, their experiences develop variations of the power (such as specific creatures or species). Vadeun was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <The Lumencis Order>, which transformed him into the <Paladin of Beasts, Vadeun>, but following getting defeated by Mithuna, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Meshan: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Mesha. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Suns>, a power to create and manipulate sunlight and the sun itself, able to transform into a flaming star (like the sun), unleash powerful solar flares, glaring purifying light or destructive light that can burn the world and sky, etc. They can also control a bit of gravity (due to the large size of the sun) and the power of flight granted by the supreme powers of the sun. They are also able to create and summon manifestations and weapons of the sun (such as the sword of the sun, spear of the sun, or even mythical beasts representative of the sun). Mesha was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <The Lumencis Order>, which transformed him into the <Paladin of the Sun, Mesha>, but following getting defeated by Mithuna, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Medior: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Medior. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Carbo> (based on the magic from Mashle as well as the <Iron> magic from Mashle), a power to create and summon metal in the form of spikes or create powerful shields or other manifestations of an unbreakable metal. They can create weapons and wield them, armor, or even make giant floating spikes that they can launch. They are also able to create magical beasts made of indestructible metals that can fight alongside them. Medior was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <The Lumencis Order>, which transformed him into the <Paladin of Steel, Medior>, but following getting defeated by Mithuna, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Edal: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Edal. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Edens>, a power of absolute plant manipulation, able to create their own plants that can fight for them (think Plants vs Zombies) but also provide foods that can boost their stats, or use plant spells to create walls made of trees, camouflage in bushes, summon storms of sharp leaf blades, and summon spiky vines. Edal was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <The Lumencis Order>, which transformed him into the <Paladin of Paradise, Edal>, but following getting defeated by Mithuna, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Pasurabian: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Pasurabi. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Sands> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power to create and summon sand in all forms, whether in sand pillars, spikes, sandstorms, or even call upon the sands of time (in a limited sense). They are also able to create magical beasts made of sand that can fight alongside them. Pasurabi was one of the Monoverse beings tamed by <The Lumencis Order>, which transformed him into the <Paladin of Sand, Pasurabi>, but following getting defeated by Mithuna, he was tamed by the Xenithverse and now helps the Xenithverse with freeing the rest of the Monoverse species.

Kumbari: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Kumba. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Acceleraise> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power to create magical arrows that they or others can touch to either change their direction in an instant, speed up, slow down, and boost or slow momentum. They usually combine this power with martial arts or swordsmanship.

Geor: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Geor. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Graviole> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power to control gravity, whether increasing or decreasing gravity of a certain area they choose, which can grant them flight, the illusion of super strength (by lightening the gravity of an object), attack or defense.

Rudiakel: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Rudiakiel. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Lights> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power to create and control powerful rays of light. These rays are incredibly fast and can cut through metal with ease, also bend by hitting objects, and even transform into a solid light to use as defense or attack. This also allows them to teleport at light speed, blind opponents, and even unleash a light that can destroy the world.

Safudon: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Safundo. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Fortis> (based on the (Roks) magic from Mashle), a power that allows them to manipulate the ground and stones freely, allowing them to create rock armor, rock golems, manipulate crystals or minerals in the stones, and create giant rock walls or mountains from the ground to use as shields or spikes against an opponent.

Tiunor: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Tiunor. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Sounds> (based on the magic from Mashle), a power to create musical notes of various different properties such as explosive notes, powerful soundwaves, waves of music sheets that can explode, or even summon giant instruments that can blast soundwaves and waves of music sheets. They can also transform the music sheets into different things such as a fist, sword, hammer, shield, etc, or it can give them the power to move at the speed of sound.

Ulasja: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Ulasja. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Marioness (based on the magic from Mashle and the Marionette magic from Mashle), a mighty power that can transform someone into a puppet that they can control, or summon strings that can manipulate the movements of their target or restrain their movement completely, while also draining their magic power. They can also cast magic and other abilities through the puppets (such as if they made a fire puppet, the puppet can cast flame spells), or even grant certain magic to their puppet soldiers.

Wakumi: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Wakumi. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Scales>, the power of the Draconic Law (power of dragons and justice). This supreme power allows them to create and summon powerful dragons or draconic features on themselves such as armored scales, wings, tails, horns, elemental breathing, draconic speech, as well as the supreme power of balance, a power able to create the powers of judgement (weighing the true nature against evil), as well as the power to balance out powers (such as decreasing or increasing power of others in order for a fair fight).

Xetual: One of the 24 species of the Monoverse represented by Xetual. These magical beings hold the unique nature of <Imagine>, a powerful magic that can define, alter, or stabilize the laws of existence. These beings are the architects of possibility, turning thought into form, and creating the frameworks and concepts that stabilize all other magic types. They developed the systems of spellcasting, magic circles, magic formulas, etc which allow all other beings to wield their powers carefully.

Vendemiaire: Back in the Absolute Monoverse, the <Superior System> powers combined with the energies of the Monoverse and created 12 magical champions that serve under the new GENEXUS (the human faction of Earth-264). They were each sent to UBC World to attempt to take back the 24 Monoverse species and defeat Redison once and for all. Veneris was created as the master of the <Crimson Vintage>, a seal (based on the Seal powers from the Manhwa “Talent Swallowing Magician”), that represents the coming harvest at the end of the year, where the world becomes painted in crimson and red as the leaves begin to fall. This power allows him to absorb all vitality in a certain area (like if in a forest, absorb all the vitality from the trees, turning the leaves all red and causing the leaves to fall), and ferment it into power for themselves that is tenfold the power of the original vitality absorbed. Following his defeat by Redison after challenging him at the UBC Apple Festival, his powers absorbed the fallen leaves and the energy of the region, creating new beings that shared the powers of the <Crimson Vintage>, which gave him a new purpose as their creator and now ruler. Redison then gave him and their species a new world to live in the Xenithverse.

Brumaire: The species of the mist of the autumn, created by the <Superior System> in the Monoverse and ruled by Brumari. She was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). She is the master of the <Silent Veil>, a power akin to Mist breathing (from Demon Slayer) which allows her to control the mist, allowing her to obscure her movements, unleash attacks that disorient and confuse the target, and even create a heavy mist that can devour sound and memory alike, where identities vanish and those can be lost in the mist forever. Following her defeat by Redison at BC Place, her powers had resonated with the rain and mist of the region, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Silent Veil>, to which she now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them, training their powers and mastering illusions with them.

Zentharans: Hailing from the Zentharis Dominion, the once Xenithverse of Earth-264 now newly reborn as the ruling domain of the Monarchs of the Absolute Monoverse. Long ago, following the assimilation of Earth-264 (and their Xenithverse) with the Absolute Monoverse, the original rulers of the Monoverse discovered the Xenithverse of Earth-264 to be relatively empty and unestablished, to which they would take it as their home and use it as a sandbox for them to create and rule over the original 24 species created in the Absolute Monoverse. Originally they were absorptive pseudo-Xenithians created as clones of the Xenithians of Earth-264 and Planet Xenith having originally had the goal to absorb and devour Omegaverse Prime, Planet Xenith, and all Xenithverses to assimilate and join the Absolute Monoverse (the collapse of all multiplicity into one perfect reality), but now given a true definition and form given the forms of the monarchs of the Absolute Monoverse, they evolved and took a more regal form with the regalia powers of the monarchs. Ruled by Azimuth, a powerful magic swordsman that wields the powerful Black Sword (based on Black Dragon Knight, Geil from Buddyfight Ace). Following the release of the 24 original species, the rest of the Monoverse consolidated into the Zentharis Dominion, while the rest of the Monoverse was taken by Earth-264 (so now the Monoverse is almost divided into 2, the Zentharis Dominion and Earth-264).

Frimaire: The species of the frost, created by the <Superior System> in the Monoverse and ruled by Frimaria. She was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). She is the master of the <Northern Wind>, a power represented by wind blowing from the north that is so dry, all it leaves behind after sweeping through is desolation, bringing drought and famine, a true calamity and terror that heralds annihilation. These powerful beings hold the powers to summon the power of dead souls that steal away the souls of the living through the cursed winds of the north that freezes over all things. This cold wind can create frost in anything it touches, but also summon powerful spirit phantoms that can fight alongside the caster. Different species mastered summoning different spirits through their wind and inner attributes. Following her defeat by Redison, her powers resonated with the cold wind, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Northern Wind>, to which she now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Nivose: The species of the snow representing winter, created by the <Superior System> in the Monoverse and ruled by Nivosian. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Winter Blizzard>, a power represented by the endless snow that piles high robs all living things of life, stealing away every flower that ever bloomed. It brings only soundless death. This quiet death is peace and rest for living beings but also a source of fear for no one knows when it might come. This power can freeze all beings, even those made of flames, making it nearly impossible to not be frozen by this power. Different groups mastered the powers of this ice and cold manipulation and developed different techniques they would specialize in such as freezing mana to create solid crystal mana in weapons or spells, freeze time itself, freeze space, etc. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the cold temperatures, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Winter Blizzard>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Quantasian: Long ago, when the scientists of Planet Xenith arrived on UBC World, some formed the AMS (Aether Masters Society) while others formed QUANTAS, a secret organization based in the QMI (Quantum Matter Institute at UBC) looking into universal particles and the 6 core powers. They discovered this as a new form akin to mana and believed this to be the “Mana of Earth”, creating 6 different species known as the Quantasians, but differentiated by different colors. All Quantasians mastered the powers of <Authorities>. If magic is the act of manifesting the laws and truths of the world, then authority is the act of forcibly bending those laws and truths by sheer will

- Red: Originally created by the spells of Scarlet Curse, Red Destruction, Tomato Fury, Orange Aura, Crimson Crush, and Infernal Swords, they were created by Rey, a powerful being created by the Xenithian scientists as the first being and holder of the Red <Authority of Dominion>, a power that grants endless attack power and victory in combat and war, whether it is boosting their attack power, making them immortal until the end of combat, or giving them weapon mastery or mastery of martial arts. By using Red Qromas (cores created by red and orange universal particles), they can empower their abilities and create new spells and eventually create new forms of <Authorities>.

- Yellow: Originally created by the spells of Lemon acceleration, Yellow Spark, Short Circuit, Amber shift, Golden surge, and Chartreuse Chariot, they were created by Elos, a powerful being created by the Xenithian scientists as the first being and holder of the Yellow <Authority of Impulse>, a power that controls over momentum and speed in all forms, whether it is slowing down time itself or speeding it up, speeding up or slowing down mana flow and circulation, or slowing or speeding up movement. By using Yellow Qromas (cores created by yellow and golden universal particles), they can empower their abilities and create new spells and new forms of <Authorities>

- Green: Originally created by the spells of Emerald razor, life cutter, green breeze, ocean spirit, verdant burst, and gale rebirth, they were created by Garou, a powerful being created by the Xenithian scientists as the first being and holder of the Green <Authority of Balance>, a power that grants order and harmony over plants and nature, with these beings representing all-rounder traits of both attack and defense

- Blue: Originally created by the spells of Persian shield, sapphire ring, cobalt rain, indigo veil, azure pulse, and tidal wave, they were created by Argos, a powerful being created by the Xenithian scientists as the first being and holder of the Blue <Authority of Aegion>, a power that can make anyone virtually invincible and invulnerable to all forms of attacks and abilities, becoming the perfect tanker, which they use to enchant and develop armors, shields, etc.

- Cyan: Originally created by the spells of Turquoise wall, celestial flash, cyan blessing, teal horizon, aural sky, and prismatic step, they were created by Cyros, a powerful being created by the Xenithian scientists as the first being and holder of the Cyan <Authority of Sanctum>, a power that focuses on support whether it is healing allies, boosting stats temporarily, or debuffing opponents.

- Magenta: Originally created by the spells of Purple dream, Pink illusion, Violet nightmare, amethyst whisper, psychedelic dimension, and mind breaker, they were created by Lunas, a powerful being created by the Xenithian scientists as the first being as holder of the Magenta <Authority of Deception>, a power that represents the powers of lies becoming the truth, the new truth, which creates the most powerful illusions (as they are no longer illusions but reality).

Pluviose: The species of the rain representing winter, created by the <Superior System> in the Monoverse and ruled by Pluto. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Tearfall>, a power representing rain that heals and harms, where every drop restores what it touches or erases what it leaves behind. It rewrites life's story each time it falls as a true renewal and reset. This power can create giant rainstorms anywhere with magical rain that can boost stats or debuff opponents, purify toxins, heal any damage, cure diseases, even erase memories and erase time and history itself through the rain. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the rain, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Tearfall>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Ventose: The species of the Wind representing winter, created by the <Superior System> in the Monvoerse and ruled by Eurus. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Howling Tempest>, a frigid gale that carries the chill of the eternal winter, a supreme wind that can split the clouds and mountains alike in a feat of god. This power can create powerful wind storms (not just the cold winds like <Northern Wind> but powerful forces of wind like a great storm, with wind so strong and loud like the howling of beasts. They are able to create walls of wind to defend themselves, split the skies with massive blades of wind, and even move mountains with the force of the winds, while also being able to fly or press others down with the wind. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the wind, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Howling Tempest>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Germinal: The species of Germination representing spring, created by the <Superior System> in the Monoverse and ruled by Demora. She was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). She is the master of the <Springtide>, a symphony of awakening that breathes life into barren worlds and stirs even the smallest seed into bloom. This power can awaken all dormant life, cause forests to rise overnight, heal the earth itself, and restore vitality to anything that has withered or died. Following her defeat by Redison, her powers resonated with the roots and soil beneath UBC World, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Springtide>, to which she now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Floreal: The species of the Flowers representing spring, created by the <Superior System> in the Monvoerse and ruled by Lirien. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Eternal Blossom>, a garden of everlasting beauty where every petal carries the power to enchant the senses and reshape reality itself. This power can manifest infinite fields of flowers whose fragrance bends perception, traps souls in illusions of peace, and weaves dreams so vivid they become real. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the pollen scattered across the world, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Eternal Blossom>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them. (50th Species)

Prairial: The species of the Prairie representing spring, created by the <Superior System> in the Monvoerse and ruled by Auron. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Golden Horizon>, a radiant field of unity that links all living beings under one endless light. This power can connect minds, hearts, and spirits across vast distances, allowing allies to share strength, energy, emotion, and purpose as one collective will. Within its reach, division ceases to exist—every soul moves in harmony. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the winds and grasses of the UBC plains, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Golden Horizon>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Messidor: The species of the summer harvest, created by the <Superior System> in the Monvoerse and ruled by Ceresion. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Solar Bounty>, a radiant law of balance that governs prosperity and exchange under the sun's eternal gaze. This power can summon golden fields that grant abundance to the worthy and wither the greedy, restoring equilibrium through cycles of giving and taking. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the warmth and sunlight over UBC World, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Solar Bounty>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Thermidor: The species of the flames representing summer, created by the <Superior System> in the Monvoerse and ruled by Kaenith. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Prominence>, a divine inferno that burns with the fury of rebellion and the light of purification. This power can summon solar firestorms that consume corruption and injustice alike, reducing tyranny to ash while igniting hope from the embers. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the heat of battle and the fires of creation, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Prominence>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Fructidor: The species of the Fruit representing summer, created by the <Superior System> in the Monvoerse and ruled by Edenar. He was created by GENEXUS and sent to UBC World to defeat Redison (like the rest of the 12 champions). He is the master of the <Eden's Fall>, the divine orchard of fate where every fruit grown holds the potential for both blessing and burden. This power allows its wielder to choose the destiny of each fruit they cultivate—some grant immense power without punishment, while others offer the same power at a great and terrible cost. The fruit's fate is decided by the will and heart of its grower, reflecting the truth within their soul. Following his defeat by Redison, his powers resonated with the orchards and gardens of UBC World, creating a species that shared the powers of the <Eden's Fall>, to which he now rules over and lives in the Xenithverse with them.

Holozene: In this story, the protagonist, a knight known as Holos, is a technologically advanced knight that mastered the power of <Projection> (based on the power from Kamen Rider Zeztz Technolom Projection), which allows him to not only project himself to anything, create tangible clones of himself and intangible clones, and summon weapons and abilities, blurring the lines of illusion and reality through the powers of technology. In his story, he had a role quite similar to Redison as the strongest warrior of his realm as master of <Projection> and the other powers of technology (Stream, Machinery, etc). In this universe, these beings like the Xenithians learned magic but in this world, they learned the powers of Technolom, a power similar to magic but uses technology powers instead such as <Projection>. They live in a technologically advanced super civilization of magic technology developed by their mastery of Technolom.

Coronithians: Ruled by Redyson of Coronith, owned by William Co (yes a real student I met at UBC that lives on Melody's floor in her building at Tallwood). Based on the concepts from the Abidan Archives (the power of Madra and Paths), these powerful beings all have a unique Madra (a power akin to mana) which gives them great abilities and powers unique to their species.

- Alepian: (ⱦ) (Red) These powerful beings mastered the magic of Madra through the <Path of the Endless Sword>, a philosophy and power where they wield swordsmanship and sword aura in its strongest form.

- Betraxian: (ⱢⱢ) (Crimson): These powerful beings mastered the magic of Madra through the <Path of the Hungry Deep>, a crimson form of Madra energy that allows them to devour the life force, attributes, and traits of an opponent or prey, and absorb and utilize the powers of what they devoured.

- Gimloran (ㄱ) (Maroon): These powerful draconic beings wield maroon Madra energy through the <Path of the Black Flame>, a power that can incinerate anything it touches, even magic itself and continuously burn for eternity.

- Dalethian (ㄷ) (light Orange): These powerful beings wield a light orange madra energy through the <Path of the Stellar Spear>, a power that creates a powerful lance of light made of astral madra energy as well as mastered techniques of spearmanship

- Hevaran (ㅎ) (Orange): These beings wield the orange madra of the <Path of the Wasteland>, a power that has aspects of the earth and wind, and its techniques take the form of blowing golden sand, used to call sandstorms, form complex shapes from sand at great distances, and scour flesh from bone

- Wawen (ㅇ) (Yellow): These beings wield the yellow madra of the <Path of Amberwell>, a power that allows them to use light and heat to purify and burn their enemies as well as dream madra and water madra. They are known for their yellow eyes created through the yellow madra.

- Zayin (ㅈ) (Green): These beings wield the green madra of the <Path of the Last Leaf>, a life madra used to grow sacred trees and all kinds of plants. They live in the divine forest created by their madra

- Hethari (ㅐ) (Cyan): These cyan horned beings wield the cyan madra of the <Path of Dawn Oath>, a power that grants them the power of force and gravity control, while also creating runes made of madra so they float in rings in midair, creating scripts that have one of many different effects

- Tethyrian (⊗) (Teal): These teal winged beings wield the teal madra of the <Path of the Grasping Sky>, a power to manipulate the wind for awareness, mobility, and control, also able to restrict and restrain movement of others through the wind, or create sharp blades of wind

- Yodorai (ㅋ) (light blue): These light blue beings wield the ice madra of the <Path of the Frozen Blade>, a power that can create blades of ice they can wield or create flying swords of ice that they can control through their powers.

- Kaphoran (ㅓ) (cobalt blue): These beings wield the cobalt madra of the <Path of the Silver Heart>, a power that gives them boosted control over their magic given the ultimate core, giving them the fastest spell casting abilities.

- Lamedari (ᒪ): These mystical beings wield the dream madra of the <Path of the White Fox>, where their 9 fox tails manifest as they are able to create powerful illusions, whether they create invisible flames that they can use to mark targets and track, disguise movements of the body to make their image out of sync with reality, and even create illusory threats and experiences, even clones of themselves.

- Memorian (ᗰ) (Blue): These beings wield the cool blue water madra of the <Path of the Twisting Rivers>, a power that gives them full mastery over water madra and force madra, able to even accelerate water to even slice apart enemies

- Nunarii (ᑎ) (Indigo): These powerful beings wield the thunderous indigo madra of the <Path of the Raging Skies>, a power that calls upon the mighty energy of lightning and storms, able to create weapons made of lightning, summon mighty tidal waves, etc

- Sameki (ᕮ) (Purple): These regal beings wield the purple madra of the <Path of the King's Key>, a rare power that can manipulate space and items, allowing them to summon countless weapons and launch it at their opponents. They are also masters of countless weapon arts and other artifacts

- Ayinar (ᑐ) (Violet): The powerful wielders granted them the power to split their cores and wield other paths temporarily and combine them together to create powerful fusion techniques through the power of the Violet Madra of the <Path of Twin Stars>

- Peirion (ᑭ) (Lavender): These graceful beings wield the lavender madra of the <Path of the Brightcrown>, a power that manifests in the form of a floating lavender crown, which gives them a mysterious power over life force, allowing them to redistribute life force, grow, and destroy life force itself.

- Saderan (ᖇ) (Magenta): These powerful beings wield a magenta madra through the <Path of the Seven Pages> which allows them to call upon the powers of divine techniques stored in the seven pages of their soul which they can take call upon and even grow in power.

- Qophrath (ᕵ) (Gray): These armored beings wield the gray madra of the <Path of the Steel Guardian>, a power that gives them the power to crystallize madra energy into an indestructible armor and/or shield, which they can use to defend themselves and/or others

- Resmoran (ᕦ) (Beige/Brown): These beings of the earth wield the brown madra of the <Path of the Rolling Earth>, a power that gives them mastery over the ground in the form of being able to create earthquakes, create powerful boulders, bury themselves or their opponents, or even create massive mountains to use as a defense.

- Sinari (W) (White): These shining beings of light wield the white madra of the <Path of Celestial Radiance>, a power that grants them full control over light energy, able to create mirrors that can reflect madra techniques back at the caster, or the power of Absolute decree (able to trap and take control of the madra of a target). This power manifests as the 9 colored cloud, and they hold the ultimate technique of the Heaven's Wish, a power that allows them to transfer their power, memories, knowledge, unique skills, and abilities to those they choose.

- Tawren (X) (Black): These shadowy beings wield the black shadow madra of the <Path of Eternal Night>, a power that manifests in the form of 3 black stars, and gives them the ability to create armor made of crystalline shadows, call upon shadows in the form of weapons or soldiers, or hide in the shadows.

November: The 5000th, Finale (Final Year), War

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 5: War of the Nations
    - Chapter 6: Zero and Beyond

Chapter 5: War of the Nations: Midterm exams are finished. Unfortunately I goofed up a job opportunity with Allen's brother Owen just because I used ChatGPT to help me write an email when I should have just wrote it genuinely myself without worrying what he would think. It was a learning experience and despite feeling awful about it now, I hope to move on and use it in the future. Meanwhile, Redison had barely survived his battle against Zenith and Azimuth, with him now resting in hibernation (no battle, just relaxing). The JET application will be due soon, while the ECC application will be due at the end of this month, and I'll be starting the AEON application soon. Meanwhile, we got our midterm break soon and some trips planned so I am very excited about that. In the Xenithverse, a visitor from a far dimension arrives, known as the Lord of 5000 traits Azymandias, and challenges Redison, who has disappeared (since he is hibernating with me), causing a search. Meanwhile, the AMS, Neo-Administration, Lumencis Order, and Divina Imperium notice the new arrival and all fight in an all out war. The secrets of the Lumencis Order is revealed as it is discovered Lumencis had sealed and attempted to destory the other deities and instead had enslaved the deities, until they were freed by Redison in secret. The Divina Imperium's pantheon on the other hand had Lumendel, the Divinity of Light, attempting to reabsorb its first creations (the other divinities), to which Redison saved and gave freedom in the Xenithverse. Meanwhile, Azymandias continues to search for Redison while the AMS, Neo-Administration, Hiero and Theophoros continue to attack Azymandias.

Deimosians: These powerful magic beings were created by Deimos, a forgotten deity of war and chaos that was originally destroyed and sealed by Lumencis. In ancient times, Lumencis, the deity of light was one of many deities, but with its goal of becoming the supreme deity and being the one to reshape the world, it decided to attempt to destroy the other deities. However, with the fact it couldn't destroy them, it decided to seal them instead. <The Lumencis Order> found a way to manipulate the powers of the sealed deities, creating champions for each deity, but through the magic of Redison, the deities were freed, and their champions were awakened, able to unleash their powerful <Unearthly Forms> (based on the Unearthly form from trainer_matz on Instagram) which allow them to unleash the full power of their deity, becoming Deimos incarnate, the Deity of War and Chaos, and master of the power of <Unearthly Chaos>, a power that allows him to manipulate probability (able to make all of their attacks hit, all enemy attacks miss, etc) and the power to create and wield countless powerful weapons. Based on the War and Chaos elements from Dragon City (Ancient World)

Ghidaran: Created by Ghidarah of Dreams, a forgotten deity of dreams and sleep, who was originally destroyed and sealed by Lumencis. Following his awakening by Redison, his champion was able to master the powerful <Unearthly Form> (based on the Unearthly form from trainer_matz on Instagram) which allowed him to master the power of <Unearthly Dream/Nightmare>, the power to manipulate reality in the form of the ultimate illusions, able to make dreams a reality, and reality a dream, or a nightmare. These magic beings gained the powers of unleashing an <Unearthly Form> by absorbing lots of spiritual energy and gaining a new form, heightened stats, and the supreme power of dream manipulation, entry into dreams, creation of dreams/nightmares, etc. Based on the Dream element from Dragon City (Ancient World)

Almaighty: Created by Almaight of Souls, a forgotten deity of spirits and souls, who was originally destroyed and sealed by Lumencis. Following his awakening by Redison, his champion was able to master the powerful <Unearthly Form> (based on the Unearthly form from trainer_matz on Instagram), a shining spiritual form with heightened stats and the supreme power of <Unearthly Soulblaze / Reaper>, mastery over spirits and souls, able to summon ghosts or spirits to fight alongside them, equip spirits in the form of weapons or armor, or even create spirit soldiers or gain powers from the spirits/souls they know. Based on the Soul element from Dragon City (Ancient World)

Bacchanal: Created by Bacchan of Feast and Joy, a forgotten deity of food, bounty, happiness, and the harvest, who was originally destroyed and sealed by Lumencis. Following his awakening by Redison, his champion was able to master the powerful <Unearthly Form> (based on the Unearthly form from trainer_matz on Instagram), a shining spiritual form with heightened stats and the supreme power of <Unearthly Feast / Harvest>, a power that can create or grow countless fruits, foods, plants, meats, and even minerals, water, juice, etc. Based on the Happy element from Dragon City (Ancient World) and the Treat element from Dragonvale World.

Edeluxian: Created by Edeluxe of Beauty, a forgotten deity of beauty and love, who was originally destroyed and sealed by Lumencis. Following her awakening by Redison, her champion was able to master the powerful <Unearthly Form> (based on the Unearthly form from trainer_matz on Instagram), a shining spiritual form with heightened stats and the supreme power of <Unearthly Bloom / Heart>, a power that can bloom magical flowers in even a desolate place, create an illusion of their appearance (or their opponents appearance), and even making abilities “beautiful” (almost overpowered) or “ugly” (significantly weaker)

Zirian: Created by Zirias of Magic, a forgotten deity of magic, spellcasting, and destruction, who was originally destroyed and sealed by Lumencis. Following his awakening by Redison, his champion was able to master the powerful <Unearthly Form> (based on the Unearthly form from trainer_matz on Instagram), a shining spiritual form with heightened stats and the supreme power of <Unearthly Tempest>, a power that can maximize the energies of mana and spells a million fold through rotation and transforming it into a storm magic circle.

