    - Chapter 16: Road to Xenith

Chapter 15: Mythology and Masters: Ever since Redison survives the Apocalypse End, he has been training in the event of another disaster while getting stronger as well as celebrating the passing of another academic year of challenges. Throughout this time, I moved from my old dorm of Bartlett House in Orchard Commons to Herring House in KWTQ/Saltwater House. In the Xenithverse, the city established by the puffle monsters as home base moves to Herring House (which I will get to know as I have recently moved in and established my room). The old dorm remains as a remembrance of my first year and is protected by the mysterious guardian of the Orchard known as Xeryneas. Following the move, I have a free week before summer session starts, in which I intend on going on some adventures on my own for fun. Redison is met with different masters who challenge him to the <Master Trials> in order for him to get stronger. In addition, Redison witnesses mysterious warriors of myth appearing before him…

Iboku: Based on the myth of man on Instagram in which they evolve through ancient sigils, like how the very first “man” started as a blob but fused with a strange creature with appendages and a stomach to become an almost man. Use the power of ancient sigils

Serpens: Based on the myth of man on Instagram except in this case, man fused to the stone snake it came from, becoming a snake with arms (kind of like in Ninjago) and slowly evolve into dragonoid like creatures. Use their own ancient sigils in which the original sigils evolved

Orelius: Descendants of the very first Flame that guided man to the purpose of life, the supposed end goal known as the Great Flame. The descendants became champions of man, spirit guides, but ultimately partners to man. Unleash powerful flame abilities in powerful forms

Aurajin: Long ago, the ancient source of power known as Aura came from the great power of magic, a strange star. By the power of the aura force, they can summon their aura spirit which long ago were the original forces of power. Based on Aura Turbo, a pokemon gimmick, from Instagram

Xeryneas: These powerful puffle monsters serve as remembrance for my time in OC (the monster realm was known as Orchard City), all the great memories and good friends I made while I was there throughout my first year. Ruled by the Guardian of the Orchard of Memories, Xeryneas, the Evergreen Master (based on Xerneas from Pokemon). Use the special abilities known as <Evergreen> which not only provide absolute immunity but bountiful amounts of mana.

Mountain King: These powerful puffle monsters represent an alternate universe in which I had gone to Simon Fraser University (SFU) on the Burnaby campus (I decided to go over to the campus to check it out for fun, which I found out was on top of Burnaby Mountain), with their champion being a Maroon Red warrior known as The King of the Mountain (apparently a Redison from the universe in which I had gone to SFU instead). These powerful puffle monsters use abilities based on my knowledge of SFU but also from the knowledge that alternate me would have

Thousand Seas: Based on the sword technique from 66,666 years: Advent of the Dark Mage, these puffle monsters represent both the future and the future I saw when I came into UBC in the first place, the idealized future of Redison (the blue and gold) and ruler of Saltwater house. Ruled by the Master of the Thousand Seas, these powerful puffle monsters use a special movement technique in combination with magic spells and mana abilities in order to unleash powerful techniques that have wide range effects and great power to affect realities. Their mana flow is unique as their mana flows like the raging seas around them when using their abilities which allow them to manipulate their mana to act as a weapon or as a shield depending on what is needed

Arcenciel: Ruled by the powerful rainbow <Arceus Champion and Master of Cosmic Arc>, the ultimate warriors of magic known for their absolute immunity, Spatial Coordination (teleportation and spatial manipulation), and their signature Rainbow Skill Tree summoning (based on the Compass Needle ability of Akaza from Demon Slayer) as they can call upon and manipulate magic energy around them to either gather around them as armor, to heal themselves, to transform into weapons (Arc-en-sword or Arc-en-shield, Arc-en-spear, etc), or to unleash attack spells. Also based on the warrior and curved sword design I saw at Memory Corner Restaurant

Azure Wave: Acquire from the Kitsilano Beach quest and Jericho Beach quest from the <Master of the Thousand Seas>. These powerful warriors embody the oceans as their mana core is endless, as deep as the ocean, and with countless forms and varieties of mana energy within their core that they can unleash. Their abilities take the form of “waves” of magic.

Veridian Fae: Acquire from the Van Dusen Botanical Garden quest from the <Evergreen Master, Xeryneas>. These powerful puffle monsters come from the ancient realm of the gardens, where long ago, the animals spoke to the plants and vice versa (based on the story I was told by the garden guide about the Douglas Fir and how the mice hide in the cones of the Douglas Fir to this day). These powerful ancient puffle monsters speak to the plants and vise versa through the ancient language of the Veridians as they work with the plants to unleash great power.

Chapter 16: The Road to Xenith The first day of class has started, and it comes down to one of two classes, Data Science 100 or Math 221. I have yet to decide which I may or may not drop. Math 221 seems important since it is required for both Math and CPSC. Dsci 100 will give me one more credit for my Science Breadth Requirement, bringing me to 4 / 6 completed (which leaves me with an EOSC or ASTR and a Bio or Psyc course vs a Physics course). In the Xenithverse, Redison has completed the Master Trials (with the Master of the Mountain trial postponed). He is next met with new challengers as the <Champions League> approaches, pitting him against invincible warriors from worlds beyond the Xenithverse. In the last week of May, Redison is pit into the <Champions League> against powerful warriors (as my 1st set of midterms come in) (I ultimately did both classes in the end)

Arcanaverse: Based on the 22 Major Arcana cards and the Minor Arcana Tarot cards as well as TheOrcacleTwentyOnePillars units from Battle Spirits. Also based on Ultra Beasts from Pokemon, each of these Arcana species are under one of the 21 Tribes, and ruled under the Zeroth Tribe under Joker (The Fool) within the realm of the Arcanaverse

- XXI The World/Time/The Crown

Ten Crowns: Based on the 10 Heavenly Stems and from the Ten Crowns attribute of monsters in Battle Spirits, these powerful warriors live in the realm of the <Eastern Calendar>, a universe shared with the Twelve Regimes. These puffle monsters are the celestial beings of the realm. Ruled by Kagura, the Heavenly sword of the Ten Crowns

Twelve Regimes: Based on the 12 Earthly Branches which are based on the 12 signs of the Chinese Zodiac, these ancient puffle monsters each have 12 abilities that match the Earthly branches within them, and are of the mortal realm within the <Eastern Calendar> universe. Ruled by Zhengao, the Emperor of the 12 Regimes

~~E-/xx.ceed~~: From beyond the future of the Xenithverse, based on the Future paradox pokemon, these powerful cybernetic warriors come from the future beyond the future, unleashing the most powerful form of magic in that time era as magic symbols have changed to become more cybernetic and focus on different aspects of magic energy as these puffle monsters have mastered the force of Universal Essences (based on the game Quantum Casters). Ruled by Lord Mugen, the incarnation of the Xenith in the far far future

Swordcerer: Masters of the Spellsword, defined as Mana flows through the path of the sword (giving the ability of unleashing spells depending on the mana flow through the sword or manipulating mana around the sword to reinforce the blade and unleash stronger attacks). Represented by Xavior, the strongest of the Swordcerers

Swordmage: The path of the sword defines the destiny of mana, a power completely different from the Swordcerers. These puffle monsters manipulate mana through the sword as they can slice through mana, space, time, and reality, as well as even unleash powers from the other worlds through sword techniques to aid in battle. Ruled by Zarath, the strongest of the swordmages

Alphazetsu: Back in the BASIS Phoenix universe, my old friend Andrew Yuan became successful and in that world created YUAN Energies Corp. and through studying puffle monsters, had finally learned how to create artificial power cores that when combined with bio-data that each human holds, can transform into an armor, creating an evolution for each person (based on Kamen Rider Faiz and all drivers from the said series). Each artificial core has a power of a puffle monster within it, creating a new supreme force that when combined with the unique bio-data of each user, they gain a unique ability depending on the core. Redison's artificial core driver that he took was the XenosX0 driver, which had the unique ability <Core Factory> which allowed him to copy other cores through driver linking and creating a stronger version of these copied cores for himself to use.

Zanthern: Based on Picular.io search for colors based on themes and the Minecraft but Dyes make custom items video (Socksfor1) as well as the Runic Alphabet (the custom items on Minecraft from JeraCraft MMORPG) and Nordic Rune Alphabet. These godly puffle monsters were created by the forces of creation and can use the powers of Dragonic Personification in their attacks and abilities which is unique depending on their color, aura force, and Archaic Essence ability (based on the Dragon tattoos from Zela on instagram).

Maitreya: I had a dream one night regarding a strange realm of temples, accessed by a strange giant mirror with an eye at the top. In the realm of temples, there are countless infinite temples (based on the Infinite Castle from Demon Slayers). Ruled by Nirvana Moebius (based on character of the same name from Webtoon Omniscient Reader). Their power symbols are based on SocksForOne Minecraft but Infinite video (the Infinite items) which is glitching and changing constantly but representing the formless powers of magic of this universe. Known as the second coming of the Deity of Combat and Magic, these powerful puffle monsters inherit the purest forms of magic from the Deity itself and live within the Infinite Temples of magic. Based on the stories of Shambhala, Satya Yuga, and Maitreya

Infinity Battle Mage: The essence of the Xenithverse wielded by Redison (Lord Xenith/Lord of Sabers). These puffle monsters hold the titles and powers of the <Infinity Battle Mage>, a warrior long ago blessed as the incarnation of the Deity of Combat and Magic, where all powers of magic diversify infinitely, creating countless variations of spells, abilities, weapons, and magic forms and wielding them together to stack buffs and magic damage while also creating powerful combos through magic fusions Zerythian: Based on the idea of how Future Paradox Pokemon don't necessarily have to be just robot pokemon, but just newly evolved organic forms due to their environment (also on Instagram). Similar to how long ago, a fire puffle from many years ago of the Puffle Planet would be stunned by the powers of a fire puffle monster of the Xenithverse and how powerful their magic is (the future magic in the eyes of Year 2009). Ruled by the powerful and latest incarnation of the Deity of Magic and Combat, Lord Zeryth, these extremely alien puffle monsters use godly forms of magic power that represents the future form of magic in which the countless forms and variations of magic have diversified further, but also all evolved into new forms of magic as the symbols have changed into stronger forms, unleashing more powerful magic.

Zaanyrian: Based on the Zonai from Legend of Zelda: Tears of the Kingdom, the Zonai devices, the arm of Rauru and abilities of the arm, as well as the Spear arts from the Manhwa Return of the Unrivaled Spear Knight. Ruled by Lord Zonis, a powerful champion warrior that not only mastered the most advanced magic technology of the era, but have also mastered countless martial art techniques and learned of countless others in order to create countless weapons and items to improve the great powers of magic. Lord Zonis' design is based on Jin Kaien Dyaus form.

Fracture Force: Based on the ideas of Fracture for pokemon on Instagram (sb.fakemon) and the Mathematical concept and designs of Fractals. Ruled by Lord Zorosyth, these powerful fractal puffle monsters wield powerful unnatural abilities granted by the mysterious fractures of the Veil of realities connected to the countless elemental realms of fractals. By unleashing the powers of Fractals, they call upon powers from the fractal dimensions of their Fracture shard.

Neon: The pink element of tech (based on Ninjago Dragons Rising), Rosie (Redson's Wife) and Shobe's pink puffle keychain rules a futuristic world of the Pink Planet of Tech. Using this new power, her people have mastered the powers of Technology as they can build and repair all forms of technology at will, while also upgrading them to maximize potential Lord Territh: Long ago, Redison's rival was The Earth King, a boss monster in Quail Run World. The Earth King and Redison eventually came to good terms and became friends. Through evolution, the Earth King became the new form known as Lord Territh.

Territhian: Ruled by Lord Territh, unleash the powers of magic through reinforced form. Also based on the Terraria weapons (First Fractal, Zenith, Terra Blade, all Nebula, solar, starlight, etc weapons, True Night's Edge, etc). These powerful puffle monsters use the power of reinforced mana as they strengthen their core mana energy and aura energy created from the Great force of the Earth and can create special armors, weapons, and use powerful ancient abilities through the Earth

Gyrzanth: Ruled by the Mechanical Lord Gearzanth, these extremely powerful puffle monsters unleash the powers of magic through <Set Creation> which creates armored <sets> of abilities and powers that they can equip to unleash powerful attacks, using the powers of their <Factory>, which gives them the unique ability to create and enhance these sets of power while also upgrading their abilities and themselves.

Utopia: Long ago, a mysterious being was created from the original Puffle Maker after it had absorbed an overload of magic energy from the rainbow rain that evolved the puffles to the creatures and later monsters. It created a prismatic colored puffle that shimmers with the powers of the rainbow rain it was created from (instead of one of the ten color powers it could originally have when the machine created the puffles for the players). This warrior, immortal in form, traveled the universes and countless realities, timelines, dimensions, and realms of magic in which it collected into one realm known as <Utopia, The Library> (Based on the Uncensored Library Minecraft project from Reporters without Borders and Blockworks). Known as the Philosopher King (Phil), he rules as the great sage and librarian as he travels to all worlds to collect from realms of magic and create maps within his realm as a library, preserving countless worlds in their original and evolving states. These puffle monsters from the worlds within Utopia have a special form of magic as they are not only highly intelligent as librarians in training and with the ultimate powers of full control over all magic from their home world and the ability to learn other powers from the other worlds within the library.

Starcaller: Based on the concept of “Gamified Earth” (for Manhwas and Webtoons such as “Advanced Player of the Tutorial Tower”, “Return of the Shattered Constellation”, “Return to Player”, and “Omniscient Reader’s Viewpoint” (specifically the idea of stars, constellations, gods, and deities watching over and sponsoring champions). These powerful puffle monster warriors fight with their unique ability of calling upon Fables, Legends, Myths, and countless other stories of great power also known as the stars, constellations, or even deities. In addition to their core ability, they also have special <Blessings> depending on the <Star> they are associated with, which grant them countless abilities that make them worthy of being their champion and representative. Most starcallers have the ability to summon other stars as well and are usually paired with one main patron and have other allies as well. While training, Redison allies himself with the Constellation Judex (the sword constellation), Atlas (the Titan that holds up the world), Kalidras (the sword deity), and masters the power of the stars through <Star mapping> which creates new constellations and powers to call upon through connecting the stars within the heavens as he himself becomes a <Star> and calls upon himself to unleash his great astral power. (Can call upon the powers of all stars, constellations, deities, or even clusters and groups of them to unleash powerful super combos as he can summon chunks of the heavens through the <Star Atlas> ability (which summons saved constellations created through <Star Mapping>).

STARLOST: The Forgotten stars, ancient constellations created long ago when light was first created. The primitive forces of starlight that created magic long ago are wielded by these powerful puffle monsters using godly mystic arts. Based on the Manhwa “Return of the Shattered Constellation”, these ancient beings use the powers of <Ancient Starlight> to unleash long forgotten techniques of magic that has the power to destroy all deities. Ruled by REDISON, the lost constellation of the world-altering flames

Arcane Asura: These powerful warriors have mastered the use of countless weapons simultaneously, mastering the ability to combine their stats and attributes to unleash powerful forces of magic. For example, the Supreme Asura wields the powers of: Starcaller’s Blade, Astral’s Fury, Crimson Phoenix, Verdant’s Might, Arcane Cleaver, Storm’s Fury, Eclipse Edge, Darkmoon’s Bane, Crystal’s Wrath, Alchemic Edge, Frostbite Saber, Leviathan’s Fury, and many more. Based on the 10 Weapons Demon art from the Webtoon Infinite Leveling: Murim, each Arcane force gives a certain ability and attribute as well as stat boost. By combining these weapon arts, they can wield countless weapons and not only stack the boosts and powers but also stack the attributes and combat arts they can use. Redison fights the <Supreme Asura> as part of the <Champions League> Round 1 (Midterm 1 for Math 221 on Wednesday). The battle ended with Redison successfully able to defeat the <Supreme Asura>, although he himself took quite a bit of damage but was able to save himself through the stats that each weapon he wielded gave him as he mastered the Arcane Asura techniques in order to wield countless weapons (Hundred Weapon art, Thousand weapon art, etc).

รՇคгɒгєคк: Ruled by ᴙᴇᴅᴉSᴓᴍ/гєคเรอภ. Based on Stellaris, Astral Ascension from artommykatommy on Instagram and the ??? creatures from artommykatommy on Instagram. These strange alien super beings are not only more intelligent and far far far more advanced than the most advanced puffle monsters discovered so far, but they also have a strange higher purpose as beings from beyond the fabrics and confines of imagination and the <Imaginary Space>. These powerful alien beings use special astral and cosmic magic abilities to create new forms of imagination from beyond the Xenithverse space.

GOD EMPEROR: Ruled by REDISON, a mysterious being known as the God Emperor of the realms of magic within the <Imaginary Space> (based on the idea that my imagination is limited and all worlds and creations of my imagination are limited within the confines of my own imagination, but there is a space beyond my imagination, the <Imaginary Space>, a collection/nexus of all imaginations of those around me (the shared imagine space)). These powerful puffle monsters hail as rulers and champions of the <Great Empire>, the realms of magic beyond the Xenithverse space and within the <Imaginary Space>. Their form of magic and runes take form similar to the names above (God Emperor and Redison).

: The arcane deities beyond comprehension (based on The Divine Concatenation) and beyond the <Imaginary Space>, deities from the dimensions beyond the Overworld. Separated into countless pantheons while some deities are lone deities that wander the planes of reality, universes, and dimensions. These powerful deities all have home worlds (secret dimensions within the dimensions of space) in which they reside. Their creations as pure representatives of them and their imagination live within their home realms but also travel the dimensions and universes and spread the glory of their deity through their magic and powers and good deeds or other actions. These deities have found the Xenithverse and the <Imaginary Space> that sits outside the Xenithverse and have entered this overworld to explore, discover, and spread their influence (the idea of the God Roleplay game we are working on). Each deity and deity creation have their own unique core symbol but etched on their core as well as their clothing, items, etc is their patron deity's symbol Aurus Celestian: Based on Ultra Necrozma and the power of light that granted the powers of Auras and Z-moves in Pokemon. The powers of Aura (aka Arcane Light) maximize the power of all magic energies. All forms of magic were given an Aura long ago, and through mastery of Aura Manipulation, these warriors can unleash the powers of the heavens and the Arcane Light of long ago. These puffle monsters are highly intelligent beings and have great imagination when it comes to creating new powers and methods of abilities. Redison fights their champion as part of the <Champions League> Round 2 (Midterm 1 for DSCI 100 on Thursday). Redison was successful in his battle and mastered the Shining Divine Arts and in combination with the Arcane Asura arts, he mastered the Shining Arcane Ausura (Aura Asura) unleashing the powers of light and divine aura in combination with his countless blade arts.

Based on the Manwha “Pick me up, Infinite Gacha” and the idea of millions of worlds within the game as the home base of all the Gacha characters and heroes as well as their unique personalities, abilities, skills, and powers. Ruled by the incarnation of Ʀɛɖɨƥoɲ within this world. Long ago, the 6 heavens descended into the puffle world, raining down 6 different colored flames of power that evolved puffles differently. Depending on their evolution of rain, they joined under a certain clan, and eventually kingdoms. These puffle monsters would then fight for the supremacy of their kingdom using powerful abilities such as <Six Heavens Rush>, a powered-up phase to unleash a rush of attacks or special abilities, <Six Heavens Rebirth>, a special evolution phase that certain puffle monsters of the world have achieved through transcendence, and <Six Heavens Battle Cry>, a special boost depending on their clan/kingdom they fall under. ɛŋɖlɛʂʂ xɛŋɪɬɧ: Ruled by The Infinite Regressor and wielder of the Hall of Blades (based on a dream I had about powerful weapons that I collected in a great hall), their champion ๑ɛɖɪʂơŋ. These powerful puffle monsters came from the very first era of creation, and have regressed over and over again, fixing and perfecting themselves and the universes they were in. After their passing, their memories, accomplishments, powers, and achievements would be stored in powerful weapons within a great hall of magic within a personal dimension within their core (a mind palace), in which they can access all these past powers and abilities in order to defeat any opponent.

Also based on the Blade God techniques from the Manhwa “Nano Machine” (Path of the Wand, Sword, and Claw), and the powerful techniques. These puffle monsters were created by the vengeful creator  , a war deity that would create not only for the benevolent purposes of battle, but also the vengeful aspects of destroying his enemies.  (Lionheart): Based on the kingdom of BeNeLux (in Jeracraft server). Ruled by (Emperor Lionheart Sieg) (a past hero who had evolved after going out on a training adventure) and is at war with The Sword Nation. Through the ancient runic script of Rellanic (based on the language described in D&D), these powerful puffle monsters summon the powers of their imagination and powers beyond their realms to unleash powerful spells and abilities in wielding the elements around them.

<Heavenly Saber>: Based on The Sword Nation (in Jeracraft server). Ruled by the  <Heavenly Saber Lord, Kaizer> (a past hero who evolved after going out on a training adventure) and is now at war against the Kingdom of Benelux. These powerful warrior puffle monsters use powerful martial art techniques through swordsmanship, blade arts, and countless other weapon techniques in which they embody the elements around them through their martial arts and is empowered by their inner Qi energy (their Heavenly Saber). Based on the breathing techniques from Demon Slayer as well as the Sword Arts from Sword Art Online and the martial art techniques from the Manhwa “Nano Machine”, “Infinite Leveling Murim”, etc. Their symbol power is represented by Davek (a runic font based on the Dwarven script from D&D)

 (Astra Zetaerth): Welcome to the Astral Bazaar (also known as the Realm of Astra Zetaerth), the dimensional nexus of all universes, a place of wonder, magic, danger, and intrigue. These powerful puffle monster beings come from a communiverse (a universe united under one Alliance/Federation, also based on the teaser trailer for the upcoming Pixar movie Elios). Based on the Spell Runner 3 D&D campaign. These puffle monsters not only use different powers and abilities but also use extremely powerful Reality Altering abilities that allow them to reshape and recreate universes and worlds as they please to which they sell to celestial beings to establish homes in or hold them as collections to which these worlds are connected to the Astral Bazaar through the <Great Key>, the powerful artifact that grants the powers of astral-shifting to these artisans and craftsmen.

 <Iokhari>: These powerful puffle monsters use the ancient language of Iokharic (language of the dragons from the Forgotten Realms (an official world made in D&D)). Unleash the powerful techniques of the Supreme Saber God as they weaponized their magic rune symbols into powerful martial art techniques. Ruled by the Supreme Saber God, Drago (when I was still into Bakugan a few years ago, I imagined I had my own version of Drago that would be with me as my partner in addition to Redison. As Redison evolved, Drago eventually faded out of picture). In this universe, Drago had actually went on a training journey to become stronger and return to dethrone Redison as my partner as he had not acknowledged him at the time. Mastering the Supreme Saber God Divine Art and the Blade God Divine Techniques and countless other battle mage techniques, all of his adventures and all the allies and worlds he had gathered under his own had come to settle under the <Empire of Iokhari> in which he ruled as the Supreme Saber God. He battled Redison in Round 3 of the Champions League after arriving at UBC as they fought in the brand new <Champions Arena> in Kiviuq (a newly discovered moon of Saturn by UBC astronomers). Redison was victorious in creating a new technique based on the energies of Drago and created his own Xenith Saber God Divine Arts to not only fuse his own magic techniques (Arcane Asura) but also unleash devastating power similar to the techniques of Drago. These powerful puffle monsters each train under a specific doctrine under one “School” of the Supreme Saber God Divine Arts or Blade God Heavenly Techniques. Through mastering both, one gains the title of <War God>, and begins cultivating their own styles of techniques to teach to new students.

 <Garzen>: Long ago, Meteorites descended from the heavens onto the realm of puffle monsters within this universe and evolved these warriors with cosmic powers through the crystals within the meteorites. These puffle monsters would gain extremely powerful abilities akin to superheroes while also utilizing the meteorite’s alien properties to develop advanced technology, powerful weapons, and increase their longevity, making them nigh-immortal. Ruled by the Flame Emperor, Marcus Garzen (Magmagrabber), who had once been a hero and partner of mine (based on the hero from Wonderful 101 on Nintendo Switch), who had gone on a training journey to evolve and develop his powers, coming across this universe in which the meteorite crystals evolved his powers. He later developed these technologies and became the Flame Emperor himself. Based on Black Panther (Wakanda and Vibranium specifically) and Paw Patrol movie (the meteorite and crystals) as well as the Club Penguin Super hero event (with the gloves of powers created from meteorites). These puffle monsters use a futuristic super language (Nyctographic) that controls the magic energy of the meteorites and their powered up magic energy to unleash their powers to the maximum. Marcus challenges Redison in Round 4 of the Champions League after arriving at UBC as they battle in the <Champions Arena> on the moon Kiviuq (a new moon of Saturn discovered by UBC scientists). Redison was successful (barely) against Marcus but was fought to a standstill as Marcus had mastered the abilities granted by the Meteorites (such as elemental creation and manipulation, magic energy destruction, etc) as well as the powers granted by their powered clothing and armor designed by the meteorite.

Chapter 18: Hissatsu! The Grand End!: The 3rd and 4th rounds of the Champions League have finished (the 2nd set of midterms) and my job at LBN is ramping up. I have recently been given more tasks for them but have also been dealing with a slew of issues of my own (specifically motivation to study due to the idea of summer vacation). However, I made a decision to just focus on work and fun for July and August so that I could rest just a bit. But in the meantime, the final week of class is next week and finals are the week after. The newly established <Champions Arena> on the moon of Kiviuq now serves as the official arena of the <Champions League> as it begins to wrap up with its grand finale, <The Grand End> with the title of <Champion of Champions> as the stakes. While Drago and Marcus have returned and serve as partner types (gaining the Partner attribute after their training) and now aiding Redison as a close ally, more warriors of the past are returning…As the Champions League comes to a close, it is discovered that it was organized by Redison PRIME and the mysterious Dynasty of PRIMES in order to find champions and warriors strong enough to lead the charge against Daevakron and destroy him once and for all with the threat of Daevakron arriving in the Xenithverse to devour it in the near future. All champions and armies of the countless worlds that participated in the competition fought hard against Daevakron as it arrived. Redison was successful in defeating Daevakron despite taking much damage from the battle after maximizing his powers through the powers of XenithX, an ability he is not used to yet. The grand finale is about to begin as Redison is met with the final challenge, despite the threat of Daevakron being over, the tournament must go on, and finish! The final battle, Redison vs…Redison? The ultimate goal, to run towards a dream for my future answering the final question, where do I see myself in 5 years? A question i've been unable to answer for the longest time as I dislike looking into the future.

ΛƧΉΙΠ∂ΡΛ: Based on Ashindra (from Beyblade Burst Rise/GT) and all the martial arts and sword art techniques in the manhwa "Nano Machine" as well as the idea of "Fables" and stories from the Webtoon "Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint" as well as the idea of Story Deck (a story builder), these powerful puffle monsters all come from the multiverse created by the <Zenith Big Bang>, a power in which the big bang, creation, and destruction (all three of which are supreme powers in comparison to the other elements of power such as flame, water, speed, time, etc) are just units of power in comparison to the power of <Zenith Big Bang>. Long ago, Ρєдιση mastered the ultimate power of the <Zenith Big Bang> as the very first one to achieve such power. With this power, he created worlds, fables, and stories to entertain him but also keep him company as he had been lonely in his journey through an empty void of darkness. These puffle monster beings eventually created their own units of power such as the elements, fabrics of reality (space, time, spirit, etc), and dimensions and planes of reality for them to inhabit. In time, they created cultures, power systems that allowed them control over the units of power they created (specifically magic, Qi techniques, martial arts, and writing systems in a strange new form that can't even be written as it varies among the billions of universes created within the <Great Space> (takes a form of tree/graph learned from CPSC 110 in which each node is a universe that holds one <Great Story> where within are Fables, Legends, Myths, Nebulas, Galaxies, and countless worlds within this node that follows the order of the <Great Story>). Their champion is the reincarnation of Яєдιση (same name too) who has reincarnated countless times to observe his creations and maintain order in his stories as an author in a sense, someone who knows the fates of all characters and stories but also can make any edits necessary to create alternate stories and spin-offs if he so desires.

CRIMSON: Under the Center for Reduction, Imagination Management, Story Omissions, and News (CRIMSON), an alternate and powerful version of Redison rules as the CEO with one goal, to erase the differences of power and mold all puffle monster beings as one unified race under his control, a singularity/hive-mind under the control of CRIMSON. These puffle monsters have been artificially created as weapons of destruction but also with a unique and destructive power, to erase the stories and unique characteristics of others. Based on the Dystopian novels 1984, Fahrenheit 451, and Brave New World. Redison uses the ability of <CRIMSON ERASE> (an ability that erases a story/unique characteristic of opponent) and <CRIMSON REVISION> (revise history and stories to his ideal) to establish absolute control of his universe and has arrived in UBC to defeat and brainwash the champions in order to conquer all universes. Based on Wisdom from Buddyfight X and the CHAOS monsters he had. Redison is portrayed as ∞ INFINITY THE CRIMSON ∞ (based on ∞ Infinity the Chaos ∞ from Buddyfight X). However, Redison Ashindra and all the worlds under his command were able to eliminate him complete, "Revising" CRIMSON Redison and the rest of CRIMSON as a new power of diversification, create revisions in stories to create spin-offs and alternate tales that create new worlds at a faster rate as CRIMSON Redison became an author under the new revisions done by Redison Xenith and Redison Ashindra and the rest of the CRIMSON puffle monsters now work as authors to create new spin-offs under the order of Redison Ashindra.

 <Eldahrin>: Based on Eladrin, the Elven language from Forgotten Realms (D&D), these powerful puffle monsters come from a fallen empire of an ancient extremely advanced civilization of magic and technology. Ruled by a great wise emperor long ago, their universe was under threat of the God of Chaos and Destruction known as Daevakron (based on Unicron from Transformers). Known for devouring entire universes and using the powers for more destruction and devouring, the emperor made the decision to self destruct their universe after sealing all the inhabitants into orbs and split the magic of the universe to the far cosmos. As their magic was vanished, their universe had shattered into pieces, resulting in the fall of their universe, or so was thought. In reality, their magic had traveled and changed forms to the magic of today in countless universes, and with the awakening of the ancient warriors of the empire, they have reformed their society as one of exploration and intellect with the goal of resurrecting their fallen empire into the grand magic empire it was long ago. Their form of magic is known as the purest form of runic magic as magic symbols are stripped of any extra parts into the purest form (which was the original symbols of the Eldahrin long ago), and through collecting these symbols, they are able to revive realms of magic and awaken more ancient warriors that used those ancient symbols. These powerful warriors use these ancient symbols of magic to not only change magic around them, but also purify it into any form they need it to be.

<Manakran>: Warriors that are Descendents of the First God of Magic and granted the powers of the <Manaverse> (a universe of mana energy within their core that they can access and unleash powerful spells of creation and destruction with no mana limits (the lack of limits only applies to their core item though)). These powerful god like mages are known to be deities of their home worlds as wielders of Mage Script, the ancient language of the First God of Magic and the language that calls upon the Manaverse energy. These puffle monsters come from an ancient empire that has survived the attack of Daevakron and hidden away to avoid giving the powers of the Manaverse to Daevakron. These puffle monsters have remained connected through time, space, and dimensions through the Manaverse within them and serve as protectors of their worlds against the threat Daevakron presents as it arrives using the ancient power of the Mage Script.

<Draconic Origin>: Dovahkiin/Dovahzul (The dragonic language from Elder Scrolls). Ruled by Redison II, a past hero (the 45th) that had gone on a training journey after retiring and mastered the ancient draconic language of power, becoming a dragonborn warrior. Also based on the Legendary Dragoons from SD Gundam World Heroes Legend of the Dragon Knight (Superior Strike Freedom Dragon, Alternative Justice Infinity Dragon, Dominant Superior D Dragon, and Superior Formula Final Dragon) as well as all the dragons from Dragonvale, Dragonvale World, Dragon City, and Dragon Story (games I enjoyed playing a while ago and was a big inspiration for the diversity of magic within Puffles and puffle monsters). These powerful dragonic beings unleash the draconic language of Dovahkiin but also unleash the great powers of the <Draconic Origin> within them, granting them powers beyond space and time into a new true form. In their <Draconic Origin> form, they take design similar to the Dragons from the gundam series stated above <ZXENITHZ>: These powerful puffle monsters were created in ancient times by the mysterious being known as the HIgh Evolutionary ZxenithZ. By looking into concepts of powerful beings, items, creatures, forces of nature, and countless other creations, he looked into evolving the bodies and souls of puffle monsters as he would fuse their <Origin Source> with countless concepts that would then make up their <Origin Source> and therefore their powers, abilities, form, and their own creations later on. For example, there are powerful puffle monsters created with the origin source of the Kraken, granting them gigantism as well as enhanced super strength, highly powerful water abilities, and the ability to manifest giant tentacles which allow them to manipulate countless items and weapons. Others can have the Origin Source of the Bear which gives them increased super strength, a strong hide, and claws.

