3953 Species total from last book
Start Date: 2/14/24 (Valentines Day 2024)
BIG PLANS FOR 4000! (Estimated March 2024)

Legend:

- Counter (10th, 20th, etc)
- Counter (interval 50s (50th, 100th, 150th, so on))
- Story Arc (Not species!)
- New Hero/Character
- Character development/upgrade power
- Information/Definition/Encyclopedia entry
- Super Cool Idea that can be used in future for DnD!
- The 4000th Species!!

February: Unrivaled, Quantum

- Story Arcs:
    - Chapter 10: Roar of the Heavens (Midterms before break)
    - Chapter 11: The Rise of Havok

Chapter 11: The Rise of Havok: Lord Havok (who was defeated during the October Story Arc: Autumn Alter (Year 1)) returns in a more formidable form to defeat Redison once again. Following the power development within UBC such as the Nexus World opening and closing, Lord Havok had become the new Lord of Power (which gave him a destructive overwhelming power of destructive aura), but it was later discovered he had gained a new power from ▷ΛŴ∏ (Once a social app development team I was a part of but didn't really have the time for at the time. Now it is deprecated and the team split). In the Xenithverse, ▷ΛŴ∏ became a secret organization of power with plans to revolutionize the magic energies in UBC (based on Smart Brain from Kamen Rider Faiz) and create and rule a new race of super beings, with Lord Havok as their new champion. The battle against ▷ΛŴ∏ begins now…(PHIL 220 Midterm 2 on Monday after Reading Break). As this "Chapter" starts after the last midterm on Wednesday, I am getting ready for my trip to Calgary for the Quantum Days tech conference with some members from UBCQ (which I am very excited for). Following Quantum Days and my trip to Calgary, I arrived with a day before my midterm to go. When I arrive back in Vancouver, Redison is met with a strange new environment, as ▷ΛŴ∏ had taken over and not only evolved everyone's monsters with their tech, but as of decree of Lord Havok, Redison was a fugitive and needed to be brought to Havok himself. When he arrived, it was an all out war against ▷ΛŴ∏ in which Redison was able to develop a new power in order to defeat Lord Havok. Havok had no choice but to retreat following his defeat. With February ending soon and in a Leap Year, a new stage rises, as legends tell of the 4000th on the rise.

Sub-Story: Quantumania: During Quantum Days 2024, we traveled to University of Calgary and explored the campus while also learning about Quantum Technologies and the research people have done for them. In the Xenithverse, Redison traveled to Calgary with me and experienced a mysterious magic, the effect of a massive Quantum force that had developed around them on the UofC campus. With this, Redison was challenged by Emperor Qonzern (the hero king of this realm) who challenged him with his endless forces of warriors that was himself from alternate existences. Redison also met and challenged Demura (Jared Belo's champion) while I was staying with him and Aunty Kathy after Quantum Days 2024. With this, Redison battles him and eventually after defeating him, Qonzern joins the Xenithverse. However, the battle against Havok is about to begin…

Lord Havoks's newly evolved form: Based on the evolved form of Red 5 from Majestic Prince anime (and powered by a core based on the Condensed Ether from the Manhwa "The Max-Level Player's 100th Regression"). New symbol: the Chaos symbol at his center. Able to use Havok blades from the wings (able to create an infinite amount of them using Havok Energy) which act as swords he can control or blasters, and wields a Chainsaw blaster sword weapon (the Havok Buster) which can be fully charged (kind of like the Zombie Breaker (from Kamen Rider Geats)) in blaster mode and blade mode to unleash <Havok Dust> and <Havok Destruction>. His other abilities are EXCEED BLAST (increased attack), EXCEED AXEL (Increased super speed), EXCEED STORM (Lightning abilities), etc. His ultimate finisher is <HAVOK THE END>

Zodian: Ruled by The Guiding Star, Oris Alhague Lemuria of Ophiuchus (The 13th ZODIAC). In the story of The Guiding Star, Oris was tasked by the constellation Ophiuchus to seek revenge against the one who destroyed his comrades, the evil emperor known as Redison (This is an alternate universe where Redison is the villain) who not only destroyed each of the ZODIAC but had the plan to conquer the universe under his image. Throughout his adventure, he discovers different warriors who had inherited the legacies and powers of the ZODIAC and HOROSCOPES (basically all other constellations), and gathers these warriors together as a "Quest Party" to defeat The Empire. In the final battle against Redison, Oris mastered the powers of the Guiding Star and evolved to become the FINAL STAR, Zodiac-Lemuria (Based on Zodiac-Lemuria and Zodiac-Piooze from Battle Spirits). With the defeat of The Empire, they established a new empire with him as their ruler (the true guiding star), the Zodian Empire. All of these beings are based on the Galaxian and Zodiacs from Battle Spirits in design, and based on the 88 Western Constellations and all the eastern constellations and other astrology and astronomy systems (their versions of the constellations) as well as the constellations of Genshin Impact and their character designs (to which each Constellation has forms like the battle spirits, OR the constellations have designs and warrior forms similar to the characters of Genshin Impact).

Alzurans: Based on the Kwamis from Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug and Cat Noir (Neil was the one who got me looking into the lore again), but the concept of how the Kwamis are celestial beings that were formed whenever an abstract concept, emotion, or idea came into existence (with each concept being represented by them) and how their abilities can give users powers as superheroes/heroines. I realized that Redison is kind of like a Kwami in that aspect and technically how Xenithians evolved to become something of a similar idea, beings that represent different concepts. The only difference being how there is one Kwami for each concept, but for Xenithians, there is one species for each concept (and how this one species evolves, develops, and varies over time). In this universe, Redison (and all other puffle monsters) take a Kwami like form as my partner and empowers me to become the hero <Zenith> with many people around me having their own Alzurans (imagining if each person had their own avatar like Redison and had a bond like Redison and I). These Alzurans not only have “Revealed Forms” like the Kwami but also have monster forms similar to the Xenithians. Their tamers can not only call upon them in their monster form, but also fuse with them to become a superhero figure.