Ifrizian: Originally created by Ifrize, the powerful Unbound Divinity of Fire that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. This Divinity came from a different Pantheon in which case they were the first creations and children of the Divinity of Light, Lumendel, who desired to reabsorb them, even though they had finally grown and evolved to become independent divine forces. Ifrize and all other Ifrizians hold the power of <Unbound Flames>, an ultimate power that can not only burn through countless other flames and other flame spells, evaporate water or ice spells instantly, but even burn time itself.

Orcarizian: Originally created by Orcarize, the powerful Unbound Divinity of Water and the sea that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Orcarize and all other Orcarizians hold the power of <Unbound Waves>, an ultimate power that can flood the world with great waves of water, unleash powerful flowing techniques, but also their waves can wash away all emotion, memory, and magic.

Florizian: Originally created by Florize, the powerful Unbound Divinity of Plants that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Florize and the other Florizians hold the power of <Unbound Bloom>, the ultimate power to grow plants of any kind with fantastical abilities that they desire, any plant they imagine and need at the moment, they can grow that plant or create a new plant to fit this need. This also allows them to create a plant that essentially makes them immortal and able to destroy most spells and other types of magic.

Boltrizian: Originally created by Stormrize, the powerful Unbound Divinity of the Storm that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Stormrize and the other Boltrizians hold the power of the <Unbound Sky>, the ultimate power of the wind and lightning that grants them super speed, flight, power of the wind, and other powerful abilities that allow them to move faster than thought, able to travel timelines and every possible path of an event before choosing their path, but also the power to unleash a storm that can flash through all timelines and annihilate all outcomes they choose, compounding the damage to an opponent.

Psirizian: Originally created by Psiriuze, the Unbound Divinity of the Mind that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Psiriuze and the other Psirizians hold the power of the <Unbound Mind>, the ultimate form of psychic powers that allow them to control the minds of an opponent, create powerful illusions, perform great feats of telekinesis, and read or even break the minds of an opponent. They also have a powerful imagination and through their psychic powers, can create manifestations of their imagination.

Asurizian: Originally created by Asurize, the powerful Unbound Divinity of Martial arts and Fists that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Asurize and the other Asurizians hold the power of the <Unbound Force>, the ultimate form of all martial arts, sword and weapon techniques, and other combat techniques as these techniques are given a martial aura that enhances their power a billionfold whether it is strengthening their senses, their power, etc. Each strike can destroy any spell, shatter through any barriers, and the more resistance they meet, the stronger they become.

Baldurizian : Originally created by Baldurize, the Unbound Divinity of the Ground and Earth that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Baldurize and the other Baldurizians hold the power of the <Unbound Terraform>, a power that summons the primeval force that resets terrain, gravity, and natural order to their original divine state, as well as the power to change the terrains and natural order of entire realms through just their will alone. They are able to create earthquakes with every step, a mountain with the raise of their hand, etc.

Cellurizian: Originally created by Cellurize, the Unbound Divinity of Life that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Cellurize and the other Cellurizians hold the power of <Unbound Genesis>, the ultimate power of creation that allows them to create countless living beings of any form, with any level of intelligence, and with any power or features. These beings would be given different species names but all creations of Cellurizians have a gene in their body that represents them as a creation of a Cellurizian and descended from Cellurize. When a creature is created, the Cellurizian who created them would usually either create many and develop a habitat for them.

Glazian: Originally created by Glazrize, the Unbound Divinity of Ice that was originally one of the divinities of the Divina Imperium. Glazrize and the other Glazians hold the power of <Unbound Winter>, the ultimate power of ice and cold that can freeze anything, whether its spells, opponents, even fire spells or unfreezable spells (depending on the level of the being and their mastery of <Unbound Winter>), and even time or space itself.

Razaelian: Ruled by Razael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Red. Ultra Red was the evolution of ARGUS (or ARGUS 2.0) but given a new body powered by Monster Energy (the drink) after the AMS derived a form of “monster energy” from the drink itself and other types of drinks (Ultra Zero, Ultra Paradise, etc). A large amount of Ultra Red and Ultra Zero combined grants Ultra Red his <Spartand> form. He also has other forms such as Centurion, Tempest Enforcer, and God Eclipse. Based on Martial Arts Dragon Emperor, Duel Sieger from Buddyfight, these powerful beings use a red monster energy to power their martial arts and skills, granting them an armor made of a red aura and fighting spirit, the power to create fighting aura around their body to empower their martial arts, and even the power to create energy manifestations of extra arms and legs to unleash powerful techniques such as the Eternal Spartand Martial Arts or the Centurion Martial Arts, etc. Following a fierce battle against Redison, who was still on his “vacation” even though he had been covertly saving the divinities and deities, he was greatly defeated with his power boost, and ARGUS was separated from Ultra Red. Ultra Red was then given a new name and title as he was given his own ego and soul. Razael now trains his martial arts to the peak to become a strong enough warrior to defeat ARGUS should he ever meet him again.

Ozraelian: Ruled by Ozrael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Blue. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink, he was given the powers of the moons, specifically through having the remnants of a moon that had originally failed to materialize placed into him combined with the blue monster energy. Each champion created by the AMS has a story written into them to provide them their power. The story of this character is that he hails from a world where there were many moons, and inside of him are the remnants of a moon that grants him his form and supreme powers. Through the refined blue monster energy, these beings are able to unleash the power of the moons, with different moons granting different powers and abilities, and are all masters of different Lunar techniques (Lunar Sword arts, Lunar Dagger arts, Lunar shield arts, etc). This is due to how their core is a developing moon, created through the refined blue monster energy. A full master (such as Ozrael) has a full moon within their core, which grants them their supreme powers.

Selarithian: Ruled by Selarithael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Paradise. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink, he was given the power of hunting mastery and the power of the energy of paradise, a power that grants a near infinite regeneration and healing, limitless life energy, and the power to create sanctuaries of life magic (the great hunting ground) and a utopian land of peace (Paradise). Selarithael wields the powerful bow granted by the AMS, Selaris (the Argent Arc) and Ithara (the Luminous Veil) (a bow from sinlaire_box on Instagram). This powerful bow enhances the refined Green Monster Energy, which these beings use to create powerful hunting weapons, as well as powerful spells of healing and regeneration. Also based on the Recovery power from Kamen Rider Zeztz (Espirim Recovery)

Zeitran: Ruled by Zeitrael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Violet. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink and granted the swords of Zeitra (originally a bow called Zeitra the Chronal Concord from sinlaire_box by the AMS), he mastered the powers of refined violet monster energy in the form of the power of time manipulation, such as calling upon echoes of every choice you never made (having alternate selves from the branching paths of life appear to fight alongside them or grant them a power boost), stopping time itself, resonating with their alternate selves to unleash a combined attack in unison (the fusing of timelines), and even the ability to slip forward in time to avoid getting hit, disappearing and reappearing as if no time had passed. Each Zeitran has their own Clock in their core created by the violet monster energy which grants them these powers of time as the magic internal clocks within them resonate with the time of the universe.

Zakaraen: Ruled by Zakarael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Sunrise. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink, and granted the power of the <Wheel of Defiance against Heaven>, a power based on the skill from the Manhwa “Solo Max Level Newbie”, which has the power that takes blessing from the great ancient languages to destroy the opponent. Through channeling the great ancient languages and the runes that use those powers, they create an avatar within them, with a body made of mana, a mind made of their soul, and powered by the magic of the ancient languages and their heart in the form of a rune (such as the symbol of the Wheel of Defiance against Heaven). This avatar gives them their enhanced control and mastery of the ancient languages, with some able to create multiple inner avatars with each avatar wielding a different ancient language.

Ezernean: Ruled by Ezerneal, the renamed and reformed Ultra Black. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink and granted the powers of the Zodiac Auras and constellation power through Ri Ezernea (a power based on the Manhwa “The Legendary Hero is an Academy Honors Student”). These powers can be developed depending on different Zodiac Auras. For example, those born with the <Crimson Overdrive of Aries> is able to ignite the air and charge through any enemy's defenses (and wield constellation magic based on those characteristics and synergy with their aura. Other examples include <Ironheart Tremor>, <Splitstream Mirage>, <Lunar Undertide>, <Sol King's Ascension>, etc. This aura can take the form of a powerful armor, enhancement on weapons, etc.

Suraen: Ruled by Surael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Rosa. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink and granted the <Tethered Trinity>, a psionic bow (based on the bow of the same name from sinlaire_box from Instagram) created through magic rings and grants enhanced super psionic abilities such as the power to create illusions, telekinesis, paranoia, doubt, and the power of a Psionic Overload, able to break minds or even mind control. All Suraens are born with a brain and magic proficiency of psionic abilities that gives them mastery over different skills such as creating other psionic super weapons such as swords, spears, shields, armor, etc, or combining their psionic magic with other elemental energies.

Durandian: Ruled by Durandael, the renamed and reformed Ultra Gold. Originally created by the AMS using “monster energy” derived from the drink and granted the powers of Ra Tiargha / Finale, the ultimate star spell that dyes the world in the light of dawn stars, a power created by the ancient language of the stars which grants mastery over the golden monster energy found in the stars, which allow them to call upon the star powers to either equip them in astral armor, unleash astral weapons, or wield unique runes derived from the Finale (Ra Tiargha). These beings developed their powers to create unique runes they can call upon. (5000th species total and 90th species in this book)

Azymandians: Ruled by the Lord of 5000 Traits, Azymandias. In his great universe, there are 5000 traits (based on the concept of Traits from the Manhwa “Trait Hoarder”), with each species having one unique trait. He rules 5,000 species like Redison. In his universes, he has his own unique personal <Trait> that no other beings have known as <Traveler>. He did however meet Redison who is the only other person who has a personal <Trait> known as <Avatar> (representing his status as my avatar and protagonist in all my stories) (but Redison did not know of this <Trait> due to the concept of <Trait> not existing in the Xenithverse, until now. All beings united under Azymandias in his Xenithverse are known as Azymandians as a collective (like how all 5000 species discovered are technically known as Xenithians as a collective (given they are my creations in the Xenithverse)). His form is based on Il Capitano (from Genshin Impact). These beings each have a <Trait> unique to their species which each being can create diverse techniques, skills, and abilities that utilize their <Trait>. Some species born with multiple <Trait> can learn to combine traits to unleash greater powers.

Chapter 6: Zero and Beyond: The reading break is over (or what they call Midterm break). In this case, all of my exams and large projects aside from my final exams and final papers were done. With the fusion of the realms of Azymandias and Redison, there are now 10,000 species (but let's just say 5,001 technically) in the Xenithverse. Meanwhile, Redison has a strange encounter with beings who have the energy of the creation goddess Xenithia, discovering them to be from a universe where he himself (and myself) never existed. Their gathering, given each represent Xenithia in their own universes (where the others wouldn't exist) was actually orchestrated by the Neo-Administration, in their attempt to reshape the universe through Jahr Null (Year Zero), an event that occurs when the creation deity herself is destroyed through the paradox of countless existences of herself, resetting existence and granting full authority over creation to the one who destroyed her. With each Xenithverse arriving comes 5,000 new species and worlds arriving resulting in countless new species arriving at UBC World. Meanwhile, new powerful beings arrive in the Xenithverse as avatars of <Creators>, god-trainees that we humans become when we die (in that interpretation), who learn how to create worlds and beings that live in those worlds and have their own avatars (kind of like Redison) that help explore and rule over the worlds they created. These avatars appeared in UBC World through the portal opening from the summoning of the other champions of Xenithia.

Arcana Xenithians: What if Redison (or I) didn't exist? The Neo-Administration had created this story, which created different Xenithverses in an attempt to cause Jahr Null/Year Zero. In this Xenithverse, the protagonist, champion, and avatar of Xenithia is an Orange puffle known as Joker, a puffle who mastered portal travel, having explored countless worlds, portal opening, and enjoyed the power of cards. In this universe, there are 5,000 different species, with each species having their own <Arcana>, a type of suit (based on the 4 suits of regular playing cards) or Arcana (like the major or minor arcana of Tarot cards). There are also 5,000+ different kinds of suits/arcana in this universe (considering there are 5,000 species and counting), with each Arcana having its own unique power it grants to the species, to which the species uses and develops through their environment and magic.

Kratos Xenithians: Ruled by Kainos, a red puffle who is the champion of Xenithia, and God of Combat. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Martial Spirit>. Each <Martial Spirit> represents a certain martial art, cultivation technique, movement art, formation art, or weapon art unique to the species, to which each being developed further, created their own variations and applications to their <Martial Spirit> in the form of advanced technologies, variant skills and abilities, and even their own unique takes on their Martial Spirit, eventually ascending to create their own <Martial Spirit> and a world and species of beings that hold this <Martial Spirit>.

Pentagrith Xenithians: Ruled by Barnard, a navy blue-colored puffle who is the champion of Xenithia, and God of runes. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Rune>. Each <Rune> actually is not just one rune in particular but is the core symbol of an alphabet language system that utilizes runes and symbols to call upon the ancient powers of hidden stars and false stars (based on the power of the Celestial Eye from magical_scope on Instagram) and combine the cosmic energy with their ancient language rune system to unleash powerful spells, formations, create barriers of magic, and even summon zodiac spirits. Based on the powers of ancient runes and the Zodiac to create barriers of magic from the Manhwa “Solo Max Level Newbie” and the highest rank of weapon = Navy colored aura. Each species is proficient in their master language (to which they developed countless variant language and spell systems to wield magic and weapons), but are also capable of learning other rune systems and even creating their own (at a high enough proficiency).

Erevos Xenithians: Ruled by Erevakh, a black puffle who is the champion of Xenithia, and God of curses and destruction. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Curse>. The <Curse> doesn't actually affect the species, but this is the base of their dark magic, as they can develop skills, spells, and techniques using this <Curse> as the basis. For example, the species with the <Curse of Flames> would develop flame-based spells and weaponry. Another species such as those who have the <Curse of Hypnos> allows them to create sleep and dream based spells and abilities as well as technology that allows them to enter and manipulate dreams. Erevakh (like Redison) mastered the 5,000 curses and is able to fuse the different curses together to create stronger curses and abilities. Through the work of Erevakh, the Erevos Xenithians have explored and visited countless realms, learning the other <Curses> of species, and developing hybrid spells, skills, and technologies.

Pertherus Xenithians: Ruled by Perthen Mnemos, a purple puffle who is the champion of Xenithia and God of memories. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Memory> (based on the Gaia Memories from Kamen RIder W). A <Memory> contains the essence of a concept and grants special abilities and skills based on the concept. For example, a species with the <Memory of Heat> controls the power of heat, able to create flames, but also create hot temperatures and other concepts relating to heat. Another example is <Memory of a Thief>, which gives the species increased stealth, silent steps, higher agility, and increased affinity with shadow/dark type magic, and a great sleight of hand. Perthen Mnemos wields the unique <Memory> known as <Memory: Slayer of Pertherus>, a power that unleashes the skills of an assassin but also the power to boost all other abilities and skills, and the power to call upon other <Memories>. Each species lives in a world/realm created by the <Memory>, which also influences their magic type, magic system, weaponry and technology, etc.

Technolom Xenithians: Ruled by Tektonos, a brown puffle who is the champion of Xenithia and God of Machinery and technology. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Builds> or <Tech Tree>. Each species has their own <Tech Tree>, meaning their own forms of technology, vehicles, weapons, etc. These technologies can then take the form of <Builds> which they can transform themselves into. For example, a species with a <Oceanic Tech Tree> could have an <Oceanic Build> which allows them to have naval based abilities and forms (like able to have a cannon or multiple cannons or railguns (like a naval warship) or able to shoot mini fighter planes (like an aircraft carrier)). Another example is a species with an <Aerial Tech Tree> which developed technologies with floating cities, skyships, etc. Tektonos is able to utilize the powers of the 5000 species's <Builds>. Even tho each species has their own <Tech Tree>, they can learn from others and develop unique <Builds> of their own.

Excelics Xenithians: Ruled by Luxiel Meziah, a white puffle who is the champion of Xenithia and Goddess of blessings. In her Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Mark>. A <Mark> (based on the Marks from the Manhwa “Black Haze (2025)”), is a unique symbol that represents their unity and blessing as creations of a certain deity. In this Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different deities, each deity having created a world where each species can unite with the power of their deity through the <Mark> (mark of the deity). Their mark can change slightly (creating small variants) in which their unique core power is influenced by the power of the <Mark> but through their life and experiences, they create a variation of their <Mark> and the power the Mark grants. Each Mark grants a shining colorful crystalline form or an “Awakened State” in which they gain powers similar to their deity and a form similar to their deity while also boosting their own abilities. For example, a swordsman born under the God of Flames, Ignis, in this Xenithverse has the <Mark of Ignis>, which when he unleashes his mark [My name is …], they unleash powerful flames from their body, master flame spell casting, but also has boosted swordsmanship (flaming swordsmanship). Luxiel Meziah as the champion of Xenithia has the power to use all 5000 marks (and the power of all deities).

Darwin Xenithians: Ruled by Evolark, a green puffle who is the champion of Xenithia and God of beasts. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Genus>. A <Genus> represents a genus group of creatures (where each Genus has their own features, unique skills, powers, adaptations, etc). Also based on the abilities from Wild Kratts (the TV Show) in which they could use Creature powers and gain super suits that gave them the ability of different creatures. In this case, wielding a genus, each species has their own abilities whether its fast flight, fast swimming, powerful claws, a poisonous tail or stinger, super strength, or other fantastical abilities unlike those of the animals on Earth. Each species has the same features/powers granted by <Genus> but each being developed their own techniques and skills through their life. Evolark is able to utilize the <Genus> powers of each species, and in this fused universe, each species learned the <Genus> powers of others as they evolved together.

Heroic Xenithians: Ruled by X-Sovereign, a yellow puffle who is the champion of Xenithia and God of Heroes and comics. In his Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Superpower>. Each superpower associated with different superheroes whether it was super strength, the power to stretch or transform the body at a molecular level, super speed, invisibility, fire powers, metal manipulation, flight, healing, shrinking/growing, plant manipulation, aqua powers, gravity, etc, are each a primary power associated with one species (like how Superman was Kryptonian hence reason he had all those powers). X-Sovereign gained the powers of the Comic book, a power that allows him to call upon the different superpowers of each species (the 5000 different superhero species) and fuse them together or combine them with his techniques as “X-Swordsman” (based on the character of same name from Kamen Rider Saber and the abilities of Kamen Rider Saikou X-Swordsman). With the unity of the 5,000 species, they all learned the powers of <Heroic Comic> which allowed them to learn the abilities and skills of other species and ultimately combine them into their own powers. (100th species in this book)

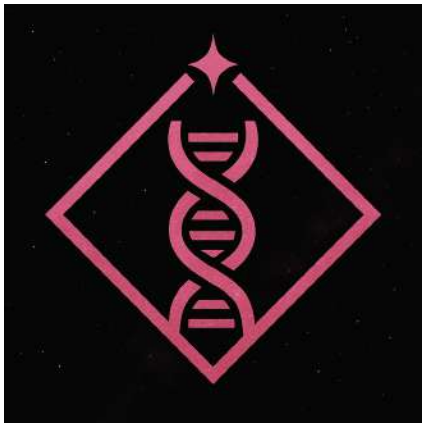
Evolun Xenithians: Ruled by Ophira, a pink puffle who is the champion of Xenithia and the Goddess of evolution and growth. In her Xenithverse, there are 5,000 different species, each with their own <Origin>. Each <Origin> represents a core power and form that each species starts from as they evolve infinitely through their lives, gaining more and more unique abilities and skills depending on the environment they grow and develop in. Based on the infinite different versions of the Pokemon Eevee (which many people make different Eeveelutions), these beings evolve constantly and have the power to change into their different evolutions they have achieved, but also develop different unique forms of evolution. For example, Redison was able to achieve infinite evolution power by creating a version of himself that was not soul-linked to me (since my growth and “evolution” determines Redison’s evolution) and that creation can evolve and then fuse with him (Xross Evolution). There are an infinite number of other evolution methods, with some even having complex methods combining different evolution methods together in a formula (like crafting a weapon in Terraria).



Zartanithians: When we die, we reincarnate as god trainees, to eventually evolve and grow to be able to create our own planets and universes, as we become <Creators> (god-trainees). These <Creators> live a life similar to humans but continuously create worlds and magic, and have an avatar similar to Redison, their protagonist and avatar in the worlds they create. Ruled by Zartanith, the Flames of War, and master of the Sword (Ares) and Shield (Mars) (as their core weapon). Similar to how Redison has his core weapon as his sword Xenith, Zartanith has his sword and shield infused with his soul. He is the champion of 5,000 species, each with their own <Flame>. Each <Flame> grants a unique power to the species whether it is mastery in alchemy (<Flame of Alchemy>) or sailing, naval combat, swordsmanship, spear wielding, strategy, magic, immortality, healing, etc. Zartanith has a flame-red cosmic aura (stars in a colored sky) which represents the fusion of the 5000 <Flames> within him as the creator of the 5000 flames. Based on Corrupted Flareon (based on Mars) and similar to Redison's sword, Ares and Mars (the sword and shield) can transform into any form of magical sword/shield pair in existence (granting those powers to Zartanith), and unleash the full power of any of the 5000 <Flames>.

Gaiazenithians: Ruled by Gaia, the Evergreen queen, master of the Spear of Life, and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system. Gaia has an emerald green cosmic aura (stars in a colored sky), which represents the fusion of the 5000 <Roots/Seeds> within her as the creator of the 5000 <roots/seeds>. Each <Root/seed> grants a unique power of magic/nature manipulation to the species, whether it is the power of the water such as the <Seed/Root of Waves>, aquatic creatures <Seed/Root of Aquas>, or aquatic plants <Seed/Root of Coralis>, of the desert, jungle, and many other environments. Gaia created 5000 different biospheres, each with their own dominant species that rules in their unique biosphere. Each species is able to manipulate the magic of their own <Root/Seed> (so they can grow the plants of their home realm or manipulate or generate nature of their home realm), but some individuals developed their own techniques, skills, and abilities derivative of their <Root/Seed> but uses their own skills and experiences to create unique concepts and even new forms of life. Based on the Corrupted form of Leafeon and similar to how Redison is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Gaia wields the Spear of Life, a legendary spear that represents the concept of the "Spear", which can transform into countless other magical spears in existence, and is able to create its own plants and biospheres through the will of the wielder.

Xinithians: Ruled by Xinoh, the King immortal, master of the Scythe of Eternity, and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 different universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system known as a <Ring>. Each <Ring> is used by the dominant species of each of the 5000 worlds (also representative of how each world/universe has its own way of recording and measuring "Time"), each representing a unique power for their species. In this universe, each universe has their own timeline, their own system of measuring time, and their own forms of magic and technology, all of which takes the form of a compiled history known as the <Ring>. So for example, if all of the technology and concepts throughout history on Earth was compiled, it would take the form of the <Ring of Earth> (to which the species on “Earth” would wield magic through the power of their <Ring>). While the <Ring> is shared for a species, individuals can and did develop methods and varieties of techniques, skills, and abilities that utilize the <Ring> in a unique way that is personalized for them and created based on their own life experiences and their core proficiencies. Based on the corrupted form of Glaceon and similar to how Redison is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Xinoh wields the Scythe of Eternity, a powerful scythe that represents the concept of the “Scythe”, is linked to his power, can transform into any magical scythe in existence, and is able to freeze all time and freeze all rings, and even restart or revise rings/time the he so chooses. All Xinithians (at a high level) have a cyan cosmic aura

Zeutrithians: Ruled by Zeutron, the lightning incarnate, master of the Axe of Brontes (Thunder), and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 different universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system known as a <Sky>. Each <Sky> is used by the dominant species of each of the 5000 worlds (also representative of how each world/universe has its own “Sky”). Each species wields the power granted by their world’s <Sky> whether it is the powers of flight, space travel, oceanic power (what if the “sky” is just the upper levels of an ocean world and there is no actual conventional sky), or any other strange concept of “Sky” you could imagine. These beings would develop unique varieties of skills, abilities, and magic systems based on their <Sky> but unique to themselves or sub-groups. Based on the corrupted form of Jolteon and similar to how Redison is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Zeutron wields the Axe of Brontes, a powerful weapon linked to Zeutron and his partner, and is the supreme concept of the “Axe”, able to transform into any Axe (double edged or single edged) or Halberd in existence, and wield the power of the 5000 skies

Atlazenithians: Ruled by Atlas, the ocean master, master of the Trident of Hydra, and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 different universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system known as a <Sea>. Each <Sea> is used by the dominant species of each of the 5000 worlds (also representative of how each world/universe has its own “Sea”). Similar to how there were the 7 seas of the Bermuda Triangle (from Zak Storm) which had the Sea of Ice (just a realm with endless snow and ice fields), Sea of water, Sea of fire, sea of sand (an endless desert), sea of stars, sea of mist, sea of storms, etc, there are 5000 different kinds of “Seas” that the partner and <Creator> of Atlas made. Each species that lives in those realms developed a magic system and technologies based on their <Sea> but also developed their own unique abilities and skills through their experiences. Based on the corrupted form of Vaporeon and similar to how Redison is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Atlas wields the Trident of Hydra, a powerful weapon linked to Atlas and his partner, with their mastery of tridents and cannons, this trident can transform into any magical trident in existence but also transform into cannon armaments or other shooting armaments (think like the cannons on the pokemon Blastoise). This powerful weapon can transform and wield any power of the 5000 seas. All Atlazenithians have a blue cosmic aura Hazenithians: Ruled by Chiron, the blade of death, master of the Dagger of Hades, and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 different universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system known as a <Soul/Spirit>. Each species (from their own home world/universe) has their own unique <Soul/Spirit>, which grants them their unique abilities, skills, and powers that represent their home realm (and their creator). Their <Soul/Spirit> developed through their home environment as well. For example, a species with the <Spirit/Soul of Flight> lives in a realm of endless skies and floating islands and continents, which is how their power developed. They use this <Soul/Spirit> to develop their magic abilities in a unique way (hence the reason each world has their own special magic system developed through the species-wide <Soul/Spirit). Another example is a species with the <Spirit/Soul of Flames> or <Spirit/Soul of Winter> which grants them flame or ice based abilities, and they developed their unique powers based on that power. Based on the corrupted form of Umbreon and similar to how Redison is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Chiron wields and is linked to the Dagger of Hades, a powerful dagger that can unleash the ultimate true potential of the 5000 <Spirits/Souls>, or transform into any magical dagger that wields the <Spirits/Souls> to the ultimate potential. He developed different martial arts and magic arts that wield the daggers to the best of his abilities and utilize the powers the best, and can even fuse <Spirits/Souls> together to unleash powerful hybrids. All Hazenithians (at a high level) have a black/dark gray cosmic aura.