All of these creations and highly evolved perfected puffle monster creatures and super beings use the powers of <ZxenithZ Origin> abilities and the ancient language known as the High Aelfa language (based on the Aelfa font) which they use to unleash symbols to not only unleash magic from their <Origin Source> but also powers from other sources of power that attribute to their <Origin Source> <Ivalius>: Based on the font “Alphabet of the Magi” and the Endless Circles/Hole method from the Manhwa “Damn Reincarnation” and based on the head design (all of them have this same head design or a symbol similar to it) . These powerful puffle monster mages use the pure mana manipulation through Mana/Magic circles which can be combined into countless formations to unleash more complex and powerful spells and abilities. Each symbol can transform into a magic circle to which spells would be many symbols would be many many rings around each other. By unleashing <Ivalius Infinitius>, they create one giant magic circle with each symbol as a particle that makes up the large magic circle as infinite magic circles form within the giant circle in intertwining forms to fuse the magic energies together into an infinite source of ultimate power. Ruled by the Queen of Mages, Eva, Torch’s wife who he met in this world and that taught him many techniques of power.

 <Firestar>: Based on the Thorass font and the White Flame and Red Flame method from the Manhwa “Damn Reincarnation”. These ancient magician puffle monsters use the powers of their ancient magic symbols as they take the form of stars within them which resonates with their core and with each other depending on how many stars are within them (each mastered super symbol within their core takes the form of a star) to unleash a mana outburst that takes the form of a “Mana Soul” that surrounds them in the form of a mane of a beast or as if they are enveloped in a powerful flame, which empowers all their stats and combat ability. Ruled by Torch/Brisingr, a past hero that after retiring had entered this strange world of magic in which he traveled the world and collected the powerful techniques of the world to strengthen himself.

 <PRIME Dynasty>: Powerful puffle monsters under the Dynasty of PRIMES, legends of great power first created by the first forms of magic known as the <Supremes>. Based on the deities, zodiacs, and powers from the Manhwa “Return of the Disaster-Class Hero”. Ruled by their champion swordsman of Unyielding flames, Redison PRIME. Using the powers of ancient deity magic (based on the Falmer font), each symbol is and holds the powers of a deity and by combining them into spells can unleash ultimate powers beyond imagination through the fusion of deities

<Bujin>: Based on Kamen Rider Tycoon Bujin Sword form and the Ming Imperial Font and the countless martial art Manhwas and Webtoons i’ve been reading. These powerful sword art masters train in their element, honing their techniques and sword art into perfection, creating variations and improving it to be unrivaled. In addition to perfecting their sword art, they are master swordsmiths as they hone and perfect their blade to become one with them. Using the Bujin symbols, they can call upon powerful magic forces to strengthen their sword arts and unleash powerful attacks. Ruled by the Bujin Sword Emperor, Raidos (the third hero who after retirement went to study the mystic arts and sword arts)

<Bushin>: Based on the designs of anime characters from Project Dividers on Instagram and the Atari Kids font. These warriors wield special mechanical transforming blade-like weapons in combination with their unique martial god techniques become powerful forces. These more contemporary modern puffle monster martial artists use mechanical weapons they created themselves or inherited and mastered with their aura to unleash powerful attacks and skills that rival the Bujin clan. Using a modernized symbol system, they can utilize a more purified Qi energy to strengthen their attacks and techniques. Ruled by the Battle King, Raijin (the 4th hero who followed Raidos and has a rivalry with him).

<Merosi>: Based on the Avatar forms from the Indigo_region on Instagram in which a warrior is empowered as the avatar of another warrior, fusing to unleash untold powers. Using the powers granted by the ancient language of Meros (based on the Meroitic Demotic font), these powerful warriors unleash the unique ability of <Avatar forms> which allow them to emulate the powers of another warrior that has granted them their power to become their <Avatar> temporarily, thus gaining a new form similar to a fusion. Ruled by the Hero of Ten-Thousand Blades, Xenith (the 38th hero from long ago who after retiring had learned of this phenomenon and mastered its powers).

<Ma’atzetii>: The alien beings known as “The Makers” wielding magic powered through the Ma’atzetii (Mah-aht-Zet-aye), a powerful futuristic runic language both spoken and written (based on the Magzetician font). Long ago, they were a flourishing multiversal empire of magic and creativity that had prospered and expanded through diplomacy for countless eras. However, Daevakron had spotted their activity and was successful in devouring them. In a last resort, their Zei’in (ruler) used a great spell that was able to save his empire, in which all worlds in the empire would be sealed in an eternal slumber and that all worlds that Daevakron would devour later on would also fall into a slumber, only giving Daevakron a copy of the power of the world it devoured (a minimized form aka a weaker form) so as to not raise suspicion. These alien beings were freed later on following the defeat of Daevakron and returned as a great multiversal empire as the space their multiverse took up had returned to space and balanced out in which they formed a union with the Xenithverse after they rescued them. Despite their advanced creation abilities similar to the God/Goddess of Creation from Kamen Rider Geats, as well as us humans when it comes to story writing, D&D, art, video game development, etc, they are also powerful in the form of highly advanced technology and magic abilities to which they have a culture focused on quality of creations and showcasing, with different jobs and positions in society based on their creation ability.

ᚢᚾᛏᛁᛗᚨ <Ultima>: These alien beings are from a unified cluster of many civilizations that had been devoured and sealed (through the spell of the Ma'atzetii) but had mysteriously clustered together and fused into one giant universal space under the desire of their Ultima (their ruler) before they had been sealed away. Long ago, during the attack of Daevakron, the Ultima Federation (a united group of many galaxies) had recently been dealing with civil wars as they couldn't agree on how they would go about defending their peoples, leading to them being defeated easily. In the Ultima's final words before sealing, he had made a wish that should they survive for unity to be achieved. This resulted in a powerful spell that enveloped their space in which worlds that were apart would join their cluster of worlds. This megacluster of universes, realities, and spaces would be freed later on following the destruction of Daevakron by the Xenithverse and peace would be established as a new Federation was formed among their worlds, now with a larger council, and a group of elite champions to travel the universes within the space to maintain order and act as diplomats and ambassadors. These alien beings use a unified runic system proposed by the Federation known as the <Ultima Code> or Ultimas. This new code would channel the powers of all the universes and worlds within the realm of Ultima and grant unique abilities through the use of their own home language in combination with Ultimas to unleash powerful spells and abilities.

XenithX: Redison unleashes the power of the Origins (powerful achievements that become stars in the astral realm and create universes of their own as an origin point). He achieved 20 Origins, creating the Constellation XenithX (a sword, shield, and armor above it). Based on the Constellations from Genshin Impact and the Origins from Stellaris. These puffle monsters were created from the now purified Daevakron, which now creates and manages Origins within a new realm where these Origins create universes and new worlds where new puffle monsters powered by these Origins reside and create new tales and achievements to become Origins in the future. These puffle monsters use the unique powers of the Origins they have and are able to access, granting them unique boosts in abilities or a special power.

𝔸𝔼𝕆ℕ: From the Land of Eternal Tomorrow (based on Kiribati, Samoa, and India (12 hours and 30 minutes ahead of Vancouver during Standard time)), a futuristic realm of great technology in a land where it is always "tomorrow". Based on Max Steel (Turbo energy and Turbo modes). These powerful puffle monsters in the future have mastered the ultimate force of power through combining all forces of magic energy into one powerful entity they fuse with as their own persona form that not only gives them superhuman abilities but also high power magic and a new form through the power known as AEONIS. Using Aeonis technology and magic energy, they have mastered powerful new abilities representative of the great future. Represents the answer to the question, where do I see myself in 5 years? The observation that I didn't see myself anywhere in 5 years worried my parents and they told me that I should look for my future so I have a goal to go towards, a dream to leap towards. These puffle monsters represent the great future I see

HYPERΛEΩN: These powerful warriors unleash the powers of hyperaeon, a powerful flaming force of power created from the perfect harmony and fusion of Xoul, Spirit, Aura, Core, Energy, Mana, Qi, personas, Mind (stats like speed, strength, defense, etc), and Life-force (body). This ultimate power rivals the force of Aeonis and is present in the Xenithians. Represents my plans to change and put more effort to a better future

July: Adventure and The Future

Chapter 19: Future Time! The Seven Sages: The finals are over for me and it has been a great weekend to relax and just have fun and let loose. Now is the time for me to buckle down and work (for my job). In the meantime, with the Champions League over and the threat of Daevakron gone, Redison has been met with a new challenge by Redison Aeonis, to challenge and defeat the Seven Sages in order to determine a new path (hopefully) as course registration comes in and my family arrives next week. The Seven Sages each hail from a future civilization in which I had stuck to a specific path and the Xenithverse evolved in that direction, creating a new alternate version of the Xenithverse. As the realities of the Sages begin to arrive, strange fluctuations in time create new rifts and new portals for new rivals to appear from.

<Dainsleif>: Ruled by Dainsleif, the first of the Seven Sages and known as the Sword Sage. These powerful puffle monsters come from a future civilization from the reality of If I find interest in accounting and successfully move to Sauder after 2nd year. Also based on the Webtoon/Manhwa “Return to Player” and “Absolute Necromancer”. These powerful warriors use the powers as Spirit Masters to summon powerful spirit soldiers and weapons to unleash powerful forces of magic through the ancient symbol powers based on Dwemer font.

Valrik: The Second of the Seven Sages known as the Sage Ascendant. Using ancient symbols based on the Kitisakkullian font, these puffle monsters hail from the reality if I go into the teaching degree in my third year in the Math Major Dual B.ED program. Also based on the designs of warriors from lunar.midnight.ai on Instagram, as powerful arcane elemental warriors using cosmic magic to unleash the powers of the ascended arcane elements <Ereboria>: Ruled by the Third of the Seven Sages known as the Sage Infinite. Using the powers of the symbols of magic and concept of magic based on the Manhwa “Infinite Mage” and the symbols from the Cirth Erebor font, these puffle monsters hail from the reality where I go into the Faculty of Arts in BA Psych after 2nd year. By having a better understanding of how people think (just as how in Infinite Mage, he learned the inner workings of magic), I use this knowledge to better myself and help to better others. In the Xenithverse, these puffle monsters have mastered the inner workings of magic (as it has changed form based on the use of Spirit Zones, Scaela (body manipulation), and the different concepts of magic from the Manhwa) and use it to not only better the lives of others but also improve their powers.

Ophidi~~U~~s: These powerful puffle monsters descended from the Supreme clan known as the Gaolong clan, descended from the great dragons of power. These puffle monsters are ruled by their hero-king known as Ooredison (also known as Orion) (based on Ookuwagata Ohger from Kingohger) who has mastered the great dragonic arts of their clan from long ago but as their civilization went into hiding, has been trying to revive the civilization into greatness once more. These puffle monsters use ancient dragonic tongue and serpentine abilities based on the Ophidian language, which parallel to the magic abilities descended from the Gaofeng clan. Their magic focuses on attack and counterattacking, making their abilities more powerful in an offensive stance. Their core ability and philosophy is the idea of strengthening one sole power to become unrivaled and destroy all other forms of magic, but also, the ability to erase one self in order to become stronger mentally and unleash greater power with no limits. Also based on the powers of the Constellation Ophiuchus (from the Manhwa Return of the Disaster Class Hero)

Vaifeng: Based on the Manhwa “Absolute Necromancer” and the class <All-master>. Known as the Ultimate All-Master, the powerful master of all weapons, magic, and abilities. These warriors use the powerful magic symbols of the All-Masters through symbols based on the Vai Script of Liberia. Long ago, there were 2 supreme clans of warriors descended from deities, the Gaolong clan and the Gaofeng clan, one of the Dragon and one of the Phoenix. These powerful puffle monsters descended from the ancient Gaofeng clan that had gone into hiding long ago due to the threat of Daevakron destroying their ancient and long surviving lineage and kingdom. Their magic focuses on strengthening themselves and improving their skills through diversifying their techniques to become masters of all forms of combat in order to become better.

Zygnar: Based on the powers of Plausibility from the Manhwa “World’s Strongest Troll”, these powerful puffle monsters hail from the realm known as Zygnar, an alternate version of the feminine astral realm known as Zygnor (where all my gal friends from my past have their avatars that evolved into supreme beings), in which through plausibility, these puffle monsters managed to conquer the realm, eliminate the avatars (and steal their abilities), and make it their own. Through this strange power, these puffle monsters have no level system nor health, but are extremely powerful in terms of powers that break and bend the laws of magic and reality around them, allowing them to create or summon items and abilities that can either exist or not exist or both at the same time, a said impossible power that reaches beyond the imagination.

ERAS: Based on the concept I hear about people saying they are in their “X era” (X being substituted in this case), such as their “Villain Era”, “Alien Era”, Hero Era, etc. Hidden within IKB lie the mysterious Crystalline Editions, blank glass books (in the form of an art piece) that hold infinite storylines within them, and within them, countless universes of different “Eras” within each of these pages of each book. By unleashing the powers of the crystalline energy within them, they can change into different eras by unleashing the powers from the different pages that hold each universe and storyline within it. Based on the concepts of sb.fakemon and his different regions. After Redison enters the realms of the Eras through access to the <Editions>, he finds himself wielding the Crystal Vail, a powerful sword that transforms into any object at the will of the owner and grants the ability to not only change Era forms, but also create new Eras. (the Crystal Vail being based on the Veil Key from sb.fakemon and the idea of the “pen mightier than the sword”). Also based on the ability “Divine Descent” from the Manhwa “The World’s Strongest Troll”.

- The Era before time itself: Set in a mysterious universe where time has yet to exist…
- An era after time itself: Set in a mysterious universe where time itself has ended, but a concept of time still exists?
- Era of Reality: Set in a universe where all forms of reality exist, as all imagination is reality, the essentially great era of creators
- Era of Imagination: A fantastical universe in which all forms of imagination exist, in a more dream like state
- Zenith Alien/Starfleet Era: A futuristic universe of space travel inspired by Star Wars and Star Trek
- Abysmal Kraken/Pirate Era: A universe inspired by the pirates of the seven seas such as Pirates of the Caribbean
- Scorching Era of Ra: A universe inspired by ancient Egypt where all worship the Sun
- Freezing Era of Khonsu: A cool universe inspired by Ancient Egypt where all worship the moon
- Ancient Ephemeral Era: A fleeting universe where all time is accelerated, taking a strange fluctuating nature as nature itself decays in an instant but regrows in an instant
- Ancient Eternal Era: A universe where all time has frozen, as the cycle of life has essentially frozen in place.
- Frigid Era of Evernorth: A universe inspired by prehistoric ice age Earth and survival
- Neon Era of Dreaming Dawn: A universe in the far future where “Design powers” can be used to create powers from their dreams and make it reality
- Neon Era of Nightmarish Dusk: A universe in the far future where “Design powers” are being used in a militaristic manner to conquer the world
- Crimson Era of Villains: A dark realm in which all personas are swapped, good becomes bad, bad becomes good
- Era of Eden: The verdant era of eternal greenery from all worlds
- Infinite others to discover and create, such as cowboy themed, vampire themed, elemental themed, medieval, etc

<Kaiixa>: Ruled by the Fourth of the Seven Sages, Kaiixa Supreme, the Sage Almighty. Rules a purely synthetic empire, from the reality where I move into CS after the end of 2nd year. Ruled by completely artificial super beings created from a powerful source of energy known as Zetas (combination of data bits and information as well as a futuristic energy similar to tachyon particles), which takes a form of different symbols based on the Y2k Subterran Express font. These powerful alien beings collected data on super powers and attributed them to the strongest forms of Zetas energy that resonated with these powers, creating the Great XII (12 in Roman numerals) representing the 12 colors (Red, orange, yellow, green, blue, purple, pink, black, white, brown, gold, and rainbow - the original colors of puffles I had with gold and rainbow as the imaginary ones). These 12 powers were represented with different super powers being <Boost, Flame, Builder, Shogun (sword master), Tank (heavy cannon arms and defense), Zombie, Beat, Drake (dragon head), Magnum/Gun, Gauntlet (increased strength in the form of giant hands/fists), Sorcerer, Creation> with the Commander powers as <Jet, Cannon, and Kaizer XII (based on Boost IX> (based on the Raise Buckles from Kamen Rider Geats). These beings represent a future where I continue the path in CS after finding renewed interest in it.

<Cogni Magna>: Ruled by the Fifth of the Seven Sages known as the Sage Transcended. These powerful puffle monsters hail from the reality of where I go into COGS (brain and cognition) during the second term of my second year. In this universe, I recognize the potential of COGS (brain and cognition) in terms of the future such as digitized conscience, avatars, and VR but also focus on understanding what is considered intelligence and better understanding ourselves. These puffle monsters use deity like abilities as masters of astral control as they become one with higher powers through mastering their mental state and creating powerful avatars made of psychic energy that can help aid in battle (similar to a Persona in the Persona games) as well as the super ability to “equip” with their avatars and fuse to unleash powerful stronger forms through unity with their psyche. Based on the “Number monsters” from Yugioh ZEXAL and the ability to equip monsters (ZEXAL Weapon)

<Zenith Unis>: Ruled by the Sixth of the Seven Sages known as the Sage Battle King, these puffle monsters hail from a reality where I get into COGS (Computational Intelligence and Design or Cognition and Brain) in my third year. They are known to have become extremely powerful warriors and known to be the greatest warriors of their respective worlds, regions, etc due to mastering and finding their passion and desire, becoming the best at it (in this case, this may be what drives my future). All have mastered their respective strengths and reached the Zeniths of their form through the powers of <Awakening> in which their powers have become strengthened due to their form and abilities as singularities and can be considered deities in other realms. In this universe, their worlds have fused into one giga-reality, based on the Merged Realms from Ninjago Dragons Rising and magic itself is being fused to create new singularity forms of magic that are unique to each puffle monster in this universe. While they share similar traits (specifically elemental attributes or their core magic origins), their special ability is unrivaled. Designs based on the Riders from Kamen Rider Geats (such as the final forms of Geats Riders and the Fantasy Buckle). Their special power is united under one powerful symbol system known as Unital Code (based on the Interlock Font)

<Numeron>: Ruled by the Seventh of the Seven Sages, known as the Sage Master, these powerful puffle monsters hail from the reality where I continue down the path of Math major in 3rd year. In this universe, I find myself actually liking Math and continue learning about the complexities of Mathematics. Puffle monsters evolve as I discover the “Secrets of the Universe” and Antimatter through mathematics, creating new super puffle monsters and evolving all existing ones, granting this ultimate power through a <Numeron Code> (based on the Numbers from Yugioh ZEXAL and the Amputa Bangiz Font) . These puffle monsters unleash different powers from different unique Numeron Codes, which function as a new symbol system unleashing not only their unique abilities through their unique core Numeron code, but also unleashing other powerful abilities and skills through auxiliary Numeron codes they can wield. Designs also based on the Galaxy monsters, Maximum Summon Monsters, and Sevens Road monsters from Yugioh GO RUSH and Yugioh Sevens as well as XYZ monsters and the Number monsters from Yugioh ZEXAL (100th species)

<Regisone>: Based on the Astral Glyphs from Yugioh ZEXAL, by combining the ultimate powers of the Seven Sages and their civilizations, Redison becomes the Great Sage Xenith, not only gaining a new title and achievement but also creating an avatar that holds this mighty power. Long ago, I lost an energy pokemon card that my Kuya Kyle gave me when I was in Winnipeg many years ago. This power resurfaced in the Xenithverse through the powers of the Seven Sages and created a new universe ruled by their hero king Regison, The Great Sage Xenith. These powerful alien beings summon the powers of cosmic entities (based on the Cthulhu mythical beings) and other deities (based on the Constellations from Webtoon Omniscient Reader) as well as the Pokemon Energy card designs. These puffle monsters use the powers of the mysterious Astral Energy (from the lost pokemon card) within themselves and around them to unleash Astral Glyphs of power for spells and abilities as well as armor and weapons.

Chapter 20: Adventure Time! Destinis Borealis: Based on the crystalline Northern Lights glass design in the Riddington Room, Redison obtained a mysterious new relic known as the Destinis Borealis, a crystalline compass powered by aurora energies and leading to some strange treasure. Redison embarks on a journey up north as he follows the compass and looks to find the treasure the compass leads to. In the meantime, my mom, dad, and shobe (little sister) arrive in Vancouver with a plan to go to Whistler over the weekend as we go to Squamish, Whistler, Pemberton (for Joffre Lakes), and back to Vancouver. The compass ultimately leads Redison to discover the Xentari power as well as new worlds of advanced super Xenithians. The compass then enters Redison as he evolves to wield these new powers in a more stable manner, becoming a core that manages mana and Xentari

Kuronos/Kumonos: Based on Spider Kumonos (from Ohsama Sentai Kingohger), the observation of the Universe's structure as a massive cosmic web and the multiverse as countless webs connected to one another (as well as the incident in which spiders hatched in my room while Mom, Dad, and Shobe were helping me set up the AC in my room and I just noticed the spiders on my ceiling) as Redison absorbed the powers of the Spiders unleashing the powers of a Spider Warrior (also based on Spiderman Across the Spiderverse) while also powered by the forces of the Xenithverse and countless universes connected to God Kuronos (a cosmic spider deity that created the spider structure of the universe as its web). These powerful spider warrior puffle monsters not only use the powers of celestial energies created from celestial webs, but also can travel universes and worlds and use powers from these worlds (albeit with limited ability)

Apex Monarch: Based on the Apex forms from indigo_region on Instagram (the idea of the next evolution of Pokemon as a monarchical force and dominant leader of their species) and the warriors from grimmstein.arts on Instagram. These powerful puffle monsters represent the dominant rulers of their clans and species, fighting others for the right as <Monarch> and therefore unleashing the powers of <Supreme Reign>, mastering not only a supreme aether force of magic known only to the Monarchs, but also gaining unique abilities. Originally discovered within the wilds of Stanley Park through the Destinis Borealis Enchanter: Based on Sevens Enchanter (from Yugioh Sevens) as well as a Enchanted armor and weapons from Minecraft, these powerful puffle monsters were granted special gifts and abilities and the unique ability to boost and enchant powers and items with special powers from their environment in combination with their imagination, bridging the powers of the sea, the earth, and the sky. Found through the Destinis Borealis within Horseshoe Bay (Whytecliff Park and Whyte Isle (the elements of the sea)), Britannia Mines and Shannon Falls (the elements of Earth), and the Sea to Sky Gondola and the suspension bridge at the top (the elements of the sky).

Elaho Alliance: Known as the great naval alliance, these puffle monsters are all great sailors and pirates with special spirit abilities in which they can summon the wild force around them and unleash <Hyper Up> forms (based on the Remix forms from Kamen Rider Revice). Each Naval force has their own fleet, each with their own captain and crew. Named after the Elaho River where Shobe and I did the Elaho Exhilarator Rafting with Canadian Outback Rafting, Captain Kaired and the Crimson River Pirates of the Thompson River returned as they had gone on many adventures as pirates of the rivers of British Columbia and other bodies of water. Since then, they have formed the Elaho Alliance with the other pirates of the Elaho river, with the Raging Rockets fleet, the Green Leaves fleet, the Great Wave fleet, the Timber Wolves fleet, and the Avalanche Alphas. Each fleet has their own unique spirit affinities they work well with and can unleash unique Hyper Up forms through the bonds with their spirits

Wandering Zodiac: Based on the Wandering Saint armor and the other Astral armaments from sinlaire_box on Instagram, the constellations from Genshin Impact, and powers and abilities from the many martial arts manhwas. Found within the kingdom beyond the skies (where we went to the top of Whistler peak and Blackcomb, did the Peak 2 Peak, and the Peak Express to the Cloudraker Bridge and the Raven's Eye), these powerful puffle monsters hold the ancient and ultimate powers of <Zodiacs>, powerful gifts and attributes that are unique to each warrior, spirit, and character. These <Zodiacs> can be shared with others that they have "linked" with (the idea of friending them), and by better knowing the other person/friend, the <Zodiac> they receive from the friend is stronger and can evolve into a more powerful ability or increase in level.

Sword Saint: Ruled by the legendary Sword Saint and the Sword Lords (the swordsmen/women under him), these powerful warriors were found in the Joffre Lakes, training in nature under the tutelage of the Sword Saint himself who trains constantly to sharpen his skills and his mana in order to become the ultimate sword himself. These puffle monsters have mastered the unique art of combining Sword soul, Xoul energy, Sword Qi, Blade mana, and their unique core aura into one uniform ultimate blade energy that they imbue into any of their swords or weapons to create a super energy sword like weapon form they call a <Xiphoid Saber> (based on the Golden Ember blade from Fruit Ninja and how it gave each fruit slashed a golden light around it that made it possible to slash a fruit twice). When attacking with <Xiphoid Saber> force, their unique aura and combination of their energies create a unique aurora color around their Xiphoid Saber which in turn creates a unique slash effect, granting unique skills and sword arts that each warrior learns, hones, and masters. Also based on the Sword Saint Knight Dragon, Gramgrace from Cardfight! Vanguard. It was here that the Destinis Borealis noted the powers of the auroras created by the Sword Saint and his clan, and with Redison mastering the techniques, he unleashes the golden Xiphoid Saber form of his sword (the one my sister designed for him), unleashing a stronger evolution. The compass points back towards Vancouver…

Origins Horizon (OH): An extremely advanced alien species that created the countless simulations of the multiverse and the countless simulations called <Existence> in which each person has a <Horizon> that they do not see but as they walk towards this <Horizon>, these alien beings create the view and the area itself and creates a new horizon which will spawn a new area once that area is seen and reached. In the meantime, these alien super beings live in the realm beyond the Horizon known as the <Dawn> in which they create the surroundings of newly spawned horizon areas as well as monitor and create countless new universes, worlds, and the <Existences> of new human beings that are born, creating the Horizons of imagination but also creating new imaginations and environments for imagination to develop, evolve, and create. Based on the creation powers of Kamen Rider Geats and the design powers from the future (Kamen Rider Ziin, Beroba, Kyuun, Kekera), these puffle monsters are highly technological with unknown powers and an unknown system of symbols that is incomprehensible.

Omikoshi: The mysterious golden phoenix of billions of rainbow wings arises as the symbol of the great deity in which Redison becomes the new Great Deity. This power is later transferred to the Golderex as he becomes The Great Deity in Redison's stead as Redison rules as the <Xenith>. These powerful puffle monsters each wield a power of a Deity as their core takes the form of a shrine to their deity. Each deity is actually a hero or character from other worlds that has finally reached transcendence into deityhood (such as legends (based on the heroes from Kamen Rider Ghost) such as Robin Hood, King Arthur, Merlin, Nobunaga, Guan Yin, Zhuge Liang, Liu Bei, King Tut, Billy the Kid, etc) becoming their avatars as their ultimate representative, unleashing the powers of gods themselves. Given the memories of their <Deity> and their skills, they evolve to become their champion and the new <deity> themselves to continue this great cycle. Ruled by Golderex who originally wielded the powers of the <Sanzang> but has been granted the powers of the Golden Asura Phoenix from Redison and became the supreme <Great Deity> in Redison's stead.

Mithridates: Redison discovers the powers of the very first king of imagination known as King Mithridates Regis hidden within the great Crown of Omniscience and Lance of Omnipotence. Based on the OhgerCrownlance from Kingohger, Calyrex from Pokemon, and Crown of Omniscience from the Webtoon The Dark Magician Transmigrates After 66,666 Years. These powerful puffle monsters are based on the Apex pokemon from Indigo_region but also the Gigantamax Pokemon as well as the idea of Royals as well as different crowns, and what it means to be a leader (based on Kingohger but also based on the countless forms of magic I read about in my Manhwas and Webtoons).

Xaqtha'ar (Zathar): (The q is silent). These powerful puffle monsters are based on a new D&D Infinite Multiverse created by a theoretical me through having the Caliya's Chronicle of Runes and countless runes from the D&D Universe and other worlds and universes in which there are an infinite number of characters and alter-characters (characters that have been written before but are reimagined by myself in which they interact in the Xenithverse or have Xenithian versions of themselves). Created by the Xaqtha'ari, an ancient crystalline relic (based on the d20 Dice) with infinite faces each with a rune of creation that created the multiverse of Zaqtha'ar, a world where Redison rules as Game Master (GM) (and an eventual hope I can make this universe a reality)

Halon: Based on Holon from Pokemon and the idea of Delta Pokemon as well as the DNA from Digimon Data Squad as well as the powers from Kamen Rider Revice and the use of the DNA of powerful species fused to a user to create a Kamen rider through the Vistamp and Revice driver as well as the ability of Genomix from the Demons/Destream Driver, these powerful puffle monsters have unique abilities as mutant type puffle monsters (based on the Bakumutant ability from Bakugan Mechtanium Surge) such as the ability to change genetics with others to unleash new forms or change using an arsenal of alter-dna they have (Genomix abilities), even allowing for powerful fusions to become convergent types (based on Remix forms from Kamen rider Revice and Bakufusion from Bakugan Mechtanium Surge). All of this is due to their use of Powered DNA, an enhanced DNA created through the latest advancements in genetics and magic.

Xenterria: The Sword Sanctuary served as the gateway and the original form of Xentari. Now with the Sword Sanctuary itself within the Ego Sword Xenosenjin (aka Xenos), an ego sword (a powerful sword with a mind, spirit, soul, and persona of its own), stronger than any sword imaginable hidden within The Sword Sanctuary and the final treasure of the Destinis Borealis, Redison had evolved his energy to become Xentari, creating the link between the World of Xenterria and the Xenithverse. Redison himself has is own core Xentari which takes the form of the Aura titan (a giant 3 headed asura that holds countless warrior deities who each hold a legendary weapon and power) which empowers him to an ultimate level. Based on the Chivalric Code from the Webtoon Ex and Ash, the constellations from Webtoon Omniscient Reader, deities/sponsors from Manhwa "Return of the Disaster Class Hero" and "Return of the Shattered Constellation", and the constellations from Genshin Impact, these powerful puffle monster beings also known as Xenithians (as opposed to the Xenithians of the Xenithverse), use the powers created from their unique core Xentari and unleash powerful magic, abilities, and spells through mastery and harmony of their flow of Xentari, creating avatars/spirits of their Xentari and uniting with them to unleash greater power through <Xentari Evolution>. In this case, Redison evolves through Xentari Evolution through his fusion with the Xenosenjin (Xenos) (the original Xentari) and his own Core Xentari to evolve. The powers of Xentari allow them to unleash unique skills from a celestial skill tree created through the heavens, becoming deity like warriors through transcendence and full mastery.

Xenos: The Original form of Xentari, the Ego Sword Xenosenjin takes the form of the wielder, who in this case is Redison, giving him a corporeal form as a form of Redison with a crimson and gold lined coat, a black shirt with red flames in it, black pants, and shoes (all of which has white outlining) or a powerful armored flaming knight wielding itself (based on Buster Xcalius avatar, which is one of Redison's armored forms). When in sword form, Redison fuses with the Xentari of Xenos and together their Xentari unleash a form of the Xentari form of Redison except now wielding countless flaming armored forms of the deities it once held (basically super evolved versions).

Zhalon: Based on Holon from Pokemon and Baku Suits, Baku-nano, and Bakugan Mobile Assaults (all from Bakugan Mechtanium Surge), these powerful puffle monsters come from a future in which human made and influenced puffle monsters have evolved to become the dominant species of the Xenithverse as opposed to the pure magic ones, in which all pure magic ones eventually merged within the society of the Zhalonites (pronounced Zaylonites). Through combining human technological concepts such as high powered weaponry, battle suits, and vehicular transportation, these puffle monsters combined their magic and DNA in addition to this technology to create new powerful super weapons unique to their DNA and powers, empowering them further, creating a futuristic humanized society, with different professions, careers, and heroes Aehalon/Daihalon: Powers of the heavens (the Aether). Based on Mechtogan and Mechtogan Titans from Bakugan Mechtanium Surge, these powerful puffle monsters call upon the Armory of the Heavens, summoning the power of aether powered warriors bonded to their Aether Core (a unique core that is rare among most Xenithians but common within the realm of Daihalon, the Aether powered realm of technology and magic). Through unleashing their Aether Core, they can call upon their <Daihalon> (pronounced Dai-lon) to assist in battle, unleashing powerful godly abilities as giant aether warriors. Redison calls upon his own, Daishaka (based on Shaka Buddha and Daibutsu Buddha, and based on Zenthon Titan and Zenthon from Bakugan Mechtanium Surge). Also based on the Aether warrior designs from grimmstein.arts on Instagram. The puffle monster warriors themselves wield powerful Aether powered armor and weapons they create through their Aether aura and core power to unleash unique abilities that are unrivaled and match similar themes and bond to their Daihalon. Also based on the idea of the 7 heavens (7 heavens, 7 Earths, 7 underworlds) from different mythologies, as in this universe, the numerous heavens, Earths, and underworlds fuse into one super realm of Aethera (pronounced Aethra).