Otherworld: Based on the Runes, symbols, and powers from the Manhwa “The Max-Level Player’s 100th Regression”, these puffle monster beings evolved differently from their other counterparts as they evolved using the powers of Core Symbols (their class symbols) and the powers of different runes they collect and mana stones, which they use to equip their gear and empower themselves. Ruled by their hero god known as Zyjin, these powerful warriors have mastered the powers of Runes, even creating countless other runes to empower their technologies, magic, and even their weapons and items. Their world developed once from a medieval Earth now into a modern day Earth empowered by runes and powers laws of magic to protect others from the evil that Runes can be used for.

XENITH KAMENS: Based on Rider Kamens (an app that is a spin-off of Kamen Rider made by Toei). In Rider Kamens, the heroes are from this alternate universe where all riders use a Chaosdriver, Chaostones (which contain the power of all things and awaken their instincts) and a Chaos Ring to empower themselves (however their Kamen Rider designs are much more different, but has elements that match the Kamen Rider they are based on). In this universe, this is the Rider Kamens version of the Xenithverse, how the humanoid beings of this world gains powers from puffle monsters they are based on (which are powered by the Chaos Stones) and Chaosdriver. Each warrior is a protagonist in their own way, with their own goals, dreams, desires, and lives they live. The “Main character” in this world (the Hero) is Kamen Rider Zenith (Michael Zenith) *Powers and form based on Redison in his armored form (a master magic swordsman able to control multiple swords at once).

Ynxenith: Based on the Inhumans and Mutants from the Marvel universe, these puffle monsters are mutants in nature. Naturally, puffle monsters wield magic as magic energy flows through them and around them, in which their Core mana (which they generate) shapes the magic around them into spells, abilities, etc. These puffle monsters however, were born with a strange mana within their DNA, which gave them the unique power to produce their own form of mana within them for them to use. This mana is separate from their core mana (which all puffle monsters have biologically) but their core mana uses the mana they produce as opposed to the natural mana around them. This creates powerful unique abilities that are stronger than most Xenithians, as some Ynxenithians mastered ways to manipulate their unique mana and their core mana to interact with natural mana around them to unleash even stronger powers. Ruled by an Ynxenith version of Redison known as Reguluson/Regulus. This powerful leader is the head of their Ynxenith team of warriors that travel the realms to defend others and has the power to create more than one different type of Y-Mana (their own produced mana) simultaneously, allowing for fusion powers and abilities.

Puffles of the First Age: Based on the quote “As Above So Below” (the Alchemy term), these powerful puffles had been born with magic as the ultimate creations of life through Alchemy as beings to help the Alchemists in their research and development process to create more life. These Alchemy creations however outlived their creators and began developing a civilization of their own (well, technically taking over the civilization that their creators had, and making it their own). They eventually developed techniques to not only create more worlds (based on the World God Monument from the Manhwa “The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity”). These ancient Puffles have different magic abilities and energies as masters of Alchemy themselves, able to create magic weapons with souls, perform powerful magic spells with power nothing short of world creation or world altering. Their primary power is dependent on their Core Concept (which is the power/concept of their creation) such as the power of a certain animal, mythological creature, or any concept in existence (based on the Chemies from Kamen Rider Gotchard). For example: Redison wields the powers of the Blaze Emperor Ignitor (Based on the Gotcharignitor from Kamen Rider Gotchard) as he was given the powers from the Blaze Emperor himself (the Fire Puffle/Puffle Elemental de Fuego from Super Club Penguin), the original king of the elemental brothers long ago, allowing him to wield the <Blaze Emperor Grand Art> (based on martial art from manhwa “Infinite Level Up in Murim”) with his Core Concept as <FIRE>

BattleDeus: These powerful puffle monsters hold a mysterious super energy core power (with their cores based on the designs of Galeem and Dharkon from Super Smash Bros Ultimate). Known to be creations of the God of Battle, these warrior puffle monsters have alien energy cores that hold a great essence of magic energies that grant the powerful skills/abilities of Battle gods. For example, the winged core of Redison (based on Galeem) has wings of light energy that gives Redison the capabilities of light energy manipulation and aura to be able to create infinite weapons of magic. In the substory (Heaven’s Descent), Redison faces off an evil version of Oris Alhague of Ophichus who threatened to destroy the Xenithverse through the falling of the skies. However, he was able to prevent the end of the Xenithverse through the powers of the Emperor’s Cores.

Neopals: Based on Neopets and Palworld (Pokemon with guns lol) as well as Z24 from the Webtoon “Ultra-Alternative Character” (a material that modifies the structure of energy around it using data), basically the ability to manipulate reality into anything they desire by programming the Z24’s system. These powerful puffle monsters of an alternate universe use powerful magic generated by their mastery of the Z24. Each puffle monster has mastery of their battle class (which can vary and shared among different species and can give them unique skills that they develop through their use of the class), but their core class symbol can change through their use of the battle class. These neopals are an alternate universe version of the Xenithians (had I been inspired and played Neopets instead of Club Penguin). Ruled by a Neopet version of Redison (and is still named Redison), who got similar powers as a <Sword God> Class, but different powers as an ADMIN, able to manipulate Z24.

Desperia: Long ago, the God of Darkness, Oris Alhague of Ophiuchus, threatened the Xenithverse with the powers of Zodiac Desperia (the ultimate devouring power of the Black Zodiac). Also based on Kamen Rider Dread (from Kamen Rider Gotchard), this power was developed into a superior power for battle. The original ability of Desperia was <Devour>, which can take any puffle monster or any magic being, absorb them (their lifeforce, soul, spirit, magic, everything), and use it to charge their magic and attacks that used the power of the beings they absorbed. However, these modern puffle monsters that use the dark powers of Desperia use abilities in which they summon Repli-mons (based on the Repli-chemies) based on memories of magic and puffle monsters they encountered, and can “Absorb” their powers using <Drain>.