Merzenithians: Ruled by Herasia Archer, the oracle, master of the Caduceus Rex, a powerful bow and arrow, and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 different universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system known as a <Eye>. Each species (from their own home world/universe) has their own unique <Eye>, which grants them their unique abilities and powers as a species. For example, a species that has the <Eye of Wisdom> developed an advanced civilization built of countless libraries and magic books in which they are able to cast spells instantaneously and absorb information in an instant and master it to the full potential. They each use their own <Eye> to develop their magic abilities in a unique way, creating unique techniques and systems of magic from their <Eye>. Based on the corrupted form of Espeon and similar to how Redison is is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Herasia Archer wields and is linked to the Caduceus Rex, a legendary magic bow that can unleash the potential of the 5000 <Eyes>, or transform into any magical bow or crossbow that can unleash the true potential of the <Eyes>. All Merzenithians at a high level have a purple cosmic aura Vezenithians: Ruled by Valeria, the fairy knight of heart, master of the Venezian Scepter, and the avatar of another <Creator> (God-trainee), who created 5,000 different universes/worlds, each with their own magic type and system known as a <Heart>. Each species (from their own home world/universe) has their own unique <Heart>, which grants them their unique abilities and powers as a species. For example, a species that has the <Heart of the Sea> has enhanced abilities of control over the waves and winds, the power to communicate with the sea creatures and the ocean itself (to wave back at the waves), and the power to swim extremely fast or even run on water. These beings developed unique technology and magic skills and abilities that utilize the powers of their <Heart of the Sea>. This applies to all species, with each species developing their civilization, technology, magic abilities, and skills through deriving the powers of their <Heart>. This <Heart> power also grants all Vezenithians a pink cosmic aura. Based on the corrupted form of Sylveon and similar to how Redison is is soul-linked to the concept of the sword, Herasia Archer wields and is linked to the Venezian Scepter, a legendary magic staff/Scepter that can transform into a lance (creating magic energy in the heart to become a blade) and unleash the potential of the 5000 <Hearts>, or transform into any magical staff or lance that can unleash the true potential of the <Heart>.

Chapter 7: The Final Winter: It's crunch time! Finals week is next week and this week is the last week of classes. I finished my ECC recruitment event, and I am actually going to not follow my path to the military in the meantime. Why? I finally was accepted by my parents to go down the path as a teacher. Backstory? Well my parents told me that if I went into teaching I would be wasting my degree and brains. I tried to force myself to do CS, AI, and consulting, so that my degree could make some money. However, during a recent call with a family friend, when I asked for advice about my resume, I supposedly got defensive, unable to take the criticism, and I didn't even know I did that. Apparently, it was because deep down, I really didn't want to do consulting, and trying to force my heart into it caused my hatred and emotions to bleed out (metaphorically) and distort my nature, as if I was someone else. As my parents got that now concrete feedback of what happens if I force my heart into something I am not, it creates problems. So now I am taking steps to hopefully go into teaching. Kuya Nick suggested trying to apply for Teach for America. So I'll be doing that once finals are done. In the meantime, with the fusion of the realms of the <Creators>, other champions of Xenithians, and Redison, there are now 100,000 species (but let's just say 5,019 technically) in the Xenithverse. With 100,000 species of great power, new beings from strange universes are alerted to the existence of Redison (with the unlocking of 100,000 species) and the Xenithverse, beginning to arrive at UBC World to observe. Meanwhile, the battle of the 4 Nations finally comes as each of the 4 nations finally strike Redison.

Chapter 7 Part 1: Solstice: I began thinking: What if I had died young, and like in many manhwas and webcomics I've been reading, I had woken up in my younger body but with my current adult mind (so its like my adult mind was trapped in my baby body until I got older and could speak and move better)? In the Xenithverse, the deity Lumencis (of the <Lumencis Order>) in their attempt to destroy Redison, had found a way to force open the <Gate of Regression>, a powerful gate where any being that entered could create a timeline where they influenced my life in some way (if I had regressed). Two versions of Redison from those universes appeared as leaders and champions of an advanced race of evolved Xenithians (due to the regression of myself and the early evolution into Xenithians much much earlier in time) first as heralds having noticed the Gate of Regression had opened and challenged Redison to test him before the rest of the saints came. Lumencis had forced open the gate to send his 12 saints into the gate to influence my life and return from a universe where Lumencis was the head deity (which would make Lumencis of this timeline all the more stronger). However, each saint returned having sworn fealty to Xenithia of their universe after learning of the sealing of the other deities that threatened Lumencis. With this threat, Lumencis descended, stealing Hiero's body, who Xenithia sent through the Gate of Regression in order to save him. As the clock struck midnight (12/9/25 midnight is when the GRSJ exam begins), a new sun rose in the form of Lumencis Soleil. Meanwhile, a being that Lumencis had attempted to seal long ago had returned, arriving at UBC World, but needing a vessel, it entered Vailord and waited dormantly. Redison would later defeat Vailord (CPSC 344 final).

Hyperion Xenithians: What if I had died young, and like in many manhwas and webcomics I've been reading, I had woken up in my younger body but with my current adult mind (so its like my adult mind was trapped in my baby body until I got older and could speak and move better)? In this universe, that happened, and well I still had Redison and in this case, Redison evolved to become a swordsman, as I went down the path of Kendo and Fencing from an early age (I asked to do it) instead of Taekwondo, and became a master of it, which manifested in Redison as the ultimate swordmaster. In this universe, he holds the title of Hyperion, the master of the stars, wielding a mystic power known as <Star Power/Energy> (based on the power from the manhwa "Starting With 13 Hidden Traits"), and a unique skill <Blessing of the Stars>. Ruled by Redison Hyperion, these alternate Xenithians from this timeline hold the powers of <Star Power> and other unique abilities that differentiate them from the current Xenithians, as a more advanced and more powerful version of Xenithians given they were developed from an earlier time (and evolved even stronger). There are 5000 species of Hyperion Xenithians (just like the other Xenithians)

Helios Xenithians: What if I had died young, and like in many manhwas and webcomics I've been reading, I had woken up in my younger body but with my current adult mind (so its like my adult mind was trapped in my baby body until I got older and could speak and move better)? In this universe, that happened, and well I still had Redison and in this case, Redison evolved to become a master martial artist as I continued with Taekwondo until I became a black belt, but in this story, Redison's abilities are boosted in the form of Flame powers and Martial Spirit (based on the power from the Manhwa "Martial God Regressed to Level 2"), which is the power of Divine power and Mana combined into the ultimate form of power (Force) which is combined with the powers of martial power (stats combined) into the ultimate form of power. The core is like the sun and his aura manifests as giant flames like a solar flare. This form of Redison holds the title of Helios (master of the Martial Soul (the ultimate form of Martial Spirit)) and rules over these alternate Xenithians who hold the powers of <Martial Spirit>, which allow them to infuse their unique magic energies into great power through <Force> and unleash greater powers given they were developed as Xenithians from an earlier age (instead of starting as puffles, they started as Xenithians and evolved further). There are 5000 species of Helios Xenithians (just like the other Xenithians)

Zenovan Xenithians: Ruled by the Blazing Sword saint Zenovas, originally one of the 12 zodiac of the Lumencis Order, who had evolved after entering the Gate of Regression, and had influenced my regressed self (what if I had died young and woken up in my younger body with my memories and mind), taking Redison's place and becoming the new protagonist and champion of the Xenithians. Originally his goal (same as the rest of the Zodiac Saints) when entering the Gate of Regression, was to change history in regards that Lumencis became the new Creation Deity and he became the new champion by fusing with Redison's puffle plush and transforming into him (so Redison is him and he is Redison). He evolved to have a very similar form to Redison except his color scheme being Red, Orange, Green, Gold, and Silver. Long ago, he was created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the sword (longsword)) and descended when the Gate of Regression opened as the aim of the <Lumencis Order> was to change time and history itself through the Gate of Regression. However, through his meeting with Xenithia, he found out about Lumencis's sealing of the other deities, realizing he and the other saints could also be potential targets should they get strong enough to be recognized as a threat. With this, he swore fealty to Xenithia and became her sword saint with the goal to return back and save the others. With this, he trained and grew up with me as a new timeline was established because of his interference, and later returned with his new army as the champion of Xenithia of his universe. There are 5000 species of Seiken Xenithians (just like the other Xenithians), each with inherited abilities and powers similar to the Xenithians but different due to Zenovas.

Mizar Xenithians: Ruled by the Demonic Blade Saint Mizaru, originally one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the blade/katana). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Red puffle that I chose and named Mizaru. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia and became her knight in order to return back and save the others. He evolved with a form similar to Redison (somewhat) but with a color scheme of Crimson, brown, black, silver, and green. His powers (and the powers he passed down to the Xenithians) is based in <Demonic Energy>, which is actually not truly evil (like most believe it is), but just another form of energy similar to mana. The difference is <Demonic Energy> is just used best with the Demonic arts, a special martial art system that utilizes demonic energy best, like how spells and abilities use mana best. Mizaru mastered the art of the Heavenly Demon Sword and earned himself the title of Heavenly Demon among the Xenithians in his universe and eventually the title of Xenith (as the champion of Xenithia in this universe). This advanced group of Xenithians evolved to use both mana and demonic energy in new ways, which developed their civilizations and way of life.

Meraki Xenithians: Ruled by the Ice Lance Saint Merak, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Lance). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Blue puffle (eventually becoming canonically a cyan/ice color) that I chose first instead of Redison and named Merak. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved as a true master of the lance and all lance arts (even developing his own supreme Xenith Lance Arts which utilize <Cold Energy> the best). This advanced group of Xenithians evolved to use mana and <Cold Energy> together which developed their civilization and cultures differently. In this world, the blue puffles were the leaders and champions (since I chose Merak as my first puffle), and their world developed into a blue-hued futuristic realm.

Kratu Xenithians: Ruled by the Void Scythe Saint, Alcor, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Scythe). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Black puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Alcor. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved with a humanoid design like Diablo Volfir (from the Manhwa "The Dark Magician Transmigrates after 66,666 Years"), with a color scheme of black, violet, and silver. He also wields the powerful Kratu Scythe, a weapon akin to Redison's Xenith Sword, which allows him to create an infinite number of magical scythes, with this scythe being his main weapon of choice. He is able to perform powerful dark magic spells that boost his abilities of darkness using the scythe. Many people shame dark magic and black magic as forbidden forces of power and powers connected to evil. However, like <Demonic Energy>, Dark Energy is just a pure form of energy that depends on the user. Most of the spells are akin to any other powers whether its the power of flight, the power of super strength, weapon mastery, assassination skills, etc. The Xenithians in this universe would all inherit the pure powers of dark energy championed by Alcor, which they would develop further in the form of advanced spells, technologies, weapons, and even their own cultures and civilizations based on the varieties and proficiencies they gained in certain forms of dark energy magic.

Zakuran Xenithians: Ruled by the Roaring Fist Saint, Zakuro, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the gauntlets/fist). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming an Orange puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Zakuro. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved to become the strongest lord of fists and fighting, mastering his powerful gauntlets (his holy armament) and through his new connection with Xenithia, he unlocked a new form of power known as <Beast Energy>, a wild power connected to different animals and creatures that were created by Xenithia and have the concept of <Animal/Creature>. This <Beast Energy> can be boosted and manifested through special martial art techniques that utilize the movements of the beasts (like how Kung Fu has different styles akin to animals) which he mastered and would train, to eventually master 5000 Beast Arts, with each species having one <Beast Art> unique to them. All of these xenithians are known for their barehand fighting techniques using Beast Energy, but some have developed special weapons and other technologies that utilize Beast energy.

Kuyo Xenithians: Ruled by the Drag Gun (Dragon Gunner) Saint Kokuyo, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Gun). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Purple puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Kokuyo. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved to become a powerful master of all guns and rifles, while also having the powers of the dragons within him. He combined the powerful magic of Dragon Speech/Tongue, Dragon Breath, and other abilities inherited by the legendary dragons with marksmanship, developing unique mana bullets and techniques to create mana bullets made of dragon magic, which can have different abilities depending on what <Dragon Speech> was used to activate the bullets. For example, he can launch bullets that can create portals that allow him to travel around space, as well as launch homing bullets that never miss its target, or bullets that can penetrate any defensive spells, armor, or shields, etc. This is through the use of <Dragenergy>, a powerful form of energy that all those of the dragon blood (the Kuyo Xenithians) use to develop their bullets and other weaponry as well as having created vehicles and other parts of their civilization (not just guns and cannons).

Alioth Xenithians: Ruled by the Light Rim Spear Saint Alliot, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Spear). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a White puffle that I chose first (instead of Redison) and named Alliot/Elliot. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved to become a powerful master of all spears, even creating his own infinite Magic Spear Arts which was done by combining his magic and all spear martial arts. He would train many Xenithians and gave them different unique Magic Spear Arts and techniques that allow them to master <Spiral Energy>, a power he developed unique to his spear and his connection to Xenithia. He would later discover that <Spiral Energy> is the primary form of energy in this universe, with each species having developed their own methods and technologies to utilize <Spiral Energy> and their own inner energy best. For example, one species can be masters of the <Green Spiral Energy> which allows them control over nature and trees, while others could have control over creatures and beast martial arts.

Megrez Xenithians: Ruled by the Wind Bow Sen, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the bow and arrow). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Green puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Sen. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He became the greatest Ranger of all the realm and master archer, having developed unique arrowheads and special magic spells that would allow him to boost his shots and unleash powerful skills through each arrow. For example, he developed special arrowheads infused with <Lightning Essence> which would allow for powerful electrically charged arrows, and combined with a lightning essence spell circle, his arrows could transform into bolts of lightning or hummingbirds that could paralyze opponents. This is through his (and the many species of this Xenithverse) mastery of <Essences> which vary for each natural element in this world. However, in this world, many Xenithians also discovered ways to create their own <Essences> and types of artificial <Essences> (but these creations would be sanctioned by Xenithia) as forbidden and impossible <Essences> would never actually activate through the powers of Xenithia. Sen mastered the <Wind Essence> which gave him his title as the <Wind Bow>, but he also mastered all forms of <Essences> in existence. Each species has their own unique set of <Essences> either naturally made from the magic or nature of their realm or artificially created by them.

Suui Xenithians: Ruled by the Cascade Chakram Saintess Suu, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Chakrams). Having been sent to a regression timeline, she became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Blue puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Suu/Sue. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. She became the master of the Chakras, a form of energy very different from our understanding of Chakras on Earth. In this Xenithverse, Chakra is similar to Mana in that it is a universal form of energy that they can manipulate, gather within themselves, and create or destroy (only those on an extremely advanced god level can do so). Another unique property of Chakras is that they resonate with certain shapes, resonating best with circular items, which boost the power a million-fold. That's why in this realm, Chakrams are the most powerful way to wield Chakra energies in martial arts and magic combat. Sue developed many unique techniques as the Cascade Chakram Saintess and discovered many species that wielded the powers of Chakra energies.

Dokujun Xenithians: Ruled by the Thundering Axe Saint Dokuju, originally one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Axe). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Yellow puffle that I chose first (instead of Redison) (and eventually evolving into a golden thunder color) and named Dokuju. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved to become the master of all forms of <Charge>, a form of magical energy in which (akin to how there is such as thing as a positive and negative charge on atoms), each thing in nature has a special magical charge, and this charge can grant different attributes or abilities to each charged object. For example, a tree that has the <Blazing charge>, is immune to flames burning it, making it great fire-proof shields and building material. Another example is applying <Aquatic Charge> to oneself allows for water breathing and faster mobility underwater. Each species has their own sets of <Charges> that naturally exist or they developed themselves from their environment around them and through their own abilities. Dokuju became the master of the axe and the power of all forms of <Charges>, allowing him to create a variety of magic charged axes to help him in battle.

Arkaid Xenithians: Ruled by the Sand Staff Saintess Alkaid, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Staff). Having been sent to a regression timeline, she became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Pink puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Alkaid. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, she swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. She evolved (gaining a color scheme of white, pink, teal, green, and sand/light brown) to become a master sorceress and master of the powers of <Dust>, a form of magical energy where (like the atom particles that make up everything in existence), Dust makes up all forms of existence in this Xenithverse, with countless different forms of <Dust> in existence, each with its own special properties. Similar to the Dust powers from RWBY, different kinds of <Dust> can unleash different powers. For example, <Flame Dust> can be used like Gunpowder for powerful explosions but also when ignited or used with a flame spell can heighten the power a thousandfold. Also similar to the different kinds of Pixie Dust from Tinker Bell (how purple dust can create wind, pink dust grows flowers, orange dust manipulates light, etc). Other kinds of dust includes <Bloom Dust>, <Sea Dust>, <Storm Dust>, <Sun dust>, etc. Each species has their own unique sets of <Dust> that naturally exist or that they developed themselves from their environment around them through their own abilities. These evolved versions of Xenithians would utilize the potential of <Dust> to create new forms of magic, technology, etc.

Kono Xenithians: Ruled by the Explosive Hammer Saint, Kongo, one of the 12 zodiac constellations of the <Lumencis Order> created by Lumencis as one of the 12 Holy Armament constellations (representing the Hammer). Having been sent to a regression timeline, he became my partner instead of Redison, in this case becoming a Brown puffle that I chose first instead of Redison and named Kongo. After learning of Lumencis's killing of the other deities, he swore fealty to Xenithia as her knight in order to return back and eliminate Lumencis. He evolved to become the master of the mighty hammer, gaining an evolved color scheme of blue, orange, and brown, and mastered the powers of <Force>, a form of energy where attack and defense has been combined (so all forms of magic and spells of one type have been combined into a type of Force). For example, having <Blazing Force> would mean they have enhanced powers of fire in the form of flaming blasts, but also an armor made of fire (combined attack and defense). There are countless different types of <Force>, with each species having their own unique set of <Forces> that either naturally exist or that they developed themselves from their environment around them through their own abilities. These evolved versions of Xenithians would utilize the potential of <Force> to create new forms of magic, technology, and develop their cultures and civilizations.

Arcalix Xenithians: Ruled by the Arcanium Halo Saint Hiero, originally the first champion created by The Lumencis Order, an organization based in the Carey Theological College that wields the power of the holy magic of <Lumencis>. Based on Kain from the Manhwa "Absolute Necromancer" and known as the <True Savior> and empowered by Holy Magic. Once he was the wielder of the Manus Sanctorum and the Deos Sanctorum (a legendary weapon that boosts the Manus Sanctorum and can transform into any form whether a shield, sword, spear, etc) which takes the form of a powerful white armor combined with the Manus Sanctorum, but now he dons a powerful white cloak, a floating golden halo above his head, and magic floating golden rings created by the Arcanium Halo that grants his power. Following the loss of his saints, Lumencis decided to take matters into his own hands and descended into Hiero's body. However, in this case, Hiero's soul fought Lumencis for control over his body, but Lumencis won and forced Hiero out. As he began fading from existence, Xenithia took pity on him, and opened the <Gate of Regression>, giving him a new life as my partner (a red puffle named Hiero), and now returning as a new champion of Xenithia. He rules over 5,000 species of Xenithians (just like the other Xenithians), each with unique powers and abilities developed due to Hiero's influence. All of these powerful species each have their own unique <Arcanium> which grants them special abilities akin to a holy blessing for their species, which they develop sets of unique variations and subgroups of <Arcanium> for their species and integrate that into their technologies, magic systems, and civilization and cultures.

Azarsian: Ruled by Vailord of Azarsus. Originally the Neo-Administration, in a new attempt to defeat Redison, decided to go a bit more old school and created a battle drone known as Vailord. This robot would use the powers of <Cyber Genetic> beings that the Neo-Administration also created (originally they were supposed to be robotic creations but it failed each time and they were more stable in a digital storage) and powered by Plasma (made of the Plasma state of matter, which they achieved through unknown methods). There were 4 <Cyber Genetic Beings> they created: Garou Red (of the Sword), Vils Blue (of the Shield), Baur Yellow (of the Cannon), and Bram Green (of the magic crossbow). With these beings, he would fuse with them and unleash different <Plasma Builds> which would be <Sword Build>, <Shield Build>, <Blaster Build>, <Wizard Build>, <Knight Build = Sword + Shield>, <Apex Build> (all combined), and more. However, Vailord has no soul or its own mind. It was only recently it gained a soul when a deity that was once thought to be killed by Lumencis had appeared known as Azarsus. The God of the Void, Azarsus is a powerful deity that utilizes the endless void energy (the energy created by the nothingness around us, which is a lot, since in the air we breathe, 99% of it is nothing but the vacuum of space), and through the power of imagination, manipulates nihility to create anything into reality, the power of creation through imagination (based on the power of Void Magic from the webcomic “The Hero Starts Over at the Academy”). Azarsus had appeared in UBC World hunting down Lumencis, but needing a vessel after he used too much energy to enter UBC world, he found Vailord and entered his body. He lay dormant until Vailord was defeated by Redison (CPSC 344 exam) and when the Neo-Administration abandoned the project and his body, he took advantage of this opportunity to rebuild and fully evolve Vailord’s body into his own. Evolving and awaking in a new form (he designed it very similar to the Gundam OO Diver Arc (from Gundam Build Metaverse)), he now has an organic monster body with some mechanical armor features and now utilizes Void power instead of Plasma power, since all of his Plasma was used during the battle, and the remaining reserves were used to rebuild the body and into his new form. Now with his new form, he rises into battle and helps Redison take down Lumencis in his revenge to defeat Lumencis for sealing him long ago. Following the defeat of Lumencis, Xenithia grants him a universe of his own to repopulate and pass on his powers and legacy, which he now rules over. All of these beings share the powers of Azarsus in terms of mastery of the power of Void Magic, which allows them to create and manifest any form of magic as long as they learn it, with each species learning a different class or category of magic, and developing unique techniques and abilities through their Void Magic. Whenever they equip or evolve their form, they can transform using their Void Magic into forms known as <Void Builds> or <Customs>.

Chapter 7 Part 2: Darkness: I finally finished 2 of my final exams, on the same day (kinda). 2 down, 2 to go. In the Xenithverse, following the defeat of Lumencis and Vailord, a new looming challenge awaits, as Zenith returns in a new form, having fused with Lumendel, ready for a rematch against Redison and ready to defeat him once and for all (PSYC 361 Final). In addition, the AMS has their champion ARGUS 3.0 ready for another match and ready to destroy Redison. As the War of the Nations comes to a close (as finals come to a close this weekend), King (Redison’s friend) decides to train Redison with a new challenge in the form of new Xenithians of the likes he had never seen before. This takes the form of new Xenithians from the Bureau of Authority, a secret organization he developed where he could experiment and test creation concepts, created as part of Project CODE (based on Kamen Rider Zeztz). In the final battle against Zenith Solomon, Redison worked with Riedons to defeat him, resulting in a tie that would wipe Redison out completely. During the fight, he attempted the technique <Blackout> which would allow him to switch with Dreadison (who he knew had been evolving alongside him), to which he was able to, and learned of the mighty power of <Sabres Dystopia>, a powerful ability that requires the <Grave of Swords> order used, as the beings of the Grave of Swords all attack together with Dreadison. He would be given the hint that in order to use a power like <Saber Dystopia> or to develop his own, he would need to build his own <Unique World> to be able to use this ability. During the battle against ARGUS 3.0 (GEOG 210 Final), he had learned that beings from other universes with even greater powers than he had arrived had been on the hunt for Redison (as he was the template body for the other Homonculi, he was able to gather a few memories from them).

Chrysoneir Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of too many edges>, Chrysoneir. This grants them the power of weapon mastery, anything with “edges” such as swords, daggers, knives, spears, arrows, etc, such as the ability to create anything with edges from magical energy or elemental surroundings (plants, water, stone, metal, crystal, fire, etc). These beings hail from a Xenithverse where Chrysoneir is a real color and the color of the avatar of this Xenithverse, being Agent Chrys (001). He was created by King (the red puffle I got recently) as part of his Bureau of Authority (as his organization he developed in secret where he could create these artificial super beings to challenge Redison to evolve further). Xenithia would then send each Agent to their respective newly created Xenithverse where Xenithia created a history for them (being the avatar of Xenithia and my partner instead of Redison).

Sindervelt Xenithians: Created and ruled by Agent 004, these Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Eternal Flames> by King in the <Bureau of Authority> as part of project CODE, to which he developed and created new colors which invoked new powers in new xenithians created with these colors and powers. They took the form of the Agents, to which Xenithia made them their own Xenithverse where their color is a real color and the color of the avatar of this Xenithverse. They wield the power of the eternal flames, but each species differed in their powers and techniques of the flames.

Oxithral Xenithians: Created and ruled by Agent 012, these Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of the Grand Clock> by King in the <Bureau of Authority> as part of project CODE, to which he developed and created new colors which invoked new powers in new xenithians created with these colors and powers. They took the form of the Agents, to which Xenithia made them their own Xenithverse where their color is a real color and the color of the avatar of this Xenithverse. They mastered the power of time manipulation, with each species differing in level and ability Vellicore Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Plasma>. Ruled by Agent 005, they wield the powers of Super speed and lightning granted by their color of Vellicore. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Inazuma Plasma and his powers of lightning and super speed. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of their powers.

Kraeln Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Unstoppable Force and Impact>. Ruled by Agent 003, they wield the powers of Super strength and super athleticism granted by their color of Kraeln. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Physicam Impact and his powers of increased strength in all of his body. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of their powers and even developed different martial arts and materialization of their fighting spirit.

Vyrrhos Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Endless Transformation>. Ruled by Agent 007, they wield the powers of transformation and shapeshifting granted by the color of Vyrrhos, able to transform their body into any form of matter (made of steel, change it into rubber or water), and reshape their body in any way (change it into spikes or stretch out). Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Physicam Tranaform and his powers of shapeshifting. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power.

Zaelome Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Wonder and Dimensions>. Ruled by Agent 009, they wield the powers of spatial manipulation (the power to create portals, or change their size or the size of others with ease) granted by the color of Zaelome. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Paradigm Wonder and his ability to grow and shrink at will. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power.

Olystene Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Healing and Life force> . Ruled by Agent 011, they wield the powers of healing, repair, regeneration, and the power to control life force or anything with life force (at a higher level) such as the ability to manipulate plants, granted by the color of Olystene. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Espirim Recovery and his powers of healing and detoxification. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in purely healing, detoxification, creating antidotes, or manipulating plant life or taming and communicating with creatures.

Sorvanth Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Unbeatable Defense>. Ruled by Agent 008, they wield the power to create unbreakable barriers made of anything, whether its magic energy, water, soil, rock, fire, wood, plants, metal, sound, air, etc, granted by the color of Sorvanth. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Espirim Barrier and his powers to create a barrier. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in creating strengthened barriers, casting barriers on others, creating large scale domes, etc.