August: Reunion, Golden Age, The Sun, Battlefield (Chess, Cards, etc)

- Story Arcs
    - Chapter 21: Roar! Ruler of the Battlefield
    - Chapter 22: Reunion! The Golden Age of Heroes (Tournament of Heroes)

Chapter 21: Roar! Ruler of the Battlefield: The past few days I have been working in Owen's apartment (he is my manager at Learning Buddies Network) as I have been finishing building the learning kits for both reading buddies and math buddies for their fall 2023 program. During my time here, while I have also gotten to get to know Owen, I also got to experience Dragon Boating for the first time and notice that it's actually a really good workout! Might think about doing it, who knows. In the Xenithverse, Redison has evolved since obtaining the ultimate powers of the Aether as well as powers of the Xentari. Meanwhile, the fabric of reality has begun to glitch and tear as new dimensions and planes of reality are being sighted during battles, summoning new powerful warriors, each with different natures of combat, with the rumor that this is under the orchestration of the <Ruler of the Battlefield>.

Sky Shift: Take to the skies as the battlefield, creating a new dimension of battle (based on Cardfight! Vanguard and the battlefield they play on, and an imagined version of my monsters (Sora/Sabone, Redison, and NEMESIS/Zeteyris) as cards) in which Sora can become the Heavenly Emperor through the Azure Mask and create a skyshift (an extra field for cards above the original). These puffle monsters have lighter shades of colors and have the unique characteristic to float without using the power of the wind or wings, a strange quality due to their skyshifted nature.

Soul Shift: Unleash a barrage of attacks from the shadows, creating a new dimension of battle (based on Cardfight! Vanguard and the battlefield they play on, and an imagined version of my monsters (Sora/Sabone, Redison, and NEMESIS/Zeteyris) as cards) in which Zeteyris can become the Soul Infinite through the Soul Mask and create a soulshift (an extra field of cards through soul-charging and placing cards into the soul of other units, in which these units within the soul can actually attack separately). These puffle monsters are keen observers and able to view within their opponent through "looking into their soul" which allows them to strategize and attack opponents effectively ZAEA (Zeta Arms Enviro Alliance): Based on ZAIA Enterprise from Kamen Rider Zero-One, Ride Chemy Cards from Kamen Rider Gotchard, and Raise Buckles from Kamen Rider Geats. There are a total of 1,000 man made puffle monsters in PVHS where users can catch them and armor up using a ZAEA driver (based on the Decade driver) in which they can take the powers of the puffle monster they used (also based on Absorption Chess). Ruled by ZAEAS, a powerful warrior created through the fusion of the 1000 powers and combined with <Essence of Redison> (as I was a Co-founder of the EA (Environmental Alliance and President of the CS Club (in which this fictional organization is a fusion of both)), to create a new powerful champion (based on Kamen Rider Thouser and Decade).

||Parallel||: Powerful puffle monsters from alternate parallel universes and can join the battle through a parallel jump, which creates a portal between the universes and temporarily switches the magic rules and laws, allowing for the parallel puffle monster to battle in the other universe. Example, a fighter in a battle can call a parallel monster by <trading> a monster they have that has a <parallel> (a counterpart from a parallel universe), which then creates a portal and summons the parallel. After a certain amount of time, the parallel returns to their home universe and the original returns back, both having gained a new ability from that universe. Also based on the BREAK from Pokemon. All parallels are unique and different, and summoned through imagining a parallel universe that the <Parallel> hails from. Also based on Parallel World Chess and the concept of Isekai and Regression in Manhwas

Astralcraft: Based on Fairy Chess Pieces and the countless Planes of the Multiverse of Magic The Gathering, as well as the Astral Plane from Cardfight! Vanguard Shinemon and summoning Astral Deity cards on the plane. Distinguished by their symbols and attributes as <Planecrafters> (based on Planewalkers from MTG and the different classes/attributes in Shadowverse Game), they are given a certain class no matter their home plane, dimension, world, universe, etc. Example: A wild animalian swordsman from the plane of nature would be given Beastcraft due to their animalistic nature, while a vampire from a futuristic vampiric plane would have Bloodcraft. Another unique characteristic of them is their summoning method as different <Plane circles> (based on the Imaginary Gifts from Cardfight! Vanguard) are placed in certain formations to create the plane these different warriors hail from. For example, creating a gateway (the connecting space between the two planes) to the Plane of Opithra (home to creatures with more tentacle-like features and use more <Seacraft> abilities as opposed to others) is created through a formation of <Plane circles> organized like a trident. Another plane gateway can be created to the Plane of Ikoria (from MTG) through the <Plane circles> organized like a claw.

<Ifvreix>: What if the Hero Cycle never ended? In this universe, the hero cycle continued as the very first hero evolved and regressed over millennia, absorbing all the powers of past incarnations and their unique abilities and traits as well as their memories and the worlds they explored within a great empire expanding time and space, until eternity. Since the beginning of time, the hero took form and later on regressed into the 2nd incarnation, then 3rd, 4th, etc. In this point of time on Earth in 2023, we meet the 1,000,000,000 (Billionth) incarnation of the hero, known as the <Ruler of the Battlefield>, an extradimensional entity that rules over all realities, universes, and planes on all timelines (based on the Time Lords from Doctor Who). Based on 5th dimensional chess with Multiverse Time Travel and Gear Chronicle from Cardfight! Vanguard G and “Futureshifted” from Magic The Gathering. These powerful puffle monster entities hail from the planes of alternate timelines and dimensions and has the unique ability to travel to other planes on other timelines, creating a new timeline and set of planes on that timeline (which will be based on the effects that happened due to one entity leaving one plane on one timeline and traveling to another, and which will contain new altered puffle monsters with different abilities)

Kuroson: Based on Kamen Rider X-Geats and the Dark Heavenly Asura technique and based on the Indigo_region pokemon concept of guiding spirits for each biome (the reapers). These powerful puffle monsters are known as those of the Void, a dark realm of great nightlife and glittering with stars in a land of eternal twilight, as these puffle monsters hold the powers of the Kuros, spirit guides that lead those to the spirit realms of their respective universe. Each universe has their own spirit world/afterlife, but <The Void> connects all the spirit realms together into one general plane, with <The Void> acting as the in-between plane for all other planes. In the event of unruly spirits, these powerful reapers have the ability to call upon the powers of different spirits and past puffle monsters to unleash <Kuros Arms>, equipping themselves with the powerful abilities of a certain spirit to gain a new power. The Kuros can summon as many Kuros Arms as needed, but with a limit of their own <Twilight Mana>, their inner core mana that limits how many Kuros Arms they can summon. Through mastery of the Dark Heavenly Asura force, Kuroson (a reaper counterpart of Redison) can summon an infinite number of <Kuros Arms>. Many other Kuros master the Dark Heavenly Asura but has a different variation of it, giving them different super abilities, such as increased attack power for all Kuros Arms, or the ability to summon an infinite number of certain types of Kuros Arms.

Eksan/Ekson/Xson: Ruled by a White/Gold warrior named Eksan (Xson), an archmage based on the Manhwa “Archmage Transcending Through Regression” and based on the Indigo_region pokemon concept of champions becoming mystical protectors (the guardians). These powerful puffle monsters unleash the great powers of magic circles they create through great spirit magic, which allows them to not only create unique forms of mana to store and circulate their power, but also create and wield powerful items as mystical guardians of their realms. Also based on the magic abilities from the Manhwa “Infinite Mage”

Chapter 22: Reunion! The Golden Age of Heroes (Tournament of Heroes): I have arrived back to Phoenix, Arizona and am spending time with my family but also hoping to meet up with some old friends of mine. In addition, I am also quite happy to be spending my birthday here and am also looking forward to celebrating once I return to UBC as well (another reunion technically with my friends there). In the meantime, Redison has finally evolved to reach the <Golden Age> achievement, and with hopes of prosperity, new warriors arrive to challenge the new Ruler of the Battlefield (something that Redison achieved after unlocking the Golden Crown of Battle). Redison unlocks the powers of <Mastery> and now walks the road to <Grandmaster>. Behold! The power of <Mastery>, a power that all warriors and characters have and unlock at a certain point in time (at Age 19). These warriors train their <Mastery> to reach a higher level over time. Each form of <Mastery> manifests as a unique trait and power the wielder will strengthen and evolve (acts as a passive). Redison unlocks the powers of his Mastery Trait known as <Xenith Master> which evolves over time, taking the initial form of <Xenith Master Golden Age> through the Golden Crown of Battle. As Redison learns the powers of <Mastery>, he is entered into the mysterious Tournament of Heroes as he battles powerful warriors of different fighting and magic energy techniques.

Golden Ritter: Happy Birthday William!! I finally turned the legal age in Canada (Age 19) and hope this will be a great year. Based on Jackknife Gold Ritter and Future Sword, Jackknife Granthese from Buddyfight), these powerful puffle monsters of the prosperous ideal era of magic known as the Great Golden Age wield the powers of the golden age and harness their own golden armors which evolve and grow stronger as they master their powers. These puffle monsters have a measure of power known as <Potential> which within them grows over time as they master their powers and abilities and grow stronger as they learn. This <Potential> within them manifests as the golden armor and super weapon they wield and can evolve and grow as they grow.

Z'thelon (Zythelon): Based on the powers of the free-flowing magic across dimensions and the <Achievement of Dimension> from The Advanced Player of the Tutorial Tower, as well as the Terastalize Phenomenon (from Pokemon Scarlet and Violet) and based on the DnD Campaign The Crystals of Z'leth. These powerful crystalline puffle monsters have crystalline energies that maximize their power through the crystallization of the free-flowing energy of the dimension around them and the powers of achievements and fables, as story power is fused with the free-flowing energy of the dimension to combine into crystallized power that wraps around them, and massive crystalline crowns appear on their head, granting them regal powers of their dimension (as the "King/Queen of the dimension/realm"). The crystal crown (based on the Tera Crown from Pokemon Scarlet and Violet) not only grants different abilities and bears a unique design, but also is the manifestation of wisdom and intelligence, creating a stronger crystal form (and crown) depending on their level of wisdom and intelligence (based on Crystalized intelligence vs fluid intelligence). Also based on the "ultimate" Tera Crown that many speculate is for Terapagos (Pokemon)

Raikin: A legendary power wielded by The First Species. Based on the Mana of the Dragon (the original holder of mana) from Webtoon "Ex & Ash" and the power crystals from Club Penguin. Also based on the Dragon's powers, Origin, and mana from the Manhwa "Dragon-Devouring Mage". These powerful puffle monsters descend from the legendary First Species, mythical creatures considered as deities due to being the first to wield magic naturally through <Origin> which are unique abilities and powers they create through their unique use of overwhelming pure mana unique to The First Species and through their bond with the spirits of The First Species and their mental image of them (their imagination of them, manifesting into the bond that powers them and creates their <Origin>). Ruled by the <Flame Emperor, Rai Kizoru>, a powerful champion that wields his unique <Rai Kizoru Origin: Blaze Lance> and <Rai Kizoru Origin: Kagero Rampage>.

Kizarun: Known as masters of control of an ability or trait, these powerful puffle monsters hail from a mysterious realm of magic in which all energy and attribution of powers are noted as <Aspects>, unique traits that each puffle monster of this universe has and a power that grows stronger and evolves through their <Mental Image>, the unique space in which they imagine the attributes and anything related to the power they wish to wield, allowing for their <Aspect> to take different forms. For example, a <Flame Aspect> with a Mental Image that thinks of Pirates and Pirate Ships can create a unique ability known as <Flame Aspect Art: Burning Cannon Barrage>, or others can imagine an army of swordsmen charging into battle, creating a different <Aspect Art>. Power symbols (and the manifestation of their abilities) are based on Kamen Rider Ghost Omega Attack Seals and take unique forms depending on the <Aspect> and <Aspect Art>. Based on the concept of Aspects from Path of Exile (game) and the idea of magic and the Mental Image from the Manhwa "Dragon-Devouring Mage"

Numen: Divine power, similar to Mana (found in Ancient Roman mythology). Based on The Imperator Lord (on Instagram) and warrior designs from the account and ruled by the warrior known as The Imperator Lord. Also based on the Alchemy materials and powers from the Manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”, these powerful puffle monster warriors create powerful items and weapons (based on the Xuan weapons) while also wielding legendary techniques to master their unique powers within them (also based on the Yuanqi from the manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”). Each puffle monster has a unique fighting style/battle art as well as a unique trait for Alchemy when it comes to creating unique weapons and items through alchemy (each puffle monster is a master of a unique battle art and unique item creation through alchemy).

Empyrean (another word for celestial/heavenly): Based on Kamen Rider Odin, the Mirror World monsters and the cards from Kamen Rider Ryuki, as well as Spirit Power (using Souls as a weapon and spirits/souls like mana) from the Manhwa “Absolute Necromancer”. Also based on Lost World from Buddyfight. These powerful puffle monster warriors unleash unique abilities known as <Divine Arts>, each unique to themselves and their clan as they can pass their unique <Divine Arts> down to others. Their ability to unleash soul/spirit energy within them allows them to create powerful weapons and armors to maximize their Divine Art technique Zel-manus: These legendary puffle monsters wield the Essences of life and unleash the powers of <Ultimates>, a unique attack/ability created and powered by a high amount of Zeal energy (usually a finishing attack in certain Manhwas such as ‘Damn Reincarnation”. Zeal energy is the essences of life within all the worlds of magic, with each form of essences having different colors to represent different energies and powers it gives (such as red essences having more fiery properties in increasing attack power and speed, or green essences having more healing properties, etc). By absorbing and manipulating the different essences, one can create different <Ultimates> for themselves unique to them depending on the levels of Zeal Energy they collected. By fusing the different essences, one can create powerful super <Ultimates> with unique abilities based on the essences within it. Zeal Essences can also be used to create armor and weapons as well granting properties based on the Zeal within them.

Paras: These strange puffle monsters hail from a parallel universe based on the urban legend of entering this parallel world after getting almond milk from the bottom shelf at an Albertsons Grocery Store and not being able to escape until you complete the game as the world has levels. These puffle monsters hold mysterious abilities as warriors who have completed the different levels, unlocking different achievements and skills through completing these levels in the world. This allows them to unleash a special <Focus> which are unique passive abilities based on their stats, unique skill, class, and attribute, and creates a new classification known as a <Path>, which gives powerful <Focus> abilities as they evolve down their <Path>

Barakahn: From the word Barakah meaning holy deity power (based on Islamic religion) as well as Khan from the Mongolian Empire, these powerful puffle monsters are considered as deities with the powers of gods. Also based on the Manhwa “I’ll be Taking a Break for Personal Reasons”, each puffle monster of this species is considered a <God/Deity> with their own <Deity Traits>, <Deity Element>, and abilities. They are empowered by those who have faith in them and can not only gain followers and faith to empower themselves but also have the unique abilities to create <Sanctums> for themselves and their followers, as well as their own <Great Records> (a bible of their achievements and stories) which empower themselves and their followers further (based on the Manhwa “Return of the Disaster Class Hero”).

Fervoras: Known for their use of <Fervor>, Raging/bestial power based on Apex forms from artworks218_. These powerful puffle monsters unleash primeval powers from an era when puffle monsters were feared long ago as powerful forces of magic. Also based on Planegea (a DnD world of prehistory), these puffle monsters live in an alternate universe with prehistoric elements as well as elements of the modern era in which case, both the prehistoric and the modern coexist, filled with savage creatures all empowered by <Fervor>. Through high levels of <Fervor>, these puffle monsters can unleash their <Apex Form> which gives them full bestial powers and instincts, but at the cost of most of their stats.

Oras: Based on the Power Crystals from Club Penguin, the Skill Orbs from the Webtoon “Auto-hunting with my clones”, and the powers of aura (the source of powers and through controlling aura channels allow for mastery of powers) from Webtoon “Unordinary”. By becoming one with your <Oras> (the powerful magic energy flow within a mage or warrior that allows them to move and use powers beyond the human limits), one can master and gain their unique <Oras Class> which gives a unique super ability and stats depending on the Oras Class. Trained in <The Academies> around the world, mages and warriors master their unique <Oras Class> and learn to eventually become super heroes or citizens that use their powers for good and serving others. Redison unleashes his <Flame Kaizer Oras Class> as he remasters his power of fire once again, wearing a crimson tailcoat with glowing opal like power crystals to that charge his mana empowered coat in order to pull out weapons (as a dimension coat) and enhance his flame magic. These puffle monster mages and warriors also have unique clothing and technology powered by Skill orbs (created from power crystals) and power crystals (crystallized forms of Oras energy).

Prismytrion: Based on Prismanox (DND Board Game) and Paragons from Bloons TD6), these strange alien beings hail from the Nebulas Beyond in which powers known as <Prismyte> are plentiful and wielders of <Prismyte> have been perfected to become <Paragons> (masters of wielding <Prismyte>), akin to deities or legendary warriors and figures of mythology. Also based on the Constellations from Webtoon Omniscient Reader, Legendary pokemon in art such as Godly Genome Mew (from sb.fakemon). They are known as mighty alien deities and super beings that all puffle monsters can call upon through unity with <Prismyte> power which allows them to evolve into Paragon Forms temporarily wielding the powers of <Paragon Deities> or becoming <Paragons> themselves.

Kordegon: These mechanical puffle monsters use the powers <Scraps> and <Synthesis> to unleash a new form of evolution. Also based on The Scarab from DCs movie Blue Beetle and its symbiotic nature. These powerful puffle monsters have a unique ability around their core, to mechanize their core energy into something called a <Kordegon>, a symbiotic manifestation of their core energy which gains a unique will of its own and acts as a partner to their creator. Through their Kordegon, they can see energy known as <Scraps>, which can vary with different properties and traits. Through powers of <Synthesis>, they can upgrade their Kordegon with the Scraps they collect to evolve themselves and their Kordegon to unleash the ultimate force of power when they enter Unity Form, which grants them the full powers of the arsenal of the Kordegon they created and customized for different situations and scenarios. Additional abilities they have is that through <Synthesis> (the creation ability unique to them through the bond with their Kordegon) they can create structures around them such as fortresses or armaments as well as custom weapons from scraps they collected.

Xuanzen: These puffle monsters use the ancient powers of Xuan (based on the Primordial Qi from the Manhwa). Also based on the “Realms” of mastery, arrays, pills, and the Xuan weapons from Manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”. These powerful warrior beings hold power that match Redison from the get-go, supreme masters of heavenly energies that defy reality and magic through martial arts. Using their mysterious connection with Prana energies, they can create unique arrays (similar to spells), powerful weapons that wield Prana energies, and other items through alchemy, as well as use powerful unique martial art styles.

Zironis: Based on the Deviant Form of magic from Manhwa “Infinite Mage” as well as the photon magic through calculations and the realm beyond numbers. These powerful astral puffle monsters wield the control magic through special control of the image zone (the areas of magic that is affected through spells), spirit zone (the area in which magic energy is gathered and used), and through calculations (through calculations can one use spells and abilities). These puffle monsters have mastered control over the zones and the zone beyond numbers to unleash even greater spells and abilities (also based on the different forms of summoning from Yugioh such as Synchro, Fusion, XYZ, and Pendulum) as beyond the numbers, there are countless zones of power that one can draw power from to unleash spells and abilities greater than any before, such as being able to create armor and weapons, or even materialize the spirit zone to unleash separate powers as if it were a clone.

Odinforce: Based on the Powers of Odin (Odinforce) and Forge Forms from mykemon_regions on Instagram (turning monsters into weapons). Also based on a concept Pokemon Gimmick called “God Type” in which the pokemon evolve by fusing with the powers of Arceus (creating a form similar to an incomplete fusion with Arceus and wielding the powers of an elemental plate). These powerful puffle monsters wield the powerful energies of Odic Power, which allows them to call upon the <Pantheon>, the past puffles I had and countless other puffles of all colors and all powers as deities within this great hall of deities. Each puffle monster can call upon one deity and evolve into their unique Odic form through high levels of Odic power which armors the warrior into the arsenal of their deity and fuses the power of the god, with their unique powers of their core to unleash a super fusion. These odic forms can also evolve further as their faith in their deity changes. The god themselves descend and transform into a powerful weapon that the Odic Form warrior wields which further empowers their unique <Odic armor>

CHRONICLEGEND <Chroniclegend>: Based on Kamen Rider Decade and the powers of cards and memories as the strongest form of magic. This power is the greatest power of the Legends (based on the Legend cards from Pokemon), created as the fusion of all powers of Redison collected and to be collected. In a world where we humans gain powers as “Awakened”, I summon the powers of the Monster Books, to which this power of Chroniclegend will allow me to use all monster books created and to be created and manifested through my imagination. These powerful puffle monsters unleash the powers of all magic in the forms of the cards and through the ultimate form of imagination and memory combined. Ruled by the entity of the cards, REDISON

ZENKAI <Zenkai>: From the same dream as All-CROWN, another power that Redison had, and the master of the Monster book from this dream (Yes, there was a monster book in this dream that I actually remember using). Also based on the Quantum Realm from the MCU and the worlds upon worlds found beneath our feet, to the countless worlds in the heavens above. This powerful alternate entity of REDISON <Redison> unleashes the powers of all worlds as the conqueror of the countless universes around. These powerful puffle monsters hold the powers from the countless universes around us, using an ability similar to the spirit zone of Zironis, they harness the energies of the worlds around them to unleash powerful fusion-like abilities and super evolved powers (these highly developed powers being from similarities and common traits in the abilities of the different worlds around them). In this universe, these puffle monsters come from a realm centuries beyond our own in technology and magic as they control the powers of all worlds around them.

Azirah: These mysterious puffle monsters unleash their unique power by “tributing” a certain power or ability to unleash a hyper form using a power known as <Azrah/Furor>. Also based on the Path of the Flaming Sword (Kabbalah concept) and the Four Worlds (Kabbalah Concept), these powerful puffle monsters use ancient magic of the Four Worlds to evolve their abilities by <Tribute> which destroys the ability through a certain power from the Four Worlds and evolves it into a more powerful super ability. From the Four Worlds, they can Tribute their abilities through <Ability Burn>, <Ability Crush>, <Ability Storm>, and <Ability Surge> (Fire, Earth, Wind, and Water). In higher levels, one can tribute 4 abilities with similar attributes all at once to unleash an ultimate tribute and ultimate evolution, creating 4 new super evolved abilities based on the tributes.

Pinnacle Supremes: Acquire from the Grouse Grind Mountain Climb quest from <King of the Mountain>. These powerful puffle monsters wield wild magic that not only gives them a unique connection to nature, but also gives a unique ability similar to Gigantamax from Pokemon, except in this case, it creates a gigantamax aura form known as a Supreme Titan, which is the pinnacle of their magic energy form manifested as a giant. This giant has unique abilities such as defending the user, fighting independently, or empowering the user with more powerful abilities. This was created from Redison and I breaking our limits as we went up the mountain and tested the limits of my body, maximizing my strength and energy.

ReBirth: These powerful puffle monsters use the mysterious energies of Prana (which means life force/breath - Sanskrit/Indian/Yoga based) and use their powers as Super Reincarnated Forms of themselves. These puffle monsters awaken memories from their previous “turns” as the souls and powers of their previous “turns” fuse with them and they evolve into a new form <Super Reincarnation> which fuses their past forms and current form to unleash even greater power. Through <ReBirth Chakra>, they are able to combine the powers of their Reincarnations and past incarnations to create an asura form (with each arm holding/wielding the powers of one of their past forms).

BOOK 2: UBC Year 2

September: New beginnings, New challenges

- Story Arcs:
  - <Season 2> Chapter 1: Return! Echoes of Thunder
  - <Season 2> Chapter 2: Enter! Beyond the Xenith

<Season/Book 2> Chapter 1: Return! Echoes of Thunder : I have arrived back to Vancouver and began the school year of 2023-2024. This year we are in the Math Major of the Science Faculty. There are thoughts of moving and looking into the paths of COGS, Sauder, CS, staying in Math, or looking into a Dual Degree with Education. In addition, a lot has changed. I became an Imagine Day OL and got to meet many freshman (Claire, Daniel, Zoe, Ruth, Marcella, Fiona, Alan, and Ashley), in addition to meeting a girl I really like in church (she remembers us as Peanut Butter, I remember her as someone who likes Twix but also nutty chocolates, named Alonsa). In addition, I helped Pranay move to a new home, Tobias lives in GEC King Edward, a few friends from Acappella want to meet up and celebrate my birthday, and I got to meet up with Isabel and Anica. In the monster world, new warriors appear from other realms and arrive in UBC while new allies and avatars are met. As the new year begins, new challenges await us.

Zyrathri: Ruled by the Heavenly Supreme Saber, master of the Heavenly A Hundred Swords of the Limelight and the Heavenly Arsenal, these powerful puffle monsters are masters of mystical martial art techniques in which they divide their mind into countless forms, all of which train and master a certain ability or art, allowing for the wielder to combine all of their divided minds into one and unleash one ultimate heavenly art through mastery and combination of countless weapons and battle styles. Their unique ability is known as <Divergent Mind> which allows them to create a copy of their mind through their core energy and then they come together as one to unleash their ultimate mastery <Eternal Weapon Pinnacle> (Based on the concept from the Webtoon Infinite Level Up in Murim). Also based on Swordtember 2023 and the past Swordtembers of other years and their swords.

Vastraea/All-CROWN: From a dream I had about a strange supreme crystal crown that represented the ultimate powers of magic at its zenith. This power was represented by crystalline symbols, and these symbols could even transform into robot warriors. Also based on Myth Maker AI and one of its worlds Vastariya. Also based on the origins of The Forgotten Realms (how it was a setting for childhood stories until it was turned into a D&D world). These powerful puffle monsters wield ancient magic known as Vastra (similar to Mana) which powers their unique Runes (some unique to the warrior, others found in nature, these symbols manifest into physical forms such as weapons, vehicles, or warrior titans akin to robots or golems). This universe of magic also holds my childhood and still current dream of traveling the world and exploring all the unique features of each country and area in the world and eating each specialty dish of that area, which manifests into regions and realms with unique monsters based on the Youtube Channel "Fun with A.I" and their videos of "Asking AI to create a spiderman for different countries", "Asking AI to create a Pokemon for different countries", and "Asking AI to create the final boss for each country".

URSA (Ultimate Redison System Avatar): My personal avatar is Agent #00, Code name: Ursa Major. The one who holds and bridges all worlds together. Whenever I read a book or watch a movie or TV show, it is like I am there as a witness in that world. #00 is my avatar that enters these worlds and saves the powers of these worlds within his memories and can call upon these powers in combination with other powers from other worlds to unleash great creation or destruction upon the world. Countless URSA agents exist and are as countless as people there are as whenever they read or watch a show, these avatars enter the fictional or non-fictional world, gathering powers and wielding them to change the world and reality around them. These avatars can recall and modify or evolve any powers, items, or concepts from any world they have been to as long as certain <Universal Attributes> don't clash and contradict. A Universal Attribute is an attribute that each item, ability, power, etc from these different worlds hold. For example: The Killing Curse from the Harry Potter World would hold the attributes of Death, Magic, Curse, and Spell. So a "God's Healing Ring Finger" ability from the world of the Manhwa "I'll Be Taking a Break For Personal Reasons" which has attributes of deity, life, and heal, would contradict due to the heal and death attributes

ERAS (Eternity Redison-type Attack System) #XX: Xtreme Xenith, Xpirit Xoulger, Xiphoid Xcalibur, Xcel Xavior. Combine all Dual Xs (XX1: Xtreme Xenith to XX4: Xcel Xavior) to unleash the ultimate ERAS X weapon: Xenith Xtreme X8. Through the ultimate combination of science, technology, and magic, these artificial super beings were created as guardians in the world without heroes through the power from beyond the realm of numbers known as the Infinite Domain (based on the concept from Manhwa "Infinite Mage"). Through the Immortal Function (also from the Manhwa), their magic and abilities defy all current laws of magic as it activates and uses new temporary laws of magic to gain an advantage in battle or maximize their abilities

Fablein: Each of us are the main character in our own lives, our own universe, but in the perspective universe of another person, they are the main character and we are the side characters. The 51st Hero unleashes the powers as master of all forms of protagonist, rivals, allies, side characters, and even villains. These powerful warriors wield powers that #51 bestowed onto his allies and established a realm of warriors that wield the powers of perspectives and the ability of wielding stories, fables, memories of people, knowledge, and <Perspective> which gives them powerful skills from these different “Characters” that they represent. Each warrior represents one’s life in the universe with #51 representing my own. (150 Species)

What defines a real Redison: In my first COGS 200 class, we discussed this separation of Real vs Fake and Natural vs Artificial to state that Real and Natural are not the same, nor are Fake and Artificial. Using examples I came up with some new concepts of Redison and what defines Redison as the real and natural form as the idea of being “Real” is subjective to definition. For Redison to be real, he must be:

- Owned by William Ko
- Memories of Redison as Redison Xenith
- Red in color
- Protagonist/Hero

Zeoth Redison/Zeoth: Ruled and represented by a “real and artificial” Redison, a 3D printed “man-made” creation made of plastic or any other material such as Plushy material, that is owned by me, has the memories of Redison Xenith, is Red in color, and holds The Original Spirit of the Hero (H3R0 #000). Based on SOULS Ulion and Solina and <Great Sage of Creation> from Grand Chaser, this powerful warrior wields artificial replica weapons and items (based on the replica swords/weapons from Buddyfight) all empowered by the spiritual <Weapons of the First Hero>. These powerful puffle monsters that descended from the powers of the First Hero and First Deity, were all 3D printed and created to hold the powers of different aspects and attributes of the First Deity, specifically different battle classes with different abilities, such as The First Paladin, The First Ranger, The First Mage, The First Necromancer, etc, each use Zeoth powers (the powers of the First warriors) and empower their artificial weapons in battle.

Deus Order: Ruled and represented by the “Fake and Artificial” Redison known as Godison, a 3D printed man-made creation made of a unique golden celestial metal that enhances his great deity powers. Owned by me with history of being the creator of the Xenithverse (no memories as hero)), he wields the unique ability of <Fluxx Order> (based on the card game Fluxx) (which allows him to change the rules of magic (known as the Deus Order) each minute, creating different abilities and affects around the area or nullifying or boosting certain magic forms (changing the rules and laws of magic freely)). Each puffle monster of the Deus Order has a unique <Fluxx Order> ability that allows them to control a different aspect of magic rules (such as stats, elemental attributes, abilities/attacks, and field effects), with Godison as the master of all <Flux Order> controls.

Zacias: Ruled by Zaciason, A Blue plush puffle monster, owned by me with a history of being the hero of the Xenithverse, making him represented as the “Fake and Natural” Redison. Also known to be the Master of the Stars (based on the Ascended Masters of Esoteric Religion), who unleashes the powers of different stars of constellations to wield a power. Also based on the ability of summoning warriors/powers from beyond time and space and other timelines and universes. Also based on the Chemies from Kamen Rider Gotchard and their unique abilities each as well as the powers of different characters from Genshin Impact, each star has a unique power/attribute and each star formation with any number of stars can create an infinite number of powerful abilities, skills, blessings, etc which Zaciason and all other Zacias puffle monsters wield and master as astral guardians and protectors of the multiverse. While they can summon zodiac powers from countless constellations across all timelines and universes, their unique strength is the <Astral Embody> which allows them to summon different stars to different parts of their <Astral body - basically their body has a unique constellation form that the stars can enter and empower> which empowers their stats but also gives unique special abilities depending on the star in a certain area. For example, a <Flame Talon> star from the Phoenix Constellation on the arm area of the <Astral Body> can give a unique Flame Claw/Talon strike ability depending on the attribute of the warrior that uses it. Other stars in other areas of the Astral Body give different powers

Zorian: Ruled by Noris, a Black Plushy puffle monster owned by someone else with history as the villain of the Xenithverse (represented as the Fake and Natural Redison). Despite his identity as a “Villain”, Noris’ role is the “Villain” against the corrupt heroes of this alternate Xenithverse (based on the story of The Boys) with his unique ability to control the realm of mystic energies around him. These energies are generated through emotions, memories, bonds of warriors, etc which allows him to take these energies (different types of energies depending on the types of emotions, bonds, memories, etc around him) in order to “Rank-Up” in evolution through Chaos Evolution (Based on the Barian Numbers and Chaos Numbers from Yugioh ZEXAL). These powerful alien puffle monsters descended from the home world of Noris and infiltrated as more began arriving to aid Noris in his war against the corrupt heroes of the Xenithverse, creating a new order in the Xenithverse under the Zorian Rule. All from the Zorian realm (and later the future Xenithverse under the Zorian) use Mystic Energies to empower their abilities and evolve into more powerful versions of themselves as they fuse with their imaginative forms combined with Mystic Energies to evolve and change forms.