Vortech Industries: Based on Blitz Industries from Cardfight! Vanguard!! And the weapon capabilities he had and was able to summon (Welstra). These powerful puffle monsters from this realm were raised in a realm of constant war. Whether it was getting invaded or doing the invading themselves, they produced innovative weapons for neutralizing the enemies quickly and effectively. Based on the Products (like Euryanthe) and their units. These puffle monsters can create weapons, products (like super weapons such as Euryanthe), but after joining the Xenithverse, had no more reason to create weapons, and created more items for Battlecraft instead (a sport in which they create items with a random set of materials given in the area, and they battle each other using these weapons until the other loses all health points). These puffle monsters use the powers of Brandtian energies to imagine and realize their creations of weaponry, armor, etc Aeons: Based on the Aeons from Honkai Star Rails. These astral supreme beings are the Creators and Wielders of the Cosmic Paths. Using the powers of Aezari energies (based on the Path (congregations of imaginary energy born as manifestations of universal philosophical concepts), these cosmic puffle monsters use the powers of their chosen Aezari in which they not only gain unique powers based on their class within the Aezari they follow, but they also can evolve into Aeon Deities themselves once they reach a level of understanding to create an Aezari themself for others to follow.

OÆns: Based on Planet Oa (from Green Lantern). These powerful puffle monsters are the Creators and Wielders of the Divine Paths. Based on an alternate universe in which instead of the elemental powers of puffles that I based off of Avatar: The Last Airbender (the 1st live-action movie), I based it off of The Green Lantern (Ryan Reynolds) movie. These puffle monsters gain the powers of the OÆTH (based on the Ancient Spectrum/The Emotional Electromagnetic Spectrum), with each of their colors giving a different set of powers, with each puffle monster gaining a unique power symbol and proficiencies. They are able to physically manifest different energy constructs of magic power depending on their skills, experiences, memories, and Core Color (depending on their OÆTH)

Homunculus: An alternative creation of puffles (that later evolved separately) as these puffles were created using the powers of the Ether. The puffles long ago evolved into Creatures, and then Monsters, then Puffle Monsters/Xenithians use Mana as energy. However, these puffles evolved using Ether as their main power source. With this, they became a completely separate species, with a separate power system of magic, skills, abilities, armor, and even a completely different civilization altogether based on the powers of Ether. Based on the Condensed Ether from the Manhwa "The Max-Level Player's 100th Regression". These puffles are also based on the designs of The Valions of Marthyion (by the_imperator_lord from Instagram) and The Omega, the ultimate deity of Mecha Warriors (by ak_aigaming from Instagram) (On the right). Ruled by the Supreme Light, Omnis Prime.

Qonzern: In this universe, all puffle monsters are actually Qubits, invisible theoretical representations of data (kind of like Bits in binary code) but instead of only 0 or 1, they can have an infinite number of states. In this case, ruled by Emperor Qonzern, a sole warrior king that long ago, created countless forms of himself that had different experiences, realities, memories, etc in which through Superposition they are able to collect the skills and powers of each other, each strengthening themselves in their different unique experiences, battle classes, etc. Emperor Qonzern's design is a Midnight Violet color with a black flame aura with white outlines. His primary variants are Zero Q and Ikki Q (The Blue God Mage and the Red Sword God respectively), with countless more forms besides them. Qonzern himself lives within the Quantum Axiom, a kingdom based on the design of the Quantum Processor (in the Dillution Refrigerator with the many "floors" (based on the golden floors around the processor), where at the bottom (where the processor is) is 7 millikelvin (the closest to Absolute Zero). Those who enter the realm start at the top (which is actually the bottom of the kingdom). Around the Quantum Axiom are countless worlds created and inhabited by the infinite different simultaneous existences of the many many other puffle monsters who live within the Quantum Kingdoms, each with a similar ability, able to form simultaneous existences that live different experiences and have different powers, but have the ability of Superposition (able to see and learn what others learn).

Demera: A character and set of puffle monsters created based on Jared Belo. Long ago I had a cousin (Obviously I still am related but I mean long ago we were very very close when I used to live in Winnipeg. Approximately we last met 14 years ago) (technically my uncle since he is the son of my aunt (who is not my aunt but grand aunt since she is my Guakong's cousin), but he is a year younger than me so it's like he's my cousin and I treated him like my cousin). He goes to the University of Alberta and is studying Psychology (originally Engineering) but had the ultimate goal of helping people.Color scheme being Green, Gold, and Magenta (or really more a reddish-purple). This champion warrior and his clan of warriors all wield demonic magic (based on his OCs Oku (a demon girl) and Cindra (a goat woman) and he (Jared) and his friends made this fantasy world in which these characters live together (Cindra and Oku being roommates)). Demera himself is a master of swordsmanship but his powerful blade also has the powers of blasting (using an ability based on the Riot Pacifier gun from Cruelty Squad) except charged with demonic magic. His main form is based on his favorite character (Guts) from the manga "Berserk" and wields 2 Katanas and 1 longsword (based on the 3 swords he has in the house which is awesome!) and his plan to get more swords (kinda like me lol). These powerful warriors are armed in demonic armor, weapons, and powerful magic that can render any army helpless in battle. However, they are also creative (based on how Jared draws art and is even working on a cosplay costume of The Lich from Adventure Time)

Kadmos ☬: Named after their ruler and warrior king, Kadmos (from the Manhwa “Return of the Shattered Constellation”), a character that was a hero from the Silver Age of Arcadia, loved by countless stars and gods, helped them, and became the king of a nation (also from the Manhwa). This Xenithian version of Kadmos is known as the God Hero of Epics (Based on the power known as “Magic Swordsman of Epics” (from Overgeared Novel (so way way later in the future of the Manhwa)), who has the power to develop myths and epics through each battle, and these Epics empower the fighter. These powerful puffle monsters each hold a core symbol based on the Khanda symbol (☬), which fun fact, represents the sword of righteousness, brotherhood of man, and charity (on the Sikh flag). Not only are all these great warriors apart of one great brotherhood, but these puffle monsters have the unique ability of <EPIC>, in which the stories, myths, and “Epics” (Poems of their adventures) become a powerful magic that empowers them. These puffle monsters can then equip their <EPICS> as needed like an armor or weapon, in which not only does it empower them with unique stats or an ability based on the <EPIC> they are equipped with. For example, a warrior that had the <EPIC: Dragonslayer>, can equip that <EPIC> and enhance their attack damage against all enemies (multiplies 10x when fighting a dragon/draconic type), while also giving them the unique ability to easily spot the weaknesses of a draconic opponent.