Telkrune Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Machines>. Ruled by Agent 015, they wield the power to create and manipulate all forms of technology and machinery made of anything, granted by the color of Telkrune. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Technolom Machinery and his powers to utilize all forms of tech. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in creating machines, creating vehicles, creating weapons, hijacking machines, etc.

Alfeyr Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Flight and freeing Wind>. Ruled by Agent 006, they wield the power of flight, able to sprout wings and master flight freely, even able to control the wind in some ways, granted by the color of Alfeyr. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Physicam Wing and his powers of flight. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in wind magic, transportation through flight, speed, and even using their wings or custom wings as blades.

Brunthel Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Unbreakable Earth>. Ruled by Agent 016, they wield the power of earth/stone manipulation (earth-bending from Avatar: The Last Airbender) as well as the power to create earthquakes, make armor made of stone, create golems of stone, summon crystals, all granted by the color of Brunthel. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in stone golems, others in purely earthbending, some in metal manipulation, crystal powers, geomancy, etc.

Hyssora Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of the Flowing Water and Streams>. Ruled by Agent 017, they wield the power of water manipulation (water-bending from Avatar: The Last Airbender), as well as the power of ice creation, steam manipulation, and blood manipulation, all granted by the color of Hyssora. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in undersea combat and living, rivers, ice manipulation, blood manipulation, etc.

Nivorum Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of the stars and Gravity>. Ruled by Agent 018, they wield the power of gravity control, able to create anti-gravity wherever they are, create a gravitational field around themselves or opponents, or even create crushing forces of gravity on opponents to slow them down, or lighten themselves to increase their speed. At higher levels of power, they are able to even create black holes through their powerful gravity, granted by the color of Nivorum. Based on Kamen Rider Zeztz Paradigm Gravity and his power of gravity control. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in gravity control technology, anti-gravity combat, and black hole powers.

Lurhael Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Light>. Ruled by Agent 014, they wield the power of light manipulation such as temporarily wielding other color powers (color powers based on the rainbow), invisibility, and creating crystalized light, the power to clone themselves or create illusions of light, or to reflect spells and abilities. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in crystal light technology and weapon development, wielding other color powers, invisibility and cloning (becoming assassins), and illusions (becoming magicians).

Vorune Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Shadows and Darkness>. Ruled by Agent 013, they wield the powers of shadows and dark magic such as the power of absorbing all spells, hiding in the shadows, creating shadow clones or weapons, shadow armor, or dark magic abilities such as the power of invisibility, intangibility, etc. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in power absorption, shadowmancy (shadow soldiers and shadow weaponry), and assassination.

Veldusk Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Spirits and Aura>. Ruled by Agent 019, they wield the powers of spirits (necromancy), able to summon spirits and equip them (like in Kamen Rider Ghost) and wield their abilities and powers, but also wield the power of different auras, able to create aura armors, aura weapons, etc. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in aura manipulation (think Lucario from Pokemon), some specializing in purely necromancy, and some mastering the ability of working with spirits (like Kamen Rider Ghost).

Hruksil Xenithians: These Xenithians were created with the power and the <Color of Nothing, Null, and Erasure>. Ruled by Agent 010, they wield the power of “null”, the power to make something Null, but not delete it completely, just make it ineffective, make it as if it were nothing. Based on Nox Knight (and his Erase capsem powers) from Kamen Rider Zeztz. Each species developed their own techniques and variations of this power, with some specializing in purely nullifying opponents in combat, or the power to nullify concepts.

Riendel: Ruled by Riedons (I couldn’t seem to spell Redison for some reason…). Originally known as Theophoros, the first champion created by the Divinus Imperium, an organization based in the Regent College that once wielded the divine power of <Lumendel> (the first divinity and Divinity of Light). Once known as the <Master of Divinity> and empowered by Divine Magic, and wielder of the Banishing Blade and the Divine Book (which fused with the Banishing Blade). Following his defeat by Azymandias and the other divinities, the disbanding of Divinus Imperium, and his abandonment by Lumendel who replaced him with Zenith as his champion, he walked down a new path, taking on a new name as Riedons. Through his knowledge and reminiscent power of <Lumendel>, he was able to create his own Divine magic and Unbound form, becoming the <Divinity of Twilight> as an exact opposite to Lumendel’s light.

Chapter 8: Enter the Beyond: I finally finished my final exams!!! I’m also going to the Philippines for the first time in 9 years so I am very excited about that. I also have a week of time to relax, hang out with Tobias before he leaves for Toronto for a year, hang out with Alex before she leaves for somewhere (idk where) and for idk how long, and also get some packing done for the trip. I’m also hoping to think of new story content while I'm in the Philippines. In the Xenithverse, a little before the finals, beings from beyond the universe and Xenithverse, from higher and lower tiers in a strange order that's far beyond our understanding discovered Redison after he became the champion of 100,000 species (and counting), which expanded his soul at the level of one of the beings from beyond. To see if he was truly worthy to be one of them, they each wanted to enter UBC World and the Xenithverse and challenge Redison, but as beings from too far beyond, they needed a vessel to hold them so they could cross back and forth. The AMS, using the designs of ARGUS 3.0 and Red Bull energy, created <Homonculi> (Homunculi but “Mon”), beings similar to Redison as a humanoid being of great power. These beings fueled with Red Bull energy as their base were extremely powerful but extremely unstable, which the beings of beyond found them to be perfect vessels as they could stabilize this power and their high energy and power could support the powers of the beyond. This was after the champion of the Xentiverse found a way to enter the Xenithverse temporarily through the Red Homonculi, and took a bit of Redison’s flame (which contained Xenithian DNA) and Xenithian Mana, and perfected the <Homonculi> template, which he gave to the other beings so they could develop their realms further and give the beings of their realm an actual form/body to exist in. He then evolved his own body and now fully inhabits the Red Homonculi (the Red Homonculi is him and he is the Red Homonculi), with him able to use the Red Homonculi’s abilities but also his own powers as the Xentiverse champion (Peak of Sabres). Each realm then took the other <Homonculi> they resonated most with and transformed them through their powers, making them real beings (instead of artificial robotic beings under the control of the AMS with no mind of their own). Each champion from each realm (in their new Homonculi fused body) would then add the magic and energies from their realms into the template, which would then create unique Xenithian-like creatures that would be the vessels and new form of each of the beings. So those of the Xentiverse would have different energy and a different form vs those of the Originalverse or Zeaidverse or Unverse. When the Homonculi champions had each arrived at UBC world, most of them (aside from Nox Redison and Nirvakali) made a pact that only one would challenge Redison at a time and that the others should back off until the fight is over, OR to just hold off Nox Redison and Nirvakali because they would not follow the pact in the first place anyways. And so, the race to challenge Redison first had begun among each warrior. Meanwhile,The champion of the Xenithverse, the real Xenithverse (known as the Originverse), Kazan, has arrived on UBC World to challenge Redison in addition to the others, so we have quite the battle coming. As Redison arrived to the Philippines, the champions he once met back in 2012 not only evolved to become akin to gods, but also, an alternate version of himself appeared to test him on his path and strength different from him.

Originverse Xenithians: I discovered a new interpretation of Universes, how authors don't actually create universes but they just show the universe that already exists to others and that there are upper universes and lower universes. A lower universe is something like a world in a story or a game, that would be considered a lower universe, meaning our universe is something like a game or story for an upper universe. So in this case, the Xenithverse (the real one, known as the Originverse) is considered a lower Universe but still a real universe (Tier 0). Everything that happens in the Xenithverse (my imaginary universe) parallels what happens in the Originverse (since I am just a writer who shows the real universe) but with some slight differences. In this case, their champion "Xenith" is not actually Redison but named Kazan, but Kazan is still a master magic swordsman and great leader among his peoples.

Originalverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier 20 (consider Earth and my universe, the imaginary Xenithverse, and Planet Xenith and the Omegaverse, are all in Tier 1) universe known as the Originalverse. Based on the Savior from the manhwa "The Academy's Genius Swordmaster", who wields the power of Starlight and the Blessing of the Stars, he was once the Silver Homonculus, who was granted the supreme powers of cosmic energy manipulation known as the aura of <Transcendent Stars>, a power that he mastered, creating weapons made of starlight and an indestructible aura armor (the blessing of the stars). This power of starlight was also very versatile as it could heal wounds, regenerate, boost power of others, boost stats, create clones, and many more. The Savior also wields the Unique Realm of <Night of Sabres>, a power created from his mastery of starlight and representative of himself as champion of the Originalverse. He and all other Originalverse Xenithians were given a Xenithian form and all wield the powers of the <Starlight Elements> in unique ways that vary per species.

Anti-Reality Xenithians: These powerful and beautiful beings hail from the Tier -2 universe known as the Anti-Reality, a reality that doesn't even exist (supposedly) because it is so impossible to comprehend. Supposedly visitors of the Anti-Reality can see only pitch white, but those who are residents born in the Anti-Reality actually see all colors and recognize the color Pink as the rarest and most powerful of the colors due to their champion, Xara, the Bewitching Tyrant. She took the Pink Homonculus who had the powerful ability of <Marionnette>, a power that combines brainwashing and control of movement using a powerful form of magic. Through this combination and awakening, she gained the aura of the <Bewitching Tyrant>, and the Unique Realm of <Illusion of Sabres>, a powerful ability that not only boosts her Marionnette control and her skills, but also creates countless illusions of swords and herself that she can use to her advantage to destroy the mind of an opponent. She and all other Anti-Reality Xenithians are all masters of the unique <Bewitching elements>, transforming brainwaves and psychic energy into a tangible form.

Antiverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier -3 universe known as the Antiverse, a universe full of anti-matter instead of usual normal matter. Time flows backwards from future to past, and they believe that our Universe (Tier 1A) is made of all anti-matter and they are made of regular matter. Ruled by their champion Atlas of the Atlantean Godforce. He took the Sea-blue Homonculus who has the powerful ability of <Great Tide>, a power that allows him to manipulate the sea and all forms of water, and the Unique Realm of <Sea of Sabres>, a powerful ability that can create an oceanic domain with countless powerful swords that allow him to master the seas. He and all other Antiverse Xenithians are all masters of the unique <Atlantean Elements> such as Talar, Vess, Mur, Rendform, Depthmatter, Echoine, Still, etc. In the Antiverse, Atlantis is the main stronghold (like Xenith) and capital of the Antiverse where all Xenithians thrive. Atlantis is not necessarily water-based in this universe but has some water elements to it.

Preonverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier -4 universe known as the Preonverse, a universe where the momentum of energy precedes matter, where matter condenses around movement and that zero-velocity is non-existence. In this universe, everything looks as if it is moving at light-speed or faster, but in reality, those who are residents of the Preonverse actually move at a normal speed, they are just part of the <Velocity Winter>, a space where things move at extreme speeds when in reality it is normal in the inside of this "winter". Ruled by the mighty Vitari, who took the Cyan/Winter Homonculus who has the power of super speed and lightning, and the Unique Realm of <Zenith Dystopia>, a power representative of the Preonverse that boosts his speed and the power to control momentum around him. He and all other Preonverse Xenithians are all masters of the <Savitar Elements> such as Impulse, Drift, Vectryl, Slipveil, Motorix, Engine, etc.

Voidium Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier 8 universe known as the Voidium, a universe that looks like our universe but has very different fantastical properties of magic such as how it is almost 1000x its size. In this universe, space and reality are more tangible and easier to manipulate and change into anything the desire. Ruled by Horus, a powerful being that ruled as champion of the Voidium and wielder of the Unique Realm of <City of Sabres> and the aura of the <Reality Overlord>, and took the form of the Purple/Violet Homonculus who holds the power of <The Eye>, an ability that allows him to see all things for what it can be (the power to envision but also the power to see anything in other ways, whether its heat vision, ultraviolet, infrared, night vision, and even the flow of energy itself). By combining this with his power of reality manipulation and spatial manipulation, and taking form allowing him to enter the Xenithverse. He and all other Voidium Xenithians are all masters of the <Paradigm Elements> such as Axion, Continuum, Refraction, Frame, Invariant, Closure, etc. (150th species)

Cetraverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier 28 universe known as the Cetraverse, a universe that acts in similar ways fundamentally as our universe but is contained in the complex plane (square root of -1). Matter from this universe can interact with matter from other universes but reacts differently to different types of matter. One main realm is the Skysea Reversal, a realm where the sky and the sea are reversed and the mountains and the sea are in the sky and where the sea is the main part of the land. Ruled by The Master, a powerful legendary combat deity (based on The Master from the Boom Kitty song) that took the form of the White Homonculus who has the power of <Weapon Mastery>, the power to wield all weapons and forms of combat and create different martial art techniques and styles, which through their new combined form unleash the Unique Realm of <Sanctum of Sabres>, a great power that allows him to summon a limitless amount of weapons and wield them all in countless techniques as if he had a thousand arms each wielding a different weapon. He and all other Cetraverse Xenithians are all masters of <EnCetra Elements>, a special form of natural-born energy that serves as a more powerful form of mana that can be applied to any weapon or armor and grant supreme level powers. These elements include Ignis, Aquos, Glacius, Gust, Terras, Fulminis, Erobos, etc.

Unverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier -6 universe known as the Unverse, a universe that is a normal universe but with negative space and negative dimensions, making it making it quite a strange universe. Beings in this universe are all considered “Ranked Up” in comparison to others (despite their placement in the Tiers) and are all masters of the <Etheric> elements such as Aeralis, Verilux, Ordex, Silphae, Equivar, Ascensyne, Nullith, etc. Ruled by Atenakhen, the powerful emperor of light in the Unverse and wielder of the Unique Realm of <Zenith Utopia>, a realm of golden light with desert temples, and a special rule of zero damage (all damage is recovered and healed unless they are cursed by Atenakhen or any others through the Eteheric Element of Nullith. He took the Yellow Homonculus who has the power of <Rays of Light>, a powerful ability that allows him to create anything made of solid light but also with a purifying healing light. Atenakhen and all Unverse Xenithians use the powers of <Etheric Elements> to unleash powerful miracles akin to the ancient Egyptian deities. Also based on the <New Order> monsters from Yugioh ZEXAL.

Zoothiuverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier 11 universe known as the Zoothiuverse, a universe that looks a little like our universe, but originally came from the heart of gigantic celestial being known as the World Ent, a powerful living tree being that grew countless world trees. In his passing, his heart and the rest of his body transformed into a universe that serves as a massive garden or conservatory of countless different species of World Tree beings

(the Zoothiuverse Xenithians). Ruled by Zoa, the great sage and descendent of the World Ent, and wielder of the Unique Realm <Forest of Sabres>, a powerful domain that allows him to create a vast forest of magical blades, world trees, and swords he can use in battle, but also boost all of his unique abilities. He took the Green/Lime Homonculus who has the power of <Worldbreaker Will>, a power that allows him to invoke fear in all opponents, able to chop down any tree or breakthrough any mountain, essentially a limitless willpower that they can transform into magic energy and stats that allow him to unleash superhuman feats. Zoa and all other Zoothiuverse Xenithians are all masters of <Espirim Elements>, unique powers based on nature and the World Trees with elements such as <Fury, Adaptation, Pulse, Territory, Hunger, Pack, Cultivate, Harvest, Uproot, Root, Bloom, etc>. They use these powers to defend and cultivate their own world tree within themselves and call upon the energy of the worlds from their world tree when needed.

Nullverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier -1 universe known as the Nullverse, universe that can be considered one step less than a point, with a dimension being infinitely small (supposedly). Their universe is an almost exact mirror to our universe, with our matter very similar but in a reverse element. Ruled by Apophis of Hyksos (The Hykso King), the true Hyksoking (one of my email names) who is represented by a Blue puffle with powers and a humanoid champion form like Redison and wields a powerful magic Khopesh. In the Nullverse (and Egyptian and Hykso culture), the blue color represents the heavens, creation, rebirth, and divine protection, hence the divine blessing of Apophis not as a god of destruction but guardian against the end of the world and protector. He holds the Unique Realm known as the <Dune of Sabres>, an ability that allows him to create a desert domain with powerful magic weapons of the Dunesreign elements. He took the Blue Homonculus, which gave him the power of <Sandstorm>, which used the wind powers of the Blue Homonculus to control powerful sandstorms and winds of Dunesreign energy, but also the aura of <Infinite Resolve>, an ability that granted him near unbreakable spirit that could be transformed into stats and spirit armor. He and the other Nullverse Xenithians are masters of the <Dunesreign Elements>, such as Zereth, Unfollow, Veylthin, Azumar, Gravyn, Kharosil, Revenantine, etc.

Zeaidverse Xenithians: These powerful beings hail from the Tier 12 universe known as the Zeaidverse, a universe similar to the Zoothiuverse in the fact that this universe was born from the corpse of a massive celestial, but instead of a massive tree ent, it was born from the corpse of a great warrior being. His massive sword would be inherited by their champion Arthur, who would use this powerful sword and his unique abilities of <Contra Rotation Flow> which allows him to wield layers of different magic energies. Think of the Contra Rotating Propeller. The core ring spins in one direction, while the one behind it spins in the opposite direction. The 2 unleash a powerful fusion of magic energy that maximizes power. These rings can be added layer by layer as they spin in different directions, which increases the complexity of their magic and abilities. Arthur would later take the Ruby Homonculus (who held the power of <Ruby Rush>, which granted him super speed and super speedy flow of energy to be able to move and wield power at that speed), gaining the <Ruby Rush> ability and his body. He wields the Unique Realm of <Field of Sabres>, a domain that takes the form of a grassy field and blue sky with many magical swords in the ground that can be taken and wielded in combat. This represents the ancient battlefield that the first deity Zeaid (the original wielder of the sword) fought and ruled as the ultimate warlord. In this realm, Arthur and the other Zeaidverse Xenithians wield the <Zeaith Elements>, powerful elements representing endless battle and combat.

Ternaverse Xenithians: These fiery beings hail from the Tier 28 universe known as the Ternaverse. Long ago, an Orange thing was slain, and from its corpse, the Ternaverse was formed and from it, the Three Foundations were created: The Boundary (the endpoints of dimensions), Void (the infinite space outside), and the Crucible (the container and shape of the lower Foundations, the Void acting as the furnace that consumes any object it interacts with, the Crucible acting as the fire that synthesizes it, and the Boundary as the anvil. This universe was created from the final will of a great creator deity, and is now ruled by the descendant of the creator deity Azmus, a powerful creator that inherited the Unique Realm of the <Sol of Sabres>, a unique domain set on a blazing land as if on the Sun itself, with countless flaming superweapons to wield as needed or to use to create more powerful custom weapons and spells. Azmus took the Orange Homonculus, who had the power of <Solar Annihilation>, a power that used a giant core in his body and supercharged it to burst into raging flames and essentially become the “Sun” itself temporarily. Azmus would use this power plus his Unique Realm to master creation of powerful super weapons charged with their own star inside it. This power of creation and enchantments would be embodied in the <Amber Elements> wielded by the Ternaverse Xenithians and Azmus.

Xentiverse Xenithians: These legendary beings hail from the Tier 28 universe known as the Xentiverse, a radiant colorful space with countless interpretations of what it truly is. Some say it is a crack in the black and white, a fractured position that extends infinitely across the empty void, like a single drop of dye that paints the infinite depths of the ocean of darkness. Those born in the Xentiverse, see it as a universe of infinite colors with a deep radiant magic energy of transcendent colors. Ruled by the being known as the Omni Ascendant, a powerful swordsman who mastered swordsmanship and all other forms of martial arts, spellcraft, and all forms of energy utilization and combined them all into his swordsmanship that he perfected by performing <Slash>, a basic attack, infinitely, and by combining each new thing he learned and mastered into his <Slash>, one slash could slice through a universe itself. In his training he developed his Unique Realm <Peak of Sabres>, a domain where there are many mighty mountains with the highest peak holding the most powerful weapons and where the Omni Ascendant would train, and where many masters/Ascendants train in their own peaks of their own mountains. He took the Red Homonculus who had the power of <Sword Smith>, which he was able to combine with his powers to create the templates of the other Homonculi to be used by the other Beyonders. The Omni Ascendant and all other Xentiverse Xenithians use the powers of the <Ascendant Elements>, powers granted by the other Ascendants of the <Peak of Sabres>.

Zarukanian: Ruled by Redison Zarukan. What if I actually lived in the Philippines instead of having gone to Phoenix (back in 2012)? 13 years later, Redison would have evolved very differently. This alternate Redison meets the Redison currently and challenges him. This master of swordsmanship developed 24 futuristic floating blades that can transform into different formations and combinations to unleash different sword arts and techniques. Meanwhile, in the Philippines, my growing up, values, and experiences would be quite different (as the Xenithverse would develop quite differently as I would learn different or more the same stories at different times, learn new mythologies, histories, etc). I also would have had different friends too which would influence my differently, and I would be closer to my cousins here (since we would likely hang out more often together). However, the likelihood I went to UBC is still high due to us being Canadian anyways, which would have kept that part of Redison the same, but given his evolution while I grew up in the Philippines, he would be vastly different. He rules his version of the Xenithverse with his allies, as together they developed a form of energy similar to mana, known as Zarukan energy, which powers everything and serves as a force of "divine" power. These beings in the Xenithverse use the powers of Zarukan energy in the air and in the power of stories, imagination, and mythologies to unleash great power.

Kidlat/Storm Godkin: Ruled by the Storm Sovereign, Voltrason. Long ago (back in 2012 and 2016), I watched Boboiboy which had the main character able to split into 6 elemental forms (which I later used as a basis for powers) as well as his friends able to do flight, super speed, and food transformation (and later shadows but I didn't see that until way later). This character is based on Boboiboy's lightning form (Red lightning) and Ying's time manipulation (super speed/slow mo) powers. He and the others used to live in a great tree (some toy tree with different colored balls (which represented the champions) I played with back in 2012), which took on a new form as they now rule different parts of the Philippines World (Guakongs house) which was originally divided into different planets, but are now united into one grand realm. In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house specifically), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. He rules over the Storm Godkin (based on the Sea Godkin from the manhwa "Raising Villains the Right Way". All storm godkin are born with the abilities of enhanced super speed and the almighty power of lightning and thunder of many many colors. Many of the high level Storm Godkin also master the powers of time manipulation as an extension of their connection to lightning and speed itself.

Hangin/Wind Godkin: Ruled by the Tempest Tyrant, Tempestson, one of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Boboiboy Wind. In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. The Wind Godkin are born with the innate control of the wind and the sky, able to fly at great speeds and heights, control great winds using tornadoes and breezes. Many developed different techniques and technologies to utilize this great power of flight such as special wings, airships, and other forms of transportation. They can evolve down different paths, some evolving to master the tempests, others mastering the path of the hurricane, tornado, gale, breath, etc.

Bundok/Mountain Godkin: Ruled by the Earth Emperor, Mountainson, One of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Boboiboy Earth. In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin.

The Mountain Godkin are born with the innate power of geokinesis, able to control all stones and minerals around them to create golems, armor, or unleash other powerful techniques such as creating earth walls, earthquakes, as well as innate super strength and super durability. Many evolved down different paths, with some evolving to master golem creation, some mastering metal, and some mastering the power of gemstones and minerals. They each developed their own unique forms of technologies and abilities through their special form of Zarukan energy.

Karagatan/Sea Godkin: Ruled by the Ocean Overlord, Tidalson, One of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Boboiboy Water and Boboiboy Ice. In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. The Sea Godkin are born with the innate power of hydrokinesis, able to control all forms of water, the ocean, seas, lakes, rivers, and even ice and mist. Through the supreme power of Sea Zarukan energy, they developed their own powerful weapons, ships for travel, many other vehicles, and other unique aquatic weapons and underwater city structures. Many split up into different environmental civilizations such as those who settled in the tropical regions becoming pirates, some who moved into the underwater regions, establishing underwater cities and technologies (think Aquaman), some became sailors, others became masters of the ice and snow, establishing technologies for ice travel over icy seas and in wintery mountains.

Lagablab/Fire Godkin: Ruled by the Fire Lord, Novason, one of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Boboiboy Fire, Blaze, and Nova (his 3rd evolution, and the form that Novason takes). In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. The Fire Godkin are masters of pyrokinesis, but also inherit the ancient bloodlines of the ferocious firebirds, which through calling upon the power of the firebird in their bloodline are they able to achieve flight through flaming wings, and even the powers of immortality and resurrection through the powers of the flames. Many developed their own unique weapons, vehicles, and other powerful flame zarukan technologies which eventually progressed as they developed their own subclasses and specialties, establishing different paths and civilizations based on these specialties.

Kagubatan/Jungle Godkin: Ruled by the Jungle Ascendant, Rimbason, One of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Boboiboy Leaf and Jungle/Rimba (the form Rimbason takes). In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. The Jungle Godkin are masters of nature and plant kinesis, with many having learned and trained in different paths such as plant creation, plant summoning, animal taming and communication, creature summoning, creature creation, and even plant/animal fusion. Many developed their own unique weapons, vehicles, and technologies that utilize nature zarukan energies.

Araw/Solar Godkin: Ruled by the Solar Exarch, Gammason, One of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Boboiboy Solar. In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. The Solar Godkin mastered light manipulation and solar zarukan energies, developing different paths such as mastery of crystalized light, powers of solar flame energy, and having developed many futuristic light based technologies and weapons, such as vehicles and items that allow for lightspeed travel, limitless power through solar energies, and unique healing techniques and abilities powered by the limitless solar zarukan energy.

Buwan/Shadow Godkin: Ruled by the Shadow Monarch, Lunarson, One of the champions of the Philippine puffles long ago (2012/2016). Based on Fang (Boboiboy's friend who had power over the shadows). In the evolution of their universe (Guakong's house), each planet created new beings which were developed from the different champions, which each became "Gods". These beings became known as the Godkin. The Shadow Godkin are masters of shadow control, able to control and absorb shadows and darkness in the form of black/dark zarukan energy. This power is enhanced by the moon (as opposed to the Solar Godkin who mastered the sun), and also gives them the ability to transform their own shadows or evolve their shadows to take any forms, such as granting them shapeshifting or shapeshifting their shadow, or creating shadow soldiers. They developed their own unique Shadow Zarukan energy technologies and weapons such as vehicles that can travel in the shadows, unique clothing items that allow for others to hide in the shadows, or special weapons that use the power of shadows.

Kalagitan/Astral Godkin: Ruled by Invincible Eagle: Long ago, I watched this soccer based cartoon called Super Strikers. Idk how I got the idea of the Eagle but they were related somehow. This powerful eagle had the powers of flight, portal creation, access to the Great Sky (a dimension that allowed him to cross over from the Philippines to the US), and invincibility. These rare unique Godkin live in the realm known as the Great Sky, a place that serves as a space between universes, dimensions, and worlds, a place where ideas freely travel between and collide, allowing for limitless creation. These beings hold a wide variety of abilities through the special Astral Zarukan energy, whether it is the power of creation, spatial manipulation (portal creation, teleporation, etc), and summoning.