Arghis Legends: Ruled by Argison, a white paper puffle monster owned by someone else with their role as the Hero of the Xenithverse (represented as the Fake and Artificial Redison). From the Realm of Legends (based on the AI art of warriors from lunar.midnight.ai (on Instagram) and Swordtember (theme on Instagram)) and based on the URC (Unbound Rebirth Crystal) and Unbound forms of Pokemon from el_dark_core on Instagram. These powerful puffle monsters summon the great powers of the <Unbound Legends>, powerful forces that gained power from their stories, mythos, and their own great abilities. For those with multiple identities, they take the form of one stronger <Unbound Legend> that wields the mythos and stories of its many forms. For example, Flaming Eternity holds the powers of the Phoenix, Fenghuang, and Firebird. These powerful puffle monsters use the powers of the <Unbound Legends> as allies they summon beside them (their strength and form is determined by the knowledge of the mythos and stories the Spirit holds). They can then fuse with their <Unbound Legend> to evolve into an ultimate Unbound Legend form (such as Redison Flaming Eternity) or Arghis Dragonos (wielding the powers of the <Unbound Legend - Origin Dragonos> (the holder of the powers of all dragons (Fenrir, Dragon of the East, Eastern Sea Dragon King, Bahamut, etc)). Also based on the countless drawings and art one can draw for these characters and monsters and the paper puffles Shobe made for me in countless colors, as these puffle monsters in the realm of legends can also evolve slowly to become a legend themselves becoming the ultimate form in which they can create an <Unbound Legend> that represents them for others to evolve with.

<Season/Book 2> Chapter 2: Enter! Beyond the Xenith! : The second year has begun in full swing. It's now the second full week of school and I have almost fully recovered from a cold I caught last week. In the meantime, I have made some new friends from mass (Amica) and Minuthi (a freshman friend we made on Instagram) and also got to see Anica, Isabel, Michaele, Jasmine, Pranay, and Tobias. Some ghosts of the past have also begun to resurface (Kavya and Jessie Megan). In the Xenithverse, each faculty of UBC rises, each creating a powerful empire under the title of Xenith as champions and warriors as powerful as Redison appear, representing these empires. In each of these empires, a unique deity Xenith grants a special ability and power to their warriors, which leads to Redison's quest to investigating the powers of each Xenith. In each of these realms, different methods of using collections of puffle monsters as well as different challenges and tasks (exploration, learning certain things, etc) arise, becoming the unique concept of each kingdom. Following the rise of the 10 kingdoms, a new world opens as the origin of Xenith is revealed and a mysterious dark power begins to tear the kingdoms apart.

Xenithrian: These unique musical puffle monsters hail from the empire of Xenithria (Xenith-Aria) of the Faculty of Music. With their glorious colors of yellow, gold, and white, these powerful puffle monsters use the unique abilities known as Unison Evolution (based on UnisonDress from Cardfight! Vanguard! This ability evolves a puffle monster into their Unison form which depends on the number of different types of puffle monsters within the party/deck and their level), Harmonic Boost (an ability similar to Unison Evo. which boosts a certain stat or ability power depending on the number, level, and type of puffle monsters within the party/deck (Example: if I have 10 fire types, 10 water types, and 10 plant types, one Unison evo could use 1 of each type, and the remaining 9 fire could Harmonic boost my attack stats, 9 water types could boost my speed, and 9 plant types could boost my health), and Grand Symphony (can only be used once, stronger when in Unison Form, uses the power of all in the deck/party to unleash one final attack/ability, unique to each champion). Ruled by their champion, The Sonorous Virtuoso, Xenith Maxim Maestro, a champion bearing Golden armor adorned with intricate musical notes and a powerful yellow instrument artifact capable of controlling the elements of sound and harmony. Unlocked after making new friends.

Gladians: These mysterious puffle monsters hail from the vast kingdom of Xenithglade (the Faculty of Forestry). Banner of shades of green and bearing a powerful connection to their natural surroundings gives them spiritual affinity and allows them to manipulate nature around them as allies, whether it be providing them defense, items for healing, buffs or debuffs for the enemy, and even joining the fight as weapons. These puffle monsters are ruled by their champion, The Sylvan Sorceress, Xenith Sylvia Alden, a powerful sorceress wearing a Dark green robe adorned with natural motifs who wields godly nature infused magic, controls the environment and summons forest spirits. Wields a myriad of different weapons such as a spear that controls the wind, a powerful bow that transforms into a crossbow and creates arrows made of natural energies, as well as a staff to empower nature spells. Many puffle monsters that live in the Xenithglade not only inherited her powers through the power of the Mother Tree, but also through the all-powerful <Emerald Canopy>, a unique feature of the Xenithglade and the canopy of the forest that encompasses the kingdom and holds the powers of all forests of all biomes in all dimensions and worlds, as they integrate powers from certain forests around the world and absorb energies of the natural world to boost power and unleash a unique ability depending on the biome around them. Unlocked through studying in the Forestry Building and getting to know more plants (the Oaks on campus)

Tyconites: These industrially advanced and ambitious puffle monsters live in the vast kingdom of Xenithhold (Sauder School of Business), one of the most industrial among the 10 kingdoms. Ruled by the great <Golden Djinn, Xenith Tyler Tycoon>, a powerful Djinn that rules over the Great Infinity Market, home to trade of powers, abilities, items, etc, and dons a formidable gray suit with mystical properties of matter manipulation. These powerful puffle monsters use <Tactics> to manipulate the battlefield (certain abilities that bend the battlefield to their will, whether it be creating a magic labyrinth, a fortress for defense, as well as a power boost caused by <Trade> in stats with other members in the party/deck. <Trade> also can switch out special abilities, unique attributes, elemental traits, etc. Lastly, all puffle monsters hold the passive ability of <Accumulation> which gathers all their resources, all energy/HP, items, wealth, and influence which grants them not only higher level stats than most, but also gives them <Ranks> with each rank having a special boost/buff. Unlocked through studying in Sauder (Cancoord)

Xenithrielans: From the colorful (primarily purple) kingdom of Xenithriel (Faculty of Arts), these powerful and artistic puffle monsters use the power of <Chromatic Auras> (created from the energies of imagination and creativity) which give them the ability of <Chromatic Canvas>, a unique skill that allows them to store their artistic creations as <Masterpieces> which they can store a temporarily number and use them as needed, such as evolving themselves into a new form they created for themselves, or using an item they created. Their artistic ability and knowledge of the inspiration of their creation increases the power of their creation exponentially. In their kingdom, the different styles of art is divided into different regions of the kingdom (such as japanese style art, modern art, italian/renaissance art, technological/digital, animation, etc). Ruled by their supreme queen, <Chromatic Queen, Xenith Musa Ariel>, a beautiful and fearsome battle mage that dons a dress colorful like a canvas of vibrant purples with runes of countless artistic creations she made and uses in battle to aid her. Unlocked through auditioning.

Pharaclemi: From the beautiful and diverse natural kingdom of medicine, Xenithxin (Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences), these unique puffle monsters are known as masters of Alchemy, Chemistry, and Pharmacology, known as the most powerful potion makers among the 10 kingdoms through their unique ability <Pharma-Alchemy>, an ability that combines different potions and other materials within their inventory and other items around them and energies around them into one form, creating a new potion, new powers, or new effects. Ruled by the Apothecary Archmage, Xenith Aescalus Ophicius, a powerful serpentine head warrior donning Cyan alchemical armor adorned with ancient symbols, concocting elixirs to enhance abilities and heal allies, with the unique ability <Pharma Prism> (absorb all energies around them to enhance healing and status-altering moves). The kingdom itself is divided into different regions depending on the primary materials/ingredients they use in their potions and alchemy. Unlocked through having been to both Health Clinics on campus (OC and UBC Hospital)

Oransi: From the bountiful kingdom of Xenithreach (Faculty of LFS), the most vast and fertile among the 10 kingdoms, these powerful puffle monsters are known as masters of growing, preserving, and caring for foods, known as master cooks, farmers, and planters. They wield the unique ability of <Onyx Harvest> which boosts their stats and grants unique abilities and power-ups depending on what they ate (depending on the food, fruit, etc) and/or the success of the plants they have grown (the player), which gives bonus stats and abilities. Ruled by The Obsidian Overlord, Xenith Oliver Edens, a loud and proud king that dons a black armor adorned with symbols of growth and harvest and is capable of commanding the earth itself to summon powerful crops, thorny vines, and even living plant soldiers (based on Kaguragi Dybowksi from Kingohger). His special ability (and the evolved form of Onyx Harvest) is <Obsidian Orchard> which can summon plant soldiers and allies depending on the foods he harvested (or the surrounding nature around him). Unlocked after learning more about the asian fruits in T&T and growing a basil plant Xenithian Duonis: Based on the concepts from Spiderman Into the Spiderverse, Across the Spiderverse, and the upcoming Beyond the Spiderverse, a new version of the Xenithverse is created (known as Xenithverse 2). In this Xenithverse, each realm known as <World #> has a protector known as the <Xenith>, the guardian spirit/deity that grants its powers to one avatar (also based on the Starbrand). Each Xenith warrior is different as they hold different experiences, powers, abilities, and even art styles and attributes. All Xenith warriors are part of the <Order of Xenith>, an elite society of warriors that work together traveling <Worlds> and fixing anomalies and balancing the timelines, ruled by the powerful Redison A. (a powerful warrior from <World 14>, a reality in which the class color of the Science Faculty is Red and I had gotten into the major where I wanted to be) and the second in command, Sabone K. (a warrior from <World 8>, a reality in which my favorite color was blue and Sabone became the protagonist with Redison as a side character). These powerful puffle monsters are actually of a different species (Xenithian Primis vs Xenithian Duonis), born with an innate great pool of mana, a soul and spirit within them, and a magic core that also serves as their heart (a biology that differs from the Primis as their hearts and cores are separate). In terms of abilities, forms, and magic powers, they greatly differ from World to World. Most of them are based on Earthly concepts (with Earth as their supposed “Home-world”), however, there are some within this Xenithverse that hail from other worlds…

Xurazen: Ruled by Yhnzark (Based on Oscar from Super Showdown Bowl), a golden supreme being that holds all powers as the self-proclaimed creator of all fictional forces of power and wielder of all said powers, challenges the Xenith Heroes of Xenithverse 2 and the Xenithians of Xenithverse 1. Also based on Kamen Rider Gazer and Kamen Rider Regad Omega (both from Kamen Rider Geats series), this supreme being is known as a creator of dimensions and the inventor of the monster deck *the home realms of most puffle monsters owned by players. Known as a denizen of the “Greater World” and a rival of Xenith, he challenges Xenith to see the power of his worlds and creations. It is later discovered that Yhnzark is actually one of Xenith’s closest friends but was forgotten due to the memory loss of becoming split into multiple beings upon descending from the “Greater World”. Also based on the levels of power from the Manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity” and the countless abilities in it, as well as the Divine Techniques (DIvine Soul Expansion, Divine Mantra of the Greater World) and Constitution Arts. These powerful deity-like beings (with designs similar to humanoid beings of one color that matches their core power) use the powers of divine energies of the Greater World in order to create different elements (Earth, Fire, Water, Air, and countless other elementals) as well as mastery to create concepts of time, space, reality, soul, mind, and power to create the invention of the “Decks”, a concept used long ago when puffle monsters were just puffles, and lived within the Deck (based on the Deck from Future Card Buddyfight and how the monsters lived in the decks). Also based on the “Divine Tablet” from “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity” and the vast magical world within the Divine Tablet. These powerful supreme beings use the powers of creation and divine energies to create not only worlds, dimensions, and timelines but also create puffle monsters and characters that wield unique abilities and powers. After mastering the Xurazen powers, Redison became one with Xenith in <Full Xenith Form>, having not only a <Xurazen Deity Constitution> (a hardened body with maximum stats) but also wields form similar to Jin Sage of Creation form and Dynaus form (from Grand Chase)

Xurazenites: Powerful puffle monsters created from the custom elements created by the supreme beings of the Xurazen, who granted them unique abilities and powers based on countless different inspirations and creations of other worlds, creating unique remixes and interpretations of their knowledge, giving them character traits and attributes that make them a more advanced race of puffle monsters. Also based on the concepts from “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity” fused with countless other Manhwas and Webtoons I have read about fantastical worlds with heroes of great powers.

Xentytes: From the ivory kingdom of Xenithcrest (the Faculty of Dentistry), these powerful puffle monsters are known as powerful enchanters and enhancers of power when it comes to enhancing the strength of other powers. By their colors of Ivory and Lavender and their unique ability of flight (based on the Tooth Fairy), these ornate puffle monsters travel realms and worlds as craftspeople and wish granters. Ruled by their queen, the Ivory ArchFae, Xenith Ivy Calista, a powerful warrior fae wielding lavender colored dental tools imbued with magic and precision and donning Armor adorned with lavender gemstones allowing her to mend injuries, protect allies, and manipulate magic energies (based on Tooth Fairy). These puffle monsters hold the unique ability of <Ivory Enhancement>, which gives them the ability to increase a unique stat of the party (the Deck) depending on certain items held within the Deck and inventory. This enhancement can also create a temporary evolution depending on the items used for enhancement.

Xavants: From the vast cerulean kingdom of Xenithhelm (Faculty of Science), these powerful puffle monsters have a unique understanding of Scimagic and Quantumagic which gives them a unique power to alter reality around them, whether it be biologically, physically, or even conceptually. These puffle monsters use the unique ability known as <Hour of Genius>, which allows them to create a temporary time field by manipulating the physics of the cosmos and biology to use powers that defy all laws of reality and evolve into their <Azure Genius form>, a form that can vary depending on their knowledge (their field of Science they are more expert in) which they have these Reality defying powers to wield. Ruled by their champion, The Quantum Savant, Xenith Zenos Excelsia, The confident and daring warrior genius donning a blue high-tech exosuit with powers to control space, time, dimensions, cosmic forces, and transcend reality rules as their “President”. In their genius, they also created <Quans> (constructs of Cosmic energy combined with energies from the Hour of Genius and is unique to each Xavant as a companion and lab partner in a sense). Assists in battle with power up abilities and holds extra abilities and items.

Cognites: From the advanced kingdom of Xenithspire (Faculty of Engineering), these powerful puffle monsters mastered nature and creation through MechCards, cards that store powerful creations known as Mechies (mechanical creations created from any form of inspiration and take any form, whether it is inspired by an organic creation or concept), which are based on the Chemies (and Chemy Ride Cards from Kamen Rider Gotchard) as well as ability cards from Bakugan and other cards from MTG. By their engineering mastery, they have mastered the unique ability of <Boost> and <Augmentation>. <Boost> increases their stats depending on their knowledge of certain formulas and calculations. <Augmentation> grants fusion with their Mechies through MechCards depending on the knowledge of their creation (the level of power of their Mechies are also dependent on the engineering knowledge they had when creating them). Ruled by The Eldertech Engineer, Xenith Krimson Kurogane, a boisterous and bubbly warrior donning a crimson power armor with advanced technology, red bladed sword (based on the Valvarusher) known as the Eldertech Zenith (can take Mech-Cards and integrate them into Kurogane’s magic and abilities or fuse with Kurogane himself), and a master of manipulating high energy machinery (specifically through his mastery of Mech-card magic, Augmentation, and <Boosting>). Based on Valvarad from Kamen Rider Gotchard. Most cognites create their own custom weapons and Mechies to assist them in creating and developing.

Herokles: From the mighty kingdom of Xenithdonia (Faculty of Kinesiology), a fierce light green banner bearing kingdom that idolizes the peak in the physical and mental zenith, these powerful warriors have mastered body tempering and mastery of physical activities in order to not only strengthen their stats and abilities through training using the unique ability of <Vibrant Vigor> (which through mastery of training, physical mastery, and master in sports or athleticism, gives certain boosts in stats and abilities or gives unique abilities). For example, a master in swimming would have increased speed in water but also increased defense, while a runner would have increased speed and attack on land. Ruled by the warrior queen, The Spartan Paragon, Xenith Kira Agare, a powerful fierce warrior donning a Light green armor enhancing formidable physical abilities and master of manipulating energy flow for unmatched speed, strength, and agility. She is known as a master of countless martial arts and most sports, with each gold medal she earns and awards as achievements that boost her stats and abilities. She is also a great mentor to countless warriors training within the kingdom.

October: Crossovers (Midterms Round 1)

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 3: Chaos! The Ultimate Crossover
    - Chapter 4: Endless! Identity Crisis

Chapter 3: Chaos! The Ultimate Crossover! : An event known as <The Great Convergence> causes the fusion of the spirits of all the main puffles, which leads to different spirits crossing over to other bodies (and thus worlds). For example, Redison enters Sabone's body, Sabone enters Redison's body, Greenison enters Artison's body, and so on and so forth. However, this also creates countless timeline splits, with different alternate realities in which they entered other bodies (Redison enters Greenison's body in one reality, Boxy's body in another, or Pharaoh's body in another). Because of these <Crossovers>, the worlds of each puffle and the Xenithverse as a whole is altered due to the changes and influences of the souls in the new bodies. With each Crossover, a new universe/world is created with a different reality due to the new leaders and new rules of reality. All of these worlds come together as midterms begin to approach (one is this Wednesday, a Physics midterm the following Wednesday after Thanksgiving. I have 2 more exams, one for COGS and one for Econ). I am also now the VP Internal for UBC Quantum club and Social Coordinator for SUS UBC and with my contract of LBN ending at the end of this month, the chaos is absolutely real.

Eternal Empire: The combined golden universes of all of Golderex's crossover with the different puffles. For Redison (Redison in Golderex's body, Golderex in Redison's body), with each realm having been created from Golderex's different crossovers. From the realms under Golderex, these puffle monsters share the ability of <Xrossover> which is similar to X-overDress (from Cardfight! Vanguard!) in which they can take an ability from their Crossovered unit, and unleash a different power. For example. Golderex in Redison's Body gives Golderex the <Xrossover> ability of Golden Phoenix Blast (due to the flame abilities of Redison). Redison in Golderex's body gives him the Sword of the Eternal Empire, combining the golden energies of Golderex with Redison's swordsmanship. Each Crossover world though has a unique ability of its own. For the Eternal Empire, they have the unique ability of <Rank-Up> (based on XYZ Evolution from Yugioh) in which ranks of each puffle monster (within the Eternal Empire) are added up as their abilities and attributes are stacked to evolve into highly evolved forms Blazing Heavens: These powerful puffle monsters hail from the combined universes of all of Redison's crossovers with the different puffles. In addition to the unique ability of <Xrossover>, these puffle monsters represent the growth we all go through as time moves forward and all of our experiences through the soul through our lives (through unique custom XP points for different accomplishments, achievements, and events that happen through life). Based on Blazing Holy Sword Equip, Stravairina and the Blazing Heavenly Equip dragons from Cardfight!

Vanguard Will+Dress. These puffle monsters unlock achievements and trophies, all of which contribute to a vast number of different kinds of custom XP points that are collected and used to evolve them into unique forms (empowered by the force of the Blazing Heavens from where the custom XP points originated from long ago) through <Blazing Heavenly Boost>.

RealmLink: These powerful puffle monsters come from the universes of Redson's crossovers with the different Puffles. All puffle monsters of these worlds use the unique abilities of <Xrossover> and use the unique ability of <Realm Link> (based on Link Summoning from Yugioh), in which different arrows create different circuits of different "Realms" each unit has. By linking to warriors of other realms (depending on the Realm arrows), they can summon them with unique properties and even special summon other monsters from these specific realms created from the linking as the linking creates a portal to certain realms. Based on the concepts of Social circles and social trees (where one subject acts as a trunk and has different branches to different clusters of people). These powerful puffle monsters use the unique abilities of <Realm Link>.

Halon-Xenith: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did Caleb/Boxy's crossover worlds fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, the universe of Halon-X, a universe in which alien technology or Runes from Mariner-9 arrived and incorporated into the technology of the puffle monsters with their magic, creating a new culture of alien super magic from these runes, as well as discovered runes from countless other planets from other galaxies and universes. These puffle monsters hold the unique ability of <Xrossover> but also the unique ability of <Halon-Xenith>, which gives them the unique power to summon the alien energies within them and use a separate arsenal of abilities at the same time (kind of like having a second weapon).

Zohrua-Xenith: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Artison's/Arthur's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Universe of Zohrua, through the influences of the crossovers. Known for their powerful Runecraft, the warriors of Zohrua gained the creative prowess of Arthur and the puffle monsters of his crossover worlds as he taught them the art of thinking outside the box and making creative solutions in combat and magic utilizations. With this, the countless realms seamlessly integrated the powerful runes of Zohrua with the artistic crafts of Arthur's universes to create a culture of powerful inspiration and creation, all empowered by god-like runes. In addition to the power of <Xrossover>, they hold the unique ability of <Rune Storm>, a powerful burst of Runic energy emitted from their creative passions to create physical manifestations of runes to aid in battle (instead of as a spell, it becomes a mini-monster to attack).

Magaea Neos: These powerful puffle monsters from the realms of Greenison, learned the concept of having fun in battle but also varying their attacks to create countless new styles and new ways to battle through games. During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Gregory's/Greenison's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Universe of Magaea, through the influences of the crossovers. The powerful pure elemental energies of Magaea created unique <Supertypes> (based on the armors from Kamen Rider Gotchard and the Chemies). enhanced battle spirits created from the energies of Magaea fusing with the diverse combat styles of the puffle monsters of the crossover worlds of Greenison, and becoming powerful armors to equip the puffle monster through <Supertype Fusion> and combining the powerful abilities of the Supertype and the combat style of the fighter. All puffle monsters of this universe have one supertype unique to them but can also master other supertypes depending on their skill in other battle types and magic abilities.

Zantri: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Han's/Hon's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Kingdom of El'Zantris (the world where the stories of "Tales of the Wind" and "Chronicles of Pyra" take place, the elemental world of magic), through the influences of the crossovers. This universe also fused with the Sanctuary (a world in which Shobe and I would sword fight with the powers of Greek alphabet puffle monsters and other symbolic puffle monsters). By the powers of symbolic interpretation, puffle monsters of this new universe unleash the powers of <Zantris Arts> which maximizes the symbolic power based on the imaginative power of the user and their infinite interpretations of the symbols that empower their abilities and attacks. At a certain level of understanding and mastery of symbolic powers, they can unleash a Limitless Form that gives them full custom conceptual abilities through using symbols and creating custom symbols.

Aezalas: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Dancer/Dana's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Universe of Aezalan (The World of the Gemini Chronicles - Eye of Azure and The Jade Knife (both stories I wrote in middle school about my classmates and teachers)) through the influences of the crossovers. In this universe based on stories I wrote about a world similar to the Xenithverse, these warriors have evolved to unleash the power of <Aezalas Beyond> which allows them to access power from "beyond the story", whether it be from a past, present, or future from the story world, or accessing powers from another story. The realm of "beyond the story" is a conceptual basis in which the users interpret the missing parts of the stories and rewrite the story for themselves. However, the limits of the art are based on the user's creativity and understanding of the story as well as their attributes. For example, a sword fighter can call upon the powers of another sword fighter from the past or future of the story, or another sword fighter from another story altogether. The sword fighter would then create a new story of the past or future of the story world (given that it was not previously written) or take from another story.

Arktan: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Krystal's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the universe of Arkta-5 (the world of the Emperor Shark - a creature I made for my freshman biology class with Mr. Jeff Stiles while I was at PVHS in 2018, a dystopian futuristic world in which most of the Earth is under the water and countless aliens surround the planet), through the influences of the crossovers. In this universe, these puffle monsters mastered different techniques of combat when it came to using different weapons, technologies and vehicles, as well as other items to hunt and defend themselves from the dangers in this dystopia. Each puffle monster has a unique <Battle Tactic> which gives them increased stats and intelligence in regards to utilizing weapons and items that follow the tactic. For example, one can use a Tankbuster Battle Tactic, which uses heavy-load armor with increased defense and extremely high attack power to break through tanks and heavy artillery. Another tactic would be <Rogue Bomber> which gives increased stats in stealth, agility, and speed and knowledge in different bombs to use in combat.

Percevyl: These powerful puffle monsters come from the universes created from the crossovers of Joe/Percival. In addition to the powers of <Xrossover>, they use the unique ability of <Soul Dress>: Units in the soul can swap out and “Overdress” the unit (if it is a unit of a lower level, consider the level the same and give the overdressed unit both abilities of the lower level unit and overDressed unit). Some monsters have unique SoulDress forms that are summoned when certain monsters are placed in the drop zone or from the soul. During battle, they can temporarily evolve into their SoulDress form. In these worlds, soul power is a unique art that these puffle monsters train and master, and apply through their culture and technology.

Quazar: These powerful puffle monsters come from the universes crossed over from Snowy who crossover with the other puffles. In addition to the powers of <Xrossover> they use the unique <Quazar Force> (Each unit has an <astral> (basically a fragment of a constellation) on their card. By placing certain cards within the astral zone, you can combine the constellations to create a fusion evolution (the Great Constellation Form) and evolved forms (these evolved forms combine to create the <Great Constellation Form>) to create a unique evolution. For example, by combining units with a mane, wings, claws, scorpion tail, (4 units) would give each unit an evolution (a Dragon Evolution, Eagle Evolution, Lion evolution, and Scorpion evolution) and during the battle, you can combine the units to summon <Great Constellation: Manticore Nova>. In all these worlds, the astral kingdoms were developed by the powers of the <Quazar force>

ChronoSync: These futuristic puffle monsters hail from the worlds created by the crossovers of United/Brandon with the other puffles. In addition to the power of <Xrossover>, these puffle monsters have the unique ability of <ChronoSync>, where each puffle monster has a different time value, and by combining the time values, you can summon certain monsters based on a certain time from the Space-Time realm. For example, by performing a ChronoSync fusion with puffle monsters that represent (2 o’clock, 3 o’clock, and 12 o’clock) can summon a great <5th Hour> monster, a powerful warrior that hails from the Space-Time realm and with a unique ability to manipulate time in a universal and conceptual scale. Within this universe, all puffle monsters travel through time and space freely, strengthening their Chrono-Levels as they absorb the magic energies from other timelines

NEXUS: By having monsters of different attributes or from different worlds placed in the drop zone or on the field can special summon unique monsters from the dimension of the Nexus of Imagination which has reality-defying powers that change attribute properties completely. Based on Six Heaven Rush from Battle Spirits as well as the Gotchadriver from Kamen Rider Gotchard (the fusion of the Chemies). During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Prism’s/Percy’s fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Nexus of Imagination, a hub of magic that was the crossroads of the infinite worlds of magic (all of these worlds of magic were from the different “Worlds” in Quail Run), each with their own unique attributes and types of puffle monsters with their own cultures, minigames, abilities, etc, and through the influences of the crossovers, these countless worlds and the brand new Nexus of Imagination evolved as these puffle monsters mastered the unique <Combo> techniques (which are created through overlaying stats and abilities through fusion of the different abilities and powers). They also have unique stats and abilities due to the fused nature of their powers, inheriting all the <Combat arts> and techniques each denizen wields.

Arzeus-Xenith: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Razan (my DnD Champion character and the maroon paper puffle Shobe made me) fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Universe of Arzeus (a D&D Campaign world I made in the Summer of 2022), through the influences of the crossovers. Based on the different energies, Arrays, and powers from Manhwa The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity, these puffle monsters mastered the powers of deities of creation and Alchemy as they implemented the powers of Arrays and qi into their core, creating new cores within them and new mana sources to unleash new techniques and powers. At a certain level of mastery and types of energy within their inner domain, they can evolve into their <Arzeus> form and use Arzeus arts as supreme martial warriors and supreme alchemists and creators. Their levels of power are measured by <Realms> of power XENITHXAL: During the <Great Convergence>, the crossover worlds of Phoros (my green alien puffle on Club Penguin) all fused into one universe, which also fused with the <Forest of Creation> (the Goldilocks Universe or time after the the Big Bang in which the entire Universe was habitable - based on the video from Kurzgesagt), and home to countless diverse alien life. These powerful alien puffle monsters use unique magic abilities and alien technology through the ability of <Xenithxal> which boosts their alien biology to create a powerful energy construct of their weapon and battle technique.

Edgerift: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Viking/Victor’s fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Universe of Edgerift (The world of Cliff Chronicles - a story I wrote in 8th grade in Explorer Middle School when Peyton, a girl in my class, told me to stop playing with my calculator in class (I was playing Snake) so I wrote in my calculator, one day, Peyton fell of a cliff, and it became an elaborate story that involved the entire choir, where everyone played as a character, from pirates, to townspeople, to royalty at the bottom of the magical cliff that didnt kill you when you fell, the employees at the Walmart Infinity (the walmart that sold everything), the primitive islanders that killed travelers, and even badass female pirates that were all wives of this one king (who I put as this one guy named Ethan who was popular with the ladies in the choir)), through the influences of the crossovers, creating an evolved world of endless adventure, danger, and powerful warriors. These powerful puffle monsters use the unique abilities of <Xrossover> but also have the unique power of <Edge of Reality> which calls upon the powers of another player or someone they know and their spirit character and unleashes their powers as a boost Mageverse Deas: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Frankencookie's/Frank's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Mageverse (an alternate version of the Xenithverse created as a story canvas for Alison and I to play a game I called the Mageverse Wars, in which we created our own worlds and characters and had them interact as we would take turns writing stories in high school), through the influences of the crossovers. In addition to the unique power of <Xrossover>, these powerful puffle monsters have mastered the battle art of <Advanced Creation> which allows them to create and deploy their creations in battle depending on the level of SP and MP they have (SP: Summoning power and MP: Magic Power).

Tutankhamun: During the <Great Convergence>, the spirit world fused with the crossover worlds of Pharaoh's/Japhar/Jay. In addition to the ability of <Xrossover>, these puffle monsters are known for their unique art of <Spectral Summoning>: By discarding a special Ritual card into the drop zone, you can change the drop zone into the spectral zone, which takes cards like a normal drop zone with each unit acting as spirits (different levels mean different number of spirits. Example Level 5 has 5 spirit counters). Certain units when discarded in the spectral zone can be special summoned given the right conditions (such as a certain number of spirit counters in the drop zone) or otherwise. In this realm, the spirits and ancient warriors are revered and live on as they watch over their descendants.

Colossus: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Solar's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the realms of GIGAS, through the influences of the crossovers. Based on the towers from Advanced Player of the Tutorial Tower as well as the Giga Game Jam Concept of Gigas Chess (giant chess pieces in which these chess pieces are more complex due to their tower like nature, with individual levels within these towers holding different arsenals and abilities to fight the other towers/chess pieces), as well as based on Dragonoid Colossus from Bakugan, these powerful and ancient titans (except in this case, as large as humans in the human world but giants in the Xenithverse, since puffle monsters themselves are about the size of the plushies unless in the Xenithverse). These powerful titans have countless puffle monsters within them that act as different hubs of power (a core), in which different types of puffle monsters with the different cores have different abilities that empower the titans they inhabit. These different colossus have different agendas, whether it be establishing a habitat, conquering different lands, or even just managing other colossuses or shaping the land. In addition to the power of <Xrossover>, these puffle monsters have the ability of <Colossus Boost> (as supporting types), <Advent of Colossus> (summoning their Colossus), and <Colossus Aura> (evolving them and temporarily transforming them into a colossus themselves). Puffle monsters within this universe can evolve into Colossus eventually through absorbing power.