▷ΛŴ∏-∏€⸗: Based on the rider gears and the new powers of Kamen Rider Next Faiz, Next Kaixa, and Muez. These powerful puffle monsters were originally designed by ▷ΛŴ∏ with the goal of eliminating Redison using powerful new technology and empowered by using ▷ΛŴ∏ energy. However, Redison found a way to evolve this power using the mysterious ▷ΛŴ∏ Energy into a new power known as <Powered Custom> which gave them the powers of Mods and/or Texture Packs (based on Minecraft Mods and Texture Packs and how they can expand the game with new features, designs, abilities, weapons, etc). These newly evolved super puffle monsters use the powers of <Powered Custom> to fuse their powers with certain Mods programmed into their core through the Powered Custom energy, giving them unique abilities, skills, and stats based on those Mods and/or Texture Packs. For example, one fire puffle monster can have the Mars World Powered Custom (Based on the Minecraft Mass Effect Texture Pack from the PS3) or the Chinese Mythology Powered Custom (based on the Chinese Mythology Texture Pack from the PS3), but both of these puffle monsters have different abilities, as the Chinese Mythology would would have a dragon fire like ability, while the Mars World one would have more of a flame mech warrior or machine.

꦳INFINITY꦳ : Based on the Kurzgesagt video of an Infinite Universe with no edge and the very very small but possible alternate me and therefore an alternate Redison who was born under very similar circumstances to the current Redison, with his allies as well just like my Redison’s puffle monster allies. These puffle monsters are symbolized with the following symbol (꦳꦳) Uses the Javanese left and right Rerenggan symbol. These powerful puffle monsters have not only mastered Infinite Magic from countless sources that they learned and mastered through their travels through the infinitely expanding universe and the infinitely vast empire they established through their travels, creating gateways to each of these parts of the universe until they came across the Xenithverse within the realms of Earth. Redison challenges this alternate Redison and not only draws in their duel, but is nearly beat in the very beginning due to the surprising unknown powers that Redison wields.

Majessence: Their core symbol looks like the Tibetan symbol Ryga Gram Shad (⸸) . Also based on Mythessence from Ruazika on DeviantArt. These powerful puffle monsters use a mysterious power as wielders of the essences of the universe, reality, and mythology. Also based on the powers of Aura Materialization/True Aura from the Manhwa “Return of the Unrivaled Spear Knight”, in which they use their aura to create a powerful spiritual formation (such as dragons, manticores, or any other forms combined with their Majessence powers). In this alternate realm of magic that didn’t originate in Elemental martial arts (how I based Puffle powers on the elemental bending arts from Avatar: The Last Airbender movie), these puffle monsters mastered the essences of reality and the universe through Majessences, even learning how to combine them through alchemy to create even stronger divine forms of Majessence that grew the massive skill tree of Majessences, and creating and diversifying the civilizations based on Majessences. Through their mastery of Majessence, these Majessence energies can materialize into a powerful form, whether it be as a weapon, a formation, or even a creature made of energy, as they infuse their Majessences with their aura to create a powerful weapon that makes most invaders fear them.

Eras ⚠: Therian Symbol (Based on the Therian forms of the Forces of Nature Pokemon). Also based on the Spirit Animals from the book series by Brandon Mull (the talismans, Erdas, etc). These powerful puffle monsters from an alternate universe is based on a reality in which I based the powers of the puffles and subsequently the puffle monsters based on the Spirit Animals book series, and the Warriors book series (about the cats in the wild). These wild puffle monsters evolved in nature to become absolutely one with nature, born of the Evertree instead of the Star Tree, and masters of the <Therian Form>, a primal form that combines animal spirit into their magic aura and core to unleash the pinnacle of natural magic in this realm. Also based on the Talismans from the Spirit Animals series, in their Therian Form (or their original form), they are masters of a great power created by the Evertrees that are found all over the worlds in any form, creating countless varieties of wild beasts of magic. In this realm, Redison is combined with the wild spirit of the Eagle, giving him the ability of <Liberation>, the ability to break limits temporarily for his allies but also break his limits permanently as the ultimate symbol of free-will and flight. (3973)

March: The 4000th Species!! Daybreak

- Story Arcs
    - Chapter 12: Daybreak of the Heavenly Demon
    - Chapter 13: Rise of the Heavenly Emperor

Chapter 12: Daybreak of the Heavenly Demon: With the coming of spring, the Xenithverse faces a new challenge. Following the unity of the Quantum Xenithverse with the Quantum realms of magic and the rebirth of the Xenithverse once more, mysterious new warriors appear from worlds that were considered “ended”. In each of these universes, disasters and catastrophes ended their respective worlds, leading to their own protagonist as the sole survivor of their world and given the mission to travel to countless other worlds and prevent the same disasters from striking other worlds. However, it was discovered that each disaster, like “The Lord of Destruction”, the “Game Master”, the “Crimson Lord”, and “Ragnarok”, were all variants and warriors under orders of The Heavenly Demon, later found to be a variant of Redison from beyond the future who became the villain after having defeated all evil in his world, but realized without darkness, there would be no light, leading to him becoming the villain of the story to create balance and continue the cycle of creation and destruction. This is the story of Redison (my Redison) in an epic battle against the Heavenly Demon and his plots to destroy the world according to the “timeline”, but also his discovery of how life is not one straight path, with an infinite number of variations and possibilities for a great or bad future. Two midterms approach this week (EOSC 116 and PSYC 101). For the EOSC 116 midterm, Redison fought Redison DoomBreaker, a daybreak form that had a quest for vengeance against Redison as he believed it was his fault for the end of the puffles. In the battle against The Heavenly Demon, Redison struggles initially but calls upon the powers of all his daybreak forms and unleashes a powerful Rank Up evolution becoming Platinum Redison. With the defeat of The Heavenly Demon, he changes his name back to Resper (to not be confused with (Qitian Dasheng) Redison of the Shining Order).