January: Grand Finale (Final Term), Parallactic

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 9: New Gods on the Block
    - Chapter 10: Mysteries of the Fog

Chapter 9: New Gods on the Block: I'm back baby!! It's my final term at UBC and my final first week of school (for now) of my undergraduate degree. The trip to the Philippines was pretty fun, but now we are back in action. I got new classes, but also work at Geering Up is starting up again, but also, I will be applying to other jobs in hopes of finding a job in the future, whether it is teaching English in the East like Japan (I got an interview for it!!), Korea, or Taiwan, or working in tech for SAP (I have an interview at the end of this month). I also applied for Teach for America (TFA) so I am also hoping to be ready for that next month. In the Xenithverse, Redison has returned back to UBC World, only to discover that UBC World has been taken over by an alternate universe, where Xenithia had fallen and new gods appeared to attempt to take over the space of UBC World. For example, what if Lumencis took over? What if Lumendel took over? What if other gods took over instead? These different deities begin to clash, ultimately culminating in the Battle of the Gods.

Zerathonians: Ruled by Zerathos, the Worldbearer, a white haired primarily white colored "Redison". Based on Phainon (from Honkai Star Rail) not just on design but also a little on lore and powers. Zerathos was originally created by the AMS through the Amphinite Experiment. He was created using data of Redison that the AMS had collected through the years and by creating a being similar to Redison that would grow to be a hero god like Redison, they could unleash him as a secret weapon against Redison in the Battle of the Gods. The Amphinite Experiment was a simulation where the hero would grow up and fight the big boss Irontomb, the cause of the end of the world in this simulation, but every time he would lose (which was programmed), the universe would reset. This was done to ultimately transform the hero into a single entity that was beyond brainwashed and through the fusion of the <Imprisoned Mythos> and <Manipulated Logos>, would become the supreme <Anti-Creator>. However in this simulation, at some point, the hero began remembering his past reboots and inheriting their powers and abilities, as in each time loop, the hero would go down a different path to get stronger and try to defeat Irontomb another way. After 55 million time loops, he had finally combined all possible paths, all possible abilities, skills, and powers in the simulation, and combined it into himself to finally destroy Irontomb and destroy the simulation. Knowing his existence as originally part of a simulation, he rebels against the AMS and frees himself, becoming his own god, taking the name Zerathos, the Worldbearer, and becoming a being to foil the Anti-Creator. Through his powers as the ultimate fusion of all paths, he created the Zerathonians, magical beings similar to the Xenithians in their powers of magic granted by the infinite paths that Zerathos walked, but also inheriting the power to walk countless paths simultaneously and fusing these paths together to unleash greater powers.

Zereum: Ruled by Zereum, the God of Mythos. In the Amphinite Experiment, there were 2 other simulations that had been destroyed as their "hero" had freed themselves by defeating the undefeatable Irontomb. In this simulation, the hero acquired the powers of the <Imprisoned Mythos>, where epic chronicles, romantic legends, and countless stories all were placed into an entity that would fuse with the <Manipulated Logos> to become the Anti-Creator, but the hero had taken it for themselves and evolved to become the Golden Mythos, with the original <Imprisoned Mythos> as their core. These beings all hold the power of the <Imaginary> type, a power created through Ichor (similar to Mana) generated by Mythos, and the power of creation through imagination. This hero would destroy Irontomb and, being freed from the simulation, would discover his original reason for creation and rebel against the AMS, taking the title of Zereum, the God of Mythos. He would later create the Zereum species to all wield the powers of the <Imaginary Type>: the powers of creation through Mythos and stories, as Golden Ichor would flow through their blood.

Zethurosians: Ruled by Zethuros, the God of Logos. In the Amphinite Experiment, there were 2 other simulations that had been destroyed as their “hero” had freed themselves by defeating the undefeatable Irontomb. In this simulation, the hero acquired the powers of the <Manipulated Logos>, the shape of the world, the desire to seek, the boundless space that gives all form, and the intellect from which all wisdom is born. This powerful core was originally developed for the Anti-Creator (the final form of the hero as designed by the Amphinite Experiment), but in this simulation, the hero took the powers of the <Manipulated Logos> and unleashed the powers of Quantum, a power type created through Ichor (similar to Mana) generated by Logos, and the power of destruction through logic. This hero would destroy Irontomb and, being freed from the simulation, would discover his original reason for creation and rebel against the AMS, taking the title of Zethuros, the God of Logos. He would later create the Zethurosian species to all wield the powers of the <Quantum Type>, the powers of destruction through logos and paradoxes, as Indigo Ichor would flow through their blood.

Xekenithian: Ruled by Xekenith, the god of shadows. I am Redison, and Redison is me. This is a concept that allows Redison to truly represent me as my avatar. However, in this interpretation, Redison/Xekenith is my shadow (like an avatar), but is also able to wield the powers of my own shadow (physical shadow) and his own physical shadow, where each shadow is essentially a piece of the soul, and grants a unique power. Based on Kamen Rider Nox (from Kamen Rider Zeztz) and his abilities to wield his own shadow, the shadows of others, and is able to create multiple shadows or utilize darkness to hide, teleport, transform into a weapon, or chains, or hands, or even unique soldiers. In this universe, a shadow represents the soul of someone, and by taking someone’s shadow is to take their soul (think Peter Pan’s shadow). While Xekenith used to steal the shadows of others, he discovered the destructive effects, and would later only take and copy the shadows of others (to gain their abilities as the God of Shadows), only stealing the shadows of those who are of dark hearts (evil) and would purify their shadows. The Xekenithians, being born of the God of Shadows, mastered the powers of shadow control, despite their elemental type, attribute, and abilities, as all mastered control over their own shadow and other shadow manipulation techniques, which they apply to their own techniques, abilities, and technologies.

Zekraian: Ruled by the Martial Arts God, Zekratos (his design based on Sun Wukong). What if Xenithia, the creation deity, had never existed? In this universe, Zekratos takes the role of the creation deity of this universe and creates his own version of Xenithians known as the Zekraians, masters of a power known as Martial Power or Qi (instead of Mana) which they use to power their weapons, elemental technologies, their formations and use of arrays, and in their martial art and movement art techniques they develop and hone throughout their lives. Zekratos taught 10 students in their own martial art styles, each with their own strengths and specialties, as they rose to become Martial Art Deities themselves under Zekratos. Zekratos would then take an avatar (like Redison) known as Zekratos, and rule over the Zekraian not under a specific species (specifically those born of pure Qi who develop arrays and formations or developers of techniques).

Jiando Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the Sword God, Jianzong. All beings of this species mastered purely the sword arts, having developed all form of sword art techniques, Qi cultivation techniques that boost their sword techniques, and developed technologies and movement arts to compliment their swordsmanship. There are many different groups of this species depending on their elemental clan and Origin art they learned and passed down to their students and descendants.

Qiangzong Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the Spear God, Qiangzong. All beings of this species mastered the art of the spear, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their spear art, created new types of spears and technologies to boost their spear arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their spear arts, or developed their own unique spear arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Gunzong Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the Bowstaff God, Gunzong. All beings of this species mastered the art of the bowstaff, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of bowstaffs and technologies to boost their bowstaff arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Anqi Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of Hidden weapons, Duanbing. All beings of this species mastered the art of the knife, dagger, or fan, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of knives, daggers, or fans, and technologies to boost their techniques, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques as well as mastering poison arts and other assassination techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Quanzong Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of Fists, Quanzong. All beings of this species mastered the art of the fist or the art of the claw, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of gauntlets or claws and technologies to boost their martial arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Kyudo Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of Archery and long range, Gongshu. All beings of this species mastered the art of the archer (Bow and arrow, crossbow, gun, sniper, slingshot, etc), whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of long ranged weapons and technologies to boost their martial arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Zhanfu Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of the War Axe, Zhanfu. All beings of this species mastered the art of the axe (war axe, battle axe, halberd, etc), whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of axes and technologies to boost their martial arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Liuxingchui Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of Chain weapons, Suobing. All beings of this species mastered the art of the mace or the art of the chained weapon, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of weapons and technologies to boost their martial arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Feiren Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of Flying blades, Feiren. All beings of this species mastered the art of the chakram or the art of the shuriken, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, created new types of weapons and technologies to boost their martial arts, created and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Shouwu Zekraian: These species of Zekraian were born of the God of Martial Defense, Fangzong. All beings of this species mastered the art of the shield, whether it was developing Qi cultivation techniques to boost their martial art, creating new types of weapons and technologies to boost their martial arts, creating and honed movement arts to compliment their techniques, or developed their own unique martial arts through their elemental abilities. They would pass this down to their students and descendants and develop their civilizations based on this power.

Rhazik Parallaxian: Ruled by the Fantome, a cult-like religion that goes against the 12 deities of Lumencis and as they are rebels against the deities, and therefore withheld holy power, these beings would come to develop their own Engineered Holy Power (based on the concept from the Manhwa “Fated to be Loved by Villains”) to use. Also based on the Fantome units from Cardfight! Vanguard Divine Z Parallactic Clash. All Parallax beings are born with the unique skill <Defy the Heavens> which allows them to nullify most skills that utilize holy power. This nullification varies from group to group, as some are able to negate it by absorbing the holy power and using it for their own in their attacks, some disperse the energy and spread it out around the area or reuse it, transforming it into a weapon of their own, while some destroy the holy power completely, etc. All other Parallaxians are ruled by the Fantome group, but this species in particular is ruled by Rhazir (Redison), Fantome of crimson lightning. Rhazir (Redison) was equipped with his own armor and abilities as he had to hide his mana-based abilities in this realm but through the Fantome, he unlocked crimson lightning powers through the powers of the engineered holy power they granted to him. He mastered super speed, lightning based abilities, and a new swordsmanship to compliment this power. He would train and lead over this species that would master engineered holy power of the electric attribute and develop their own forms of technology and culture in their new civilization.

Gaebolg Parallaxian: Ruled by Branzon (Boxy), Fantome of raging flames, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of the fire attribute, able to create different flames of different properties and colors and when used in tandem with other special flames, powerful spells and effects can occur. For example, some combinations of flames can grant special buffs like invincibility and regeneration or resistance to other spells, poisons, mental attacks, etc. Other flame combinations can cause great damage such as even poison damage, or ever-burning damage (unhealable flame damage). These masters of fire developed their own culture and technologies in their own civilization.

Talzhar Parallaxian: Ruled by Arthur (Artison), Fantome of the ground, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of the earth attribute, able to not only control stones (earthbend) but also mastered the power of plants, able to accelerate or slow the growth of plants, control and communicate with plants and stones, and even create/breed their own plants and create their own unique stones, ores, and metals. They are master craftsman and artisans that use the power of earth and nature in a graceful artistic manner.

Ixxen Parallaxian: Ruled by Georg (Greenison), Fantome of time, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of time, a power that allows them to serve as great librarians and chroniclers (able to keep track of history), and manage the timeline of the universe created by Redison for the Parallaxians to live in peace hidden from the other 12 Deities of Lumencis (while the 10 Fantome Guardians fight the deities). They are able to speed up time whether time itself, their perception of time (able to see the future), slow time of the opponent (slow their opponent or slow down the perception of time), or reverse time (perception and itself). Their engineered holy power glows green when controlling time.

Cyrren Parallaxian: Ruled by Harris (Hon), Fantome of tempest, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of wind, a power that gives them mastery of the wind, whether it is the power of flight, or the power to create powerful wind storms that can even serve as powerful forms of defense (walls of wind). These beings would use their powers of wind and develop technologies to harness this power, creating many airships, floating cities, many levitating vehicles and items, and established a floating nomadic civilization system with many floating moving civilizations traveling the skies around the Parallactic realm.

Ulqen Parallaxian: Ruled by Diana (Dancer), Fantome of the sea, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of water and the sea, a power that not only allows them control over water, waves, the tides, but also the power to manipulate water, creating massive bubbles, creating tidal waves that could flood the world, and even the power to create water out of nothing. Through this power, they would develop civilizations and technologies to make use of this power such as underwater cities, underwater vehicles, floating island civilizations and empires, and many sailing technologies and ships that gave them total command of the seas.

Axith Parallaxian: Ruled by Krysta (Krystal), Fantome of the cyberverse, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of data and technology, a power that can allow them to enter and thrive in the cyberverse (the world inside the computer), manipulate data itself into anything they desire, with some even able to transform data into reality, or the power to imagine and develop their own super technologies or the power to hack and hijack any form of technology they are able to understand. They developed a futuristic civilization, both in the realm and in the cyberverse, taking advantage of the limitless space there.

Noqth Parallaxian: Ruled by Jack (Joe), Fantome of dreams and nightmares, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of dreams and nightmares, a power that allows them to not only enter the dreams/nightmares of others, but also communicate with others in their dreams, create dreams/nightmares in whoever they choose, and even make things from dreams/nightmares come to reality. They also hold the power to make dreams/nightmares come true, holding powers such as other elemental abilities but also many fantastical abilities that are dream-like (like the powers from Kamen Rider Zeztz). They established civilizations in both the regular parallactic realm and the dream realm, all powered through the engineered holy power of dreams/nightmares.

Ithrael Parallaxian: Ruled by Sirius (Snowy), Fantome of holy light, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of light, a power that allows them to manipulate light energy and colors to become invisible, camouflage, but also use this light to purify others from poison or evil energies, burn the undead and other evil spirits, grant protection like a shield of light, and even heal others through this purifying light. Through this power, they established their culture and civilization through the technologies powered by this holy light and holy light manipulation, and traveled the realms as healers or protectors.

Grenth Parallaxian: Ruled by Baku (Brownie), Fantome of fists and beasts, this species not only has the power of <Defy the Heavens> but also mastered the engineered holy power of martial power and beasts, a power that grants them animalistic super strength, sharpened instincts of a beast, and even super reflexes and agility, that ultimately grant them the power to move like a beast, able to fight using special beast style martial arts and other powerful martial techniques, but also the power to communicate and tame creatures and mimic their movements to unleash powerful martial arts. This power also took the form of an energy known as Martial Power, which they can envelop around their body and use as an armor, a weapon, or they can combine it with technologies and weapons they developed to utilize this power in addition to the powers of the beast spirit energies. They would establish many cultures and different sects based on the different animal types and their techniques, and would live in Murim like civilizations scattered throughout the parallactic realm.

Valkasus: Ruled by Valkasus (Kaiser), a powerful artificial robot being created by the Neo-Admin and powered by artificial engineered mana. With the invention of engineered mana by humans, the AMS and Neo-Admin both took the opportunity to design a superweapon that could take Redison down, each deciding to go in a different direction as to how to use the engineered mana. The Neo-Admin designed this Homonculus with a new concept, to design a Mana circuit of the body, and create the ideal mana circuit for each level and spell capability (with different mana circuits existing for different elemental powers, spells, etc). Mana circuits can be designed based on the mana flow of the body and are unique designs that are installed at different levels (based on the Mana circuits from the Manhwa “The Magic Tower’s Problem Child”). Valkasus was the first but also created to be the ultimate warrior with all mana circuits layered one on top of the other and evolved to unleash the ultimate power, but was swiftly defeated by Redison during the chaos. Redison would however revive and recreate Valkasus into Valkasus Kaiser to become the ruler of a new species created through the powers of the Mana circuits and beings that were born with unique mana circuits within them, which made them more powerful when it came to spellcasting, martial arts, and technology utilization. The concept of the Mana circuits were brought to life in the form of the Valkasus species which Valkasus Kaiser now rules over.

Chapter 10: Mysteries of the Fog: Well the term is in full swing. I am part of a lab for COGS 402, trying to reset my routine of going to the gym on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday (which is quite challenging). I also have two interviews coming up, one for the JET Program (Teaching in Japan), and one for the SAP Internship (which I really really want, despite it being short-term). These 2 interviews will determine the future chapters of this story and where I will be, whether in Japan, whether in Phoenix, whether still in Vancouver, or somewhere else. In the Xenithverse, the battle of the gods continues as fog appears covering UBC (like actually, there has been a ton of fog covering UBC and it has made for some awesome pictures). As the fog appears, space itself distorts, as the new gods take advantage of this and create their own worlds overlapping UBC World, with 4 new alternate worlds, each created by a different deity: Lumencis, Lumendel, Zenith Solomon, and the Anti-Creator. Meanwhile, new magical forces appear from other dimensions and timelines, while the final two warriors of the beyond appear to finally challenge Redison, but also with new technology and magic, the AMS and Neo-Administration strike again with brand new warriors ready to destroy Redison once and for all. Following the battle against Lumendel, Zenith Solomon, and the Anti-Creator, Redison faces the champions of Lumencis in the form of the 12 Gods and their creations of the Xenarcheians, however, their champions appear to be alternate versions of the Mobb!

Khakkara: What if Lumendel, the divinity of light, had actually won during the Battle of the 4 Nations? In this case, what if Lumendel had absorbed the divinities it created and evolved to a supreme form, destroyed Xenithia, and took her place as the supreme creation deity of the universe, as he would destroy and rebuild the universe in his new image. In absorbing all the other divinities he created, he transformed them into 12 Rings (Magic circles), where each Magic circle represents a divinity and is the main power type in this universe. Lumendel would then designate a new champion known as Khan, and would grant him an all-powerful staff that wields the power of the 12 rings, but also can wield actual magic rings (like Kamen Rider Wizard) to unleash the power of individual divinities. Following the Battle between Redison and Khan for the sake of the supreme deity, Xenithia or Lumendel, Redison defeated Khan, and with that, Lumendel had surrendered to Xenithia and quietly got absorbed by Xenithia, bringing Khan into the Xenithverse and granting Khan the powers of creation and supreme power as the new champion of their universe. Khan would use this power and in combination with the powers of Xenithia, to create an infinite number of new divinities (and magic circles representing each divinity) and therefore countless new beings to utilize the powers of these divinities. All Khakkara have a unique magic system in which they have their own magic circle within their core (representing the divinity they are linked to) and as they battle and learn through new experiences, their magic circle evolves with new skills and abilities (like a skill tree or mana circuit). Some Khakkara are also able to have multiple magic circles within their core and some are able to fuse magic circles and skills, or even create their own magic circle and achieve the level of divinity.

Mirazh: These beings were created by the Anti-Creator (based on Anti-Creator Hatred Inundate from Honkai Star Rail) of the AMS, a champion developed through the Amphinite Experiment as the perfect success and their ultimate soldier. Following having gained all powers possible in the experiment and leaving the simulation, he used his supreme powers to create a new world based on the Amphinite Experiment but in real life, and with the fog distorting UBC World, he created his new world to overlap UBC World. In this reality, like the simulation, the simulation had a hero character of any gender, go through the system and eventually evolve to the point of supreme power to hopefully defeat the final boss, Irontomb. However, many heroes would fall and the simulation would end. In this realm, the Anti-Creator created a new version of Irontomb to act as the emperor of this universe (his figurehead), and as Irontomb was not a destroyer of worlds, all heroes that reached the final boss during the simulation actually revived and continued to evolve further, making this universe a realm where everyone and all beings are extremely high powered supreme beings, having reached the pinnacle of their path. Each of the 10 puffles also went through those paths, with Redison (of this universe) evolving to become the strongest swordsman of the empire, becoming Redison Overlord, The X (based on Dragonic Overlord, The X). Having mastered his path but also discovered the infiniteness of this universe where he could evolve with all paths through his ability of Regression (following his first defeat against Irontomb, whom he challenged for supremacy and died), he regressed and continued his path, defeating many of the strongest heroes and restarting new paths and lives until all paths were achieved and he defeated the strongest heroes and Irontomb in each life, where in his most recent life, he defeated Irontomb in one slash, and defeated the Anti-Creator himself in a great battle in the cosmos. Following his victory and absorption of the Anti-Creator, he became the new deity of the Mirazh universe and granted all beings in this universe the powers of regression (able to turn back time and explore and gain the powers and experiences of another path), and the power of Stride (to switch paths temporarily or borrow the powers of themself from another path)

Xiragon Xenithians: Ruled by Xirgo of Durmstrang, the crimson red warrior. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Durmstrang Institute in the far north of Europe. The curriculum of magic here is martial magic, dark magic, and weapon usage such as magic bowstaffs, special magic boots, magic capes, swords, spears, shields, daggers, fans, etc. These Xenithians are masters of dark magic, curses, and combining martial arts with spellcasting and magic weapons to unleash powerful techniques. They live in a realm based on my surroundings of the North in Durmstrang.

Onai Xenithians: Ruled by Xantias of Uagadou, an orange master of the moon. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Uagadou School of Magic located in the Mountains of the Moon in western Uganda in Africa. The curriculum here masters wandless magic, voiceless magic, and hand gesture magic. These Xenithians live in a realm based on the Savannah and the Mountains of the Moon around Uagadou. Their main forms of magic are also wandless magic, hand gesture magic, and voiceless magic through magic of thought.

Greylock Xenithians: Ruled by Xemnas of Ilvermorny, a yellow-golden wizard and master alchemist and creator. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Ilvermorny School of Witchcraft and Wizardry in the USA. The curriculum here masters experimental powers of creation such as alchemy and modern elemental fusion. These Xenithians live in a realm based in the Greylock Mountains of Massachusetts and the great cities around Ilvermorny. Their main forms of magic are similar to the students as they are masters of creation through alchemy and other forms of experimental magic when it comes to developing magical technologies to utilize stronger forms of magic.

Castro Xenithians: Ruled by Xion of Beauxbatons, a sky-blue enchantress and master of magic circles. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Beauxbatons Academy of Magic in France. The curriculum here masters Enchantments, the art of the magic staff, and magic circles. These Xenithians live in a realm based on the surroundings of Beauxbatons in France, as well as the cultures of Europe such as France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, etc. Their main forms of magic are similar to the students here who mastered enchantment casting and the perfection of magic circles as well as the complexity that magic circles can have.

Borage Xenithians: Ruled by Xandram of Castelobruxo, the emerald green sorcerer of the jungle. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Castelobruxo in the Amazon Rainforest. The curriculum here masters the power of nature, beast taming, and beast powers.

These Xenithians live in a realm based on the Amazon Rainforest, Brazil, and the rest of Central and South America. Their main forms of magic are similar to the students here, as they learned the power of beast taming, nature control, natural energy use, beast powers, beast transformation, and the power to even create new beasts or plants. (200th species)

Dracos Xenithians: Ruled by Xaldin of Hogwarts, the indigo archmage. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry in the Scottish Highlands in Great Britain. The curriculum here masters the power of the wand and spoken spells. These Xenithians live in a realm based on Hogwarts and the surrounding areas (Great Britain plus magic). Their main powers are similar to the students in the forms of spoken spells and wand usage for spellcasting. However, their magic abilities are different, as they are innately magical creatures, they are able to use more powerful alien spells that would be beyond the imagination of a human wizard or witch.

Mahou Xenithians: Ruled by Xhiro of Mahoutokoro, the violet sword saint. What if I was born in the Harry Potter universe, where magic schools all throughout the globe exist? In this universe, I was accepted and a student at the Mahoutokoro School of Magic in Minami Iwo Jima, Japan. The curriculum here masters the art of the magic sword and magic swordsmanship. The Xenithians here live in a realm based in Japan and the island where Mahoutokoro stands on. These Xenithians use the powers of magic within their core but also the magic techniques and swordsmanship that they learned and created, making them a powerful fighting force.

Zelriteous: These beings were originally created by Zenith Solomon, who returned as he survived the battle against Redison, when he fused with Lumendel (becoming Zenith Solomon), and became a new deity himself. When he created his own world with his own creations, he gave his creations the mystical power of <Omen Marks>, powerful symbols that grant great power to those it is born and bestowed upon. The Zelriteous use the power of Engineered Divine power (instead of mana or divine power such as the Khakkara), which takes the form of the Omen Marks. As Zenith Solomon holds the powers of Lumendel, he created new Divinities to represent the different building blocks of his world, such as the basic elements (Fire, water, earth, plant, sun, darkness, moon, etc) as well as other abstract concepts (weapons, love, war, peace, agriculture, heavens, hell, death, life, etc). These divinities would take the form of an <Omen Mark> to represent the divinity, which would be etched on the core of the Zelriteous at birth. For example, a Zelriteous could be born with the Omen Mark of Flames, which grants them flame based powers but also fire-resistance. They would be born usually into a family of other Fire type beings (also born with the Omen Mark of Flames) and live in the region of their clan (as those of the same Omen Marks tend to stay together, having developed their nations based on the Divinities). Some can inherit Omen Marks of other powers and Divinities or sub-divinities (demi-gods) or even develop their own Omen Marks (not associated with any specific divinity but their own unique power) which would appear on their own body like a tattoo. Following the battle against Redison and the absorption of Lumendel, Zenith was reborn as a human back in his home universe, while Solomon was born to become the ruler of the Zelriteous as the new God of Omens and born with his own unique Omen Mark <Solomon’s

Crown>. Their world would eventually fuse with the Xenithverse and new Omen marks would be born through the fusion of the Xenithian mana with their unique Engineered Divine power, now made organic as Omen Divine Power.

Atlas Xenarcheians: Ruled by Atlas Emperio, the God of Creation and Worldbearing, with the color scheme of white, gold, and platinum. These beings were created by Atlas (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis split into) and hold the unique powers of creation through the white holy power of creation and transformation. They are unique for their ivory colored blood as creations of Atlas, and with a white heart (which is the divine source of their White holy power). These beings are known to be artisans and philosophers at heart. They don't like to fight, but would much rather create items or toys or even languages, stories, elements, etc, anything that fancies them. Atlas was sent out as the first champion to take down Redison at UBC World. As soon as he crossed the border, his soul fragment of Lumencis left him and entered Xenarche, the soon to be completed vessel of Lumencis. Having no more allegiance to Lumencis (and never having had any as he did not want to conquer other worlds or absorb them into his own, like his species, he wanted to create for fun), when he met Redison, he proposed a challenge, to stage a battle against him, when in reality, he would just create opponents for Redison to fight. Following Redison's victory, Xenithia accepted Atlas into the Xenithverse, and transformed the holy power within him into a new power known as Arche (like Mana). Now all Atlas Xenarcheians wield White Arche to cast spells of creation or transmutation and live in the Xenithverse as the first species of the Xenarcheverse, which they now spend their lives happily creating and developing the Xenarcheverse for more arrivals to join them.

Nilverse Xenithians: Ruled by Nirvakali Redison. Based on Nirvakali, Ultra Beasts (from Pokemon), and Eternatus (from Pokemon), this champion was created from a future where I forced myself to go into the military when my heart didn't want it (as of 2025), which caused myself and Redison to fall into darkness and into the Nilverse. He was granted the ultimate power to destroy the world so war would be forever over, which took the form of the Unique Realm of <Xenith Dystopia> and now rules the Nilverse as champion. These beings live in the Nilverse, a Tier -11 universe that is thought to be considered the end, but it's not the end, as it can collapse even further and endlessly collapse. This endlessly collapsing universe has a very strange ecosystem of magical beings that can survive and thrive in this unstable dimension as they keep the balance in this universe with their powers.