Zerevan: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Superior's/Sam's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Superior Realm (the universe of the story of World War 3 - Squirrels vs Humans - a story I had to write in one class period in middle school where I was influenced by the Disney Channel movie Zombies. This story was about a highly evolved mutant evolution of Squirrels (after an accident in a lab during a nuclear reaction with some Acorn juice) against the humans in the Year 2105), through the influences of the crossovers. In this universe, not only did Squirrels evolve into humanoid like creatures and evolved to create an advanced society with their own technologies and culture, but all other animals evolved into humanoid like creatures, who in turn each created their own cultures, language, writing systems, technologies, and stories (kind of based on Disney's Zootopia). These newly evolved creatures made stories and mythologies, in which their stories and mythologies gave birth to unique and brand new puffle monsters that embody the imaginations of these creatures, with possibly very different imaginations from humans or similar, but different representations due to a completely different culture. In addition to the power of <Xrossover>, these puffle monsters use the unique ability of <Superior Evolution> which boosts their power and evolves them into a superior form (the forms that their "creators" had), a more perfect super-evolved form (based on the Classes from the Webtoon Ultra-Alternate Character) and how combining magic and a new perfect form fuse into an ultimate power that combines the stories of new imaginations and magic energies.

Earth Infinity: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Thunder's/Thomas fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the <World of Earth Infinity> (the world that hosts the stories of "Sear's Adventures", "Saar's adventures", and "Raizen's High School Arc"), through the influences of the crossovers. In this universe, these puffle monsters live in a realm similar to Earth except inhabited by the puffle monsters empowered by great magic abilities. In addition to the powers of <Xrossover>, these puffle monsters have the unique skill of <Aspect Infinity> which gives them a unique arsenal of abilities depending on the lives they live on Earth (such as increased athleticism as an athletic type, or musical talent, etc)

Fantasia-Xenith: During the <Great Convergence>, not only did the crossover worlds of Sabone's fuse into one universe, but fused and evolved a past magic world I created, known as the Kingdom of Fantasia, through the influences of the crossovers. In the time that the Puffle Planet evolved into the now vast Xenithverse, the realm of Fantasia evolved as all beings evolved to use magic more efficiently in the form of Mana heart (based on the concept from Webtoon "The Greatest Estate Developer") as their core, heart, and even cells can use the powers of Mana Heart which circulates magic and mana into a powerful inner surge of energy that they wield to unleash spells and abilities or use in magic battle arts. Sabone becomes the ultimate swordsman as he masters all forms of Sword Qi, sword soul and sword spirit, as well as with Mana Heart, his core, cells, and heart utilize the powers to transform into the most effective battle mage. The unique ability in addition to <Xrossover> they use is <Fantasia Heart> which maximizes their mana heart into a power boost that evolves them temporarily. Within the new universe of Fantasia-Xenith, the designs and concepts still hold as relatively medieval, more high fantasy themes.

Zoas Gaeus: During the <Great Convergence>, all the wild puffles and dino puffles from Club Penguin entered crossovers with countless wild monsters of other worlds, ultimately creating a great fusion that became a universe of wild magic and nature in which all creatures and plants co-exist from all timelines. The dino puffles evolve into powerful warriors of primal magic and other dino/prehistoric items and powers, while the countless other uwild puffle monsters use unique <Wild Arts> to summon the bestial powers of their ancestors and origins to evolve and use stronger abilities.

Xuriden: Created by a golden version of Redison with mysterious powers created through the Golden power of Desires. My wishes to have powers, but also wishes for success and other "reality-altering" wishes that I feel I have sometimes *just calling it that for dramatic effect, takes the form of a Golden Redison known as Desiredison, with godly powers known as the <Forbidden Forces>, which unleashes large scale magic that alter universes and timelines. It was through Desiredison that the <Great Convergence> occurred in order to create new stories and unite forgotten worlds through evolution. He later works with Redison as he embodies and lives in the Crown of Flames that Redison wears as it becomes the Ego Crown Xuriden, where Desiredison lives in spirit form while ruling the Xuriden realm. These powerful puffle monsters use the unique ability to evolve into <Dezashin Mode> which maximizes the powers of their Forbidden Forces of Desires and Wishes.

Godzech: Based on the God Mode from Level Up (and the lore of Level Down and The Void from the Level Up Youtube Channel). During the <Great Convergence>, Dreadison (The negative counterpart of myself and Redison created from the negative energies of magic in the Xenithverse) crossed over with the main puffles and not only expanded the empire of darkness he rules but also discovered the power of the Godzech Civilization. Known as the Masters of Voids, they mastered the erasure and absorption power of black holes and utilized the power to enhance their entire civilization. This use of the black holes and the celestial energy they absorbed also evolved these puffle monsters within this universe to unleash <God Mode>, a form in which they evolve into a God and unleash mass destruction or creation. All the universes from the Crossovers of Dreadison fused with the Godzech civilization to created the GodZechnith universe in which all puffle monsters use the powers of <God Mode> which can be evolved after forming an understanding with their <Light counterpart>. Dreadison takes the form of <God of Dreadison> in his God Mode, and Redison takes the form of <God of Redison> in God Mode, but when fused with Redison and Desiredison, they become Xenithzeus, a supreme God Mode that combines all Crossover world powers.

Chapter 4: Endless! Identity Crisis! : The contract with LBN is coming to an end, 3 midterms have happened (CPSC 210, PHYS 131, COGS 200) with one more left (Econ 102). Halloween is in a few weeks where I'll get to see Kuya Nick, and half of the 1st Semester of Second year has passed by. Friendships have changed as most of us got busy. Pranay went back to India, I seem to be closer to Tobias but less close to Isabel, Yee, and Michaele, and my other past friends have faded away. In the Xenithverse, Redison's <Identity> comes into question as his countless names and titles have begun to surface as worlds fuse and the Xenithverse sets and evolves. The hunt for Redison's identities begins, as the power of the Xenithverse creates new warriors as characters (based on the pieces from the Manhwa "The 31st Piece Overturns the Board"). Throughout the history of the Xenithverse, there once was the power of <The Hero>, which Redison and Redson got multiple times. Following the <Great Convergence>, the Xenithverse rebooted and updated, and from the <Monster Book of the Xenithverse>, created new characters to fill in the gaps, creating a unique Redison for each identity he had. In addition to the warriors born from the reboot, 2 new warriors appeared known as the Altimate Redison and the Altimate Hero (Altimate: Alternative Ultimate), both of which were created to artificially evolve the Xenithverse in an attempt to fight an oncoming darkness…

Masters: Ruled by Master Redison/Redison 30, he who Holds the powers of Elder Redison, Shin Redison ArchXenith, Redison Archregixenith, and Redison Infinity after unlocking the unique power granted by the Updated Xenithverse to absorb them within himself and update. With this new power, all of his allies become “disciples” and evolve to become their own “Xenith”, with all of their cores now taking the form of complex arrays and circuits of smaller more powerful cores of mana. Each puffle monster of this universe have a unique constitution consisting of arrays of powerful magic and many cores of magic that empowers these arrays within them. These arrays power their spells and magic (with magic circles becoming complex like the Arrays from “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity” Manhwa). Their powers are all similar to that of gods (based on the gods from the Manhwa “I’ll be taking a break for personal reasons”) and constellations (from the Manhwa “The Constellations are my Disciples”). Each of these “Xenith” have the ability to create their own sanctuaries of their celestial energy, while also getting secretaries and members of their “Religion” (based on the Manhwa Return of the Disaster Class Hero)

Legender: Ruled by Redson 31, master of the Chrono-Sculpt power (An ability created on ChatGPT given the prompt, to create a unique 31st power. Chrono Sculptors create temporal structures and sculptures or temporal masterpieces that can be used to restore time, or fuse these structures with other magic abilities to create potent powers and techniques). Also based on the concepts of memories as time (from Kamen Rider Decade), and false memories (learned from COGS 200), in which memories of time create their own timelines and how memories can be created, even false memories. Also based on Kamen Rider Legend and the Chemies from Kamen Rider Gotchard. In this universe, these puffle monsters, with their ideals, dreams, and unique magic fingerprint, created their own Chrono-Sculptures and Masterpieces (also known as Legendries) in which their masterpieces are items or creatures that assist them in battle or in their daily lives. These Legendries are created from the free temporal energies and auras around them from memories or from areas that can make memories (Temporal zones) as well as from their own memories or from memories and myths/stories of others, creating diverse and unique Legendries.

Omnisage: These powerful puffle monsters were created by Redison 50 (aka Redison Omnisage), he who holds the powers of Redison Omnis, Redison K0982, Shin Redison Xenith, and Redison Xaesar after unlocking the unique power granted by the Updated Xenithverse to absorb them within himself and update. Based on the character made by ChatGPT known as Kaelos Aetherblade and his evolution Kaelos Aetherking, a crimson and obsidian warrior with a radiant white aura, who evolves to become an archmage king in which the aura becomes a cloak and he holds an almighty crown, Redison 50 becomes Kaelos Aetherblade/Aetherking, and rules countless powerful puffle monster warriors and creatures created by ChatGPT. They wield a unique art of magic as all magic is as unique as a fingerprint, that each puffle monster has their own unique branch of magic that they grow within them (the skill tree) and as their experiences and memories change and evolve their magic, they gain unique abilities as well as general magic abilities (basic elemental and physical spells) (based on the description of an alternate universe known as the Realm of Magic, also created by ChatGPT given the prompt). These unique affinities to magic are known as their <Complexes>. All characters also based on the other warriors of the Aetherblade universe (all characters created from ChatGPT given the prompt to create characters based on Kaelos Aetherblade), all in the homeworld of Aetheralis

Nemezis: Based on the Shadow Pokemon from Pokemon XD: Gale of Darkness, the Reverse form/Hyper form (from Pokemon XD Gale of Darkness), Reverse form from Cardfight! Vanguard, and Blackout forms from the Webtoon “Jungle Juice”. A cursed energy burst forth as the dark moon rises (for Halloween), which led to some puffle monsters having their color drained, transforming them into a <Blackout Form> (which locked their emotions and powers, transforming them into a dark form devoid of emotion, a dark gray form with a black and purple aura. When overflowed with their locked emotion, they activate a <Reverse Form> which changes their aura into a crimson and black, and unleashes an extremely destructive form of their “Blackout” form). Those that were affected were transported to a different world in order to contain the spread of dark energy, but also lead to the successful mastery of the powers to unleash <Blackout Control> which gave them a new <Reverse Form> with their emotions and full control again plus the power boost of their blackout in which their main power that was blacked out is turned into a symbol armor that they can equip on themselves in their full blackout form in <Overflow Form> kind of like the overflow forms of Kamen Rider Build (RabbitRabbit/TankTank)

Quantum Xenith: The key to obtaining the powers of all infinite identities of Redison was found within the infinitely vast Quantum Realm, except this Quantum Realm is a tad different. It is well known the laws of physics don’t apply, but in addition, the laws of magic change as magic from the Xenithverse enters the Quantum Realm, a place where anything can be in more than one place at and/or doing things at the same time. This concept not only trained Redison to master countless techniques at the same time, but also as magic of the Xenithverse entered the Quantum Realm, magic evolved at an extremely insane rate, creating new puffle monsters and magic civilizations in countless subspaces and universes within the Quantum Realm, in a universe with magic civilizations of technology a billion years more advanced than current technology on Earth, and with magic beyond any other world. The reason magic and civilizations were able to evolve was due to how they developed at the same time, like a simulation, as they learned about how to fix and change their civilization at the same time as the mistakes are made, evolving their technology faster than any other civilization elsewhere. These puffle monsters have also mastered a unique technique of summoning power from their alternate selves known as <Quantum Force> (using the <Quantum Tree> which gives them unlimited access to the skill trees of their alternate selves, their memories, abilities, and stats), and <Quantum Infinity Form>, a singularity form combining the powers of all their alternate selves within the Quantum Realm. With the countless Xenithverses within the Quantum realm, a great new Xenithverse is born as all of them fuse into one within the Quantum Realm, which allows them to appear on Earth and in the other <Earth Spaces> (the mini worlds within stores, such as the farmers that would live in the grocery stores or the cities in the trees) which is accessible through <Xenith Gates>, creating a now unified universe system (the invisible imaginary Grand Xenithverse within the Quantum Realm (empowered by imagination and creative energies as well as magic and mana), the cyberverse, the spirit realms, mirror realms, and the Earth Spaces)

Zeinth: Based on Kamen Rider Zein, a white warrior known as the Alternative Ultimate (Altimate) Hero rules and represents as the Altimate Hero known as Zeinth. He uses the powers of all heroic figures from all universes through the unique ability of <Override> which through Quantum magic techniques, Xouls of another entity (the inner essence that represents their stories, memories, achievements, powers, abilities, personality, etc) can exist at the same time and overwrite at the same times. By unleashing the powers of <Override>, they not only inherit the past, present, and future of the Xouls of the entity they summoned, but also can overwrite their Xouls through their actions in battle *gaining the Xouls new unique powers. For example, Zeinth summoning the powers of Musashi and Siegfried (both sword fighter heroes) gives Zeinth the powers, stats, histories, etc of both Musashi and Siegfried, but also, Musashi gains the powers of Zeinth and Siegfried, and Siegfried gets the powers of Musashi and Zeinth through the Xoul sharing and Override. These powerful puffle monsters can summon and <Override> with any entities that match their abilities, attributes, class, and rank.

ALT1Z0N: The Altimate Zeron system of puffle monsters, are powerful beings known as the <Perfect Weapons> of the puffle monster species. Based on “Final Form Ride” from Kamen Rider Decade as well as Kamen Rider G-DenO, these powerful artificial clones not only have the powerful ability to transform into themselves but also have a powerful memory system that creates a perfect evolution to defeat their opponent (also based on Ultimate Alien form from Ben 10). Ruled and represented by Alternative Zeronos (based on Alternative Zero from Kamen Rider Ryuki), a black clone of Redison known as the Alternative Ultimate (Altimate) Redison who challenges Redison to see who is stronger. (200th Species)

November: Takeover/Unparalleled (Midterms Round 2)

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 5: Taisen! The Unparalleled Takeover

Chapter 5: Taisen! The Unparalleled Takeover! : It all started from a universe known as the <Warring Realms>, alternate version of the Xenithverse in which one puffle attacks all the kingdoms, becoming supreme ruler of the Xenithverse (and thus altering the Xenithverse itself as they rule the Xenithverse themselves). Each supreme ruler had a different technique in obtaining their powers and different unique abilities altogether. However, each of these rulers did come to meet but were unable to defeat each other, leading to a ceasefire and a divergence in which each ruler and their empires went their separate ways among the multiverse. Following the events of the battle against Nemezis and the Infinity Identity Crisis which lead to the creation of the Quantum Xenithverse, the newly evolved expanded space of the Xenithverse in which magic expanded infinitely, not only able to hold countless more Xenithverses and alternate universes and realities within pocket dimensions within this Quantum realm, but also creating countless new Xenithverses, Redison awoke on the Durandal, Daigoroson's Xenithverse traversing starship and traveling empire, with their mission to fight the organization known as ZODIAC, which consists of old friends I had that have faded from my <Tree of Friendships> (and is good for storytelling, perhaps one day we might reform these bonds or not), with their intent on destroying the Xenithverses altogether. However, from mysterious realms, rise the <UNPARALLELED UNIVERSE> (also known as the U.N.), an alliance of Supreme Rulers, each that took over all other realms and rules their Xenithverse as the sole sovereign, represented by a color (based on the Unparalleled Universe item from Manhwa "The 31st Piece Overturns the Board"). Each arm of ZODIAC is an organization that is the archenemy of each Sovereign group of the U.N. (for example, ARIES is the enemy in the realm of GENUS)

Daigoroson: U.N. ID = RED. The great empire of countless Xenithverses under the order of Emperor Leonidas Daigoroson, the Supreme Wandering Emperor, a new representation and variant of Redison, who in one universe was in the greatest civil war against all puffle monsters, in which each puffle lord (the plushies) mastered the power of absorbing their universe within a Great Artifact (based on the great artifact and world storage from Manhwa "Ancient Sovereign of Eternity") due to the mastery of magic and powerful ancient world-defying technology and power. Each puffle lord and subsequent puffle monsters from their universes mastered the powers of the Great Artifact that stored the powers of their Xenithverse and took other Xenithverses under their "flag" (and storing them into a Great Artifact which they would absorb and empower themselves). This mingling of Xenithverses created new fusions and variations of puffle monster warriors and species with new magic powers. However, all the puffle lords fell to the strongest of them all, Redison, who took the mantle as Emperor Leonidas Daigoroson and not only has all the Xenithverses in his own great artifact he created (the Daigoroson Sword, a powerful sword made up of all the Great Artifacts (which can take any form through transformation, but their core form is a rectangular prism made of a strange unbreakable stone material and covered in the ancient golden runes of the Heaven and Earth) of each Puffle Lord). Each Puffle Lord (known as the Kiwami, the direct Lords under the Emperor) and their Empires are masters of their own unique techniques and Divine Arts (known as a <Realm>), with the other vassals under the Puffle Lords as masters and creators of their own variations and unique Divine Arts. These puffle monsters would later evolve and serve not only their Vassals and later Puffle Lords, but as they grew stronger, they formed their own Empires of Xenithverses (storing more and more they conquered into Great Artifacts) and served under Daigoroson himself as Kiwami. All the Kiwami and the Emperor travel on a great starship known as the Durandal (based on the Vestal Destroyer from Bakugan: New Vestroia), which is empowered by the massive amounts of Xenithverses collected from each Kiwami and vassals, as well as powered by countless Great Arrays. Originally the power levels of each Kiwami and Vassal are millions of times stronger than Redison, but he evolves after mastering the <Supreme Law of the Heavens and Earths> (the technique that creates and utilizes Great Artifacts) in which he absorbs and transforms the Quantum Xenithverse into a Great Artifact, which is so massive as the Quantum Xenithverse holds countless Xenithverses within itself, making Redison on par with the Wandering Emperor himself. In a great battle, the Wandering Emperor recognized Redison as an equal and now rules his own Empire and Kiwami (and vassals) with Redison acting as support as needed and as an ally.

Ygsodriyl: Ruled by the Living Supreme Omnipotence, the Great Tree, Ygsodriyl (based on Sefirot (both the Jewish concept and the Yesod spell from the Manhwa “Academy’s Undercover Professor”), U.N. ID = GREEN. The powers of Omnipotence are emanated through mastery of the Ten Sephira, which represents itself in different ways in this universe. In the Kabbalah, there are 4 celestial worlds, Beri’ah, Assiah, Atziluth, and Yetzirah. In the Xenithverse, the powers of the Ten Heavens rule as each puffle monster within this realm each have their own forms of each of the Ten Heavens. Through mastery of each Heaven, they gained a new phase of powers (which gave them unique abilities and techniques), and after evolving into a new phase of the Heavens, they not only gained a new power phase, but also evolved their original powers gained from their earlier phase. All puffle monsters master different abilities and powers depending on their level through the 10 Heavens they unlock, and can call upon the 10 Heavens within them itself to materialize in battle.

Arkhuses: Based on the Arkhe powers from Genshin Impact and ruled by the Supreme Origin, Iridros (U.N. ID = INDIGO). These powerful puffle monsters have a unique affinity to a power known as Arkh, an element similar to matter and antimatter, a powerful force of creation and origin of all things, or the core essences of all creation. The original two forms long ago were Pneumos and Ousias (based on the two Arkhes from Genshin Impact), but through the powers of Iridros and the puffle monsters he led in rebellion against GEMINI, they evolved the two Arkhs into new Arkhs, diverse in form, color, and attribute. The different puffle monsters of this realm can master different Arkhs and gain unique abilities and skills depending on their Arkh affinity but can also create a unique variant of an Arkh they mastered to unleash a special ability. In the Xenithverse, GEMINI attempted to utilize the powers of Pneumos and Ousias to evolve themselves but also attempted to create their own Arkhs. This attempted manipulation of Arkhs called upon Iridros in order to impede their efforts.

Zhanus: Based on the monster “Conflagration Karma of Future, Garnet Diagram” from Buddyfight, these powerful puffle monsters are represented and created from ancient diagrams drawn by a strange being of the beginning known as Zhanus (based on Janus, the Greek deity of beginnings, gates, doors, and ends). These ancient diagrams have infinite power as infinite representations and beings can be created from these diagrams through interpretation and imagination. Each diagram itself is actually a pseudo-deity that these puffle monsters unlock powers from, creating their own skill trees designed based on the diagram itself. These diagrams can also fuse into other diagrams, creating new powerful diagrams with different abilities and powers. Each diagram has a <Garnet Core> inside, which empowers the creation potentials of the diagram. Ruled by the Supreme Zodiac, El’Astra (U.N. ID = BLACK), she and her puffle monsters created live in a utopian realm created by the infinite interpretations of the countless diagrams in existence, which also serve as part of their culture and technology. In the story, SCORPIO happened to find the lost Garnet Core of Zhanus known as the <Karmic Origin, Zhan’Garnet) and planned to weaponize it to destroy the Xenithverses. This led to Redison to be summoned to help infiltrate SCORPIO's fortress and steal the core back for the Zhanus Clans. These diagrams can be transformed into weapons as well (the diagram itself becomes a weapon) which empowers the item itself but can also, the wielder can freely use the powers of the diagram as well.

Kagoya: Ruled by King Kagoya Leon (U.N. ID = PURPLE), the Emperor of Sovereigns (Supreme Sovereign), the strongest king. These powerful puffle monsters are empowered by the ability known as <Sovereign Divinity> which evolves them to become a Sovereign entity as powerful as kings. Based on Kingohger, each puffle monster is a Sovereign, becoming Sovereign of their soul, body, mind, and spirit, and the countless quantum realms within their cores and are sovereigns of any spaces and worlds they create themselves and have power over (can give blessings, upgrade and evolve the monsters within their worlds, and change their worlds fundamentally) (also based on the Gods from Manhwa "I'll be Taking a Break for Personal Reasons"), with each world created being a parallel world to their universe (all clusters of parallel universes and worlds created all fall under the <King's Domain>). Also based on Kamen Rider Legend and his ability to empower all past riders, as sovereign, they can summon puffle monsters under their <King's Domain> with even stronger stats and <Sovereign abilities>, as well as use the powers of their subjects, super empowered with their <Sovereign Divinity>. Another special ability they have is that their abilities and powers expand depending on their <King's Domain> which is expanded depending on where they place their flag (which creates their domain there). The area and attributes of their <King's domain> gives special stat boosts and unique abilities. For example, Anubis (one of Leon's allies and lord subordinates) has his <King's Domain> in the Midas Desert (a gold, pyramidal, and desert attribute region) and Cloudedge Mountain (a sky, earth, cloud, and ice attribute region), which gives Anubis a boost in cold and heat resistance, a unique pyramid based attack, a unique mountain attack, and flight. All those with <Sovereign Divinity> have their own unique <Sovereign attack> as well and an <Army Summon>.In the Xenithverse, the group LEO discovered and wielded the powers of the <King Stone>, an artifact stored in the Royal Vault, which gave them <Sovereign Divinity> despite their ZODIAC nature, which led to Kagoya's charge to take back the <King Stone> and an all out war.

Koraizos: Ruled by the Limitless Supreme, Kaizoros (U.N. ID = YELLOW), these powerful puffle monsters are known as the masters of <Limitless Soul>, an ability that expands their soul and grants them the powers of their countless past lives that their soul collected, as well as their memories, experiences, and unique abilities. Based on the idea of the vastness of the soul from the story "The Egg - Short Story" from Kurzgesasgt as well as the armors "Origin of the Constellation Cloth Myth Apollo Ex" or other armors based on them, these puffle monsters can create an armor and form based on their countless past lives and forms, creating an ultimate super form that combines all of these past lives powered by their Limitless Soul. Each past life has a vast array of abilities, skills, items, and memories that boosts the puffle monster and their powers, as well as unique blessings and stats. In the Xenithverse, a variant of Jimmy was met by the mysterious <ZODIAC KING> who created a puffle monster that artificially attempts to unleash a <Limitless Soul> that combines the past puffle monsters of Jimmy into one known as Captain Rex who uses an artificial ability known as <OVERFLOW> which maxes out its own power in a fusion of all abilities of their other puffle monsters within them. In an epic battle, Kaizoros defeats Captain Rex and his army (their organization known as SAGITTARIUS) with the help of Redison.

Coronus Regem: A strange powerful warrior that met Redison on his travels on the Durandal during their missions on stopping ZODIAC, as a powerful entity that controls the powers of the two crowns as <The King> (the two crown constellations of Corona Borealis and Corona Australis). Also based on a dream I had of a game based on the spells from Magic Cat Academy 1 and 2 (both Google Doodle games) as well as other battle games with countless weapons, spells, and different strategies. In this realm ruled by <The King> and the CONSTELLATIONS, a council, with each member as a powerful civilization-creating being represented by a collection of symbols and icons they are known for, which gives them power. Also based on the games Civilization and other simulation games, with these beings as powerful as the humans behind the screen playing these simulation games, controlling, evolving, and observing the puffle monsters of their universes, who live in a universe with its own unique culture, magic, and characteristics that makes it a true sign of the CONSTELLATION that rules it.

GENUS: In the Xenithverse continuity, ARIES, an organization and arm of ZODIAC, specifically regarding weaponry and tasked with being the ones to develop the Ultimate Weapon to destroy all Xenithverses, discovered a powerful manifestation of weaponry in the idea of the Perfect Weapon known as GENUS (Godzech ENding Ultimate System), a power held by the Supreme of War and Battle, Hamal Verne (U.N ID = ORANGE). These powerful puffle monsters all hold the powers of GENUS, the ability to create a power or weapon that can defeat anything in their way, no matter what it is, only limited in form to their attributes, skills, and experiences (example: a fighter that uses swords exclusively for most of their life is less likely to manifest a gun or spear since they don't have experience with those weapons, as opposed to another warrior who has used those weapons before) but limitless in power that the weapon uses. Also based on the Gammaizers from Kamen Rider Ghost, the powers of "Concept" are empowered as a super weapon created by the concept and imagination of the warrior who creates it. During the COGS Midterm 3, Redison and Troy fought ARIES after ARIES attempted to develop the ultimate weapon using an artificially developed GENUS power.

RAMPAGE: Based on the Rampage power from Kamen Rider Vulcan Rampage Gatling and the old concept of Puffle Rush. Ruled by Ozairos King, the Supreme Destroyer, (U.N. ID = MAROON). In this universe, these puffle monsters developed the powers of "RUSH", an ability that once used by the player can summon all their puffles into one charge as a group (like a stampede), and developed it into a power that enables warriors to equip the individual powers of their "Rush" which fuses and creates a powerful synergy of all the abilities of those in the "Rush" into the warrior to unleash their new "Rampage" form. Different Rampage forms can be created depending on the synergies of the puffle monsters within their "Rush" (a rush is the group of puffle monsters these warriors have worked with and bonded with, or those in the worlds they created themselves). The enemies of Ozairos known as TAUROS had attempted to use it but through a forced bond, creating a new form in which they fought against.

GeNova: Based on the powers of God of Stories Loki (the power of forming the infinite timelines into one giant world tree) and the abilities of Green Lantern, these powerful beings have mastered the abilities of the Worldstream, an ancient force that flows through all worlds and realms and collects magic, history, and time from all realms into its stream (Based on the Lifestream from Final Fantasy VII). These puffle monsters can then use the powers of the Worldstream to create worlds and stories with new powers and magic that can aid them, or summon countless alternate versions of themselves that either exist, have yet to exist, or are created by them due to their lack of existence in the first place. Their enemies, LIBRA, utilized a system similar to the Worldstream they created (Campostream) which enabled them to manipulate stories (unfortunately limited to their own stories as opposed to the GeNova). Ruled by the Supreme of Stories, Veya Zubene (U.N. ID = CHARTREUSE), a blind archmage that discovered the Worldstream due to his desire to explore worlds from his limited point of view and make this limitless.

HeartDrive: Based on the forms from Kingdom Hearts III and based on the different “Natures” of a monster, such as their Persona and personality. Also based on Ruazika’s Mythessence, these powerful puffle monsters evolved differently as their nature evolved their elemental abilities and powers to take a powerful new form that boosts their emotional state and powers because of the emotional state. Based on the concept of how each Puffle character had a unique characteristic nature (Redison as a brave but impulsive, Greenison as a fun and erratic, etc) and their nature appearing when fused to me (in this world, I had entered a coma to which the puffles would fuse into me and create a new identity, the flamed hair Robert or the Wind blown haired Liam), which is based on Kamen Rider Den-O. Some puffle monsters have different primary characteristics/natures which give them different forms. It primarily depends on the puffle monster’s control of their emotions and natures in order to create a new HeartDrive form. Ruled by the Supreme Blade, Sadalmelik (Melikeith) (Named after the star of Aquarius) (U.N. ID = BLUE), a great swordsman and the warrior known as the Sword Saint, who not only is a master of swordsmanship but also has mastered all DriveForms as a master of his emotions with his primary Drive form as Wisdom Form. Each HeartDrive gives boosts in certain stats as it becomes a stat of its own with its own levels of power which then gives different effects. For example, Wisdom Form increases the mana level and accuracy for ranged attacks, vs Valor Form which increases the attack, defense, and speed levels and critical levels for melee attacks. In this universe, AQUARIUS, ruled by Andrew’s character Dracoseer, developed a technology that created artificial HeartsDrives for soldiers that had devoid themselves of emotions, creating an ultimate soldier to take over the realm, in which Redison and Haoh as well as the warriors of the Hearts Clan fought Dracoseer to stop them from taking the CoreHeart in the core of their world.

Divine Order: Based on the “Heavenly Principles and Forbidden Knowledge” from Genshin Impact, as well as the Godly Evolution Divine Scripture (from the Manhwa “Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”), the Elemental Calendar (the different “Paths”) by Bysthedragon on DeviantArt, and the Divine abilities and buffs in the Manhwa “The Knight King Who Returned With a God”, these powerful puffle monsters are ruled by Supreme Divine Creator, Elgafar Kang (based on the avatar character from 4_kirill__pure_lord_) (U.N. ID = WHITE). As a supreme being (and in his usual CREATOR Regalia (Left picture), he holds the powers of the Divine Orders and Absolute Orders (a stronger version of the Divine Orders that are unique to the warrior), while the Divine Order is an ability that can be shared. Elgafar's Absolute Order is <ECLIPSE ULTIMA> which summons his "Destroyer" Regalia (the right picture) and together, they unleash the powers of all Divine Orders ever created or can create Divine Orders themselves in their FINALE Regalia (the bottom picture). A Divine Order is an ancient principle that a warrior/puffle monster embodies to unleash a special buff, unique ability, stat boost, item wielding, etc. The power of the Divine Order is dependent on the conditions that the puffle monster meets in order to use the Divine Order, but the Divine Order changes their form through <Godly Evolution>, shaping them into the perfected form for the Divine Order's power. An Absolute Order can overpower a Divine Order, which is what led to victory in the battle of Redison vs Minuthi and Elgafar and the Shining Order vs Alonsa under VIRGO. VIRGO developed a system of power known as Pure power, which they used to try and conquer the realm and convert all those with Pure Power. This was however thwarted by Elgafar and the Shining Order as the deities of the Divine Orders observed that the Pure Power was not of this world, like a weed growing in a garden.

Ashira/ReGod: Based on the abilities of Kamen Rider Regad, Regad-Omega, Glare, Glare2, and Gazer (all from Kamen Rider Geats), these powerful puffle monsters are ruled by the Supreme Order, Ashiran (U.N. ID = VIOLET) (based on the star Nashira of Capricorn), a powerful mastermind that has mastered magic-technology and extra-dimensional power summoning and integration through advanced magic-technology (Magitech) to evolve and wield powers like a deity through the ReGod system - a special set of Magitech items that evolve puffle monsters and evolve them to have their maximum potential with deity like powers. Also based on the conversation I had about Tobias regarding the idea of a Supreme Order that led to the creation of life (the 4 building blocks A, T, C, and G), which led me to thinking, imagine there was more, one for the rest of the alphabet (B, D, E, etc…) which created more forms of life with the new combinations, as well as the concept of us as Carbon based life, and the possible existence of Silicon based life, with countless other forms of life created from other chemicals and other methods of alchemy (based on the Alchemy from Manhwa "Ancient Sovereign of Eternity" and the Alchemy from Kamen Rider Gotchard). Each puffle monster can unleash

ReGod Evolution, in which their forms vary depending on their knowledge of their potential and abilities (the knowledge of their concept as a creation). These puffle monsters are in a great war against CAPRICORN, an arm of ZODIAC which was found to be Valhella (the evil girl group girls I used to like) in which Amar fused with her avatar “Ruler” (a villain in the past based on Amar who used advanced technology in her attempts to conquer the world) and “upgraded” all of her allies and soldiers, but also created “Repli-monsters” which they used to “upgrade” themselves (based on the Repli-chemies and Kamen Rider Dread from Kamen Rider Gotchard). Through the ReGod Technology, the various Repli-monsters being created and used by CAPRICORN are being freed and evolved into unique warriors to join the fight.