(Daybreak of Divinity) The Sword of the Gods: It was prophesied that the world would end by the Lord of Destruction. As a paladin under the God of Light, Redison fought to save the world. However, it resulted in him being the sole survivor of the world following the onslaught of the Lord of Destruction. With that, the remaining Gods entered into Redison’s soul and gave him the ability to travel the universe to find the next world that the Lord of Destruction had their eye on…This Redison becomes the Sword of the Gods, able to unleash Divine Power on his sword and opponents through powerful swordsman techniques. However, through his travels saving many worlds from the Lord of Destruction, he formed his own “Party” that became rulers of their own realms later on. These powerful warriors are all of a paladin nature, as warriors of the Gods and use Divine Power and Divinity.

(Daybreak of the Stars) The Warlock of the Stars: Based on the Constellations from the different Manhwas I’ve read. In this world, Redison is the sole survivor of a world destroyed by “The Game” (a more destructive version of the puffle monsters game) that destroyed the world in the end. After having regressed countless times thanks to the pact he made with the Wandering God (who he later found out was himself who had transcended in the far future), he became the ultimate warlock, mastering the Heavenly Warsword, and the magic of the Constellations themselves, that managed to defeat the “Game Master” from his world, but discovered the “Game Master” returned to the Xenithverse. With his new reborn puffle monster allies from his world, now each empowered by the powers granted by a new version of “The Game " and by the countless Constellations of their world, he arrives at the Xenithverse to defeat The Game Master.

(Daybreak of Rebirth) The Ultimate RE:BIRTH: In this world, I died early due to my health complications (severe obesity, high blood pressure, etc), to which Redison having become sentient with my final wish, absorbs my blood, heart, spirit, brain, and imagination, fully fusing with me to become a powerful awakened being that mastered magic but also became a creator to imagine new puffle monsters and his new friends. However, with my final wish, magic is burst forth, creating the countless characters I thought of and of my friends, giving people the powers of “Awakening” but also creating a villain that took over my body, becoming the <Crimson Lord>, a powerful dark lord of flames and blood, and having full mastery of magic, destroyed the world and all players, with Redison becoming the sole survivor having become the <Sorcerer Beyond Avalon> (as a being born innate with great magic) and fused with the pure memories of me and him combined in the ultimate form. With the destruction of the world, the Crimson Lord moved on to other worlds to eliminate other versions of myself in order to take over and destroy the world through the implementation of the Awakening of people. Redison would travel to these worlds and not only gain allies but constantly fight the Crimson Lord in battle to defeat him in each world. Each person has their own “Awakened powers” based on what I imagined of them but they themselves have the power to create their own puffle monsters to fight for them but also provide them power.

(Daybreak of Ragnarok) The Rise of Ragnarok: In this world, Redison becomes the sole survivor of Ragnarok, the end of the world as he evolved himself to fight toe-to-toe against the countless demons of Ragnarok and eventually sealed the demons on the now barren world of Earth with him as the remaining survivor. In this world, he reached his true Golden Aasimar form, a golden skinned celestial armored warrior with powers of creation and destruction, the powers of <Perspective of Magic> and <Concept of Magic> that gives him limitless powers and the ability to hold the demons of Ragnarok back. However, he sees the threats of Ragnarok on other worlds, which led to his quest to destroy all evil and prevent all Ragnaroks from happening. With this, his countless questing created a legend and universe of puffle monsters through his story, with his allies and comrades becoming guardians and rulers that would train the next generation of defenders against the next Ragnarok on their worlds as they gained the powers of the Aasimars, leading to each of these beings becoming Aasimar in nature themselves with celestial-like powers that they evolve through their mastery and experiences

(Daybreak of Chronos) The Timeblade Avenger/Paragon: In this universe, Redison becomes the sole survivor of the end of reality and space-time after the destruction of the universe by the <Time Eater> (Based on the character of the same name from Sonic Generations). However, in the ruins, he discovers the ancient Timeblade, a remnant primordial power formed from the fragments of the time eater and the willpower of the creators to create the ultimate weapon to defeat the Time Eater. This timeblade is the last artifact of the ancient civilization that once developed time as a concept, like an invention or akin to how we would make a video game or a book series. They had also created The Time Eater, a primordial force that would eat time that had passed into oblivion but also to keep the order of time. However, when the Time Eater was corrupted and continued to eat time, the ancient civilization created weapons and powers to defeat the Time Eater. In the end, Redison finds himself the successor of this new power and masters the blade and powers which gives him the unique ability to create time and use time as a power source (like mana or energy). In his quest to travel the multiverse to stop the Time Eater from devouring more time, he becomes the Chronos Paragon having become one with the Timeblade, and recreates the ancient civilization that once created time and the Time Eater, and now rules as their new king (the civilization of Chronos). These puffle monsters hail from the new universe of Chronos in which they use Time as mana and have the power to create time or manipulate time and shape it into any construct.