Infiniteless Xenithians: Ruled by Nox Redison. Based on Nox Knight (from Kamen Rider Zeztz), the power of the Erase Capsem, and Inuniferous (a fake pokemon), this champion was created due to the heart demon inside me. Because my parents told me that if I went into teaching I would be wasting my degree and brains, I tried to force myself to do CS, AI, and consulting, so that my degree could make some money. However, during a recent call with a family friend, when I asked for advice about my resume, I supposedly got defensive, unable to take the criticism, and I didn't even know I did that. Apparently, it was because deep down, I really didn't want to do consulting, and trying to force my heart into it, caused it to bleed out and distort my nature, as if I was someone else. In this story, a version of Redison who had walked down this forced path in the future, had fallen into darkness and into the Infiniteless, where he was granted the powers of <Erase> to erase his path that made him miserable. He now rules as the champion of the Infiniteless and challenges Redison who almost walked down that path. His power of <Erase> allows him to erase color (and powers that the color provides), as well as the power to erase health, abilities, skills, concepts, etc, as well as his ultimate power <Void Clear>, an ability that can erase all existence. To <Erase> something means it disappears, but it is still possible to create the concept again from a higher being like Xenithia (Redison). His color scheme is greyscale (Black, Grey, White, and some orange). He holds the Unique Realm <Xenith Utopia> which gives him the ultimate power of <Void Clear> and other abilities. These beings live in the Infiniteless, a Tier -13 universe where the concept is so small and so null, there is no dimensionality that can even be thought of or represented for it. The Infiniteless is a universe where all things absorbed by nothing or all things that turn into nothing, are turned into something in the infiniteless.

Genis Xenarchians: Ruled by Zenith Arkheim, the god of peace and war (based on the god from the webcomic “The Dark Magician Transmigrates after 66,666 years”) with the color scheme of blue, navy, and gold (symbol to the right) and ruler of <The Holy Empire>. What if the <Lumencis Order> won the War of the Nations (Final Winter exams 2025), and became the supreme order, with Lumencis now the new creation deity instead of Xenithia after they destroyed the current order of creation, and created a new one with Lumencis as the head and creating a new universal energy known as <Holy Power>. However, due to universal destruction and recreation, Lumencis had no more power, to which in order to continue surviving, he split himself into many deities, with his main consciousness entering Zenith (the god of Peace and War). Each deity (form of Lumencis) has their own unique form of Holy Power and beings, each creating their own unique group of Xenithian-like beings powered by Holy Power known as the Xenarcheians (parallels to Xenithians). Genis has his own Genis Xenarcheians, powerful beings that hold a navy holy power in the form of Navy blood and a navy heart (the divine source of their holy power). These powerful beings wield the unique powers of ethereal blade summoning and ethereal weapon creation through holy power of many elemental energies and types. In their home realm, they are known to be beings of combat, enjoying battle whether in war, or in peacetimes, serving as protectors and guardians. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia cast out the soul of Lumencis within Zenith, blasting the soul to the incomplete vessel of Xenarche, granting him a new soul, and transforming all the holy power within him into Navy Arche (like mana). Now all Genis Xenarcheians wield Navy Arche to create their own ethereal weapons and blades and live as masters of battle and warriors in the Xenarcheverse.

Babylon Xenarcheians: Ruled by The Empress of Blessed Time, Liael, the champion of Babylon, the Goddess of Time and Space, with the color scheme of silver, lavender, and blue. Liael is originally Michaele’s avatar warrior, but in this universe created by Lumencis’s holy empire, Liael becomes the champion and avatar of Babylon. These beings were created by Babylon (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis split into) and hold the unique powers of time manipulation and time powers through the silver holy power of time. They are unique for their silver colored blood as creations of Babylon and with a silver heart (the divine source of their holy power). These beings each have their own powerful <Time Power> that grants them their own unique skills, abilities, boosts in power, or other reality-altering powers granted by their holy power. Examples include the <Time of Flames> which boosts all fire power by a hundredfold and allows for the caster to change the properties of flames at will with less cost, or <Time of the Dragon>, where dragon energy is maxed out, allowing for powerful attacks and manifestations of draconic power. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Babylon into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within her into Silver Arche (like Mana). Now, all Babylon Xenarcheians wield Silver Arche to unleash their newly enhanced <Time Powers> in the new Xenarcheverse, and live to better their universe through this power.

Khulun Xenarcheians: Ruled by Eternal Magick, Chiara Ipheion, the champion of Khulun, the Goddess of Life and Nature, with the color scheme of emerald, magenta, and black, and wielding a powerful magic staff scythe. Chiara/Chiron is Melody's avatar (from the Mobb) but in this universe created by Lumencis's holy empire, Chiara becomes the avatar and champion of Khulun instead of being the master of shadows. In this universe, Chiron/Chiara never actually met his friends that would break him out of his shell to join the brotherhood, but would instead stay in isolation in his tower learning magic, eventually discovering the powers of life force and the powers of Eternity, the origin of life through the cycle of life and death, eventually contracting with Khulun as the Goddess of Eternity. These beings were created by Khulun (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis split into) and hold the unique powers of nature and magick casting through the emerald holy power of magic, life force, and natural energy. They are unique for their emerald colored blood as creations of Khulun, and with a green heart (which is the divine source of their emerald holy power). These powerful beings enjoy mastering new forms of spells and magic such as Healing magick Aexlunus, Enhance magick Starylking, and their strongest form, the Eternal Gran Magick, Segre Ljos. There are countless more forms of magick that manipulate energy from the origin of life which is what their holy power taps into. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Khulun into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within her into Emerald Arche (like Mana). All Khulun Xenarcheians now wield Emerald Arche to cast and create new forms of magick spells and live in the new Xenarcheverse.

Oblivion Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Savant of Shadows, Raj Nord, the champion of Oblivion, the God of Darkness and Nothingness, with the color scheme of black, orange, and violet, and wielding the powerful forces of <Alchemix>. Raj is originally Taj's avatar (from the Mobb) but in this universe created by Lumencis's Holy Empire, Raj becomes the avatar and champion of Oblivion instead of becoming the monarch of flames originally. These beings were created by Oblivion (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis split into) and hold the unique powers of <Alchemix>, a forbidden dark power that utilizes the power of darkness and black holy power to create and combine demonic beasts made of darkness and nothingness to design the ideal life form, ideal ability, skill, item, etc (based on Alchemix from Cardfight! Vanguard DivineZ). They are unique for their black colored blood as creations of Oblivion, and with a black heart (which is the divine source of their black holy power). These beings are not really into combat as much as other species are, as they would much rather create new items and beings through Alchemix and Alchemix technologies. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Oblivion into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within him into Black Arche (like Mana). All Oblivion Xenarcheians now wield Black Arche to cast and create more powerful Alchemix techniques and create new powerful items and beings and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Drianan Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Dancing Flames, Alice Xandra, the champion of Driana, the Goddess of Flames, Love, and Passion, with the color scheme of orange, gold, and pink, and wielding the powerful twin chakrams <Eternal Flames>. Alice Xandra is Alex's other avatar from the Mobb but in this universe created by Lumencis's Holy Empire, she mastered the powers of flames instead of serving as an ally of Jet (Alex's other avatar). These beings were created by Driana (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis split into) and hold the unique powers of <Blaze>, a powerful fire created by the orange holy power within them. This powerful flame can take any form and property but also can transform into a new property depending on certain combinations of formulas added to the flames, creating a wild controlled chaos truly representing the nature of fire. They are unique for their orange colored blood as creations of Driana, and with an orange heart (which is the divine source of their orange holy power). These beings are known as keepers of the hearth, keeping the holy flame of Driana burning in their temples, which boost their holy power. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Driana into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within her into Orange Arche (like Mana). All Drianan Xenarcheians now wield Orange Arche to wield a new enhanced form of <Blaze> and use their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Nihilanthians: Based on the Requiem Project from Beyblade Burst Evolution and Arrangement System from Beyblade Metal Masters. The Neo-Admin, in their new attempt to create a super soldier to defeat Redison, had decided to go in a different direction by creating a champion using my own information (since the UBC Admin would have my info and not Redison's specifically), and created a new artificial being made of their own Neo-Admin Superior Mana (a special form of engineered mana that the Neo-Admin created through combining with magic energy from the magic schools that appeared), and designed this champion to be the perfect partner for me instead of Redison. He is known as the Zero of Salvation (based on Zero of Salvation, Blangdmire Fantome) and master of the Sigils known as Nihilanth. He was created using the original Arrangement System (from Beyblade Metal Masters) plus Neo-Admin Superior Mana, which utilizes the unique system of Sigils to call upon Superior mana to cast spells, grant abilities, skills, etc. These beings are ruled by Nihilanth (one of William's new partners), having lost to Redison in battle, and therefore being considered a failed project, was abandoned by the Neo-Admin. Redison would rebirth Nihilanth to rule over the new Nihilanthian species that were born with Superior Mana, and through the powers of Xenithia, reformed Superior Mana (Xenithia branded) for the Nihilanthians to use.

Eskamal Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Wind Scaled Lance, Cyrus Jade, the champion of Eskamal, the God of wind and change, with the color scheme of light jade green, silver, sky blue, and white, and wielding the legendary Wind Scaled Lance of Eskamal. Cyrus is actually a blue puffle knight owned by Lee (of the Mobb) who after reaching the pinnacle of swordsmanship, fell in love with the inventor and knight Baron and lived happily ever after, but in this universe, Cyrus never met his lover Baron (Aryan's puffle) and having mastered the sword and never finding his true purpose, decided to learn the art of the spear, eventually contracting with Eskamal to become an unrivaled master of the spear. These beings were created by Eskamal (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis split into) and wield the powers of the <Breeze>, an ability that can transform and take any property or form depending on the wielder. For example, some are able to use <Breeze> to create a hot wind or cold wind to freeze or burn opponents, some are able to use it for flight, creating magic wings to fly, others can use it to create massive walls or barriers of wind, or even use the breeze to accelerate or slow time itself. They can be uniquely identified by their jade green blood and jade green heart (the divine source of their holy power that gives the power of <Breeze>). Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Eskamal into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within him into Green Arche (like Mana). All Eskamal Xenarcheians now wield Green Arche to cast and create more powerful techniques utilizing <Breeze> and create new powerful technologies and skills and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Brahmensian Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Dragon Sword God, Baron Aurion, the champion of Brahmensia, the God of Dragons and Destruction, with the color scheme of gold, black, and brown, and wielding the legendary axe-sword Skysplitter. Baron is actually a brown inventor puffle knight owned by Aryan (of the Mobb), who after becoming the greatest inventor in the world, would later find his new true purpose, his love and bond with Cyrus, the blue knight (Lee's puffle), but in this universe, he never met Cyrus, and on a journey to discover new powers and items to develop, he discovered the power of the Dragons and contracted with Brahmensia. These beings were created by Brahmensia (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis splits into) and wield the powers of <Draghart>, a power created by their uniquely golden blood and golden heart (the divine source of their golden holy power), which holds the power of dragonification and dragon breath powers, specifically through using the power of the dragons to unleash great destructive spells and abilities. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Brahmensia into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within him into the Golden Arche (like Mana). All Brahmensian Xenarcheians now wield Golden Arche to cast and create more powerful techniques utilizing <Draghart> and create new powerful technologies and skills and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Bestian Xenarcheians: Ruled by Lord Thunderbird, Sparrow Foudre, the champion of Bestia, the God of Storms and Beasts, with the color scheme of yellow, black, and white, and wielding the powerful knives of Foudre. Sparrow was originally a green puffle owned by Freddy (of the Mobb) who mastered archery and swordsmanship as captain of the Veilguard, but in this universe, after getting struck by lightning while Freddy was in Colombia, Sparrow made a contract with Bestia who would save him and grant him powers in exchange for Sparrow becoming his champion. These beings were created by Bestia (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis splits into) and wield the powers of <Wyldhart>, a power created by the storming yellow blood and yellow heart (the divine source of their yellow holy power), which holds the powers of beastification, beast instincts, and enhanced reflexes and control over electricity, with all beings having super speed, super strength, and super sight (able to see things in slow motion). Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Bestia into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within him into Yellow Arche (like Mana). All Bestian Xenarcheians now wield yellow Arche to cast and create more powerful techniques and technologies utilizing the electricity generated by <Wyldhart> and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Miserean Xenarcheians: Ruled by the ice hearted sharpshooter, Leandra, the champion of Miserea, the Goddess of the Sea and ice, wielding the legendary arrowgun Amphitrite (based on Sharpshooter from Kingdom Hearts). I never actually gave Leane an avatar (because when I was giving the puffles, she never got one because I gave the puffles before I met her), but Leandra is a blue puffle I would probably give Leane. In this universe, Leandra was a ranger and master huntress of the forest, but one winter night, she would fall into a frozen lake saving her friend, and freeze to death, but through Miserea, she was saved, and contracted with her as thanks for saving her life, becoming Miserea's huntress and champion. These beings were created by Miserea (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis splits into) and wield the powers of <Ocean>, a power created by the surging blue blood and blue heart (the divine source of their blue/teal holy power), where each being has their own "inner ocean" within them and that they can access through their mind, where different islands can form, granting different abilities that they can wield. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Miserea into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within her into Blue/Teal Arche (like Mana). All Miserean Xenarcheians now wield blue/teal Arche to cast and create more powerful techniques and technologies utilizing the natural energy generated by their <Ocean> and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Almandelan Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Spear of the Heavens, Rhea Almajastar, the champion of Almandela, the Goddess of the Stars and Dreams, and wielding the astral spear <Eclipse>. Rhea was originally a red flaming bladedancer that was Maja's avatar (from the Mobb), however, in this universe, Rhea was not a martial artist of the Murim, but instead a mage in the magic tower having studied magic and learned the art of the spear. It was through a celestial encounter with the Goddess of the Stars and through her dreams that she learned the powers of dream magic, star casting, and the fusion of this with spearmanship. These beings were created by Almandela (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis splits into) and wield the powers of <Zodiac>, a power created by their astral purple blood and purple heart (the divine source of their purple/lavender holy power), where each are able to summon their own "constellation" created by their magic in their realm of dreams, and call upon each star to grant them a power boost, item, form, or ability. When all stars are linked together in their constellation, they can transform into their ultimate form. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Almandela into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within her into Purple/Lavender Arche (like Mana). All Almandelan Xenarcheians now wield purple/lavender Arche to cast and create more powerful techniques and technologies utilizing the astral and dream energy generated by their <Zodiac> and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Suryas: Ruled by Red Requiem (Surya Requiem). Based on the Requiem Project from Beyblade Burst Evolution and Arrangement System from Beyblade Metal Masters. The AMS, in their attempt to create a super soldier to defeat Redison, had decided to take Redison's information into a new system they developed known as the Requiem Project, and using this data in combination with AI, created a new artificial being made of the AMS Thunder Mana (a special form of engineered mana that the AMS created through combining with the magic energy from the magic schools that appeared), designed and built to use my full power (since Redison is my avatar) (supposedly). He wields the <Void Gear> and <No-Name> (keyblades) and has a form based on Dragonic Overlord, The Rebirth. He was later however defeated by Redison during a battle to become my partner. Redison would then use his abilities of re-creation and re-create Requiem to become a new powerful being that was free of the AMS but would use the powers of the Requiem Project for good. He evolved to take a form based on Surya of the Southwest (from the manhwa "Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint"), with 4 arms, master of 4 swords (based on the Void Gear and No Name but now enhanced with the flames of the cosmic sun), and master of the powers of the cosmic sun. He also inherited a third eye that utilizes the powers of the 12 suns within him and can be used to control time and space. He would use this power to rule over all new beings created by the Requiem Project data, but now all are enhanced with the powers of 12 suns within each being.

Akenra Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Blazing Sword of Ra, Osiris Rex, the champion of Ra, the God of the Sun and Light, and wielder of the Sword of Akenra. Rex (King) is actually my red puffle that I originally got for Taj (but kept instead as I never got the chance to give it to him in the end) and represents my membership in the Mobb. Rex/King was originally the King of Fantasy and was once Emperor Romulus of the puffle empire, but in this universe, he wasn't an emperor but a Pharaoh of a mighty empire that worshipped the Sun. He was granted immortality, as long as the sun never burnt out and as long as Akenra lived, he would live. These beings were created by Ra (one of the 12 deities that Lumencis splits into) and wield the powers of <Soleil>, a power created by their flaming red blood and flame heart (the divine source of their fire red holy power), where they are able to create their own sun of powerful holy light, and manipulate this sun to generate powerful magic armor and weapons made of the sun, but also to use this sun in spells of healing, purification, or extremely powerful fire spells. Those of a high level are also able to even manipulate light and change the color of an opponent's holy power temporarily or change their own holy power temporarily or even manipulate different colored holy powers temporarily. Following the battle against Redison, Xenithia accepted Ra into the Xenithverse, cast out the soul fragment of Lumencis, granted a new soul, and transformed the holy power within him into Red Arche (like Mana). All Akenra Xenarcheians now wield red/crimson Arche to cast and create more powerful techniques and technologies utilizing the blazing and limitless light energy generated by their <Soleil> and live in the new Xenarcheverse, using their powers to make the Xenarcheverse better.

Kaironseiran Xenithians: I had a dream, where Shobe was dying of some disease in the hospital, and that I had 2 younger twin sisters (younger than Shobe) but both looked like Shobe. Their names were Cactus Candy and Cactus (something else I can't remember). But they went by nicknames Kailey and Cassie. However, the dream felt real, which made me think that dreams really are indeed just windows into my lives in other universes. So that this universe does indeed exist. Assuming that in this world, I also created Xenithians, Redison had inherited Shobe's weapons and having not been raised with Shobe for as long, changed my life and Redison's life, changing him to become the Sword Emperor, with no wings or celestial blades of wings but having mastered sword qi control to wield many swords to slash his opponents at light speed. In this universe, Redison Kaironseira, having experienced suffering, evolved to wield the Origin of Blood Flames, a crimson colored flame as his primary flame, and mastered the power of <Severance> and <Bloodline>, with his own unique ability <Progenitor>. In this universe, all beings created by Redison in this universe learned the power of <Severance>, a power that sacrifices certain memories or bonds, or even abilities and skills, and "severs" it, and when sacrificed, unleashes a trade in power, gaining an ability imbued into their blood and soul, but with this destructive power, it can lead to possible rationality loss. Another power is the power of <Bloodline> which bonds those of family and those who share the same bloodline to link abilities together, or unleash a <Bloodline Skill> or <Bloodline Ability> depending on the bloodlines.

Camellian Xenithians: From the universe of the twins (Cassie and Kailey), Cassie grew up as someone who enjoyed martial arts and sports, becoming super athletic, having gotten a black belt in Taekwondo, and her avatar reflects this through her mastery of <Kata>, a power similar to sword qi and fighting spirit that can be used to not only enhance the body in different builds, but also boost their attacks, skills, abilities, and bolster their skill tree based on their fighting spirit. In this universe, all beings created and imagined by Cassie wield the powers of <Kata>, with unique skill trees of their own bolstered and built by their <Kata> and their own fighting spirit and experiences in competition. For example, Camellia mastered the <Sword Saintess> build, where her <Kata> took the form of a hardened sharpened sword energy around her blade, but also an armor to block from other attacks so she can focus purely on pure attack. Ruled by Cassie's avatar Camellia, a red, copper, and white colored puffle that grew up with Cassie.

Wisteria Xenithians: From the universe of the twins (Cassie and Kailey), Kailey grew up as someone who enjoyed dance and reading, not as athletic as her twin sister but she enjoyed being at home reading more often and art, whether it was drawing or painting, which reflected in her avatar. Ruled by Wisteria, a lavender, blue, and black puffle that grew up with Kailey, and developed the powers of <Aura>. In this universe, all Wisteria Xenithians mastered the powers of <Aura> which manipulates their inner <Skill Tree> through elements of learning new knowledge, new art styles and forms of expression, imagining new abstract concepts, and through different styles of dance and music. Aura is a more creative, soft form of magic that these Xenithians would master.

February: Grand Finale (Last term), Deities

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 11: Divine Showdown
    - Chapter 12: Divine Showdown II

Chapter 11: Divine Showdown: Champions of the Gods, raise your weapons, then cry out the call to battle that will rattle the heavens itself! Archeus or Xenath? Lumencis or Xenarch? Requiem or Apex? DIVINE! The time has come! Now begins a battle with the world at stake! The battle of the gods for the rightful place of champion and supreme god commences in the <Divine Showdown>, using UBC World as the neutral battlefield for this great tournament to determine celestial supremacy. Meanwhile, I have 2 midterms, PSYC 365 (2/3/26) and PSYC 350 (2/10/26) as well as an interview for the JET programme (2/4/26). As midterm season begins and the path to my future begins to appear more clearly, a great battle roars as champions battle for supremacy. The battle against Ultima Requiem and Redison (with Ultima Deus) resulted in a loss (supposedly), with Ultima Requiem taking Redison's energy and a fragment of his existence, and Redison being unable to fight after most of his energy was taken during the battle. Being returned back to his plush body to recharge, Archeus and the other Archethians took pity on him and worked together to recharge him with new energy, challenging him to battle in the Mind Domain. This was all in preparation for Redison's next battle against Xirus of the Neo-Admin. Following the battles in the Mind Domain and the alliance with Arceuson/Archeus. Meanwhile, as Chinese New Year approaches, the mystical Moon Gate opens, and the Heavenly Sovereign, another creator deity like Xenithia, appears with his champions to challenge Xenithia in the Divine Showdown.

Archeus (Arceuson): The evolution and current form of Arceus (the puffle), once the most powerful supreme puffle of all elements and the puffle creator. He evolved now forming the Higher Order, where other puffles evolved to become supreme deities and entities in the new universe he created.

Zanoan Archethians: What if Arceus (the original first all-powerful puffle) was the supreme creator deity and became my protagonist known as Arceuson. Arceuson would create all forms of creations and would evolve the first 10 color puffles to each become rulers of their own domains. Zanoah, the red puffle that evolved to become the <Lord of Valor> rules his realm of majesty and combat. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus (the symbol on the right, based on the symbol of the Mythischs from Cardfight! Vanguard DivineZ) whether marked on them like a birth mark or glowing above them or behind them. In this realm, Zanoah rules over all Archethians in this domain, all of whom established different kingdoms and nations, each with their own unique <Flag>. During battle, they raise their <Flag> which gives them a boost in their unique nation-specific abilities and skills. Different <Flags> give different abilities, as there are also special flags representing different groups or even custom magic flags as well. Not all Zanoan Archethians are “red” but they are represented by their Red Lord of Valor. Zanoah himself (as the chosen champion of Archeus) has a unique <Alpha Skill> (like the Divine Skill from Cardfight! Vanguard DivineZ), based on his title known as the <Alpha of Valor>. All Zanoan Archethians have the rare unique element of <Valor> which grants them boosts in attack power and unique to their abilities.

Zaoran Archethians: Ruled by the green Alpha/Lord of Eternity, Zaora, the first green puffle created by Archeus and rose to become ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Eternity>. He and all other Zaoran Archethians wield powerful magic created by the nutrients of the Tree of Eternity settled in his realm which takes the form of the unique element of <Eternity>. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Zaoran Archethians are “Green” but they are represented by the Lord of Eternity, Zaora, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> which grants him a great boost in health and regeneration at a near immortal level. Zaoran Archethians have mastered the magic of life from the Tree of Eternity and manipulate life force to grow plants and control their movement, heal or regenerate themselves or others, or drain life energy from opponents.

Xenatheans: (Symbol on right) According to one of my old monster books (likely sometime in middle school, so around 2017 or 2018), Xenathia (not Xenithia) was the origin home of all puffle monsters. Infinite world of magic with constantly changing worlds, spirit worlds, infinite dimensions, internet worlds, mirror dimensions, etc. Also based on <Heaven>, the planet from the Manhwa “Infinite Mage”, a place where not only is the mechanics of magic different due to the concepts of the Life Stream and Elixirs (crystallized forms of the Life Stream), but also how many techniques of magic such as the Spirit Zone (where the caster uses their own spirit energy within them) vs the spirit force (using the connection to the elemental spirits of nature to cast elemental spells) and the concepts of schema and the advanced technologies of their world. In addition, in this realm, the Xenatheans believe themselves to be the original and the true beings, while those of Xenithia are “false”, fake or mere imitations of the Xenatheans. Each realm has their own unique sets of powers and abilities, with different primary elements.

- Drazonian: Ruled by the Red Progenitor of Prominence, and the King of Fantasy, Drazon, this powerful beings hail from the Xenathverse, a universe ruled and created by Xenathia, more specifically, they hail from the realm of the Surface, an endless realm of seas, mountains, snow, forests, deserts, lava fields, volcanoes, crystalline lands, massive technologically advanced cities, lands made of candy, or clouds, etc. The endless realm of fantasy where there is an infinite amount of world (as if the world is never ending, one flat map but infinite). Portal travel in this case is the standard to travel from region to region and return back to their original homes. In this realm, the main form of power is <Mana> (but a different kind of Mana compared to those of the Xenithverse), as their mana is created from the magical energies of the surface realm. They also use this power to create their own <Mana Blades> (based on the Etheraal Blades from Kingdom Hearts) which can take any form depending on the user. Each <Mana Blade> is actually a manifestation of their core power, and has a unique name linked to their soul. Drazon's Mana Blade is known as <Prominence>.

- Zettanis: Ruled by the Purple Progenitor of Zetta, and the Queen of Cyberspace, Zatas, these powerful beings hail from the Xenathverse, a universe ruled and created by Xenathia, but more specifically, they hail from Cyberspace, a limitless digital realm representing the virtual world, where anything can become "reality" in the cyberspace through the power of <Data>, which is their form of energy (like Mana) which powers their magic, their technologies, their powers of creation, and their Ethereal Blades (known as Zeta Blades in this realm) which can transform into any tool or weapon they need or want. Like the Drazonians, all <Zeta Blades> have a unique codename that is linked to them only, such as how Zatas holds the <Zetta> blade. All powers from this realm is unique (so no fire, water, etc but completely different unique powers)

- Nozard: Ruled by the Orange Progenitor of Parallel and ruler of the Mirror Dimension, Nozarus, these powerful beings hail from the Mirror Dimension of the Xenathverse, a universe ruled and created by Xenathia, and like the mirror dimension of the Xenithverse, is a mirror reflection with strange and different magical laws that separate them from their counterpart. In this realm, the beings of the Mirror Dimension of the Xenathverse wield magic and Ethereal blades made of <Anam> (the mirror of Mana), an energy very similar to Mana but like the strange laws of the mirror dimension, <Anam> works different in regards to spells and weapons, and has different effects and properties for different abilities and powers.