RushLegion: Based on the concepts of Sororities and Fraternities and the bonds they share (supposedly, I’ve never been in one and don’t intend on it since you gotta pay for it), as well as the concept of “Rush”, an old puffle special move that called upon all puffles in your deck to attack the opponent in a stampede like charge. Ruled by the Supreme Chief, Alrescha Kaitain (U.N. ID = MAGENTA) (named after the stars of Pisces), the leader of ΧΞΣΦ (Chi Xi-Sigma Phi) (my own custom frat/sorority that represents an alternate version of a collective friend group in which I was still friends with all of my past friends). There are countless sub chapters and other clans that are under the Supreme Chief, each with their own symbols, mantras, goals, ideals, skills, and lore (which provides them with their unique powers and abilities). The unique ability these puffle monsters have is the ability of <Formations> which give them the ability to create different formations that can armor members or representatives (granting spirit armor as a form of their bond) allowing for all puffle monsters to don an armor with unique powers dependent on their bonds with their clan and others. Based on the constellations from Genshin Impact, and the Armed Hibiki form from Kamen Rider Hibiki. These formations can take different forms and designs empowered by the lore of the clan or the lore of the group creating the formation. For example, the warriors from the Phoenix World (Diko’s house) could do a formation that represents the tree (representing their school) or the black mountains (the couch), which gives different abilities and power boosts. These warriors are up against ΦΞ♓ (Phi Xi/PISCES), a large frat/sorority created under ZODIAC to gain more members and unleash a group/army mentality and power

Panzeianites: Based on the dream of “texting God” and the mysterious heavenly elemental realms of magic with forests of different colored crystalline trees of power and a world-building program (similar to Minecraft). Long ago, the Supreme Guardian, Arkushan (U.N ID = TURQUOISE) (named after a star of Cancer), they discovered a newly evolved Puffle Planet, recreated from the fusion of countless Puffle Planets of other worlds and realities and fusions with the Xenithverse magic and unique magic of the realm. This newly expanded world (now known as Panzeia) is home to this endless realm of magic developed by Arkushan themself, who developed a unique power the they then passed down to all their realm’s denizens, a gift known as <Xenith Monster>. The Panzeianites evolved differently as they took a form akin to the SD Gundams from SD Gundam World Heroes and the characters from Kirby (similar to the design of Redison that Shobe made), but they have mastered the power to call upon their monster forms as an energy form which can fuse with them and grant energy constructs as part of the monster form fused with the Panzeianite. For example, Redison’s Panzeianite form has many different monster forms. He can choose one, such as a firebird, in which he gains flaming energy wings in the same design as the firebird monster form, or he can fuse with his deity form and create red energy blades floating around him and behind him like his monster form. Other Panzeianites can call upon a humanoid monster form, to which they not only gain stats in movement, but also gain their unique abilities (as their monster form is represented different from their actual Xenithian counterpart). Each Panzeianite has at least one monster form, but can have multiple monster forms they can gain depending on their skills and experiences, creating new abilities in their <Xenith Monster> form. Their battle is against CANCER, a genetic engineering sector of ZODIAC that has been developing Genetically modified artificial puffles to fuse with their soldiers and unleash a chimera form. The Panzeianites have been fighting CANCER to free the Genetically modified puffle monsters, giving them new lives with their own unique monster forms they create. Based on the energy abilities (Fangs of Defiance/Ryoga Issen) from Kingohger (KuwagataOhger getting red energy blades similar to stag jaws, TonboOhger getting blue wings like a dragonfly, etc)

Chapter 6: Descend! Fall of the Stars! : With the destruction of all the arms of ZODIAC through Redison's journey with Daigoroson and allying with the U.N, The mysterious leader of the ZODIAC reveals themself, as an entity known as "The Adversary", a foil to Redison's card as "The Protagonist". In The Adversary's mission to destroy the Xenithverse, he creates 4 Elements to destroy the Xenithverse once and for all and establish a new world order with him at the top. Meanwhile, more cards begin appearing with new warriors given a similar task to defeat The Adversary, each holding a different but all-powerful card. These 5 Warriors fight with Redison against The Adversary and their 4 Elements of The End in an all out final battle.

- Part 1: Open! Gateway to the Stars: These weeks represent the weeks before the finals begin. During this time period, I happened to get an email in which I got accepted into the COGS Brain and Cognition program for next term, which led to me having to decide between staying in Math and going into COGS. In the Xenithverse, this dilemma created 2 alternate versions of Redison that represented an imagined version of both worlds, and the mental battle to decide led to the war between the two realms, but also created 2 supreme entities representing humanity in the eyes of the puffle monsters. After much talk with my parents and Tobias, I had accepted the idea and am now going forward with COGS (granted I pass COGS 200 and get into the program). This led to the success of the COGS Redison and their alliance with the Math Redison as I am sure it will come back in the future perhaps.
- Part 2: Raging Storm! Aurilus Emergence: It's the COGS Final, the first of many battles for the fate of the Xenithverse. Redison and The Soldier VS Redison The Storm (the champion warrior created by GEMINI, LIBRA, and AQUARIUS, created from the battle data of Redison between the 3 organizations). This Redison wields the power of Extreme Magic, which gives him unrivaled power albeit relatively unstable. Redison (with the power of Aurilus Emergence) and The Soldier, fight together and successfully defeat Redison and with him, the remaining efforts of the Element of Air. 3 Elements remain in addition to the return of The Adversary with his attempt to destroy the Xenithverse once and for all.
- Part 3: Doomsday! End of the World:
    - Act 1: The Skirmish of Eldrith: The Econ 102 final was actually not too bad. While there were a bunch of questions I was definitely unsure of, I did my best. This was reflected in the Xenithverse as the battle on Eldrith, The Supreme Ruler VS The Ace. Redison had been summoned to Eldrith following the battle against Redison The Storm. While he was aided in recovering his lost strength following the battle, he learned of the powers of the Cards and the Roles (The Protagonist, The Ace, The Visionary, The Adversary, The Soldier, The Immortal, The Jester, etc), as they happened to be developments of Eldrith as a power to rival the worlds around them. However, with Redison's summoning, the space between worlds happened to be weakened, leading to the Element of Earth to follow Redison and attack Eldrith in demands for Redison's surrender and capture. This led to a mighty war that led to the defeat of Mehra and her army of 1000 billion soldiers she created through the powers of Concept. Following the fight, Redison was whisked away to a different world, waking up on a moon, to the sight of a massive stadium facade like the Colosseum.
    - Act 2: The Fall of the World: The CS Final was brutal, to the point that I am actually worried I might not pass the class unless they really curve it. I am just hoping I don't have to take it again. In the Xenithverse, it was The Adversary VS The Visionary. The battle took place in a realm The Adversary himself created as a stage for his final plan to set motions of destroying the Xenithverse once and for all. This was actually almost successful (the "fail" of CPSC 210 as I feel and worry since I know I did awful on the final), leading to the creation of an alternate space in which the Xenithverse was indeed destroyed and reshaped, but through the efforts of Redison and StarGazer, Xerath was defeated after both Redison and StarGazer suffered major damage. It was revealed by Xerath following his defeat and turn to the side of good, that the remaining “Elements" had gone rogue and rebelled against him after getting their powers, specifically the Element of Water (with their goal of expanding and creating an empire to take over the Xenithverse (their own version of the Xenithverse)) and the Element of Fire (who had planned to reshape the Xenithverse separately but through different means involving the powers of Noise…). Xerath joined Redison in the fight against the remaining Elements as the dust settles (now I am just praying I don’t have to worry about CPSC 210 anymore. The time has come to focus on the next two finals)

- Part 4: Final Wave! War of the Worlds: Twas the few days before the Physics Final, a great wave of turmoil appeared leading to a war of worlds that would change the face of the realms forever. Redison Daiki had reappeared as he had planned to fake an alliance with CANCER, PISCES, and SCORPIO in order to steal their powers and the powers that they would collect through their takeover of the <Cosmic Seas of Eldath>. What he wouldn’t know is that they would actually copy his powers and create a clone of him using the powers of the three organizations, creating a new champion of their own, (The Captain) Captain Kaizon (a fusion of Kamen Rider Diend and Twokaizer). This led to the alliance of the Eldath Empire to rise again with Captain Yarr at the forefront, following his battle against FlareWrath (the leader of Eldrath). Redison Daiki called upon Redison, which helped since Redison had been chasing down the remainders of ZODIAC following the revelation of Xerath. Meanwhile, the Takagenshu of Zaelea joined the fray, led by Raisho <The Immortal>, after his friend Masamura had been nearly slain following the invasion of the Ultramarines and Captain Kaizon on a realm that Captain Yarr had been resting and Masamura had been training the locals and developing their realm to become a Zaelean state (known as Terran-2). It is now a war of Captain Kaizon and the Ultramarines vs Redison, Redison Daiki, Captain Yarr, Raisho <The Immortal>
- and the Eldath Empire. In the end, Redison, Raisho, and Redison Daiki successfully defeat Captain Kaizon and the rest of the Element of Water, which liberates the empire of Eldath, leaving Captain Yarr to explore the worlds as the ambassador.
- Part 5: Burning End! The New World Order: The PHYS 131 final is done. I hope I passed it because that was one difficult exam…In the meantime, Redison’s spirit returned to the plush after the battle, leaving him to recover. While recovering, he had a dream, awaking in a space above 7 Earths. On each Earth, he explored and discovered different alternate versions of the Xenithverse as his powers had returned to the Xenithverse, creating new powers and evolutions for puffle monsters. After befriending and learning of each Earth, he awoke with new power. Since the final for Math was optional and for some strange reason I didn’t wake up for my final, so it was never done. With that as the result, the battle of The Sorcerer King VS The Jester was postponed (while I actually got the time to imagine how the battle occurred). Redison awoke with the powers of the <Divinity of Imagination> which gave him powerful magic abilities but also access to the Golden Empire of Azgher, where he met the other deities and supreme beings. They noted a disturbance in magic due to the powers of The Sorcerer

King, which lead to their involvement. In another story, Liam Wilson had been training to become a great swordsman, only to wake up in the midst of strange alien puffle monsters that gave him a new power and a mission to help them defeat the Sorcerer King who had been siphoning their powers. With that, he unleashed a new power (Azeith) after breaking the siphon of power from the Sorcerer King, which awakened a new species of puffle monsters to help him in his battle (awakening the creation powers of Liam Wilson). *Receiving the grades, I was successful with an 83%, succeeding the battle and defeating the Sorcerer King and the Element of Fire of ZODIAC. In the aftermath, a new reorganization of magic had occurred, an Earth that had fused with the Xenithverse through the Quantum Realm and the powers of the many species that aided in defeating ZODIAC, creating the Planet Xenithia that Redison rules over as the Grand Lord Xenith.

Xinozan: These powerful puffle monsters use the powers of memories and the energy these memories have. Some items that are linked to the memory and other memories can even be charged, amplifying the energy of memories. During a battle against Lyra Arkham, Redison wields the blazing power of <Burning Scorpion>, a crystalline crimson blade (made from the Scorpion stone Alison gave me) charged with the negative memories of Alison and I, to defeat Lyra Arkham in battle. These powerful puffle monsters are as unique and infinite as memories of different people that others may have. For just me alone, I have many Xinozan puffle monsters that wield the powers of my memories of different people, different places, events, etc. Each wield a unique item that represents those memories, but also wield unique powers and abilities amplified by the memories they hold and collect, positive or negative. Through the powers of these memories, they can evolve and equip memory energies into armor or as a weapon, taking a <Xinozan form> (such as Redison's Burning Scorpion form charged by negative memory energies of Alison).

Genozis II: These powerful puffle monsters are ruled by The Soldier, known as Thouson (based on Kamen Rider Thouser), originally creations of CANCER, these puffle monsters evolved separately under the powers of Thouson. Their unique nature is that they were replica puffle monsters that had been genetically modified to become super soldiers and extremely destructive but effective in battle, originally created to fight the puffle monsters of the Xenithverse, but after liberation, they were given different roles in the Xenithverse in addition to a new genetic modification nature in which their powers are also used for other services. These super soldiers, with their unique abilities have the special skill of <Ryoga Issen> (based on concept of same name from Kingohger) which allows them to access a unique boosted power of their original form (their origin form vs their current genetically modified form) to unleash a greater power. In their <Ryoga Issen> forms, they use attacks known as <Stances> (based on the attacks from the Webtoon Jungle Juice).

The-Powers-That-Be: Based on the same entity from G.O.D.S Marvel comics, representing all things magical and fantastical. In the Xenithverse, they represent the non-concreteness of COGS, with COGS Brain and Cognition as my major. Ruled by a version of Redison that represents a powered version of me in this major (a more imagined form), known as Reddwyn (based on the character of the same name from G.O.D.S.). These powerful puffle monsters rule under the powers of the <The-Powers-That-Be>, each given a fantastical attribute and supreme power that they use to create laws of the fantasy realms they each rule as deities themselves. Can be thought in likeness to Narnia, with each Narnia-like realm ruled by a puffle monster under Reddwyn, each having its own unique <Law of Fantasy>, that affects and determines the powers of the puffle monsters created and that live in the realm.

The-Natural-Order: Based on The-Natural-Order-Of-Things from G.O.D.S Marvel comics, representing the scientific order. In the Xenithverse, they represent the concreteness and idea of my major as Mathematics. Ruled by a version of Redison that represents a powered version of me in this major (a more imagined form), known as Azurryn (an alternate reverse version of Reddwyn). These powerful puffle monsters use the powers of a unique formula within them that creates and utilizes the magic energies within the realm of the unique fractal they created through their formula. Within these Fractal realms, hosts of countless puffle monsters live within the realm, developing cities, nations, and cultures that empower the creator. These fractal realms are represented as a idealized natural realm through created through the concrete formulas of the universe that are held within each puffle monster. Each puffle monster rules their own unique fractal realm, but they can visit other fractal realms and use powers from those realms depending on their bond with the creator. Based on the worlds in “The Mirage Project” (a series on Youtube from SonarAI).

Deoros: Ruled by the Supreme One Above All (Based on the entity One Above All from Marvel comics), a golden energy deity wielding a magic pencil that can rewrite, create, or destroy reality. These puffle monster divine beings live in a realm known as <The Great Beyond>, an ancient realm of deities that each hold the powers of <Characters>, a unique card that represents a certain attribute, concept, aspect, item, or person. These <Characters> have different ranks (from Common to Unique, or other ranks like Ancient, Only-One, Universal, etc). These puffle monsters have their own <Decks> which hold their <Characters> that they collect through their lives and through their adventures. Each is born with their own unique set of Characters that represent their powers (as physical manifestations of magic around them, as well as physical manifestations of their personalities, characteristics, and imagination). Similar to us humans, these puffle monsters have their own unique styles of creation and writing, which is empowered by their <Characters> they use.

Zamyiranites: Ruled by the Ultimate One Above All (Also based on the entity One Above All from Marvel comics), but instead of a pencil, they wield a table- like book that they “type” and rewrite, create, or destroy reality (also based on the Future Note from Kamen Rider Woz). These divine beings live in a futuristic realm known as <The Great Beyond> (an alternate version of the Great Beyond) in which they hold different futuristic powers of creation that are attributed to them as the “Perfected Species”. However, these puffle monsters are different from the Deoros as instead of <Character Cards>, they wield <Puffles>, a perfected form of magic that has taken a puffle form as the spherical shape maximizes the power of the core and magic within. Based on the many different puffle species concepts within ChatGPT such as different species for different areas as well as based on magic circles and the utopian futuristic designs of inter.galactica (on Instagram) (The Zamyiira Harmonic Precision)

Aurilus: Created from the battle data of GEMINI, LIBRA, and AQUARIUS (which ironically had all 3 of my old friends, Alison, Caitlin, and Andrew respectively), a powerful lore was created as the Element of Air in order to establish a new world order under the ZODIAC KING himself. Based on the Shining Arithmetic from Kamen Rider Zero-One and the Shining System from Kamen Rider Zero-One Shining Assault Hopper, these powerful puffle monsters are born through the fusion of power of all forms of puffle monsters in existence (such as Xenithians, Xexals, Protomons, Puffles, creatures, puffle monsters, monsters, elementals, Zohruans, etc) all fused into one super form, under AURILUS (As from the One are all things born (based on the Alchemy spell phrase from Kamen Rider Gotchard)), the One all things are born from, unleashing <Aurilus Emergence>, which evolves them into a super form that also adds additional abilities unique to their fusion (based on the concept of Emergence, how when added together, a complex can have unique properties vs the properties of the individual components). Different puffle monsters have different <Aurilus Emergences> depending on the types of units they fuse with (if they have some Xexal abilities, Elementals or Zohruan abilities, etc). These extra abilities (which are technically units themselves) fuse with them to unleash their Aurilus form, all of which have the <Auril Arithmetic System>, a special super-computer brain that creates magical energy constructs of prediction for the best ways of attack, defense, and spells to use (like in Kamen Rider Zero-One). In battle, The Element of Air is represented by their champion Redison (The Storm), a creation made from the fusion of battle data of the understandings of Redison and the puffle monsters I created as understood by Alison, Caitlin, and Andrew, a warrior that wields a sword that is imbued with extreme magic (created from the battle data and combined magic power of the three organizations) to battle Redison. Redison mastered the powers of Aurilus Emergence after fusing all the concepts of my past creations together to unleash an Emergence. These Aurilus forms can be stabilized though through an <Aurilian Shard> (based on the shards and Fracture Forms from sb.fakemon on Instagram).

Eldrithian: Puffle monsters ruled by Varian of Shifting Fates, holder of <The Ace>, the strongest warrior and champion and the Ruler of puffle monsters that live on Eldrith (a version of Earth but everything around us such as the trees, and all structures are like mini-worlds and have dioramas (like the dioramas of Miniature World (that museum in Victoria)). For example, the clock tower by the IKB library has a sky city all around the tower and at the very top of the tower. In the forested area around the library are the same, villages and cities within the trees, home to countless puffle monsters that developed human-like cultures, nations, and technologies, but are more advanced due to living in a realm in which time is slightly slower due to their size). Wields blade based on the WizarSwordGun from Kamen Rider Wizard and uses magic similar to Kamen Rider Wizard as magic of the <Cards> developed from the fusion of the Xenithverse and the Earthly concept. These powerful puffle monsters each use the powers of the <Eldrithian Cards> (each of which is a role with their own abilities and attributes). This card power is how these warriors fight in the small world they live in against the countless puffle monsters of the Xenithverse.

Neuruniverogodians: Ruled by the master of the role <The Visionary> known as StarGazer, the Master of Divine Arts. In the cosmic sanctum of Neuruniverogodia, these supreme puffle monster deity-like beings stand as custodians of fate, expertly guiding and shaping the flow of energies and consciousness, steering the evolution of life through unexplored circles in the vast expanse of the Universe. These powerful puffle monsters are intelligent super beings known for the powers of achievements, mental arts, and magic arts as they shape all magic into a new force of power. Each Neuruniverogodian is a master and creator of their own type of concept (one can be a master of the Mental Arts, another, master of the Cultivation Arts, or Master of Qi, etc). Based on the many concepts from the many manhwas and Webtoons I've been reading as well as based on cosmic art from inter.galactica (from Instagram). These puffle monsters are conceptual in design, can take any form as any being would see them. These puffle monster supremes are all of the magic type known as <Stellar> (based on the new Stellar type of Pokemon), and each wear a crown of great power (based on the Tera Crowns from Pokemon and Terapagos Stellar Form's Tera Crown), which represents and emphasizes the pinnacle of their power as masters and creators of super energies and powers.

ZODIAC/Xerathian: The traveling warrior and Endless Regressor, Xerath Soravis, holder of the role <The Adversary> (which later evolved into <The Zodiac King>, transferring the powers of The Adversary elsewhere…), a strange being with an ability based on an Adversarial Attack on a Machine Learning model using Noise, which gives him the ability to rewrite the definitions of magic and interpretation of magic by modifying the flow of magic energies (kind of like taking the music in a song and re-arranging the notes into something completely different, whatever he shapes the notes to be) into anything he desires. Each regression, he unlocked a new ultimate power that represented his past life, and over and over again he gained new abilities and new powers as he would change each life he lived to find the life he truly would be happy in. In this life, he had become the ZODIAC KING with the desire to reshape the Xenithverse in his image to be truly happy. Following the battle against Redison and The Visionary, the power of <The Adversary> evolved, giving him the power of creation as his powers from all of his past regressions fused with the powers of his <Magic Energy Modification> but also the power to pass down his countless powers he got through his endless regressions to puffle monsters he would shape through the new role of <The Zodiac King>. These puffle monsters represent different stages and powers from the endless past lives of Xerath, in which their main power known as <Xerath Zodiac> creates a crystallized aura of an ultimate form their "life" wielded. Each puffle monster created and ruled by Xerath holds a power that is the basis of their powers known as a <Xerathian Horoscope>, which represents a form or power that Xerath wielded at one point in time. This power can evolve separately as these new inheritors of Xerath's regressions now evolve and develop these lives for themselves, giving these lives a new destiny, and later creating new <Xerathian Horoscopes>. In addition, these Xerath Zodiac Forms (crystalline evolutions based on the Terastalize phenomenon in Pokemon) can wield and create power weaponry and develop abilities that go beyond their past lives and knowledge through fusing current knowledge, technology, and magic. For example, one group of puffle monsters inherited the powers of Xerath when he was known as the "Divine Sword" at a time of dragons, cultivation, and martial arts (based on all the martial art manhwas I've read). These puffle monsters' <Xerath Zodiac> would have a powerful aura that would crystalize in the form of a mighty sword fighter or a martial artist (depending on the core technique/memory of Xerath's life), but they can evolve this power through modern swordsmanship and technology as well as diverse magic of the Xenithverse

Barakkhan: 250 million years in the future, a new supercontinent known as Pangea Ultima rises through the powers of the ZODIAC KING combining TAURUS, VIRGO, and CAPRICORN as the elements of Earth, under their Champion known as Mehra (The Supreme Ruler) (based on the Pyramid fortress Mehrma from the Webtoon Ex and Ash), in order to establish a new world order under the ZODIAC KING himself. These powerful puffle monsters wield the <Concept Power of Transcendence> (the machine magic powers of creating robot soldiers that hold great power (based on Khamsa Barak (ability from the Webtoon Ex and Ash)). Also based on the power from Kamen Rider Ziin (the future Kamen Riders from Kamen Rider Geats) (the design power), a power that they can use in the future to create/actualize any power and form they want. Originally wielded by Mehra but through the powers of <The Ace>, Redison was able to take the powers for himself and wield them, creating a new form that evolved the Concept Powers of Transcendence into a power infused with Xenithverse magic and all powers of creation and imagination to become the powers that these puffle monsters wield today. Ruled by a new warrior king known as Barak Khan (based on Genghis Khan and Barack Obama), these powerful puffle monsters rule as a military power in their ability to create and actualize any power, army, or weapon they need and want, but this power also applies to all other aspects of society such as in art, businesses, entertainment, food, culture, development, etc. These puffle monsters are almost utopian in design and power given their freely changing natures as shapers of reality.

Eldath: The cosmic seas of the multiverse, where each island is a world. Long ago, the species of puffles were not of the Earth, but were hyper-intelligent beings of magic that lived within the <Cosmic Seas> known as <Eldath>. This vast ocean had each island as a realm/world, where a group of puffles lived peacefully, had their own culture, powers, dreams, art, etc. Each island however was under the rule of a Nation (based on the main color of the puffle, as each nation was one color predominantly). The Eldrans (The Red Nation) were known as the mighty defenders, explorers, and ambassadors of Eldath, but during a civil war, a group of rebels under RedScar led a revolution against the leaders of the Eldrans. This led to a world war as many revolutions began all over the other nations of Eldath following the call for revolution in Eldran. This led to the decision of the <Council of Nations> to banish the revolutionaries and exile them from Eldath, never to return, sending them all to Earth. With the lack of magic flow, they became the puffles of Club Penguin today. With the takeovers of the Ultramarines, the Council of Nations called for aid after hearing of the evolution of the puffles on Earth following the end of Club Penguin (basically the Xenithverse). Captain Yarr (originally RedScar but Captain Rockhopper thought Yarr would be a more fitting name and RedScar having no more magic to even speak had to agree), who captains The Migrator to this day, imbued with the soul of Captain Rockhopper within him and wielding his gear, he holds the Eldath Keyblade, which opens a portal to the cosmic seas of Eldath. After a treaty was signed and many apologies from the Council of Nations, a new alliance was formed of the former revolutionaries with the Eldath Empire to fight back and reclaim their home worlds. Each puffle species of Eldath is based on the puffles I made on ChatGPT, each with a different description of color, powers, and even a different name of species (such as the Frostfluff puffles or the Emberpuff puffles), except with each of them living in a more vast world of magic and culture, with them able to wield tools (due to their more humanoid forms, kind of more like Kirby). In a great battle to determine the leader of the forces that would go to war to defend Eldath, Captain Yarr went against the Eldrath champion FlareWrath, which lead to a great fight until Yarr was able to get him to surrender. With that, Yarr and FlareWrath settled their differences, with FlareWrath remaining leader for Eldrath and the Council of Nations, while Yarr would become an ambassador and representative of the United Nations of Eldath to Redison and the Xenithverse.

Zaelea: In the realm known as Zaelea, these powerful warriors live in a realm predominated by magic, to the point that the concept of technology was something more of an idea, as magic had replaced technology, with some even taking a form of technology *despite it still being called magic. Based on the Highlander and on the dream I had of a great battle involving different color warriors, each representing a region and elemental power, these great warriors are ruled by the Takagenshu (the cybernetic warriors on Instagram (the_imperator_lord), each a lord of Shogunate that serve under the Zaelean Supreme Sword, Raisho, their strongest Takagenshu and holder of <The Immortal>, a power that had been passed down from immortal to immortal, deity to deity following their retirement to become mortal. Raisho, as The Immortal, was able to find his predecessors and not only learn from them but he also gave them the powers to transform their original immortality into super armor and abilities as they became Takagenshu to serve him. These puffle monster warriors learn from the Takagenshu and master the twin paths of the magic arts and the martial arts. Also based on the samurai of Feudal Japan and how they were also scholars, ceremonial masters, artists, etc when off-service. So how did he get involved in the war against the Ultramarines? In one event, Masamura, one of his Takagenshu and close friend, had been nearly slain in battle defending a world he had grown fond of during his stay there, training the locals and developing their world to become a Zaelean state. However, the Ultramarines invasion caught them off guard, leading to a brutal war that lead to their loss and the take over the of Ultramarines, who had established that realm as their main base. Captain Yarr happened to be in the region taking time off following the battle against FlareWrath, when he found the injured Masamura and healed him. This began the <War of the Worlds> as Raisho joined the fight, with Captain Yarr, and Redison, during his journey to defeat the remainder of ZODIAC. All warriors are based on the designs of the warriors on the page of The_imperator_lord on Instagram as well as other AI warrior creations on Instagram and each wield unique magic abilities known as <Dynamics> which give them unique abilities depending on different combinations of their magic, skills, and even non-combat related abilities that they have, giving them a unique way of fighting. The Takagenshu themselves and puffle monsters that have evolved their powers to a high level can unleash <Divine Skills> through unleashing a bit of their “immortality” to unleash an ultimate state.

Kaizon: Through the powers of the ZODIAC KING, CANCER, SCORPIO, and PISCES came together to create an ultimate power as the Element of Water in order to establish a new world order under the ZODIAC KING himself. This power took the form of the mighty Captain Kaizon (The Captain) (basically Twokaizer (from Zenkaigers) but with the design of Kamen Rider Decade), who not only formed the Ultramarines (a pun on the Marines but really more of the Navy) but took lead as the many groups within PISCES, SCORPIO, and CANCER took over countless “Islands” in the Cosmic Sea. This led to the <War of the Worlds> against the Multiversal Empire of Eldath vs The Ultramarines. Following the battle against Captain Kaizon in the <War of the Worlds>, his defeat and the defeat of the Element of Water actually birthed the power of <Essences> as a concept of diversity in power that the Element of Water organizations of ZODIAC represented in their quest to form an empire. These newly born puffle monster species use the powers of <Essences> which they absorb and create through their unique understandings of certain concepts, topics, or knowledge. Each puffle monster is kind of like a human in a sense, a blank slate at the beginning, but through their lives, gain knowledge, experience, memories, and skills, which give them <Essences> (kind of like an EXP system), and these Essences evolve to become abilities, items, and eventually blend to give them unique forms based on the Essences they have. Also based on the SocksFor1 Minecraft God fighting video and the different God Essences they got, giving them super abilities based on the gods they got it from, kind of like the abilities of Captain Kaizon (which was based on Kamen Rider Decade and Diend, who both used Rider Cards, which was kind of the like the essences of other Kamen Riders).

Project RedShiki: After the <War of the Worlds>, Redison had gone into hibernation, awakening in a space above 7 different worlds that were alternate Xenithverses, each with their own unique “Supertype " that represented Redison’s legacy. It was later revealed that this was the power of Redison’s Divinity (foreshadowing the powers of Azgher) as the <God of Imagination>, which gives him the ability to create and envision worlds and alternate Xenithverses based on certain ideas or concepts. The unique design among all of these puffle monsters below is that they all have a <SuperType Crown> that takes the form of their “concept in mind” or interpretation in their evolution (for example, a ZeroShiki might have a crown that represents their interpretation of the Origin of Power, while the MugenShiki will have a crown that represents their interpretations of Infinite Power).

- MugenShiki: Type Infinity of puffle monsters. These puffle monsters have a special type known as <Mugen Shiki or Type Infinity> which was born of the powers of Redison as a concept. In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special Infinity Type, which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “Infinite Power”, giving them insanely strong abilities. Also based on the concept of “Minecraft but everything is Infinite”, their materials, nature and magic energy around them, weapons, items, etc are all infinite, giving them insanely powerful and unique structures, items (in combining the infinite weapons), and developing a new culture around this power
- ZeroShiki: In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special <Zero Shiki> or <Type Zero> which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “The Origin of power”, giving them primitive but powerful conceptual abilities that can break imagination and reality around them. These puffle monsters incorporate the powers of Type Zero into their own magic abilities and the elements around them, creating new technologies, magic systems, and civilizations using these new powers.

- GenisShiki: In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special <Genis Shiki> or <Type Genesis> which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “The Power of Creation ". Each puffle monster in their Type Genesis form has the abilities of Creation in their own unique <Creative Mode>, which gives them unique abilities as a creator of worlds and powers themselves. This power is determined by their mana, energy, imagination, and knowledge in order to create their own unique things imbued with their own powers that boost them when they as the creator use it. Through the powers of creation, all puffle monsters became “artists” in a sense, creating their own spaces and regions in an ever expansive realm of exploration and creativity
- ArceusShiki: In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special <Arceus Shiki> or <Type Arceus> which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “The Power of All Elements “. Long ago, this was known as the strongest power a puffle could have. As the Xenithverse evolved, this power became a step on the path to the strongest power. In this Xenithverse, this power remains the strongest supreme power a puffle monster can have, with each having a unique evolution form depending on their mastery of the elements and elemental abilities, each of which are unique to each puffle monster (different elemental abilities for different puffle monsters). In this realm, the power of the elements have not only evolved to a zenith, but have become unique in energies as puffle monsters master the elements, which has led to a martial art like elemental culture of magic, with structures and civilizations dedicated to mastering the power of all elements.
- StellarShiki: In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special <Stellar Shiki> or <Type Stellar> which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “The Power of the Heavens/Cosmos “. Based on the Stellar type from Pokemon Scarlet and Violet, these puffle monsters unleash the power of the heavens, with a unique evolution form similar to Terapagos Stellar form (with Redison wielding a crystal blade based on Terapagos Stellar form). Their common design among this species is the crystal symbols orbiting them, which they can absorb to unleash a powerful ability that can break reality. Through this power, they developed a utopian realm with astral technology and structures that make it seem like a heaven on Earth.
- NegaShiki: In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special <Nega Shiki> or <Type Nega> which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “The Power to destroy powers “. With the power of destruction, their civilization is primarily war-based and conquest based, leading to countless wars among civilizations and rapidly developing technologies for war.
- OmniShiki: In this alternate Xenithverse, these puffle monsters can evolve into the special <Omni Shiki> or <Type Omni> which gives them a unique form based on their interpretation of “The Ultimate Fusion of All Powers “. This led to a utopian society and civilization as these puffle monsters are omnipotent in their own unique ways, each evolving their society through their powers.