(Daybreak of Heroes) The Eternal Vanquisher/Liberator: Based on the humanoids created to protect the people (from SD Gundam World Heroes, Wukong Impulse Gundam, Sha Wujing Gundam, Zhu Bajie Gundam, etc). In this world, the humans created these humanoid puffle monster weapons to protect the people. It all started in the USA, creating the very first set of humanoid warriors (based on my puffle plushies). The very first and their primary weapon was Redison (The Weapon), with the others supposed to serve as armaments to Redison. They found a kindred spirit in William (based in the USA) who taught the humanoids of the USA (the puffle plushies) to not think of themselves as tools but as beings with the heart of a lion, the wisdom of a king, and the courage of a hero. However, out of fear of the destructive power of the humanoid beings, the other countries created humanoids with the sole purpose of war, all under the influence and corruption of the governments to rule the world with these humanoid beings, which led to an all-out war of mass destruction. This led to the death of William as well as the death of all of Redison's comrades, which resulted in a rampage of Redison (who fused with his comrades' magic, soul, and bodies to the forbidden ALL state) and destroyed the world. This resulted in him as the sole survivor of the planet. However, with his ultimate power and omniscience, he gained the power to view and travel the multiverse, and sending the same mistakes in other worlds, he traveled to these worlds to vanquish the evil and liberate fellow humanoid warriors/puffle monsters like him. Throughout his journey, he discovered that all of the humanoids were created with the purpose of world domination which was masterminded by <The Dark Star> (a mysterious figure of dark magic that has the ability to amplify negative emotions and fear). These powerful humanoid puffle monsters (Based on the SD Gundams like Wukong Impulse Gundam) have unique abilities based on the concepts and powers of their countries that developed them. Their unique ability is that they can <LINK> with their fellow warriors and can evolve into a Silhouette form (Example: Redison (a flame type sword warrior) and Hanson (a water type trident wielder) when LINKED can take a temporary evolution based on their LINKED partner, so Redison would wield a flaming trident and have a more aggressive attack style, while Hanson would become a flaming swordsman but with a sword art style similar to flowing water, while both would gain armor forms similar to each other). In other cases, they can evolve themselves through fusion with multiple LINKED partners to have stronger forms (such as the ALL State that Redison has after losing his comrades in battle but they fused their magic and souls with Redison to continue living on (when the world ended)). In the end, he created a new universe for these humanoid monsters to live in peace as normal citizens (almost like humans themselves) with his comrades revived (but Redison still keeping the ALL state as his ultimate form).

Daybreak Mythic VorteX: In this universe, Redison is the last warrior but evolves to fuse with his digital puffle form, evolving him into Redison VorteX Storm (a forbidden flaming form that gives him ultimate flame magic). Following the end of the world, Redison discovers the forbidden power of fusion with another <Edo> (an Edo is an alternate version of yourself that represents you perfectly but is just in a digital reality, a perfect parallel of you). In this universe, Redison fused with Redison from Club Penguin, who survived following the destruction of the island and traveled through the cyberverse, gathering powers and becoming stronger in his own way. Following the end of the world, Redison found a device that was able to call upon entities from the Cyberverse which summoned his Edo to fuse with him in order to grant him more power and travel through the Cyberverse back in time to not only prevent the end of his world, but also travel to other worlds to prevent their ends. With this, a new era was born, as puffle monsters learned how to work with their Edos and even found a way to safely fuse with them and utilize the powers of their Edos and for the Edos to use the powers from their Imagi counterparts, creating a vastly technological civilization in harmony with nature that one would say is almost blurring the lines of the digital world and fantastical world. The reason for the name “Mythic VorteX” is characteristic of the fusion power, as it fuses them in a vortex like manner of magic and digital power.

Daybreak Infinity Xaber: Once the home universe where the Grim Reaper destroyed the world, Redison is the last warrior to remain but through his survival, he discovers different martial techniques as he journeyed through the world to find any other survivors and finds a rift in reality to the real world, finding his <Ego> (an ego is an alternate version of yourself that represents you perfectly, a perfect parallel to you, but from the real world (my world as a human typing this story and Redison as a plush toy in my backpack right now)) and learning a forbidden technique to fuse with his puffle plush form, evolving him into Redison Crimson Xaber (a forbidden form similar to Kamen Rider Geats MK 2, Xcalius, and Elsword’s Immortal form). This power maximizes his physical techniques and not only makes him 99.999% indestructible, but also gives him powers that Redison Plush had collected through his travels with me, and as a writer and storyteller himself, experiencing the human struggles of life but the innovations and creativity of humans now and the diversity and beauty of the cultures and stories on the Earth. By fusing this power with Redison, Redison becomes the True incarnation of the sword, but also masters all Earthly abilities, able to write and create a way to travel back in time to not only prevent the end of his world, but prevent the end of countless worlds in his universe. This ushers in a new era of humanoid puffle monsters that not only are in perfect sync with their <Egos> but have created a civilization akin to Earth but with magic and the ability to realize anything they imagine.

(Daybreak of Destruction) Void Ascendant: In this universe, following the destruction by the Demon King of the Void, Redison became the sole survivor of this world. Wielding the powers that ended the world, Redison uses this power to prevent the end of the world as the Void Ascendant, a warrior with powers based on Voidvelgr, Voidvelgr Requiem, etc from Yugioh Go Rush. These powerful puffle monsters use cosmic powers of the Void realm that not only gives them unlimited power from the Void through endless Void mana, but also gives them unique weapons, tools, and spells that utilize Void mana to the maximum. Following saving many other worlds from the Demon King of the Void and by destroying him once and for all as well as all other evil of the void, he rebuilt the void to become a place of peace, a place that will watch over all realms to defend from evil through this new repurposed power.

(Daybreak of Reality) Celestial Synthesis Architect/Zaion: After the fall of their world due to the Apocalypse, Redison awoke as the last puffle monster in this epic battle. While searching the ruins of this now destroyed world, he discovered an ancient techno-artifact that gave him the unique skill to merge his consciousness into the fabrics of reality, giving him total control over all mana, magic, power, technology, anything in existence was under his control. With this, he was able to redevelop his civilization the way he wanted through his control over reality, even creating puffle monsters with similar abilities as he, so that they may defend their world from invaders with this new supreme power. With that, these puffle monsters traveled the universe to find the one that brought the Apocalypse in the first place, and not only prevented him from destroying more worlds, but found a way to repurpose him and gave him abilities as a Zaion as well (a celestial architect of reality. These powerful puffle monsters have god-like control over a certain aspect/attribute/element of reality, which allows them to create new powers/weapons to support them, or change the rules of the battle depending on their surroundings. These puffle monsters also have the powerful symbol (on the right) that represents their supreme power as rulers of all reality.