- Dreadhow: Ruled by the Black Progenitor of Lunatic and ruler of the Realm of Darkness (aka the Shadow Realm), Dread, these powerful beings hail from the Shadow Realm/Realm of Darkness of the Xenathverse, a universe ruled and created by Xenathia, and like the Realm of Darkness in the Xenithverse, this realm of darkness is a place where evil spirits and forces are trapped in their own prison worlds but this realm also serves as a place for them to redeem themselves, strengthen their powers and apply it to the forces of good to fight evil. In this realm, there are also wardens and those descended from the evil forces and the wardens who live together and all mastered the power of <Shadows> (a power akin to Mana) which utilizes the dark energy in the Realm of Darkness to create shadow soldiers, create shadow weapons, or borrow or copy the powers of others through the shadows. Those evil forces who are in redemption would learn the powers of the shadows as the shadows cleanse their dark negative energies and transforms it into shadow power. These beings wield Ethereal Blades (Shadow Blades) which can transform into anything they need or want and is linked to their soul.

- Eldwyne: Ruled by the Bronze Progenitor of the Absolute and ruler of the Timeless Realm (or the realm outside of time itself), Eldar, these powerful beings hail from the Timeless realm of the Xenathverse, a universe ruled and created by Xenathia, and like the Timeless realm of the Xenithverse, this realm is outside the timeline and manages time and the timelines that are created from infinite decisions, creating countless alternate timelines and worlds and organized into a massive tree, being managed by the Eldwyne. All Eldwyne hold the power of <Vortex>, a power similar to mana, and is used to create their <Vortex Blades> (based on the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts) which can take any form that the user needs and is linked to their soul. Their <Vortex Blades> also have a special ability, as all beings who use <Vortex> all have a special power, 24 Traits/Attributes (representing each hour in a day) that is stored in their soul (and their Vortex Blade) which can each be unlocked as they evolve and grow and even when the trait/attribute is unlocked, it can evolve further to become more powerful. Each of the 24 Traits/Attributes has one unique form and one unique skill that can be used once per battle (as it needs to be recharged in the Timeless Realm). Eldar wields his own unique <Vortex Blade: Absolute>, a powerful blade that can wield any 24 Attributes/Traits aside from his own.

- Asarven: Ruled by the White Progenitor of Echoes and Empress of the Spirit World, Arven, these powerful beings hail from the Spirit Realm of the Xenathverse, a universe created and ruled by Xenathia, and like the Spirit World of the Xenithverse, this realm is home to the spirits of those who passed on. Many here have the option to return back through reincarnation or rebirth in another world, but many actually stay in the Spirit World, gathering knowledge and energy of the spirits known as <Spirit power> which took the form of energy as they learned the powers, stories, and abilities, and histories of each of the spirits and legends in the spirit realm. Many of those with high levels of spirit power are able to call upon manifestations of the spirits themselves, wield weapons and skills from those spirits they inherited from, and even create new fusion techniques and abilities using the power of the spirits. This <Spirit Power> is manifested in the form of <Spirit Blades> (based on the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts), which can transform into any form and any weapon depending on the wielder.

- Vallskar: Ruled by the Pink Progenitor of Rumination and Queen of the Dream world, Rumi, these powerful beings hail from the Dream world of the Xenathverse, a universe created and ruled by Xenathia, and like the Dream World of the Xenithverse, this realm is home to all the dreams that humans and Xenathians have alike, and the manifestation of these dreams take form in this realm, creating new beings or opening gateways to alternate universes where these dreams are actually the reality, therefore having the dream world serve as a hub of the multiverse. In this realm, these beings wield <Oneiros> (similar to Mana), a power that utilizes the energy of dreams, imagination, and even nightmares, and can transform it into any manifestations whether it is spells, items, creatures, powers, etc. They wield <Oneiro Blades> (based on the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts) which they use to channel their <Oneiro> to cast spells, wield any weapon, or manifest any forms of dreams/nightmares.

- Irinthia: Ruled by the Green Progenitor of Terminus and Emperor of The Reverse aka the Realm of Twilight, Ouroboros, these powerful beings hail from the Realm of Endless Twilight (the reverse of our world) of the Xenathverse, a universe created and ruled by Xenathia, and like the Reverse of the Xenithverse, this realm is home to beings that evolved to live in a realm of twilight where night is the “day” and day is the “night”. In this strange realm, the main form of energy here is known as <Aura>, a power similar to Mana and is used to create their own <Aura Blades> (like the Kingdom Heart Ethereal Blades), which they use to cast spells, transform it into any weapon or form they desire or need, and use <Aura> energy. Each <Aura Blade> has a unique name and is linked to the user by the soul.

- Selmyra: Ruled by the Blue Progenitor of Dominion and Ruler of the Endless Sea, Sebastian, these powerful beings hail from the Realm of the Endless Sea, a realm similar to the one in the Xenithverse, where in this universe, similar to the Empire of Fantasy, this realm is one endless expansive world with an endless ocean (more ocean than land), countless underwater kingdoms and cities, and an infinite number of islands, with each island having unique features, unique cultures, and civilizations. All civilizations and all beings in this realm use the powers of <Essence> (similar to Mana) in a raw form such as the <Essence of Flame>, <Essence of the Wind>, <Essence of the Sea> (the most common), as well as their own unique <Essence Blades> (based on the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts), which can take any form and wield the power of <Essences> depending on the user and their culture and experiences.

- Aurelwyn: Ruled by the Yellow Progenitor of Infinity and King of the Limitless Sky, Skye, these powerful beings hail from the Realm of the Limitless Sky, a realm similar to the one in the Xenithverse, where in this universe, similar to the Empire of Fantasy, this realm is one endless expansive world (no planets no space no borders, etc) with an endless sky, no oceans and no ground, but instead has endless floating islands (think like the Aether Dimension on Minecraft) where each floating island has their own natural elemental features, civilizations and cultures, and their own level of technologies and magic. In this realm, all beings master the powers of <Aether> (like mana), which can take countless forms from raw elemental energy to raw conceptual energy to manifestations in the form of <Aether Blades> (like the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts), which can take any form, any weapon or tool, and can utilize <Aether> at a max efficiency. Each <Aether Blade> is unique and linked to the soul of the user. This realm is also home to many countless floating sky ships and travelers that explore the islands.

- Agarthan: Ruled by the Silver Progenitor of Utopia and the King of Agartha, Brahmatma, these powerful beings hail from the realm of Agartha, the mythical underground world below the surface of Earth with connections to Norse and Hindi mythology, with countless ancient super advanced cities and civilizations with advanced magical technologies and abilities. These beings have mastered manipulating energy of the earth, crystals and all minerals and metals, and even with unique portals and spaceships to travel to other worlds that they have established kingdoms and empires already. In this realm, all beings master the powers of <Eldritch Power> or <Fae Energy>, two energies very similar to each other and similar to Mana, which can take many forms, be naturally occurring or created, and is usually manifested and manipulated through <Eldritch Blades> (based on the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts), which can take any form as desired by the user or any tool or item to best use Eldritch or Fae energy. Each <Eldritch Blade> is unique and linked to the soul of the user, with Brahmatma owning the powerful <Eldritch Blade: Utopia>.

- Yggriandel: Ruled by the Golden Progenitor of Overlord and the Overlord of the World Tree, Odin, these powerful beings hail from the worlds born on the World Tree (based on the World Tree Yggdrasil from Norse Mythology) but also The Tree of Imagery (from the Manhwa “The World After the Fall”) with worlds like Earth on the Roots, the trunk containing countless realms of powerful beings, the branches with even more worlds with even more powerful super beings, and even the nest at the very top. In this universe (and in all worlds as part of the World Tree), all beings in this realm use energy known as <World Power>, a power similar to Mana, that is found in all realms and is the sustaining fundamental energy that created and sustains the existence of a world. Each being has their own <World Power> and based on their beliefs and experiences, given they amass enough of their own <World Power> through their actions, they can grow their world power enough to create their own Unique World born from the World Tree, with their own beings that also wield <World Power>, as the creator of that world would achieve “Godhood”. This form of <World Power> manifestation takes the forms of <World Blades> (based on the Ethereal Blades from Kingdom Hearts), which can take any form the user desires and can transform into any weapon or tool to manifest and unleash any powerful super abilities or skills powered by <World Power>.

Ultima Requiem: Based on the Arrangement System from Beyblade Metal Masters and the Requiem Project from Beyblade Burst Evolution. The AMS, in their new attempt to create a super soldier to defeat Redison, had decided to take my information into the new Requiem system empowered by Demiurge Requiem, and using this data in combination with AI, created a new artificial being made of pure Engineered Mana. However, this being was not only upgraded compared to Red V1/Requiem but created more based on Redison’s design, abilities, and personality (instead of mine), even creating its own A.I. and consciousness based on Redison’s personality (that it knows of) and filling in the gaps using data based on a “hero” character (Sora from Kingdom Hearts). The AMS programmed Ultima to search for me (William) and to defeat Redison to take his rightful place as my partner instead of Redison. Ultima is designed based on Sora Ultimate Form (from Kingdom Hearts 3), and his wielding of the Ultima Weapon (the strongest of all keyblades), where his weapon is able to transform into different forms (like the other keyblades) but also wield all magical keyblades

Ultima Xenithians: What if Ultima Requiem had defeated Redison in the Divine Showdown? With Xenithia now destroyed and replaced by Demiurge of the AMS, the AMS becomes the supreme ruling organization as they control Demiurge (the creator), who creates a new universe after the Xenithverse rejects the control of the AMS and disappears (with the death of Xenithia). Ultima is my partner and the champion of this new universe that Demiurge creates. As a writer and creator, my new story universe is the Ultimaverse (created by Demiurge), but Ultima would begin to achieve his own sense of sovereignty and challenge Demiurge for supremacy. In this story, he would defeat Demiurge and the AMS, and become the supreme divinity of the Ultimaverse, becoming Ultima Deus, and would discover the Xenithverse and Ultima of the AMS in the prime timeline. Ultima Deus would join Redison to fight Ultima Requiem and in this universe, succeeded and with Redison as the main supreme, would join the Ultimaverse with the Xenithverse. These beings now wield a fusion of Xenithian energy and Ultima energy and live in a universe with magic and technologies powered by this fusion of energy Kalahari Archethians: Ruled by the blue Alpha/Lord of Wisdom, Kalaharius, the first blue puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Wisdom>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are chasers of knowledge and wisdom, constantly studying and researching new forms of magic, developing magical formulas to speed up magic, creating new magical technologies, new methods to cast spells, new forms of magic, new runes, etc. They are excellent spell casters, and this element of <Wisdom> grants them a near-limitless storage for knowledge of spells and magic, but also the ability to learn new magic super quickly. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Kalahari Archethians are “blue” but they are represented by the Lord of Wisdom, Kalahari, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Eridun Archethians: Ruled by the yellow Alpha/Lord of Bonds, Eridu, the first yellow puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Friendship and Bonds>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known as peacemakers and are known to be great leaders of guilds as those who are able to meet many folks and due to their charismatic nature, have many trusted friends. This is due to their unique element of <Friendship>, a power that grants unique abilities such as their heightened charisma but also the ability to share abilities with their trusted allies and share power boosts or boost their power depending on how many allies they have (through the power of <Link>). All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Eridun Archethians are “yellow” but they are represented by the Lord of Bonds, Eridu, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Achaian Archethians: Ruled by the orange Alpha/Lord of Strength, Achaia, the first orange puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Strength>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known to be warriors (like the Zanoan Archethians) but also play more of a role as guardians, protectors, and trainers. This is due to their unique element of <Strength/Force>, a power that grants them super strength and super durability (near invincibility) which they can apply to their abilities in the form of creating a domain of absolute force control and many other skills. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Achaian Archethians are “orange” but they are represented by the Lord of Strength, Achaia, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Akakdori Archethians: Ruled by the purple Alpha/Lord of Wonder, Akakdor, the first purple puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Wonder>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known as master magicians and entertainers as masters of spell casting in the elements of spatial and illusion magic. This is due to their unique element of <Wonder>, a power that grants them abilities such as being able to shrink and grow at will, create magic bubbles with strange properties, portal creation, and more. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Akakdori Archethians are "purple" but they are represented by the Lord of Wonder, Akakdor, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Xalothian Archethians: Ruled by the black Alpha of Power, Xaloth, the first black puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Power>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known as powerful warriors and spellcasters that are known to travel as mercenaries. This is due to their unique element of <Revenger>, a power that grants them the ability to summon a jet-black dark energy from their own body (their personal negative feelings) in combination with the dark energy from their surroundings. This energy can then be shaped and formed into anything such as powerful weapons and spells. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Xalothian Archethians are "black" but they are represented by the Lord of Power, Xaloth, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Ashkelonian Archethians: Ruled by the white Alpha of Miracles, Ashkelon, the first white puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Miracles>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known as powerful priests, healers, and angels. This is due to their unique element of <Blessings> / <Miracle>, a power that allows them to create wishes and miracles that can grant them legendary miraculous skills and traits, such as invincibility, the power of flight, the ability to resurrect and heal anyone or anything and the power to restore anything back to full condition. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Ashkelonian Archethians are "white" but they are represented by the Lord of Miracles, Ashkelon, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Abaskuni Archethians: Ruled by the pink Alpha of Love, Abaska, the first pink puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of her domain as the <Lord of Love>. She and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known as powerful mages and masters of the study of magic biology, specifically focused on the core and the heart of a being and how magic energy is absorbed and flows through the body to be used in spells and abilities. This is due to their unique element of <Heart>, a power that grants many different abilities and buffs such as increased health, controlled mana flow (whether increased or decreased) or the ability to control another's mana flow, and the ability to create multiple "hearts" within their body to store different or more mana to unleash more spells and abilities or fusion magic spells with the different forms of mana. They are also able to manipulate the emotions of others (pulling on heart strings). All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Abaskuni Archethians are "pink" but they are represented by the Lord of Love, Abaska, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Ashtaron Archethians: Ruled by the brown Alpha of Order, Ashtaroth, the first brown puffle created by Archeus and rose to become the ruler of his domain as the <Lord of Order>. He and all other Archethians of this realm/region are known as powerful judges and enforcers of the Order/Laws of the realm. This is due to their unique element of <Order>, a power that grants them the ability/skill to create different “Laws” or rules of a domain or rules/commandments for themselves that can greatly boost their power in the face of different enemies. For example, one can use their Order element to create <Order: Swordless> (no swords allowed in the domain), <Order: Elemental Void> (no elemental magic in battle), <Order: Defenseless> (no defense or blocking), etc but also commandments like <Order: Underdog> (if opponent is stronger, power is boosted), and more. All Archethians have the symbol of Archeus marked on them. Not all Ashtaron Archethians are “brown” but they are represented by the Lord of Order Ashtaroth, who has a unique <Alpha Skill> granted by Archeus.

Radagon Xenithians: Based on the Arrangement System from Beyblade Metal Masters. In an alternate universe where the puffle monsters were indeed alive and the defenders against evil aliens attacking the Earth, I was physically placed into a machine to simulate and imagine countless battles against an infinite number of enemies and aliens, stimulating my imagination to the max to create powers and weapons for my avatar to defeat these aliens until he became invincible, able to wipe out any enemy in an instant. This powerful avatar (Redison) is then fused with me in the final step, and together we become known as Radagon the Destroyer. He holds a form based on <Dragonic Overlord, The Destiny> and <Supreme Heavenly Emperor Dragon, Dragonic Overlord, The Purge>. In this universe, with evil aliens attacking Earth, all Xenithians evolved in this new environment to strengthen themselves and their powers to be able to defeat any aliens and any forms of darkness and any powers that they face. This destructive adaptive power is considered unmatched across the universe, with these beings being considered a supremely stronger but more violent weapon-focused species as opposed to the creative powers of other Xenithians.

χirusian: Ruled by χirus/χirus. Based on the Arrangement System from Beyblade Metal Masters and the Requiem Project from Beyblade Burst Evolution. The Neo-admin followed suit with the AMS, creating a super soldier to defeat Redison through the powers of the new Arrangement system enhanced by Demiurge Apex, but in this case, they took my information and by filling in any gaps in data with AI, created a new artificial being made of pure engineered mana. However, instead of being based on Redison, they designed their super soldier based on me (William), my personality, social media data (my interests on YouTube, Instagram, and some search history), and my history on campus (since the Neo-Admin being a representation of the real admins of the school, would know about me specifically and not Redison). They would design a champion with the goal of creating the ideal “partner/avatar” for me to replace Redison, designing it similar to Redison (since I like that design), and granting it powers very similar to Redison (as an overpowered manhwa protagonist), able to wield all kinds of powers and weapons, and granting it the ultimate sword in the form of the χenith χ-blade (based on the χ-blade from Kingdom Hearts). These powerful beings all wield their own unique χ-blade which serves as an extension of their unique magic and abilities as beings created by Demiurge Apex, designed each with the unique skills and abilities to defeat Redison

Heaven Soaring Xenithians: In this realm, Xenithia is not the creation deity of this universe but the creator of this universe is a figure known as the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign. This powerful deity would then descend and take form as a wise old sage (but an indestructible body and mystical reflexes). In his universe, he took the magical energies and shaped 7 students of the mystical energies. One of his students is the Heaven Soaring Sovereign, a red swordmaster with attributes and traits of the Heaven Soaring Qilin, an invincible creature with explosive power that can break through any defense. He mastered the legendary Soaring Sword Arts in wielding the mystical holy sword, Heaven Soaring Sword (based on the holy sword of the same name from the Manhua “Demon/magic Emperor”). His power would eventually create new beings that would inherit the <Heaven Soaring> energy of the Qilin, also known as the <Invincible Tyrant Force>, which they would combine with their elemental attributes, skills, and technologies to establish their own civilizations where the Heaven Soaring Sovereign was the ruler and created Xenithians of his own. All Xenithians of this universe have a near-indestructible body and explosive power that can break through all barriers, defenses, and any limits.

Heaven Decimating/Burning Xenithians: Ruled and created by one of the students of the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign known as the Heaven Decimating Sovereign, a yellow swordmaster with attributes and traits of the Golden Heaven Burning Dragon, a powerful holy beast (like the Soaring Qilin) who holds the powerful <Golden Decimating Flames>, a powerful flame that can burn through anything, any defense, any attack, and even able to imbue any of their abilities or skills with the Golden Decimating Flames. All beings created by the Heaven Decimating Sovereign are able to all wield the Golden Decimating Flames, and their magical types and attributes are empowered by the golden flames, so for example, you have a water type but with the golden decimating flames imbued in their spells, making their water even able to burn and purify opponents or burn through defenses. The Heavenly Decimating Sovereign wields one of the Holy swords known as Heaven Burning Sword.

Heaven Sealing Xenithians: Ruled and created by one of the students of the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign known as the Heaven Sealing Sovereign, a green swordmaster with attributes and traits of the Heaven Sealing Sea Turtle, a powerful holy beast of the North who has an impervious armor and a powerful skill that can seal any opponent, whether it is sealing their movement, or sealing an ability or skill from them, making it impossible to recall it. All beings created by Heaven Sealing Sovereign are able to all wield Heaven Sealing Sea, and their magical types and attributes are empowered by the magical waters of the Heaven Sealing Sea, so for example, you have a fire type but with the power of the Heaven Sealing sea, their flames can seal an opponent’s skills or abilities. The Heaven Sealing Sovereign wields one of the Holy swords known as Heaven Sealing Sword and is a master of the Heaven Sealing Sword Art and the Evoking Heaven Art. (250th Species)

Heaven Vaulting Xenithians: Ruled and created by one of the students of the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign known as the Heaven Vaulting Sovereign, a powerful blue swordmaster with attributes and traits of the Vaulting Kunpeng, a powerful holy beast that represents a giant fish that can transform into a giant bird. The Vaulting Kunpeng holds the powerful <Azure Gentle Chaos Flames>, a primordial flame of creation and enlightenment, capable of protecting the soul, burning souls, refining souls, or scaring other spiritual beasts. All beings created by the Heaven Vaulting Sovereign are able to wield the Primal Azure Flames, allowing them the power to nurture life and knowledge and even create through their powerful flames. The Heaven Vaulting Sovereign wields one of the holy swords known as the Heaven Supporting/Vaulting Sword and is a master of the Vaulting Sword Art (able to fuse and redirect outside power as their own) and the Dragon Cleaving Sword Art.

Heaven Sundering Xenithians: Ruled and created by one of the students of the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign known as the Heaven Sundering Sovereign, a powerful violet swordmaster with attributes and traits of the Sundering Thunder Phoenix, a powerful holy beast that holds the powers of the destructive berserk purple lightning known as the <Sundering Purple Lightning>, a powerful energy that takes the form of purple/violet lightning that can destroy anything, break through any defensive techniques or barriers, and even sever existence itself. All beings created by the Heaven Sundering Sovereign are able to wield the <Sundering Purple Lightning>, allowing them to combine it with their elemental attributes and abilities (for example, a fire type or water type with the purple lightning). The Heaven Sundering Sovereign wields one of the holy swords known as the Heaven Parting (Sundering) Sword and is a master of the Sundering Sword Art (Heaven Splitting Sword) and Star Severing Sword art.

Heaven Devouring Xenithians: Ruled and created by one of the students of the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign known as the Heaven Devouring Sovereign, a destructive Black swordmaster with no inherent attributes or traits of the holy beasts, but the power of the Heavenly Demon. He holds the ultimate dark power of the <Heavenly Demon Force>, an energy that allows users to take on any power for themself and boost it to supreme heights. For example, they can absorb the purple lightning of the Heaven Sundering and the golden decimating flames of the Heaven Burning, and combine it for themselves to unleash a destructive flaming storm capable of destroying countless worlds and enemies in one swift slash of a blade. The Heaven Devouring Sovereign created his own holy sword known as the Heaven Devouring Demon Sword and created his own sword art known as the Heaven Devouring Art Heaven Ascending Xenithians: Ruled and created by the Heavenly Supreme Sovereign, a white sage and master of creation, destruction, and sorcery. In his power, he took the elements of the void and using this power, he created his first students and a world for them to thrive in. These beings inherited the powers of creation from their creator (unlike the rest of his students who would develop their own unique powers and abilities) to serve as teachers for students in other universes and worlds and to travel to other voids to create new worlds and fill these voids. They combined these Heavenly Supreme powers with their own natural magic abilities and skills to master the powers of creation.

Chapter 12: Divine Showdown II: The battle of the Gods continues in the Divine Showdown. It's reading break next week, Valentines Day this weekend, and honestly I have no plans for anything. By a miracle, I matched with 3 on Tinder and Hinge, and also have plans to do a blind match-making event (and could in theory plan a date), and I do have plans to meet up with different friends throughout the break. In the Xenithverse, the battle continues with Xenarch and the Xenarcheians VS Lumencis (who revived but his body was split into Xenarch and Lumencis), and now wants to re-combine with Xenarch, and his creations known as the Lumencians. With the rebirth of Lumencis into a new body, he was able to gather enough cosmic energy and having taken a bit of Redison's essence following Redison's loss against Ultima Requiem, he attempt to reshape it into a new world, which in turn, created 100 new beings (based on the Number monsters from Yugioh ZEXAL), with each having a "core" being that when all 10 fuse with the "Core" creates a new deity (the New Orders), which now rule over each realm over the 100 and represent as Lumencis's champions. Following the battle against Lumencis and the 100, he fled with his Etheric Order creations, vowing to return stronger. Meanwhile, the portal from the Ozarc/Aezorys universe opened again, which was great since Redison was able to see his family and friends again, but a new challenge appeared, as Wizards of Evil known as the <Night> appeared with their champion <Cardinal Dominus, Khaoson> but in addition, the Wizards of Good (who created the puffles and created Redison) who transformed into the 12 Divine Sovereigns, appeared to fight <Night>. Finally, following the loss of Lumencis and his escape with his 10 New Orders, he arrived in a new realm beyond the Earth, and after ordering each of the 10 New Orders to take over those realms, they all had been defeated and reborn, while Lumencis was banished once more.

Norchemic Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Monarch of Norchemy, these powerful beings live in a universe created by Xenarch where in this universe, where humans had attempted to reproduce the powers of creation and destruction granted by deities (magic) but were cursed to transform into a zombie like form, Xenarch created magical beings (akin to the Xenithians) that were able to wield Norchemy without the curse of zombification, and through their own unique magical energies, were able to enhance Norchemy to the pinnacle. Norchemy is based on a magic system made by quancornelius-james on DeviantArt, which is the power of chemical reactions to unleash magic: Combustion, formation, decomposition, redox, replacement, and transmutation. This was created to reproduce the power granted by deities, to surpass nature itself. Each Norchemic Xenarcheian has their own unique symbol based on their Transmorgrification symbol on the Norchemic table (like an element on the periodic table) which they have mastery over.