Azimyth: Ruled by Liam Wilson/The Jester, A hero character I am creating that represents who I am today. Our talk in COGS 200 was about the idea of symbolism and how everything that we create can have intentionality, a meaning, and symbol that we give it. For me, Redison represented the ideal me, popular, smart, and with many good friends that can lean on him. Liam Wilson represents who I am now, kinda awkward at times and still trying to make his way through life, or in this case, catch up to Redison. His design is myself, except with a black coat and a black sword on my side. *Maybe evolves to wield the 14 Blades (based on the Donnie Yen movie of the same name. Main character has a box of 14 blades on his back and its super cool). Wilson uses the powers of <Authorities>, a power he gained through a fateful meeting with the legendary Azimyths themselves, each giving him their mythological abilities and skills they have through their stories, a power that acts as their legacy, as Wilson and other wielders of <Authorities> continue their legacies.

Azgher: Home to The Golden Empire of the Ancients and wielders of the powers known as <Divinities> (Based on the different Divinities (Life, Destruction, and Chaos and countless others they haven't revealed yet) from the Webtoon +99 Reinforced Wooden Stick, each Divinity having unique overpowered abilities like time manipulation, reality manipulation, and probability manipulation (for the God of Chaos)). These ancient beings have an original <God Mode form> as well as other forms they reveal, with each form having a unique constitution and skills (with God Mode having all abilities and skills). These legendary puffle monster beings hail from the Golden Empire, a secret empire of deities that hide in plain sight in order to defend the natural and supernatural order of magic. Each deity holds a unique <Divinity> which gives them unique abilities and powers that represent them.

Azeith: Once ruled by <The Sorcerer King>. Through the powers of the ZODIAC KING, LEO, ARIES, and SAGITTARIUS came together to create an ultimate power as the Element of Fire in order to establish a new world order under the ZODIAC KING himself, creating the Sorcerer King as their champion. Following the defeat of Xerath, the Element of Fire was able to develop a power similar to "Noise" (the ability of Magic Energy Manipulation) as it created a champion known as The Sorcerer King, who resided in the alternate world in which the Xenithverse had been reshaped under Xerath's image (the alternate world due to my possible fail in CPSC 210). This masked king was interestingly brainwashed by The Element of Fire and after some modifications through the group, the masked king became their representative and champion. Based on the powers of Kamen Rider Sorcerer, the golden magic he wielded, etc. These powerful puffle monsters can become a helmet/head which can summon an energy giant (based on the "Guardian of Alola" move from Pokemon Sun and Moon) that manifests as an ancient titan of magic energy, able to use powerful titan skills and attacks (each titan having a unique form, some with armor, wielding a giant weapon, etc), as representations of a new world order themselves. This power of titans formed through the desire and the golden power of the sorcerer king to shape new world orders as they desired.

Chapter 7: Advent! Rise of the Lords : Based on a story of how in this world, everyone is bestowed a planet to rule over as a Lord. Redison, known for ruling as Grand Lord Xenith, is met with other Lords for the great <Lord Battle Championship>. In this great battle, the Lords fight each other showcasing their mastery of their Planet, however, it was revealed the whole championship was to find the shards of the Great Planet, the very first planet formed long ago, which resides the System (a power that created the Lords long ago), and to make the Great Planet whole once more in order to re-establish balance again in the Xenithverse following the attack from ZODIAC. Following the Convergence, the Great Planet was fused, and named Xenithia Terra (following Redison's victory in the Lord Battle Championship). The System entered Redison, giving him the abilities of granting the power of Lords.

Monadran: Based on the Monado and Monado arts from Xenoblade Chronicles, this world is ruled by Draven Ignis of the Planet Pyralis, a volcanic realm with rivers of molten lava, obsidian mountains, and a sky painted in hues of red and orange. Fire-resistant creatures roam the fiery landscapes. He has mastery over fire, able to generate and control flames at will. He can create fire projectiles, form weapons out of molten lava, and even manipulate the temperature in the vicinity, making the battlefield scorching hot. Draven learns of the ancient Titans long ago and that the origin of his powers come from his mastery of manipulating Ether, the energy that flows and constitutes all things. Through learning the art of Ether manipulation, Draven develops his Planet to not only just be a flaming planet, but also have more nature, diverse elements, creating a new society and environment based on mastering Ether and using their unique Ether wielding techniques through combat, weaponry, and technology each using a unique Monado art they develop.

Ragni: Ruled by Raji Firewalker, the Lord of Planet Agni Pradesh, a vibrant realm inspired by Indian culture, with temples, flowing rivers, and lush landscapes. The air is filled with the scent of exotic spices and the sounds of traditional music). She can control and embody the element of fire, summoning flames for both offense and defense. She also manipulates spiritual energies of her surroundings, tapping into the divine. These powerful beings use the powers of Pseudo-Indian deities and their powers. More abilities have Asura/Multi armed skills and characteristics, each wielding different weapons in different hands and using unique combos in battle. A realm rich in culture that was later discovered to be a shard of The Great Planet. Following the Convergence of Lords, Agni Pradesh fused into the other Planets, all becoming the giga-planet known as Xenithia Terra, remaining as a planetary realm within Xenethia Terra. In past, present, and future, their universe is heavily influenced by Indian culture. "What if all civilizations stemmed from Indian culture?", how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Shang: Ruled by Shanti Tranquil Lotus, Lord of the Planet Nirvanica (based on Buddhist philosophy, with tranquil gardens, meditative temples, and floating lotus blossoms). She can manipulate energies of tranquility and enlightenment, create calming auras, induce states of meditation, and draw upon wisdom of ancient spiritual teachings for guidance. These powerful beings are masters of Cultivation, Qi, and celestial energies which empower their martial arts and weapons in battle. They use the powers of Pseudo-Asian deities (like dragons, Japanese deities, Chinese Zodiac and deities, etc). Their powers are unique through their gift of Advanced Cultivation based on Asian martial arts and techniques. In this realm, their past, present, and future is heavily influenced by Asian culture. These beings are born from the idea of "What if all civilizations stemmed from East Asian culture?", how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Azir-amun: Ruled by Astrid Amun of the Planet Psionanubis (a realm of mental landscapes, floating islands of consciousness, and ethereal dreamscapes, with Egyptian influence to the Xenithverse), with the ability to manipulate psychic energies, delve into the minds of others, create mental barriers, and project illusions directly into the thoughts of opponents. These powerful puffle monsters wield the powers of Pseudo-Egyptian deities and other beings from Egyptian mythology and ancient times (kind of based on Marvel's Moon Knight), with Egyptian mythology influencing their magic, culture, abilities, and technology into their past, present, and future. Known for their unique ability of Hieroglyphic magic (which are 10x stronger than normal magic symbols/runes) and unique magic arts and weaponry that call upon the ancient powers of the Hieroglyphics as well as modern hieroglyphics created to power their technology and magic of the modern day. These beings are born from the idea of "What if all civilizations stemmed from Egyptian culture?", how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Zeusephyr/Stormborne: Ruled by Zephyr Stormrider of Planet Aeirion (a floating realm of ever-shifting clouds and swirling storms. Thunderous winds and vibrant lightning create a dynamic and unpredictable environment): a master of weather, summoning powerful storms, gusts of wind, and lightning bolts. He can also ride the air currents, granting him incredible agility and the ability to move swiftly through the sky. These powerful beings rule using the powers of Pseudo-Greek deities and Ancient Greek and Roman culture known as the Stormborne, supreme heavenly beings that inherited powers from Greek deities and pseudo-greek deities that I imagine in my head (and their powers and representations). Their unique abilities is a special magic art that uses the powers of greek symbols (and a modernized greek alphabetical system that empowers the puffle monsters and their technology today). These beings live in Aeirion, a modernized Greco Roman world empowered by magic through the Greek alphabetical system. Known to be stronger as elementals as opposed to the elemental puffle monsters of the Xenithverse (Xenithia). These beings are born from the idea of "What if humans had evolved from Greco Roman ideas instead?", how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Odyn: Ruled by Gungnir Odynson of Planet Asgard (based on Asgard from the MCU and countless other interpretations of Asgard), known as a master of spear fielding (his weapon being Gungnir), elemental control, and invincibility. These powerful beings use the powers of Pseudo-Norse deities (and known Norse deities), with their powers and technology (the rainbow bridge, Yggdrasil, etc) being applied to modern-day and futuristic technologies and concepts in culture. Their unique art is the manipulation of Runes (Runes have been used in Norse culture in which some magic (specifically Xenithian magic) took root from as their magic symbolic system). In this world, their runes are more advanced and 10x more powerful than Xenithian magic symbols/runes as ancient Norse runes have evolved into powerful complex systems of magic powers that these beings use. Certain deities have their own unique runes that these beings master, but there are also standard runes that dictate nature, elements, etc. These beings are born from the idea of “What if humans had developed from Norse Mythology?”, how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Elden: In this universe, Greenison becomes a lord of a realm known as Elden, the Xenithverse except influenced by Elvish culture, technology, magic system, etc. A realm much more in tune with nature with their beings known as the “Elves of the future”, a supremely evolved species of elves that developed magic and techniques to wield nature in a more complex way, even intertwining with other elements and powers. These beings are born from the idea of “What if humans had evolved into Elves instead?”, how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Magellanica: In this universe, Hans becomes lord of a realm known as Megellanica, the Xenithverse except influenced by Merpeople culture, technology, magic system, etc. These advanced and highly evolved “Merpeople of the future” have complete mastery of the oceans and all water, having not only created an endless source of drinkable water for all but also habitable water, creating a realm with more advanced “water types” and with weapons, technology, and magic akin to Merpeople of mythology. These beings are born from the idea of “What if humans had evolved into merpeople instead?”, how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world.

Highborne: In this universe, Sora/Sabone becomes lord of a realm known as Kalos, the Xenithverse except influenced by one idea, “What if All humans are born with innate magic powers” (the concept of everyone in the world having been “Awakened” or superhumans) and how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed with these ideas, and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination around me.

Skyborne: In this universe, these beings are known as Masters of the heavens and the skies (floating city civilizations everywhere). These beings are born from the idea of “What if humans had evolved to be able to fly/float instead?”, how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world. This Xenithverse comprises of countless floating islands and civilizations, in which battles in the sky are the in-thing, how life on the ground doesn't exist, and how technology has evolved through life in the skies, looking at the ground as a mystery, a source of ancient times and stories.

Dimension=borne/Asterborne: In this Xenithverse, these powerful puffle monsters wield powerful abilities as unique as their origins. Known as the Asterborne, these beings are born from the idea of "What if humans had mastered dimensional travel since the beginning of time instead?", how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world. In this case, there are countless beings from countless dimensions who reside on Earth, and this intermingling has developed new stories and ideas that therefore created puffle monsters from their home dimensions and the powers they have. (250th species)

Starborne: These beings are born from the idea of "What if Aliens colonized Earth long ago and how humanity has slowly evolved into an Asimar-like species?", how Earth would have developed and how cultures, mythologies, stories, and civilizations would have developed and how that would have influenced me creating the Xenithverse based on the inspiration and my imagination through being raised in this new world. These super beings known as the Starborne wield an extraordinary cosmic power due to their cosmic origins (as influenced by the stories I would be inspired by as someone with an Asimar origin).

January: Return

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 8: The Gathering of Steel (Disneyland/Cali)
    - Chapter 9: Turbulence! The Nexus World

Chapter 8: The Gathering of Steel: Redison discovers the legacy of Kronos and Raiz, the hero twins I made while I was on my Disneyland trip with my choir in 7th grade and was with dad. Both had a challenge for Redison, Raiz in Disneyland challenged him to find the Kybersaber (based on Kyber crystals and the Darksaber) while Kronos in California Adventure challenged him to find the Flame Clock. When fused together, it created different armors (based on the PLANETS system from Gundam) with Redison given a new Core form, and a giant ship that holds the armor ships which can also transform into a giant warrior known as Gigant Phoenix (the warrior known as Gigant Phoenix Bustar). Following this success, Redison was let know of Sabone's old allies, leading him on a mission to find them throughout the park. In this world, these puffle monsters were created based on the idea of Sabone with his physical form being my blue puffle pin.

BoostEdge: Ruled by Roger Rocket, the Red Puffle Pin. Found in California Adventure in Pixar Pier near the Incredicoaster. These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of “What if I had a Red Puffle Pin instead?”, (he had become Sabone), wielding different powers as the one known as the fastest alive. Known as “The Rocket”, he had an ability for time dilation and high mana compression, giving him insane attack and speed when in battle. Based on Kamen Rider Geats Boost and GeatsIX, these insanely fast and powerful puffle monsters are almost like ghosts in battle, unseen but undefeated. Their unique ability is their armory created from mechanical armors and weapons (similar to the weaponry from Kamen Rider Geats, such as the Boost form, Magnum form, Ninja form, etc) which they summon through their fiery red aura around them with the ability known as <BoostEdge>.

RailEdge: Ruled by Reilly, the Orange Puffle Pin (Found in Big Thunder Mountain Railroad). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of “What if I had a Orange Puffle Pin instead?”, (he had become Sabone), wielding different powers as master of the wild spirits within the trains. These puffle monsters control the powers of wild spirit trains that they summon from their amber aura around them, which they can equip and give them unique abilities, stat boosts, and other unique evolutions, forms, and weapons with the ability known as <RailEdge>.

BeastEdge: Ruled by Bestia, the Yellow Puffle Pin (Found in the Royal Theatre playing Lion King). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of “What if I had a Yellow Puffle Pin instead?”, (he had become Sabone), wielding different powers as a master of the Beasts, giving him and all the puffle monsters under his rule as powerful warriors with unique bestial instincts and the powers to awaken these ancient animal instincts to give them animalistic features created from their golden aura (such as aura claws, wings, a tail, etc) known as the ability of <BeastEdge>.

DragonEdge: Ruled by Eskamal, the Green Puffle pin (Found in California Adventure in the Grizzly Peak Rapids). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of “What if I had a Green Puffle Pin instead?”, (he had become Sabone), wielding different powers as a master of the storm, giving him and all puffle monsters under his rule powerful martial instincts, the ability to wield divinity and pure mana within them as it rages through their body like a storm. Through this storm of mana within them, it manifests as an emerald aura that they can wield to equip powerful unique weapons that utilizes the bursts and stormy mana within them known as <DragonEdge> as their items and armory take the form of dragons.

KaizokuEdge: Ruled by Kaira, the Purple puffle pin (Found in New Orleans Square). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of “What if I had a Purple Puffle Pin instead?”, (she had become Sabone), wielding different powers as the Pirate Queen, a master of fully unleashing the potential of any treasure and weapon she can get her hands on. All puffle monsters under her rule have the same abilities as masters of all weaponry and treasures and through their unique violet aura, they are able to summon powerful pirate armory and weapons (based on Cross Armor mode and Galleon Armor mode from Gokaigers), with each puffle monster wielding their own unique <KaizokuEdge> depending on their primary weapons and skills.

AquasEdge: Ruled by Natalia, the Pink puffle pin (Found underwater in Nemo's Submarine Adventure). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of "What if I had a Pink Puffle Pin instead?", (she had become Sabone), wielding different powers as Queen of the seas, akin to a mermaid or siren, all puffle monsters under her rule as well as she have the unique ability of <AquasEdge> which not only gives them a pearly pink aura, but also gives them a gift that allows them to communicate and bond with all sea life but also borrow their gifts and evolve, taking different AquasEdge forms, such as wielding the many arms of the Octopus, or the fin of the Shark, or gigantic size of the whale.

KurosEdge: Ruled by Kuros, the Black puffle pin (Found in San Fransokyo, followed us through Disneyland in Tomorrowland). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of "What if I had a Black Puffle Pin instead?", (he had become Sabone), wielding different powers as the Black Excalibur, the sword that can cut through magic, giving him and all puffle monsters under his rule the divine power of destruction, a power that eliminates the limits of destruction (based on the "Burrowing Heavens" skill from the Manhwa "Boundless Necromancer") known as <KurosEdge>, which takes the form of a pitch-black aura around them that they can form into a weapon of their choosing which empowers their destructive powers.

MatterEdge: Ruled by Yeti Jr, the White Puffle pin (Found in the Matterhorn). These powerful puffle monsters under his rule were created from the reality of "What if I had a White Puffle Pin instead?", (he had become Sabone), wielding different powers as a smaller puffle in stature as opposed to many of his peers, and had been picked on for his size. He had run away to the mountains, to be found by the Yeti, who himself had been discriminated against for his size and looks. Together, they lived together. The Yeti taught him a powerful magic that gave him an advantage in battle and was something he taught to the puffle monsters later under his rule, a power to gather all mana and magic energies around him in the form of material, and form it around himself, with his body as the core, creating a massive golem like form. This power later became known as <MatterEdge>, which would take the form of a shining snow white aura around them which they would manifest as it glows to grasp the surrounding materials and pull it around them to create a golem form.

Chapter 9: Turbulence! The Nexus World: The NWHacks 2024 is happening again January 20-21 which I got in. The second term of school has also just started, as I make new friends, and go into the year with new resolutions to better myself, while also dealing with new challenges ahead. In the Xenithverse, the portal to NW (Nexus World) (based on Mount Meru from Manhwa "The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity") opens, creating strange influences and strange phenomena. Co-occurs with <The War Within>. Following the NWHacks, the Nexus World closed, awaiting another year before warriors shall enter the doorway once again. However, the powers of the Nexus World created a scenario, in which the very mythology and origins of puffle monsters changed forever, creating new species and new magic beings that began appearing in UBC to threaten the Xenithverse in the challenge of who is the supreme being that should rule the Xenithverse as the true original species. On the day of the midterm, unfortunately it was a rough fight (no idea how I did it, it was so fast paced…you really gotta know your sht). Redison fought against the Edis and Z'Arc (the champion of the Zarcians). While the battle was successful…Redison suffered some damage in the end…as January ends, the Zarceus, Zarcians, Edis, and Malketh establish the Xenithverse as a new home in addition to the worlds through fusion.

Imperium: Based on the concept of "The Mission" (Caitlin Erin O'Neill posts these videos of things she loves about men, and one of her videos had a comment about "The mission" the boys state they have in the comments, with The Mission being something in regards to the Imperium and The Emperor). Also based on Bionicles (the original 2001 version) with Mata Nui, the Matoran, etc. These powerful super beings live within titans (such as Mata Nui) within massive complex cities of fantasy and magic (such as Metru Nui). Long ago, there were some puffles with abilities and designs based on the bionicles (the 2001-2005 ones) that I enjoyed looking at, and at the time I played Skylanders, I had a portal. When it was off, these ancestral puffle monsters found the portal and used it to explore new worlds. However, since it wasn't linked to the Skylands (since the game was turned off), they would travel to countless universes and worlds, creating colonies and portals to link their homes, creating a great union that would be named the <Imperium>. Each of these worlds they entered were actually universes inside these massive titan beings that they live in now, and the <Imperium> is actually a world of its own, like a Planet of titans, with each titan living in communities like how humans live in communities, cities, and nations. The Imperium is the union behind all the worlds and all worlds within all titans in this universe. Also based on the Planetary Union from the show The Orville. The magic of the Nexus World opened up a spatial time rift, which lead to the arrival of those in the Imperium to the common realm of UBC. Following a battle against Redison against Emperor Sazeron, the Xenithverse and Imperium allied in a union, with the Xenithverse accepting the Imperium as one of their worlds, and the Imperium accepting the Xenithverse in their Union/Empire.

<The War Within>: Dad told me I need to change myself within, (his words specifically being I need to be less negative, less self-deprecating), the reason why I am not making friends or losing friends. People don't like to be friends with an Eeyore, they are nice to look at, but that's all. Redison representing me as my avatar. Within myself, there is a mysterious realm of Persona, a unique space dominated by my personality, experiences, and emotions. Also based on the different tribes from Bionicles. Each term has a meaning with Met'r (City), Nu'i (Great City/Capital), and uin (as species/representation of). It was later discovered, that each person in the world has their own 7 regions and beings, with the person's own characteristics and definitions giving them unique qualities to their regions and powers within

Shakra'uin: The High Shakran (aka Akarda) ruled as the Lord of Winter long ago (when I came up with the Season puffles (the puffles of winter, fall, spring, and summer)). Since I made him (I think this was around Summer 2011 or 2012), he originally acted as the voice of reason to calm me. However, I kinda forgot about him until I remembered him recently. While he is still the Lord of Winter, he also rules as the High Shakran of the Shakra Sanctum, a realm within me that acts as a space of calm where he not only has full control over, even able to defeat and quell Redison's passion or rage (aka my own rage or hate, etc), and gives him a space to be the voice of reason once more. These powerful beings live in the realm known as the Shakra Sanctum, the realm of emotions within Persona and a spiritual place in which mastery of power is represented through mastery of their core emotion powers (with each emotion as a spirit that they work and live with in harmony). These puffle monsters use unique powers granted by their ability to access different <Shakran Minds>, in which each <Shakran Mind> is a spirit of emotion/mindset that gives each puffle monster a unique set of abilities powered by the mindset and a unique form.

Lehra'uin: These fierce and wild beings live in Lehra Met'r, The emerald city of character, within Persona, where the wild and relatively impulsive thoughts are (the grasshopper within me), but also where the Jungle of Natures reside (the character one is born with). These puffle monsters use the powers of the <Lehran Heart> to not only boost their stats and physical capabilities based on the unique nature of Lehran Heart, but also gives them unique stats that no other puffle monsters can wield such as a unique type of Agility, attack power or defense, etc. The unique stat that they get from each Lehran Heart depends on the region they mastered the Lehran Heart and the nature of the region. For example, those of a more passionate nature, they may have the <Fiery Attack> stat, or for those of a more calm closed off nature, a <Stone Wall> or <Mental Aegis> stat.

Tehra'uin: These masked beings live in Tehra Nu'i, The Carnelian Capital, the core of power/energy, and where my personality and outlook predominates. Using the power of <Tehran Masks> empowered by ancient symbols that represent different personas (personalities, identities) and outlooks, these masks give them unique abilities based on the mask itself and the character it represents. These different identities/characters one has provides a different mask for each puffle monster. Each personal identity/character that one has, each puffle monster they have within has a unique form with unique abilities based on the mask they wear (each identity has a mask, so if there were 2 masks, each puffle monster within can access 2 different forms depending on the mask they wear).

Kohrani: These mysterious beings live in the realms of the Kohra Towers, The shining Ivory knowledge towers/brain/learning centers, representing the brain when it comes to learning and collecting information. These puffle monsters use the powers of <Kohran Eyes>, where each <Kohran Eye> is based on a perspective/lens that the person looks through (in the eyes as someone who is disabled, autistic, short, male, overweight, Filipino, Chinese, American, Canadian, (these are the things that define me but also give me a different perspective)), which leads to different information collected. Through using different eyes, they can evolve temporarily into a Kohran form which gives them unique abilities created through a different perspective of the knowledge they have.

Ogra'uin: These reclusive but knowledgeable beings live in the realms of the Ogra Archives, representing The memory within Persona. These puffle monsters use the powers of the <Ogran Books>, where each <Ogran Book> is a memory or representation of knowledge (such as a fact). Each <Ogran Book> can provide a puffle monster with an <Ogran Form> which temporarily evolves them as the knowledge of the book is magically maximized into a full potential, unleashing unique and powerful abilities representative of the information of the <Ogran Book>. Each <Ogran Book> is unique (the memory ones specifically) while some are more common (such as the common knowledge ones or information ones can learn such as History, Logic, Math, English, Science, etc), but still provide a unique form as it fuses their character and memories of learning the knowledge to create a new form.

Pehtra'uin: These artistic beings live in the realms of Pehtra, a natural desert realm with the sands of mind, within Persona, and represents the artistic brainstorming of the mind. These puffle monsters use the powers of <Pehtran Plates>, solidified key/core ideas, ideals, and inspirations that one has made (for me: the concept of elemental magic puffles and monsters, projects such as SAM, or other games and concepts I have in my head or have written down). These plates give the puffle monster unique abilities as the holder and representative of the idea when using the Pehtran Plate to evolve into their Pehtran form.

Matua: The golden power of light and imagination, the power of hope created from the fusion of the 6 Powers to create the ultimate symbol of self, their <Ma'atu> or "Persona". Long ago, these ancient beings developed the power within themselves as guardians and wielders of the great force of <Ma'atu>, a power akin to wielding the body of giants and unleashing great power as titans or gods, shapers of worlds and the ones who originated along side the first bodies that contained the <Worlds Within> or the <Ma'an>. While each of these puffle monsters within each Ma'an were different based on each person and their personalities, characteristics, etc, the Matua had full control of all the complexities within their Ma'an as their Ma'an became akin to the inner workings of their body and just a living weapon they use, a living power that evolves with them as they grow and evolve.

Makhera'uin: Mysteriously, Chaos Neutral beings that hold the dark power of <Makhera>, The negative force, the self-deprecation in existence within myself and all humans and those who hold <Ma'an> (the inner world). While primarily an evil and destructive power, these beings have mastered controlling the darkness as a weapon against those of more evil nature and using this power of darkness to not only teach others how to utilize negative power as a weapon or boost of power, but also how to not let the darkness within them control and consume them from the inside out. In most cases, these puffle monsters are able to master using <Blackout> which gives them temporary control over the darkness within them and fuse together to unleash powerful attacks and abilities with a dark/negative attributes

Daybreak: Based on Kamen Rider Gotchard Daybreak (the orange Gotchard) and my theory of how the identity of Gotchard Daybreak is actually the main character from the future, (UPDATE: Fun fact, he was actually the main character from the future, an alternate dark future in which he evolved separately as opposed to the main character we know) this version of Redison (known as Redison Daybreak) hails from an unknown but relatively far future after I myself had improved myself drastically professionally, in health, etc, in which Redison had evolved to represent that and all the puffle monsters he is with has evolved to match. Based on the Daybreak versions of the Chemies (from Kamen Rider Gotchard) (notably stronger versions). Redison Daybreak embraces the original flames he wielded, combined with his swordsmanship, becoming the flaming sword of daybreak. Empowered by the powers of concept, these puffle monsters represent the concept they were inspired from and not only have mastered their concept to reshape it or use it in any method imaginable, but have also learned how to create and dismantle the concept itself in order to strengthen themselves and/or weaken opponents or attacks of the same concept.

Terraverse: Based on the Manhwa “Pick Me Up, Infinite Gatcha” Each player has their own Xenithverse (kind of like how each “Player” of the game in the Manhwa has their own heroes) which develop and evolve based on their lives. In this reality, players have an app in the Game known as <Xenith Infinity> that represents their <Xenithverse> in which they can challenge each other and have their Xenithverses fight in a friendly duel to see who is stronger, but also learn cross culture and develop from each other. Ruled by the Admin known as Kaizen Caesar, “The Overlord” (his design based on the MC in Manhwa “I Obtained a Mythic Item” in episode 87). Each Xenithverse has their own “Mark” which represents which Xenithverse they hail from (but also mostly as a symbol that they are of a foreign Xenithverse when they travel into another Xenithverse either for combat, for a quest, a mission, etc.

Caesari: These powerful puffle monsters are of the Xenithverse ruled by Kaizen Caesar “The Overlord”, with each of these puffle monsters having reached the Supreme State which gives them a unique evolution state that they can switch forms depending on their skills and mastery of certain techniques and abilities. For example, Kaizen Caesar has “The Overlord”, “The Infinite”, and “The Genesis” (each of which gives him different abilities, different forms, stats, etc). Sabone’s counterpart known as Sierra has “The Empress” and “The Jester” (both of which have different forms and skills). These puffle monsters can switch freely into these different forms depending on the battle.

Xcelzior: Also based on the Manhwa “Pick me up, Infinite Gatcha” of how each “Lobby” and set of heroes are of an infinite number from countless worlds and dimensions. Each Xenithverse is of Earth (so infinite Earths exist) as countless other Players arrive from the other Earths of other universes (as they themselves have fully controlled the Earth to their will with the heroes of their Xenithverse) to challenge other Xenithverses of other Players. Each of these beings have a spatial aura that can identify their home Xenithverse, but also power them when in a foreign Xenithverse away from their main source of power. Represented and monitored by Xaesar Kaizen, the Xcelzior (the title of admin who rules the system that maintains the balance and travel between the Xenithverses of the countless Earths from all universes). Together, these puffle monsters form the general <Xcelzior Classification> of puffle monster when analyzed.

Sanzangskrit: Combining aspects of different games and D&D classes and the Xenithverse, a great figure known as Sanzang was a warrior that had countless disciples under him, each of whom would go on to become legendary deities and legends. Based on the different Manhwas about powerful figures being reborn in the future (such as “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity " and “The Constellations are my disciples”). Also based on SD Gundam World Heroes, and based on a dream I had about myself as a powerful being collecting cards of puffle monsters created from concepts around me as well as based on the Godly Evolution powers (the sanskrit symbols from “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”). These powerful puffle monsters are known as masters of Sanzang’skrit, an ancient form that magic took long ago when Sanzang ruled as the strongest warrior of the kingdom, and who became a writer and teacher of countless disciples, each who followed a unique magic art and mastered the ancient divine arts of Godly Evolution (granted through the ancient divine nature of the Sanzang’skrit) in which their unique <Godly Evolution Forms> are unique based on the mastery of the techniques they learned through the Sanzangskrit techniques and scrolls they mastered giving them unique Sanzangskrit symbols on their body and form.

Zarceus: Based on the lore of Cookie Run Kingdom (The Soul Jams, the different cookie heroes and characters and their abilities, the Ancient Heroes, and Beast Cookies). These puffle monsters hail from a different telling of the story of creation, how long ago, following the Age of Blood and Iron, the wizards and witches hid away from their warring kingdoms, and established a hidden sanctuary of magic known as <Zarceus>, dense in mana, in which they combined their knowledge of magic and nature and shaped beings of magic to assist them but also act as companions (the very first puffle monsters), shaped by the pure mana of the kingdom, powered by a <Soul Gem>, which holds the purest form of mana that shaped them, and holds a vast array of magic information (the wisdom of the Wizards and Witches) such as spells, magic manipulation, cultural information and memories, etc that these puffle monsters would use, master, and further develop. The soul gem would not only hold their heart of power, but also their personality, the core to their very being. Later on they would develop a <Mana Brain> in which the wisdom they had within them would fuse with memories they collect as they live their lives would collect into their head, separating the brain and their heart.

Z’arcian: Based on dream about alien entities (made of a strange magic energy with visible symbols around them) that would partner with gunslingers (and the gunslingers would be able to use the powers of the alien entities), as well as based on the Beast Cookies from Cookie Run Kingdom. During the Age of Blood and Iron, each kingdom created a super weapon, which became known as Z’arcians, an alien race of energy entities that they fused with to become armored super soldiers themselves to eliminate the other races and expand. Countless of these alien beings were created (with different sets of hundreds of different species for each kingdom) (Example: One kingdom might have a fire type species that has a gunner like ability, while another kingdom might have a plant type with sword like abilities, but that other kingdom won’t have the fire type gunner). Each Z’arcian has a certain “Spirit Weapon” formed from the energy of their Soul Gem, but the only difference is that their soul gem is not necessarily stable as it gathers energy from around them and crystallized around them to create their spirit weapon or empower them as a temporary soul gem. Known to be a more destructive power (or have powers that are more related to war and destruction).

<STORY>: The Chronicles of Xenithia: You awaken in the world of Xenithia Magna, a planet home to the Seven Nations, each home to a race of Edis that dominates the realm, with their own civilization, history, and culture. Formed eons ago by <Xenithia’s Idea>, the nations millenia ago had pledged a treaty of neutrality to remain separate and hold peaceful interactions. Long ago, the Kingdom of Man, Kanis, desired to expand and rule over all the nations, despite the treaty. As Kanis began to call for war, this led to the Age of Flame and Steel, in which each race went to war against each other as each race desired to expand in order to not lose to the other. However, there was a secret society of those who did not desire expansion but enjoyed the peace of neutrality and the advancement it led to, forming the secret society of Razael. Each group, the Magic Tower of Kanis, the Elders of Elrante, the High Fae, the Guild of Regem, the Glade of Alda, the Peak of Zin, and the Kingdom of Atlan, each contributed their powers to which through the power of a miracle from <Xenithia's Idea> created a secret alternate mirror realm of Xenithia Magna known as Xenithia Razael, in which each group ruled over their respective regions, developing them further. When the Edis of Razael migrated to this new world, they went through an evolution to a more powerful and ideal form known as the Malketh.