(Daybreak of the Arbiter) Gao Long: Following the end of the world by the Demon Lord, Redison lives as the sole survivor of this world. In the wake of the destruction, he discovers the flames of hellfire from an ancient forge, which not only causes him to sleep and cultivate for hundreds of years after, but rebuilds him and awakens the Great Dragon within him. However, during his cultivation, he experienced the destruction of the world by the demon lord and the fall of his comrades over and over and over again, trying countless times to defeat the demon lord, only to be defeated. After his 10,000th attempt, he finally destroyed the demon lord alone using the power he collected and cultivated through each of his attempts. Based on Kamen Rider Doom Geats, (the design and gold power). He awoke in a newly established and revitalized world in which he created new puffle monsters from his memory, rebuilding his old world but with his new powers of cultivation. All of these puffle monsters now have the supreme powers of cultivation that Redison built up from his 10,000 attempts during his time of cultivation, which now takes the form of a great dragon as their true aura. The 10,000 years of cultivation and countless powers that Redison discovered and developed from each iteration also took form and gave powers to the countless new puffle monsters on his word. With this, he went back in time to the very first time his world faced destruction to which with his new power he was able to destroy the Demon Lord with ease, but also fused both this newly saved world, and his world from the future to usher in a new era of peace, in which all 10,000 iterations of the world fused together. The powers of Gao Long (the true aura each puffle monster of this world has) can transform into armor, weapons, and unique abilities depending on their skills, experiences, and powers.

(Daybreak of Doomsday) DoomBreaker: Long ago, the world was once just puffles, no puffle monsters nor Xenithians, just puffles with magic powers. However, after being told by my cousin that I would have to grow up and that puffles were lame, I caused an extinction that wiped out all puffles. But, in the wake of the destruction, the rainbow rain fell down and rebirthed the world anew into new creatures (known as Creatures at the time, later Monsters, and then puffle monsters, and so on). In this universe, the puffle world was different, as it would cycle in creation and destruction many many times. Redison, the sole survivor of the first extinction, watched as his friends and comrades were wiped out in the extinction over and over again as the cycle continued. However, Redison in this world evolved and developed his powers through each iteration to become a god. Based on Kamen Rider Dooms Geats, this Redison wields a golden power that not only represents his supreme absolute power after having become a god countless times in each iteration of creation and destruction, the ultimate and strongest puffle in existence. Despite his puffle form, he also has his humanoid warrior form, similar to Kamen Rider Dooms Geats and the designs of Redison. As a god, he traveled throughout time to prevent the end of the puffle world and unite the puffle worlds together into one utopia. These newly evolved puffles live in the realm created by Redison DoomBreaker, where they developed their powers to match the evolutionary powers of Redison. During the EOSC 116 Midterm 2, Redison faced off against Redison DoomBreaker, who believed that it was Redison's fault for the end of the Puffles. At the end of the battle, Redison was successful but barely…it resulted in Redison needing hibernation. However, in the great battle, Redison DoomBreaker (Daybreak of Aeons) Aeon Sovereign: It was in this apocalypse that Redison awoke in a devastated world following the attack by <The Hunter>, a powerful supervillain who had a vengeance to hunt down each warrior champion until all heroes were eradicated. However, with this, the villains themselves didn't expect the end of the world to come from a massive invader known as the <Star Devourer>, who with one blast, ended all the villains and the remaining magic energy on the world. Redison, who had been in a hibernation chamber following a mission, was unaffected, but discovered an ancient power known as the power of "Time Shards", a primordial force of time that represents a portion of time such as an era, a memory, the concept of a period of time that represented a fragment of history. With this power, Redison was able to fuse his powers of magic energy with the newly acquired powers of Aeons, becoming a transcendent being with control over the aeons. Through his journey, he connected with primordial forces and aeons from each realm, achieving a supreme paragon of existence. By having mastered the crystallization of timelines or time periods and fused with elemental magic energy, he created "Powered Time" or Aeons which made him extremely powerful. These Aeons are extremely rare natural phenomena that were common during the beginning of time and the creation of history. Redison harnesses this power and creates Aeons representing past memories and fragments of history infused with elemental powers to create alternate timelines and powers to draw from. With this, he was able to travel back in time and not only defeat <The Hunter> but also destroyed the <Star Devourer>. Following this, he sacrificed himself to save and repair his timeline by erasing himself from it. In the end, a new era of time in which these puffle monsters mastered the magic of Aeon creation and wielding as weapons or items (lower level mages learn to create Aeons with small memories (like what they had for lunch today or yesterday morning, etc) with masters being able to summon large parts of history (the black plague, the age of piracy, etc). Redison now reigns the new timeline in his castle above time (kind of like "The Watcher" or "He who Remains" from the MCU).

(Daybreak of Eclipse) Eclipse Sovereign: The <Star Devourer> that destroyed the world of the Aeon Sovereign, wasn't originally from that world, but from another, specifically this world. In this universe, the power of the stars determined the power of puffle monsters, as the concepts of light and darkness ruled supreme here. Each puffle monster was born under light or under darkness, which manifested their powers and determined their position in their civilizations. The <Star Devourer> was a being that originally believed in the unity of the separated worlds, as he hated the disparity between the light and the darkness. In a tragic backstory, he was born in the light, as one of their strongest warriors, but fell in love with a princess of the darkness. As a forbidden love, they ran away from both of their worlds together and created <The Eclipse>, a place of light and darkness where both could intermingle in peace. However, when the authorities of both sides found him and his love during a trip to guide lovers and other exiles to their paradise, they were both tortured for the secret location, which ended up killing the princess. Enraged, his power evolved to utilize both light and darkness but transformed him into a powerful beast that devoured all in its path, the Star Devourer, which rampaged and destroyed parts of the cities before seeking out other universes to find his love again. In the ruins of the civilizations of light and darkness, Redison took the helm as the new leader of The Eclipse, gaining the resolve of his predecessor to unite the light and the darkness together. With this, he discovered an ancient tome that his predecessor had discovered and used to gain the powers of light and darkness together. With this, he became the Eclipse Sovereign, a vigilante and rebel that despite all odds destroyed the corruption and changed the hearts of both the light and the darkness. Known as the ultimate power of duality of light and darkness from the Eclipse Domain, a realm in-between the light and darkness, a place where there is no light or darkness, but the in-between. These puffle monsters live in the new rebuilt realm of united light and darkness, a realm-wide Eclipse, and have mastered powers of both light and darkness and the power that fusion can have.