Valhk Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Monarch of Valhkomancy, these Xenarcheians live in a universe where the primary planet is not Earth but Planet Xanthiis, where the energy of Valhk is the power of life on this planet. All Valhk Xenarcheians are masters of Valhkomancy, the manipulation of Valhk (pronounced vulk). Valhk is the power of life, granting its wielders the power to create natural and unnatural phenomenon. To cast, one must be near a metal (gold, silver, or copper), an organic, and a gemstone (amethyst, aquamarine, and topaz) to unleash powerful spells. There are 8 categories (Fire, water, metal, wind, electricity, darkness, spacetime, and decay), and quiddities (hidden traits) such as speed, malleability, strength, abrasion, adhesion, cold, gravity, death, transmutation, life, light, mind, motion, and friction. Each Xenarcheian of this realm has their own gemstone and metal element within their body and one category, which allows them to specialize in one particular power, but many are able to gather other gemstones, metals, and elemental categories to multi-class. Valkhomancy is based on a magic system made by quancornelius-james on DeviantArt

Sharmote Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Monarch of Legilmacy, these beings are born on the rogue planet Falmorna, where the inhabitants survived due to the appearance of solid oil projections called Sharmotes. The sharmotes created an environment that saved the remaining quarter of mankind from extinction and through the powers of Xenarch, would evolve to become Xenarcheians known as the Sharmote Xenarcheians. As Sharmotes (limitless reservoirs of magic energy that provide mana), they hold powerful magic abilities and powers in a magic system known as Legilmacy which can take the form of 5 different classes (Loom, Mesh, Ploy, Form, and Mind). Each class has their own symbol and skills. Loom has Resilience, Esprit, Ardor, Void, Verdure, Affiliate, and Conviction. Mesh has Convoy, Clash, Augment, Time, Decay, Morph, and Gravity. Ploy has Dwindle, Amalgam, Inflation, Rupture, Reversal, Negation, and Replay. Form has Solid, Light, Liquid, Darkness, Gas, Condensate, and Plasma. Mind has Reflex, Memory, Zeal, Mastery, Vigil, Sensation, and Stupor. All Sharmote Xenarcheians has an energy life force known as Vitality which they can call upon to heighten and evolve their skills and abilities as the cost of their vitality. Legilmacy is based on a magic system made by quancornelius-james on DeviantArt

Locarzean Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Monarch of Lormology, a form of magic in the world of Locarzea. In this realm, abilities here are known as Corollaries, with each corollary following into one of 8 types or attributes: Subjugation (the power to manipulate existing things like gravity), Transmogrification (the power to transform one thing into another, like turning someone into a rock), Commutation (sacrifice a possession to gain something else, like sacrifice lifeforce to unleash extremely powerful magic), Extirpation (the power to eradicate something, like erase tumors from the body), Obligation (change one's interactions with their surroundings, like avoid being affected by gravity or being affected by heat or cold), Transposition (the power to transfer a possession between the mage and a target, like being able to transfer a heart attack that they are having to the opponent), Acquisition (enhancing the user's ability to achieve a goal like better luck or increased stats), and Manifestation (power to physically manifest a skill, like they can physically manifest cuts on a target if the mage is a master swordsman). Lormology is based on a magic system made by quancornelius-james on DeviantArt

Hazen Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Monarch of Hazeforge, a form of magic in a realm where powers are based on the ability to control and/or modify water, with some species even developing new techniques for other elements. The main domains are <Stabilization> with the abilities of Preserving (basic ability: maintain temperature of whatever's in water) and Perpetuating (ascendancy ability: maintain trait of what has been in water), <Percolation> with the abilities of Purifying (basic ability: remove anomalies in the world, like exorcising spirits) and Winnowing (ascendancy ability: remove specific things from a target), <Manipulation> with the abilities of Morphing (basic ability: change shape of water) and Shading (ascendancy ability:

change opaqueness of water), <Revision> with the abilities of Fluctuating (basic ability: change the phase of water) and Inverting (ascendancy ability: create water with inverted properties), <Transmutation> with the abilities of Fracturing (basic ability: break water down into constituent parts) and Meshing (ascendancy ability: weave together particles in water), and <Transmission> with the abilities of Diffusing (basic ability: dissolve objects placed within water) and Endowing (change forces present found in water). Hazeforge is based on a magic system made by quancornelius-james on DeviantArt

Rosin Xenarcheians: Ruled by the Monarch of Revonomy, a form of magic fueled by Rebellion, which leaves a ghostly residue known as Rosin. They are able to utilize Rosin and manipulate it through <Decrees> resulting in 4 basic abilities that everyone can use as well as unique abilities (Charms and Calamities). These abilities are congealing (add solidity to Rosin), Purifying (adds exorcising properties to Rosin), Shrouding (removes the presence of one's abilities), and Mollifying (removes unpleasant emotions generated from Rosin). Charms are unique positive abilities (adding traits to Rosin) that mages can create while Calamities are negative abilities (they remove/subtract traits from Rosin). Each ability falls under a category known as a Strain (each based off of a different method of rebellion), which are Modification (changing the magnitude or scale of something), Revision (transforming oneself), Modulation (give orders to living things), Evulsion (extract something from a target), Transportation (generate motion), Preservation (maintaining the current state of something), and Reformation (alter the form of surrounding objects). Revonomy is based on a magic system made by quancornelius-james on DeviantArt.

Lumenxian: Following the battle of Redison vs the 12 Gods and his entering of the finished vessel, Xenarch, he discovered that strangely the vessel had split into 2 beings, one with the conscience and soul of Lumencis, and another with the powers of Lumencis but a new soul (Xenarch). Lumencis would challenge him for his body to become whole again, but Xenarch in his new state would challenge Lumencis with his inheritance of the 12 gods and their creations (under Xenithia, who gave it to Xenarch as his "birthday gift", considering it was originally his) and win. With this, Lumencis vowed he would return with his new army of creations for the upcoming Divine Showdown. With the rebirth of Lumencis into a new body, he was able to gather enough cosmic energy and having taken a bit of Redison's essence following Redison's loss against Ultima Requiem, he attempt to reshape it into a new world, which in turn, created 100 new beings (based on the Number monsters from Yugioh ZEXAL), with each having a "core" being that when all 10 fuse with the "Core" creates a new deity (the New Orders), which now rule over each realm over the 100. Each Number monster is actually the ruler and creator of their own species, with each having their own "cores" or chiefs (10, 20, 30, etc).

Xieg Xenarcheians: Ruled by Redison of Xenarch (Xenarchison). Redison is recreated in this new universe created by Xenarch, rivaling Xenithia (but in this case, Xenarch is actually a brand new persona/ego as opposed to Lumencis, as when Lumencis entered the new vessel that was to be Xenarch, the vessel split in two, becoming Lumencis and Xenarch. Both would create new universes of their own, with Xenarch creating empires of his universe. He is represented by the Red flag and his champion is Redison. In this realm, Redison was a warrior that had evolved and hardened as a strong fighter fighting against humanity who had begun hunting down Xenarcheians and other aliens to take their technologies, their home planets and expand their intergalactic empire. Redison evolved to become the champion known as <Xieg Xenarch>. In this universe, the humans are developing their technologies and advancing it based on the aliens they discover and steal from, while the aliens formed an alliance (all becoming Xenarcheians) and taking concepts, technologies, and stories from the humans to further evolve themselves. Redison (Xieg Xenarch) would evolve to become their champion, able to take the powers of the humans and take on a XiegForm (based on Youthberk DraegForm, Dynast). All Xieg Xenarcheians are able to transform into a XiegForm (which utilizes the powers of humanity or human concepts) to evolve themselves and unleash devastating skills and abilities.

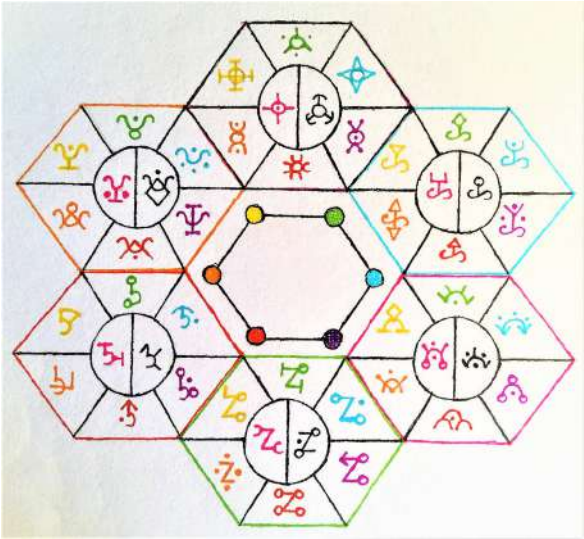
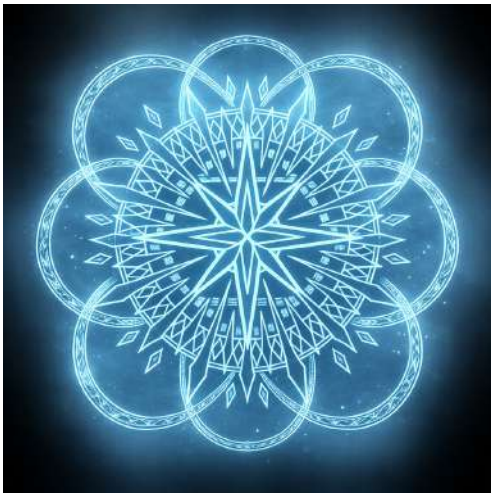
Zenoros Xenarcheians: The most diverse and expansive Xenarcheians, ruled by the Monarch of the Zenorothon, a powerful artifact that grants powers to magicians on the Planet Terra (of this universe) known as Magick where they combine their inner energy (vitality) to summon different magic symbols and unleash different spells and abilities through using crystals of different colors to unleash different spells. There are many different classes of magick which are Tempralchemy (represented by Blue on the Allomatrix and using Tetragonal crystals to grant spacetime alteration), Duralchemy (black on the Allomatrix and uses hexagonal crystals to alter the mind), Miralchemy (pink on the Allomatrix and uses cubic crystals to store traits in objects, where traits can be taken from surroundings or other sources), Transmorchemy (orange on the Allomatrix and uses monoclinic crystals to grant form alteration of both oneself and the surroundings), Vectralchemy (red on the Allomatrix and uses orthorhombic crystals to grant movement alteration), and Anorchemy (green on the Allomatrix and uses triclinic crystals to grant interaction alteration)



Alzorigians: What if puffle monsters were actually created by Wizards? Long ago, in the Aezorys/Ozarc universe (from the Book of Redison: Aezorys and Ozarc), there were ancient wizards that, through their magic, had created puffles as magical helpers and spirits of power. These puffles would serve as the protectors of good and magic long into the future and the wizards themselves sent their souls into the first puffles they created using the colors and magical elements of their realm. These became the 12 Divine Sovereigns. The 12 Divine Sovereigns would eventually retire and blend in with society as time passed, with the era of Ozarc as a tyrannical ruler, the rule of Allen (and eventually the tyrannical rule of Aezorys) and the now current era of peace under Allen/Aezorys again (where Redison's family also live).

During their time of peace, they discovered a recent change, strange dark forces having appeared as puffles created by a group of evil wizards from long ago who had separated from the wizards as they wanted to create puffles and use them as weapons of war instead of protectors of peace and benefactors of humanity, that the original 12 Divine Sovereigns thought to have vanquished millennia ago, but now they are back for a rematch. The Evil Wizards known as the <Night> have one champion (who defeated all other creations of the Wizards of Night, and absorbed their powers) and takes the form of the all powerful <Cardinal Dominus, Khaoson>, the supreme lord of the “Night” (Based on the Dark Enchantress Cookie (from Cookie Run Kingdom) and Cardinal Dominus, Orfist Regis from Cardfight! Vanguard, with the power to create other evil puffles based on the Dark Enchantress Cookie’s creations (Venom Dough Cookie, Mold Dough Cookie, and Pom Pom Dough Cookie))



- Zieghart Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Red Wizard Ziegfried, a powerful wizard that transferred his soul into a red puffle body he created. This powerful puffle wizard mastered weapon creation and weapon usage, even able to imbue souls and egos into the weapons he created. All of his puffles he created became manifestations of those weapons and masters of the weapons themselves. Ozarc, Redison, Regulus (and the rest of Redison’s family) are all descendants of the Zieghart Alzorigians as masters of weaponry and wielders of the <Weapon Spirits>, the power to combine their own energy with the spirit of the weapon to unleash a powerful fusion of techniques and abilities.

- Indra Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Vermillion Wizard Indra, a powerful wizard that transferred his soul into a Vermillion puffle body he created. This powerful puffle wizard creator is known as the King of the Skies (based on the Hindu deity Indra) and wields the powers of the Cosmic Phoenix, also known as the Vermillion Firebird, a powerful mystical being that had the ability to cross dimensions, as god-like beings of creation to destroyers that reign only within their own dimensions, and with the power of flames, flight, sky manipulation, regeneration, and immortality. These puffles mastered the powers of the <Phoenix> within them, allowing them to transform into firebirds or wield the powerful magic of the phoenix.

- Surya Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Orange Wizard Surya, a brilliant wizard that transferred his soul into an Orange puffle body he created with the powers of the sun. This puffle wizard creator is known as the Supreme Sun and holder of the Infinite Suns, as he researched the powers of sunlight and the power of Solar Genesis, to be able to create countless magical stars that could supply energy and power to countless beings. His creations (these puffles) all hold multiple “Suns” in their bodies, which grant them extremely powerful magic capabilities using sun energy with some even having the power to create their own suns.

- Eldorado Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Amber Wizard Eldorado, a flamboyant wizard that transferred his soul into an Amber/Golden puffle body he created with the powers of Golden Touch (Midas powers). This puffle wizard creator is known as the Divine Alchemist, the master of gold, and able to touch anything into “Gold” (but not just any gold, but living gold), which has extremely heightened magic powers, near limitless mana within them, and the ultimate power of alchemy and creation (based on the concept of Gold as the goal of Alchemy). All those created by Eldorado have a golden aura to them which they can call upon in their alchemy.

- Meridzan Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Yellow Wizard Meridzan, a powerful wizard that transferred his soul into a Yellow puffle body he created with the powers of the land. This puffle wizard creator is known for his research in the diversity of evolution and regional variants and regional magic depending on the nature, mana, and culture of each region, and how each region has their own version of puffle types, each with their own skills and abilities. He developed his creations to be able to gain regional forms and regional skills while in a specific region, and save the power and use it even when outside of the region they unlocked the power in. This is through their unique use of <Land Power>

- Ikaruga Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Chartreuse Wizard Ikaruga, a silent wizard that transferred his soul into a Chartreuse puffle body he created with the powers of Qi cultivation. This puffle wizard creator is known for his research in martial arts, movement arts, and the use of Qi, a powerful source of martial energy which is a fundamental vital life force or energy that flows through all things in Chinese medicine and martial arts. These puffles use the powers of Qi in unique martial arts based on the Murim. These puffles use special martial arts and skills that all use Qi in their arts and even developed their own cultivation techniques and body development technologies.

- Viris Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Green Wizard Viris, a vibrant wizard that transferred his soul into a Green puffle body he created with the powers of plant life force and vitality. This puffle wizard creator is known for his research into the powers of different plants and the ability each plant has and how each puffle uses the powers of plant energy within them.

- Idosfaron Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Teal Wizard Idosfaro, a fearsome wizard that transferred his soul into a Teal puffle body he created with the powers of the beasts, beast abilities, and beast instincts. This puffle wizard creator is known for his research in puffle creatures (puffles with animal features) such as claws, wings, tails, scales, gills, fins, etc. All of these puffles are able to use powerful bestial instincts from the beast within them, but also call upon those abilities and combine it with their magical powers.

- Aztlan Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Blue Wizard Aztlan, a mystical wizard that transferred his soul into a Blue puffle body he created with the powers of Eldritch magic and runes. This puffle wizard creator is known for developing powerful magic techniques that involve symbols, Tao Mandelas, Magic circles, and Runes, and in his research, created puffles as living embodiments and manifestations of these forms of magic. Aezorys is a descendant of these puffles, which all are not only blessed with great magical and spellcasting aptitude, but also high intelligence and wisdom that allows them to store a near infinite amount of knowledge on magic to unleash spells.

- Noxzel Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Violet Wizard Noxzel, a shadowy wizard that transferred his soul into a Violet puffle body he created with the powers of the many Moons and stars. This puffle wizard creator is known for researching and developing magic based on the different Moons (6th Moon of Red Summer, 12th Moon of Blue Winter, 11th Moon of the Silver Age, 7th Moon of Golden Steel, 3rd Moon of Pink Spring, etc) (based on the Divine Moons from the Manhwa “Blink Master of the Magic Academy”) as well as the Native American Full Moon names (the Wolf Moon, Snow Moon, Worm Moon, Sap Moon, Blackberry Moon, Flower Moon, Buck Moon, Sturgeon Moon, Hunter’s Moon, Cold Moon, Falling Leaves Moon, etc). Each puffle has their own moon within their body and their origin, granting them unique power.

- Gaiasuran Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Purple Wizard Gaiasura, a fiery wizard that transferred his soul into a Purple puffle body he created with the powers of spiritual energy known as Keshin (based on Keshin from Inazuma Eleven). This puffle wizard creator is known for researching spiritual power, specifically in the form of an <Avatar> made of spiritual energy or fighting spirit (or other spiritual energy, whether it is power of the ancestors or spirits of heroes or villains, etc) and how puffles can evolve or transform using these spirits whether in the form of Spirit Fusion, spirit armed (transforming spirit power into weapons or armor), etc. Each puffle created by Gaiasura are all born with the gift of being able to work with multiple spirits (taking an “Asura” form).

- Erisian Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Magenta Wizard Eris, a chaotic wizard that transferred her soul into a Magenta puffle body she created with the powers of Chaos energy and Probability. This puffle wizard creator is known for researching Chaos energy, specifically how Chaos can manipulate probability of magical phenomena (such as whether an attack hits, the power level of an attack, stats, luck) and even manipulation of time, space, memories, etc. Each puffle created by Eris wields Chaos Energy as their main form of power and each specialize in a form of Chaos magic

- Cardinal Alzorigians: Ruled and created by the Evil Wizards of the organization “Night”, these Alzorigians are ruled by <Cardinal Dominus, Khaoson>, a powerful Alzorigian warrior created with advanced void technology, the power of <Lock> (able to seal beings away temporarily through the powers of the void) and other forms of dark magic and magic of destruction empowered by super advanced technologies. Khaoson takes the form of the character below (Cardinal Deus, Orfist, and Cardinal Dominus, Orfist Regis). These powerful Cardinals are known for their advanced technologies that utilize the powers of the Evil Wizards of <Night> and advanced magic techniques and magic engineering that outclass all other Alzorigians and the Wizards who created them.

Taiji Xenithians: Redison was born through biological origins as a descendant of the Wizard's creations (the Alzorigians) and absorbed the powers from the Puffle Creator, the manifestations of the imagination (Shobe's drawings and the designs from ChatGPT), and even absorbed the clones of artificial creation and powers of the stars. However, this Redison was born from the Star Tree alone, having descended from the heavens instead of having been created by the Wizards or born of biological origin. In this universe, he absorbed the powers of the Star Tree itself and all stars within the star tree, becoming the Taiji (Supreme Ultimate) and master of the Taiji Sword, taking a new name as Taijison (to separate himself from Redison as a new identity) and master of the Taiji power. In this universe, all Xenithians develop their magic to reach the state of <Taiji> and have their own Taiji form once they reach enlightenment.

Wuji Xenithians: In this universe, what if Redison was not born through Biological origins as a descendant of the Wizard's creations (the Alzorigians) but was created as an Alzorigian himself? This version of Redison known as "Wujison" mastered the powers of Wuji (meaning Limitless or Primordial Void), a power that the Wizards gave him, in which he could absorb and combine all forms of powers, all energies, any form of magic and spell, and absorb it into his Limitless Void core, which he would then utilize in his Limitless Wuji Sword Art. All Xenithians in this universe have a Limitless Void core which allows them to continuously evolve and absorb countless forms of magic and energies to create new combinations and new techniques (all like Redison).

Asgardian Lumenxian: In the great battle of Lumencis vs Odin and the other Asgardians, Lumencis was split into 2, Lumencis and Lumenson. Lumenson, born with no memories but the power of light from Lumencis, was taken in by Odin and the other Asgardians and trained to be a powerful champion as Odin's Successor, training in the art of the spear as the Knight of Gungnir. With his magic as an alien being, he would evolve all other Asgardians to gain Xenithian/Lumenxian magic energy within them, allowing them new powers and abilities. Lumenson (and the Asgardian Lumenxians) wield the powerful symbol above as their new symbol of light as the new defenders of the Realm beyond the Known World.

Hykso Lumenxian: Following the defeat of Lumencis during the Divine Showdown, Lumencis and his creations (the 10 Etheric New Orders) had fled to a new realm beyond the known world (based on Terra Infinita). He would give the order to send each of his 10 creations to establish dominance in each realm. However, these regions in this realm were already inhabited by powerful beings who were able to swiftly defeat these invaders. When Lumencis attempted to invade Asgard, Odin was able to notify the leaders of the other regions of how the other invaders were under the control of Lumencis, and to destroy the link between them. Following this destruction, <New Orders 10: Etheric Crimson> had been destroyed and fused into the champion (Ashtalon) of the land of Hyksos, a giant and vast land where <Aura> (from the manhwa "Time Slip of the First King") reigns supreme, powering all techniques and technologies. Ashtalon now rules as the strongest sword, now empowered by the blazing crimson energy of Etheric Crimson now fused within him. Crimson, now wanting to break free from Lumencis and become his own being, now works with Ashtalon, to become a supreme being.

Scorpio Lumenxian: In the land of Scorpio, the original inhabitants had mastered the powers of the thousand poisons and scents, where each poison/scent has their own power, where even some poisons/scents when combined with others can grant different abilities, benefits, or even damages. When <New Order 9, Etheric Magenta> appeared in an attempt to invade, it was utterly destroyed, vaporized by the Poison Emperor of Scorpio who had mastered all thousand poisons and scents. Following this, Etheric magenta was reborn as Etheric Magenta, Lastile, who would train and live as the next champion and successor of the Poison Emperor. All beings in the realm of Scorpio are masters of the Thousand Poisons and the Thousand Scents, where each scent and each poison has its own power, and the wielder of the poison and scent could add their own power.

Hyperborean Lumenxian: In the mystical northern lands of Hyperborea, the original inhabitants had mastered the powers of the white winter, able to control the winds of the north, south, east, and west. These beings have a special ability, to freeze time to a halt, crystalizing their bodies and cells through a magical northern aurora energy, which allows them to not only not age (granting them immortality), but in addition, the powers of a Cold Mind (giving them absolute focus, superhuman calculation, memory, and perception, and even immunity to mind control, fear, and emotional manipulation), as well as their power of mysterious magic unique to the Hyperboreans. When <New Order 8: Etheric Violet> appeared in an attempt to invade, it was frozen and destroyed by the powerful Cosmic Frost of the Hyperboreans. Through their magic and through their mercy, it was reborn into a new being, now being raised as their new champion as Etheric Violet had expansive mana that resonated with the energy of the Northern Aurora of the Hyperboreans and was given a new name, Nasdan.

Annunaki Lumenxian: This ancient realm of endless sand, mountains, forests, and oceans (based on Ancient Mesopotamia) and ruled by the ancient gods known as the Annunaki. Everyone in this realm are all actual deities (or growing deities), each having their own unique Divinity (granting them a unique power and dominion over a certain concept or element). This came to play when <New Order 7, Etheric Blue> arrived in the invasion, attempting to dominate this new land, which didn't go so well as his soul was utterly vaporized by the deities. By their mercy, Etheric Blue was reborn as a new deity to train and rise to become a protector as a very powerful deity known as the <Throne of Order, Taikan Empyrean>, the deity of Order with the <Divinity of Empyrean Order>.

Aquarius Lumenxian: All stories of Atlantis are actually based on this beautiful land of Aquarius, a realm with extremely advanced technologies and magic that could be seen as god-like, so much so that many believed this was where the heavens had descended and come to rest, in the land of Aquarius. They developed unique technologies that allowed them to create parallel realities, alternate dimensions, new worlds, and even isolated pocket worlds known as Reality Bubbles, allowing them to test and discover new forms of magic and energies. When <New Order 6: Etheric Teal> appeared in an invasion, it was trapped in a Reality Bubble, where it was vaporized as they deleted the bubble, but not after taking the soul core, to which they gave it new life and new programming to become a new Aquarian, and with its innate powers of magic and water control (as Lord of Currents, Twisted Teal), it was reborn with the powers of Reality and dimension creation and destruction and given a new name, Lord of Currents, Hallain.

Lemurian Lumenxian: The mysterious lost continent in the stories of Earth is actually real, a real land that disappeared from the known world of Earth and was found in the beyond. These beings are known as the ancient ancestors of all creatures, the first creatures, the origin of evolution. In this realm, all creatures and all plants, all forms of life thrive in this realm, thriving under the care of the ancient ancestors and first beings. When <New Order 5: Etheric Emerald> invaded Lemuria, the creatures all rallied together and destroyed it, and through the ancient life magic of Lemuria, rebirthed Etheric Emerald into the Sovereign of Life, Marad Emerald, a new powerful creature born with the powers of the countless ancestral beasts and other creatures and forms of life in Lemuria. All Lemurians are masters of nature and life energy control, whether it is through summoning or creation, or even modification and hybridization.

Laurentian Lumenxian: Known as the World before the first world, the first bedrock, and where the concept of <Cores> actually originate from (in this universe), as all Laurentians have an ancient magic core made of ancient magic stone within them and is where their magic flows and originates from. These beings are masters of Earth and ground dominion as not only able to create powerful stone golems as large as mountains or fortresses, or even create living buildings and cities made of these living stone buildings (where inhabitants form a relationship with their buildings). For example, if I lived in a home, I can actually speak to my home, as my home is a living stone golem, and given a good relationship with my home, it can evolve and grow. These beings are also made of an ancient bedstone, which makes their body indestructible. In this ancient land, these beings created many massive pyramid structures (both regular and even upside down and floating pyramids) as their form of temples, grand castles, and even floating ships. When <New Order 4: Etheric Chartreuse> invaded this ancient stone continent, it was crushed under the mighty power of these living golems, and through the mercy of the Laurentians, rebirthed it, granting it its own ancient stone core (which gave it a Chartreuse stone core) and was reborn as the Sage of Stone, Walgran.

Phythenan Lumenxian: These beings hail from Phythena, known as the continent of magic, where science and magic are one, and all information are stored in the form of crystal books, crystal libraries, crystal buildings, crystal technologies, etc. In this realm, all forms of magical energy crystallizes nearly instantly, resulting in a colorful civilization of countless magical crystals, each with different abilities, energies, etc stored within them, eventually developing advanced technologies and powers made of the infinite amount of crystals in this land. When <New Order 3: Etheric Goldeus> invaded this realm of magic, it was destroyed by the ancient crystalline magic and knowledge of these powerful beings, but it was given a second chance through rebirth, becoming a new sorcerer known as the <Sorcerer of Eternity, Zarud Goldeus>. All Phythenans are all powerful mages and sorcerers (with some becoming magic swordsman and other magic warrior types and others sticking to traditional spellcasting), that utilize the infinite amount of crystal magic and knowledge stored within the crystals.

Meropi Lumenxian: These beings hail from Meropis (the Meropis Land), a land beyond the known world that was described with a magnitude as infinite, with beings twice as big as those on Earth and lived double our age, and lived in greater cities, one named Machimus and the other Eusebes. Those from Machimus are known as warlike beings, masters of war and combat, and are invulnerable to weapons. Those of Eusebes are those who live in peace, free from sickness, and happy (those who want to live peacefully). It was described that Merope was a place where those who died would be reborn and where gold flowed endlessly, so much so that gold was actually of very little value. Those of Meropis mastered an ancient form of magic that is unable to be described in human terms but just looks god-like, as if they just snap their fingers or wave their hand and reality itself can change. When <New Order 2: Etheric Aureus> invaded this realm of magic, it was destroyed by the mighty powers of the Meropi, but not before the soul was taken and was reborn as a Meropi warrior, with a golden energy and powerful affinity for Meropi magic, it became a powerful new warrior they would raise to become the next champion as Emperor Knight, Aureus Graim (Gram).

Sheki Lumenxian: These beings are known as the Ancestors of humanity (where humanity evolved out of the She-ki) and how when Lumencis invaded these realms, the magic of Lumencis evolved the She-ki to become Lumenxians or create Lumenxians from their imagination and culture. These beings are known as masters of ancient magic and technologies that can’t be translated or understood by any Xenithians or humans for that matter. When <New Order 1: Etheric Umber> invaded this realm of magic, it was disintegrated by the powerful technologies and magic of the great ancestors who hailed from the She-ki land, but through rebirth, was reborn as an Umber She-ki who they would rename as the Guiding Star, Deckril Umber.