Edis: The Species of Xenithia Magna, Once the great planet that held the Seven Nations of <Xenithia's Idea>, now ravaged by war and expansion, having influenced each Nation, changing the civilizations of each Nation drastically to become almost unrecognizable from the ancient past. Xenithia's Idea created a single creation known as the Edis, to which the Edis diversified into those of Man, beast, fae, dwarven, elven, etc. A counterpart to the Z'arcian from another world, known as a more destructive force

- The Kingdom of man: Kanis Arvis
    - These powerful warrior Edis use the unique art of <Armored Form> which not only boosts their stats to a dangerously high level but interestingly provides many fail-safes to stabilize their health. Long ago, they became the ruling power that established the <Great Treaty> with the other nations. However, as they noted the developing powers of the other nations, they began to fear takeover, and one corrupt ruler in particular decided to take charge and attack the other nations (they takeover the other nations, before they takeover them).
- The Wilderness of beasts: Yldraeden Savis
    - A realm that once prided itself on being the greatest alliance to all creatures, these beasts of war mastered the <Savage Arts>, which heightens their instincts to Primordial levels. Limited to only their abilities based on their bestial form
- The Realm of Fae: Vaeranis Arris
    - In this realm of pure magic, these masters of powerful magic have weaponized their powers and spells to not only increase attack power to a maximum but also the ability to turn their spells and spell magic into an actual weapon item (such as turning a flame magic spell into a sword or spear with enhanced piercing damage, or a plant magic spell into a crossbow) through the <Arris> techniques (named after their deity of war magic)
- The Dwarven Reach: Utgard Orrin
    - Hidden below the planet within vast caverns and cave systems throughout the mountains and underground of Xenithia Magna, these dwarven beings were known to be masters of craft, creating anything from weapons, to spell systems, and even average household items or even potions. Having been given a variant of the power of creation known as <Craft>, they became an industrial power that prided itself in their craftsmanship. However, with the threat of war, their craft took a darker turn becoming <Doomcraft>, where everything they made was focused on destructive power such as highly explosive weapons or powerful curses made for war.

- The Elven Forest: Fenrir Elvyn
    - Use an ability known as <Fenrir Wield> which gives them a powerful ability to weaponize nature around them (turning them metallic or giving them attack abilities such as bombing capabilities, leaves as sharp as blades, etc). These elven creatures, once passivists, fight now to expand their borders in order to not bow down to any other kingdom, and in doing so have learned how to weaponize the plants around them they rule over.
- The Zenith: Zaylen Zenthi
    - Use an ability known as <Hijack> which gives them full control of all technological weapons and gives them the ability to boost the attack capabilities of these weapons. This technologically advanced species once desired to be a learning hub for all the realms and to create technology based on them. However, with the threat of expansion and their eradication, they took to expanding their own culture aggressively through their destructive firepower from their highly advanced weaponry
- The Oceanic Empire: Magella Oceana
    - Use the ability of <Waves> which boosts their attack stats and even evolves their form in different “waves” of power (final wave being having the highest attack power but also most unstable). Once the most neutral nation, they became a powerful naval force that ruled the seas in order to prevent the other nations from attacking them, which led to them taking offense sometimes and charging the beaches to destroy and occupy the coasts.

Malketh: The Species of Xenithia Razael, an alternate planet created through the power of the celestials and a great miracle as <Xenithia’s Idea> recreated a new secret realm separate from Xenithia Magna that represented Xenithia Magna’s past but now peaceful present and future under the peaceful regime of the Razael Council. Though once Edis, they had evolved into a new evolved form known as the Malketh, a form that represented the new future of Xenithia Razael under <Xenithia’s Idea>. The ultimate power these Malketh have is the power of <Divine Skill>

- The Magic Empire of Kanis (Kanis Magus)
    - In this peaceful realm of magic, these beings have mastered the Divine Skill of Intent, which boosts their magic power depending on the intent they have (whether it be to heal, combat, create, defend, etc). These different intents are powered through the different variants of the Divine Skill <Mage Heart> (where different mage hearts are empowered by different emotions, personalities, spirits, etc)
- The Paradise of Beasts: Yldraeden Elrante
    - Long ago, the True Dragons were the progenitors of the beasts of Yldraeden, in which each creature (both magical and non-magical) inherited their features and powers from the True Dragons themselves (creatures of the skies inherited their wings and feathers from the dragons of the skies, while the creatures of the sea inherited the gills and fins of the dragons of the sea). In this realm of Xenithia Rezael, these powerful beings mastered the Divine Skill of <Draconic Prime>, which unleashes the True Dragon blood within them, granting them an evolved super form based on their True Dragon ancestors.

- The Realm of Fae: High Vaeranis
    - Long ago, these great fae had mastered the powers of <Verrantis>, their deity of Order and magic, who granted them the Divine Skill of <Great Order> which not only gives them almost complete control of the battlefield and surrounding magic but also boosts their stats and gives them a new form that allows them to perfectly wield the powers of the <Great Order> they establish on the field. This clan of Fae ruled their realm to be one that develops magic to the zenith of perfection, its ultimate form such that it can be considered divine.
- The Dwarven Reach: Utgard Regem
    - As masters of <Craft>, these dwarves mastered the powers of the Divine Skill <Breath of the Earth>, an ancient primordial Divine Skill that enhances their <Craft> with ancient primordial energies capable of creating original worlds from darkness and chaos, to make something from nothing.
- The Elven Glades: Fenrir Alda
    - Instead of war, these elven beings focused on their bond with nature around and their bond with certain plant groups or species in order to become fully one with the forest around them. With this desire, they gained the Divine Skill of <Aldan Harmony> which links them to certain plants depending on their bond level with them. At high enough levels, they can unleash powerful unique spells based on those plants. Example: those who formed a high level bond with the Oak tree can use powers such as the Oak Shield, Oak Wall, Oak Tree control, and Acorn Bomber.
- The Zenith Cosmos: Zin Zaylen
    - This technologically advanced species continues to be a learning hub for all the realms and to create technology based on them, which shaped their Divine Skill of <Zenith Generation>, a powerful ability that not only boosts the creation quality tenfold dependent on the knowledge of the item they are intending to create (or the attributes they intended to add). This also boosts attack power and magic power within the weapons and the abilities of their weapons.
- The Oceanic Empire: Atlan Magella
    - The masters of the lost continents under the seas, this great naval power not only focused on attack and destruction, but also focused on the healing powers of water, as well as the aspect of exploration and wonder that is attributed with the ocean. This idea awakened into the power of Divine Skill <Magellanica>, which evolves their form depending on the ideals of the Ocean (Exploration, Healing, Attack, Defense, Sanctuary, Abyss, etc) attributed with them and granting them a unique form that matches their power temporarily (their Magellanica form).

Kandar: Based on Kandar 1 from The Orville and the Golden Blade civilization from inter.galactica (Instagram), as well as based on The System from “Auto Hunting with my Clones” (how the system was created by a scientist who mastered magic at an extreme pace but also developed the system to be used as a weapon to learn magic and defend themselves faster). These powerful alien puffle monsters reside in the great magic civilization of Kandar. Long ago, a warrior that wielded a golden sword, defended the locals from invaders and taught the inhabitants how to wield mana and magic energies around them (creating a power known as <The System>). As a traveler, he traveled to countless other worlds, but established Kandar as a base for him to return to, which he did after countless years of traveling worlds and settled down, becoming the leader in the capital later on. The golden knight (later revealed to be named Tenebor), established an empire, connecting all the worlds he explored and established as homes with his allies, creating the great Kandari Empire, all of which use the powers of <The System> despite having completely different alien abilities and powers depending on their home world, but they use <The System> as a system to wield this power and enhance it.

Gaiaden: Based on the original lore of Puffles that I made, about the big bang and the Star Tree, and how the first puffles fell from the stars born of the star tree and descended onto the world. In this realm, the stars, nebulas, and galaxies shaped into star trees, rivers, lakes, oceans, mountains, towers, buildings, and countless other structures as a civilization was formed. In this civilization, instead of one star forming a puffle monster, each puffle monster consisted of a constellation like form (with many stars as part of them). Each of these stars within them boost their powers as if they held the powers of many puffle monsters within them (since each star is the core origin of a puffle monster). Depending on the stars they use within them, they can unleash Constellations (combos using different sets of stars within them, to either unleash a spell, attack, skill, or even make a weapon). Ruled by the God-King Star Saje, Gaiaden (aka, The Gardener) (a powerful force with the ability to manipulate galaxies, nebulas, and stars around him to change not only his surroundings but also the unique ability to create more stars). Gaiaden watches over the countless Star trees growing the puffle monsters of the Xenithverse but also tends to the trees like a farmer would to his crops.

Claidheamh: Based on the SocksforOne Weaponized Dyes mod and the “Path of the Divine” that warriors of the “Ten Directions Divine Realm” follow as they wield Divine Power. These warriors are within the hidden realms beyond the endless martial arts (all based on the concepts from the Manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”) in the Xenithverse, with powers that rival Redison in power and strength as an evolutionary step in the puffle monster evolution

- Red: The Red Forces, are a powerful military force known for their Divine Path <Laevateinn/Unyielding Tyrant>, which gives the unique ability of knockback and disarming for their weapons and ability. They also hold the unique ability to summon Siege Golems that wield massive warhammers, which can unleash shockwaves that knockback enemies and disarm many in their path. This clan is found within the Tyrant’s Crucible, a volcanic region where the Red warriors forge alliances and test their mettle against one another. The molten landscapes symbolize their unyielding spirit as fighters. This red armor gives them a powerful replenishment

The Yellow dominion resides in the Trinity Nexus, where 3 rivers converge, symbolizing the unity of the Earth, Sea, and Sky (and represents the Trident of Shiva).
- Green: These green celtic warriors are masters of nature around them and known for their Divine Path <Caladbolg>. Residing in the mystical forest of the Celtic Grove, they manipulated the plants around them to create a prickly defense system around them in order to fortify their realm but also able to naturally weaponize the plants around them but also tame the plants.

These great warriors reside in the Aquatic Citadel, a series of floating islands amidst a vast ocean, where they established these cities on these islands, and mastered naval and aerial combat in honor of the powerful sword Durandal.
- Light blue: Known for their Divine Path <Galgano/Child of the Sun>, these great warriors reside in the desert realm known as the Solar Furnace, with cities constructed from sun-baked bricks and are known for forging weapons using the scorching heat of the desert. February: Unrivaled

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 10: Roar of the Heavens (Midterms before break)

Chapter 10: Roar of the Heavens: As Lunar New Year approaches celebrating the coming of the Year of the Dragon, the heavens open to reveal the mysterious celestial realm of the <Astral Origin> (Based on the Twenty-Eight Mansions from Chinese Astronomy), the celestial mansions, each holding worlds and realms within of powerful celestial beings and warriors. These beings descend and join the battle with Redison against the rise of HOROSCOPE (the descendents of ZODIAC, having inherited powers of their ZODIAC predecessor but also wielding new powers) In UBC, 4 midterms approach: 2 on Thursday, 1 on Friday, and 1 on Valentines Day. During the 2 on Thursday, Redison fought the WINGS and SEA of HOROSCOPE, both groups having occupied the realms of Regnum Caelus and Regnum Athyra respectively as they gathered the powers of the Houses to evolve their form in order to defeat Redison for revenge for defeating their predecessors long ago. The other groups of HOROSCOPE were defeated by Redison right before midterm break.

Ekhos: Based on the IPA symbols and what we are learning in Linguistics 100, the idea of speech and the specifics of how we speak. These puffle monsters have mastered the ancient art of <Ekhos>, empowering their magic and spells through speech, with certain articulation in their wording changing the spell in a fundamental way. Also have mastered the ability of <Ekhos Sealing> which can freeze a user from using speech or certain pronunciations of speech, inhibiting spellcasters that speak to invoke their powers. By mastering the power of speech, certain clans and regions have created different techniques

Aslan: These silent warriors use the powers of ASL (as I am learning in Linguistics 100) and how different hand positions and movement can mean just as much as speaking and is as complex as spoken languages. Also based on the spells of Dr. Strange and his hand movements. These warriors live in a realm similar to Earth except dominated by magic but also dominated by countless different forms of sign language (to which the variations of sign languages create different powers and spells), as evident of their cultures

Bragiras: Based on Bragma (the blacksmith and swordsman who transcended humanity) and the main character from the Manhwa "Overgeared". These powerful puffle monster beings hail from a dimension in which they have mastered the powers of <GodCraft>, a legendary ability akin to plot-armor of a protagonist, as they each have the ability to craft any ideas that come to them and create it into Battle Gear. They can then equip themselves in Battle Gear they created or other Battle Gear to reach their <Overgeared Form> which not only maximizes their abilities but creates a new power depending on the Battle Gear in use. Ruled by their hero king protagonist, Bragiras Zenthon, a hero based on the main character of Overgeared Manhwa (and Bragma himself) who not only is the strongest swordsman of their universe, but also the greatest <GodCrafter>, having created all of his Battle Gear personally to a Mythical level.

Astrali Originus: Long ago, these ancient beings were born as one of the original life forms in the realm known as the <Astral Origin>, (later discovered to be the Nexus point of the heavens as all other Astral realms (each astral realm regarding one Astronomy interpretation, such as Western, Chinese, Indian, etc)) . With this, they mastered magic and cosmic energy control, eventually creating <Genesis Seeds> from their imagination (the seeds of life to create new worlds and spheres of life) that they sent out to other spaces to not only spread life but create a great empire of themselves. Discovered as an ancient ancestor of the puffle monsters, Xenithians, and other species such as the Mirrikhans and Kejorans.

Mirrikh: (Arabic for Mars, connotes to fire). The puffle monsters hidden on Mars, having mastered space and time travel as they live on an ancient Mars when there was still life on it long ago similar to an ancient Earth, except in this case, the ancient Earth was fused with advanced eco-technology these puffle monsters created and mastered through their magic. These powerful puffle monsters are born from the <Astral Origin> but when they landed on Mars long ago as life began on the planet, they lived there for eons, creating technologies, history, mythologies, stories, etc. As the planet was predicted to die out due to the lack of Magnetosphere, they created an <Eternity Zone> which created a parallel time zone accessible through magic that each puffle monster of the planet was born with, allowing them to enter the realm when traveling from outside Mars. In this <Eternity Zone>, they established an artificial Magnetosphere to defend Mars from the solar radiation, and used solar radiation for power, which continued the thriving life on the planet in which these puffle monsters (as the main dominant species) ruled, with countless other species living on the planet in harmony with the puffle monsters. Their technology can be based on the Ridewatches from Kamen Rider Zi-O (specifically, Kamen Rider Geiz's watch during his henshin phase). Each planet has their own <Origin Ability>, a unique power that gives the beings of their planet a defining characteristic, nature, or power. In this case, the <Origin Ability> of the Mirrikhans is the power of <War Essence>, which enhances their stats for battle but also developed the cultures to focus them with the intelligent as tacticians (Eye of Ares), masters of battle giving them advanced knowledge in swordsmanship and other weapon mastery (Blade of Ares), and even those who command as generals (Crown of Ares). These abilities take the form of powerful flames (different colored flames depending on the ability/skill) (Based on the Chinese character interpretation: Huoxing (Fire Star))

Kejora: (Indonesian and Malaysian Malay name for Venus) The puffle monsters hidden on Venus, having mastered special magic in which they hide within the clouds of Venus, portraying a hostile wasteland to the outside (with some of their guardians residing in this said wasteland as their natural habitat), with the rest hiding through magic within a parallel realm of life, with floating islands, continents and land masses teaming with life, and vast oceans. Known for their powerful ability of imagination, their <Origin Ability> is mastery of Metallurgy (based on the Metal Star name (Chinese name of Venus)) as they have the ability to combine magic with alchemy and their knowledge of materials and minerals to create new minerals and metals with great powers and properties that are beyond all weapons and Earthly metals. Based on the metals such as Pavranium from the Manhwa "Overgeared".

Utarid: (Malay for Mercury) These alien beings are found hidden on Mercury, in which they developed their great civilization accessed through the gateways they placed on the surface of the planet underground which they access through the small craters. In this civilization, they developed a civilization of life on islands that populate the small planet hidden in an alternate realm that relates to Earth as they created an artificial sun and moon as well as other factors to facilitate life through their <Origin Ability> of <Potion Alchemy> (representative of The Water Star (the Chinese name of Mercury)) which not only gives them latent potion abilities that they hold themselves but also the ability to create potions and other liquids of magic to grant power boosts or to create certain items (by pouring a potion on the ground, a full grown enchanted apple tree can sprout from the ground and be sustained as if it were in its natural habitat, for example).

Zuhali: (Arabic word Zuhal for Saturn) By the power of the famous rings of Saturn made of crystal, rock, and ice and the storms on the planet, these alien beings thrive in the crystalline paradise hidden in the storms of the planet (as they access the realm through a vortex on the planet). These alien super beings evolved to master their <Origin Ability>: Kronostone, which gives them Geokinesis and crystal-based magic, giving them unique powerful spells and technologies using the unique properties of the crystals of the planet, in which their civilization thrived on, shaping their culture and technology. Based on the The Earth Star (Chinese name for Saturn)

Mustaria: (Arabic word Mustari for Jupiter) Accessed through the vortex in the Great Red Spot (the giant storm), lies a massive civilization of giant warrior (with designs based on the Mechtogan from Bakugan Mechtanium Surge and the Gigantamax Pokemon) beings within a great forest paradise (based on The Wood Star (Chinese name for Jupiter)). These massive beings can shrink at will but have the unique <Origin Ability> of <Core Satellites>, which are energy units that are created from the excess life-force/vitality that these giants hold (with infinite mana and power within them, they separate their power cores into satellites that orbit around them). Each of these Core Satellites have a unique and different ability that the titan wouldn’t have at the moment but when they absorb their Core Satellite, they would. This does however require recharging and recreation (or to trade off another ability which would take the form of a new core satellite)

Regnum/Regnum Orris: Based on the 12 houses of Western Astrology, these powerful celestial beings thrive in a great civilization comprised of a vast number of <Houses> in which each House gives unique blessings, items, abilities, and skills that are not only characteristic only to members of the House specifically, but are also unrivaled in its own way. However, while there are an infinite number of other Houses, there are 4 main regions that hold the main powers of the Houses, Caelus, Athyra, Terra, and Ignis, in which they hold many many smaller minor Houses. All other Houses that don’t fall under the regions of the 4 nations reside in their own regions around Regnum (the universe/realm).

- Regnum Caelus: Gemini (House of Order), Libra (House of Balance), and Aquarius (House of Blessings). Together, the WINGS of HOROSCOPE (The Wings of Thunder, AQUILA, The Wings of the North, CYGNUS, and the Wings of Light, PEGASUS) combined the powers of their 3 Houses (Order, Balance, and Blessings) to become SERAPH CAELUS, a powerful fusion of their forms with 3 pairs of wings and a powerful blade. In this floating realm of the heavens, these powerful puffle monsters have mastered the powers of order, balance, and blessings (realm based on Keter Sanctuary from Cardfight! Vanguard)
- Regnum Athyra: Pisces (House of Rehabilitation), Scorpio (House of Transformation), and Cancer (House of Heritage). The SEA of HOROSCOPE (The Fangs of Infinity, HYDRA, The Celestial River, ERIDANUS, and The Grand Titan, CETUS) combined their powers of their 3 houses (Rehabilitation, Transformation, and Heritage) to become OCEANUS PRIME, a powerful titan that represents the chaotic and destructive power of the ocean. These powerful puffle monsters live in the harmonious realm of the great sea, where countless islands and undersea kingdoms thrive. These puffle monsters have mastered the arts of healing, the powers of countless transformations, as well as the ability of Heritage (which allows them to call upon powers from their ancestors)
- Regnum Terra: Virgo (House of Health), Taurus (House of Cultivation/Value), Capricorn (House of Achievement). The WARRIORS of HOROSCOPE (The Sword of the Powerful One, ORION, The Gravity Brave, PERSEUS, and The Divine Archer, HERCULES) combined the powers of their 3 houses (Health, Cultivation, and Achievement) to become the Indomitable Warrior TERRA MAGNA, an unrivaled master of all weapons (based on most protagonists of different martial art manhwas I've read in which they have great health, powers of cultivation, and great achievements). These powerful puffle monsters live in harmony in the great landmasses (as if all the continents came together, like a modern Pangaea) or if the entire planet was land with just many lakes and rivers instead of the ocean. However, their main ability is the powers of MAGNA, which give them <Protagonist> abilities to make them undefeatable and unrivaled in their own right, such as the powers of immortality, Qi cultivation, and even the Achievement system giving them powers beyond reality.
- Regnum Ignis: Leo (House of Joy), Sagittarius (House of Purpose/Exploration), Aries (House of Self). The POWERS of HOROSCOPE (The Flames of Ankaa PHOENIX, and The Claws of the Storm DRACO, and The Strength of Saptarishi (The Seven Sages) URSA) combined the powers of their 3 houses (Joy, Exploration, and Self) to become the champion of HOROSCOPE: CAESAR REGNUM, a powerful flaming winged armed emperor with powerful command abilities as master of infinite power. These powerful flaming puffle monsters are known as masters of <Aura Festival> (based on power of same name from Manhwa "Overgeared"), in which their aura takes the form of burning flames but also gives them mastery to control these flames and change the flame properties to unleash different forms, stat boosts, and even armors or weapons made from the flames.

XENITHIAN: Based on the Lobbys and heroes from the Manhwa "Pick Me Up Infinite Gatcha" and how each world and heroes are unique to these "Worlds/Lobby" that the players build on their app (Kind of like Dragonvale or Dragon City), but in these cases, these worlds can be invaded by other players and their heroes, destroying and looting the other lobby of the other Players, or forming alliances. Also based on the idea that concepts are spelled out in Capital letters (when learning Morphology). In this universe, (a universe basically like ours), each human has their own <Battle Deck>, which is similar to the Schema, how everything they experience, all their memories, knowledge, wisdom, etc take the form of battle units (or Heroes) that live within the <Battle Deck> world (which has a lobby that acts as a central region with the rest of their habitats and civilizations created based on the schema of the player making up the rest of the world within the Battle Deck). In this universe, players can challenge each other to a duel with their <Battle Decks>. However, the big difference between this world and the Terraverse and Xcelzior is that this world is more brutal as in this case, the lobbies and worlds can be destroyed and completely taken over by other players, resulting in the players to have to recreate their <Battle Deck> from scratch or repair them depending on how bad the damage is from the invasion. In some cases, other players can form alliances in giant guilds or alliances in order to not destroy each other. In this case, ruled by the <Steel Sword Seraph, Shigan> (Based on the design below), he formed the INFINITY Guild, a peaceful empire alliance of <Battle Decks> who swore an oath to not destroy other decks but focus on creating many decks and developing and evolving, but also to rescue other decks and join them to the cause with the hopes of ending the destruction of other <Battle Decks> xenithian: Based on the same concept as XENITHIAN but, in this case, instead of us humans who have their own “decks” which hold the Lobby and worlds of their own Xenithians, the puffle monsters of the Xenithverse has their own Deck known as the <Xenith Battle Deck>, with their own heroes and monsters within their Deck, in which their decks battle the decks of other monsters (similar to the XENITHIAN) but the difference is that it is like saying Humans have their characters, but now these characters have their own characters. Based on the microverse from Rick and Morty. These battle units/heroes can be comparable to the unique natures of the Xenithian puffle monsters themselves but also have their own characteristics as they are inspired by the experiences of the puffle monsters themselves (who live completely different lives then us humans)

▷ΛŴ∏ Xenithian: Based on the rider gears and the new powers of Kamen Rider Next Faiz, Next Kaixa, and Muez. In this universe, ▷ΛŴ∏ had evolved the <Xenith Battle Deck> into a smartphone <▷ΛŴ∏ Xenith> which they developed to give the monsters powers based on the powers collected within the worlds within their <Xenith Battle Deck> (which had now become an app). Depending on the types of heroes within their Battle Deck app, they can gain different armors, weapons, and super abilities that boost their powers or give them new unique futuristic armored forms, in which a new battle type has taken place, in which they transform and battle each other in their armored forms powered by the warriors in their battle decks. With this, there was significantly less invasions and destruction of worlds within the decks. However, with the destruction of their armor, they would lose those powers as those characters would have been destroyed (as they took the form of the armor technically), unless they were regenerated or recreated by the player later on.

Tianwang: (Chinese word for Uranus) Hidden in the planet lies a utopia (based on the Draconian Times art from inter.galactica (Instagram)) ruled by the powers of the <Astral Origin> ability of <Heavenly Genius>, which grants extremely powerful intellect and wisdom (making them the greatest scholars, sages, researchers, and advisors of all the Planets) to their beings. With this great genius and high magic aptitude and magic energies on the planet, they created a hidden utopia with advanced technology powered by their thoughts, but more specifically, able to manipulate the laws of magic with their genius intellect, such as completely changing the laws of physics on Earth in battle when needed, or changing the laws of time and space as needed.

Varun: (Kashmiri word for Neptune) Known for the strongest and most diverse forms of magic among the Planets through the great <Astral Origin> of <Idealism>, these puffle monsters are known as masters of projection, creating anything by the powers of their dreams and imagination, while also having some of the strongest imaginations in the solar system. By this power, they created a vast utopian realm within the planet created and powered by the imaginations of the aliens themselves. Their civilization has evolved throughout time as the imaginations of the new generations would build on the old parts of the civilization.

Honua: (Based on the Hawaiian word for Earth) and based on the Early Earth, these powerful alien beings lived on the Earth long before the dinosaurs and humans, as they were the very first advanced beings, more advanced than humans, that remained hidden and observed the evolution of life throughout their lifetimes. Not only are they masters of life energy and the creation of life through their <Astral Origin>, but their primary ability is <Gilded Time> which allows them to manipulate time and either evolve or de-evolve themselves and/or their surroundings, or the ability to open time gates and summon creatures or scenarios from the past (such as meteors falling to Earth, dinosaurs, etc). These puffle monsters live in an advanced society that blended perfectly in nature and remained hidden in sight throughout the first eras of Earth and onward as their civilization had been separate from the evolution of Earth

Nakshastra: Based on the Nakshatra from Indian Astronomy, the power of 28 constellations/mansions home to powerful deities and warriors from legend that each have a unique power that they can gift/bless their avatars (the Nakshastra puffle monsters). These avatars are representatives of the 28 Mansions, with each avatar having a unique set of 28 deities/legends that watch over them and assist them in battle or throughout life, each giving the avatar a unique power. Also based on how I imagine Redison in my head who is always with me, the voice in my head that keeps me company (based on Wiz from Eternally, Confused and looking for love (an Indian show on Netflix)).

Dendera: Based on the Dendera Zodiac from Egypt, these powerful ancient deities were the ancient interpretations of the zodiac in Egypt, each representing a deity instead of our current constellations. In this universe, these puffle monsters wield the powers from the Dendera Zodiac as the Egyptian constellations became the dominant constellation interpretation instead of the Western constellations we have, which gave these puffle monsters completely different powers (albeit relatively similar as counterparts to the constellations of the western sky).

Apex-Zenith: Based on my dream of the Zenithverse (about a Planet in which the planet itself is alive as a being, but everything on it is actually just a physical projection of the imagination of the planet), and also based on the rainbow puffle plush that a friend of mine in the same dream had, as well as puffle plush keychains of each type on his bag. In this world known as the Zenithverse, these puffles of different colors evolved in diversity, with each color having a different <Core Attribute> (which determined the different types of powers and classes these puffle monsters could have). These puffles completely vary from their Xenithian cousins, as these ones evolved through a completely different process, with each puffle having their own class/classes, levels, and <Awakenings> that evolved them to become stronger than most Xenithian puffle monsters. For example, in the land of Red puffles, their adventurous nature led many of them to have the <Adventurer Class>, <Pirate Class> but also the <Flame Knight class> and many others. However, all have the unique ability of <APEX> which not only gives them a new super form but also fuses all of their attacks, abilities, and even pathways (their possible futures of evolution) into one super form, creating the APEX attacks, skills, etc they can wield while in APEX form, which is basically a combination of all their attacks and powers into one super attack. This super attack can then be varied to create an arsenal of super skills and attacks. For example, the Flame Knight class might have fire blast, flaming sword, burning bulwark, Brave sword, and Shield bash as their main attacks, but combining all of them when in APEX form, one can have attacks such as <Raging Inferno>, <Castle Buster>, etc which combined all the attacks into one. Ruled by the King of the Seven Masters, Reinor (the rainbow puffle plush in my dream, with a strange multicolor design and multicolored hair tips of white hair), having the strongest of each class <God Swordsman>, <God Blacksmith>, <God Magician>, <God Healer>, <God Alchemist>, <God Tamer>, and <God Shadow/Assassin>, rivaling Redison as his APEX form combines all the powers of the 7 classes into his 8th class <Origin God>, which maximizes all APEX powers. Based on the different DnD classes and the manhwa “Overgeared”

LoongXiun: These powerful ancient beings hail from the 28 Mansions from Chinese Astronomy. Originally within the Astral Realm, these powerful beings descended on the Xenithverse following the opening on Lunar New Year 2024. Each mansion held a realm inside with a unique power/nature that made the puffle monsters who called it home masters in that element/power. However, there were also those who traveled the 28 Mansions and mastered the powers within each mansion. In these realms within these mansions, they are filled with spiritual energies and other-worldly powers that make them seem like an alien realm (based on the areas of Mount Sumeru from Manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”). In this realm, these ancient beings all have the blood of the Loong, the progenitors of the astral realm that used to rule the Xiun (the 28 Mansions), in which the magic blood they have boosts their powers to the maximum but also creates new powers, abilities, skills, and energies from the fusion of their bloodline and the magic energies around them

Xianxia: (Meaning Immortal Hero in Chinese) Based on Temtem, Coromon, Pokemon, all the Wuxia and martial art manhwas I've read, and the dream I had from the world of SPIN-OFF (Refer to glossary down below of the dream). These spirits are the warriors of ancient times having changed forms into other creatures as time continued. The main protagonist of SPIN-OFF, Zaidaan, had trained under the previous protagonist of a different story, Redison Ruadhan (essentially I imagined Redison in the dream but interestingly he was not present in the dream but just mentioned), and mastered the powers of <Spirit Riding> which gives a Spirit Wielder (known as the Xian) the power to call upon the powers of a <Spirit Ride Card> they hold. Each spirit they partnered with or gained blessing from takes the form of a Spirit Ride Card, which they can use unlimitedly in their scanner, to either gain their stats and physical abilities, their items and powers, or even language.

AuraZenith: Based on the dream I had about the world of EPILOGUE, Riona (the main character) and her partner Kanaan. In this story, both of these warriors mastered the powers of Aura, which gives them the power to realize their imagination into a tangible energy form created through their aura as representatives of the Zenithverse's Thoughts (based on the dream I had of this world known as the Zenithverse)

Dream: I was in a team as a game developer for a 2D side stroller game like Mario. The main character had powers and we were discussing the nations/worlds he would be going through. However I mentioned that I've been to their world: which led me to their world

- SPIN-OFF
    - In this world there were different nations of magic, each with their own cultures, weapons, etc. When I was in that world, I was at a banquet/party of sort. For some reason I freshened up in the bath and that was where a strange cat (which looked like Zacian from Pokemon Sword) showed up to shower in the same bath as me (again no clue why)
    - The cat made contact with me and teleported me to this mental world in which I saw a powerful deity like character talking with another character (the deity like character having been the previous protagonist talking to the new protagonist of a spin-off story). The story was that the new protagonist had apparently been a paladin of a group but this group was corrupt which led him to leave the group. This paladin however also saw a future in which the first protagonist had died, to which case the first protagonist told him he had entered this celestial realm to hear of this prophecy, to which he said that was the same realm he went to when he constructed his celestial blade. Both of them are transported to that world in which I saw Zacian again there who transformed into a woman. This woman was a swordsman and described to both characters her plea of how spirits like her were being captured and used for evil. She wanted the protagonists to help her save the other spirits, to which the new protagonist became that hero as she joined him and gave him her powers (each spirit has a unique attack/ability the hero can use) as she entered a card that the hero would be collecting
- EPILOGUE
    - At the party (as an observer in the dream), which was revealed to be a Birthday party for the Female character (the main character of this game), the female character who seems old now, was reading a letter from her husband, supposedly who had disappeared and went on a quest and hasn't returned home in a while but was able to send this letter to her for her Birthday. The letter supposedly reminisced of their adventures together when they younger and before he left for his mission (this adventure when they were younger was the premise of the game)
    - The story of the game was that the main character (the female lead) was on this adventure and on her journey would see strange pieces of information (guides) as they appeared from green portals (which was decided at the beginning of the dream before I entered their world, that the main character would be guided by her future self through letters, and that those portals were time portals to the past)

- She apparently met her husband in this adventure and they worked together (I guess I never got to that part of the dream)