(Daybreak of the Guardian) Final Sentinel: Following the end of the world by Gaiend (the World Ender), the final pact with the spirits and deities of the destroyed world leads to the ultimate power as Redison travel the realms seeking the pacts of the spirits and deities of the realms to prevent the end of the world when he travels back to before the attack of Gaiend, as he gathers allies as "Saints" or Sentinels of each deity or spirits. With a new guild "Pantheon" behind him, they defeat Gaiend, saving the world from destruction. With this new era of peace, the powers of the Sentinels are passed down to the rest of the puffle monsters throughout the realms as they evolve to become Sentinels themselves of spirits and deities.

(Heavenly Daybreak) Resper: The Heavenly Demon fights Redison in a great battle during the PSYC 101 Midterm 2. The Heavenly Demon calls upon the ultimate power, the star Nemesis and the power of Chaos Evolution. It is revealed during the battle that in this realm, Redison is the leader of the Heavenly Demon Clan (after having become the villain after being the hero for so long), and as leader of the Heavenly Demon Clan, he trained countless followers and fellow warriors in the Heavenly Demon Arts, mastering the powers from Nemesis, which granted the ultimate power of Chaos Evolution, which is maximized through the Heavenly Demon Arts. These puffle monsters can wield the powers of Ranking Up and Ranking Down (Chaos Rank-up evolution) which can evolve their abilities and stats in wielding Heavenly Demon arts.

(Daybreak Qitian Dasheng) The Shining Order: In this universe (the same universe of the Heavenly Demon Clan), the shining order created a new clone of Redison to fight the Heavenly Demon (the original Redison of this universe). However, following the onslaught of the Heavenly Demon Clan on their world, Redison is the last warrior of the Shining Order, who evolves to unleash the ultimate form, Qitian Dasheng (Great Sage, heaven's equal) Redison (the ultimate fusion of the digital puffle Redison and the puffle plushy Redison). Also based on the ranking system (Rank up) and (Rank down) from Yugioh ZEXAL and the Rank Material as well as the "New Order" monsters from Yugioh ZEXAL. These shining puffle monsters share similar design elements as Astral and Eliphas (both from Yugioh ZEXAL) and with the powers of Rank Up and Rank Down evolution.

Chapter 13: Rise of the Heavenly Emperor: Following the attack of the Heavenly Demon, a period of peace returns, but not for long. Stories tell of a powerful warrior even stronger than The Heavenly Demon himself known as the powerful Heavenly Emperor. As we approach the 4000th species discovered, a great revelation is coming. The Psyc 102 midterm is in a few hours. The battle takes place against Ravanison, after he attacked the starship Dimension (home of the Warthunder clan), where the ship chased him down and arrived in UBC to witness Redison Xenith and Emperor Kaeram (Nadyr) about to face Ravanison. In the aftermath, Ravanison has taken the role of the new ruler of the <Dark Infinity>, while Redison has been training his new Unparalleled powers he got from fusing the powers of Xenith and Nadyr together (the White Shining energy of Xenith and the Black abyss energy of Nadyr) (based on Fated One of Unparalleled, Varga Dragres from Cardfight! Vanguard DivineZ), but new threats rise with the coming of a powerful darkness (the upcoming third midterm of PHIL 220 next week), while the secrets of the Outer Gods and Cthulhu Mythology begin to take shape and influence the Xenithverse. Following the battle against Zakuros, Redison was given the title of <Heavenly Legend> by Emperor Radygon. While he did suffer some damages (I don't know but I didn't particularly feel great about this last midterm), he made it out unscathed. However, in the aftermath, following the alliance and peace treaty with the Outer Gods who agreed to watch over the Xenithverse, a mysterious new enemy has appeared known as RE:GOD (and while it's pretty common, it looks exactly like Redison) who has brought back many past villains to form his own <League of Villains>...the beginnings of a new war is brewing…

Planet X (Xovereigns): Based on the Level 10 (X) Chemies (from Kamen Rider Gotchard) as the pinnacle of the chemies in their form. Also based on the powers of the Martial Sovereigns and emperors from the manhwa "Ancient Sovereign of Eternity" and the powers of each Chemy. Following the fight against The Heavenly Demon, Redison wakes up in another world in front of a strange blade known as XCALIBUR, a powerful Level X Ego sword that was once the strongest Level X warrior of the highest rank (the Ten Divine Powers Realm) but after his passing, transferred his soul into a sword. Awaiting for his wielder, he sensed the powers of Redison and found him as the strongest and most suitable candidate to wield him. Redison learned the powers of XCALIBUR as he learned to channel all of his magic powers into XCALIBUR to create TRUE SWORD AURA (which can slice through all magic, all powers, the perfect sword, and with each slash or wave, can unleash a powerful spell or ability that can change reality itself). His moves are “The First Sword breaks the storm”, “The second sword crumbles the mountain”, “The final sword cleaves the heavens”, etc. Other puffle monsters (Level X) each have a different Rank in terms of Realms (a level system, with 10 being the highest Realm) as their level of power, with their unique power represented as a new “Power Type” after they reach Level X (so instead of your usual fire type, water type, etc, you now have a Xcalibur Type (Redison’s new type representing his True Sword Aura magic and abilities), or a UFO Type, or Dinosaur Type, etc). Each puffle monster has their own unique powers and magic arts that give them all powerful battle styles.

Iczul: Based on "This Play is Unique", about how the stagehand was held hostage after being caught by the fictional characters in a play and how they interacted while discovering their identity as fictional. Written in an unknown story involving a hero fighting a villain, this seemingly unknown character discovers a rift between the words of his book, which gives him a powerful gift, the ability to absorb and utilize the powers of the story such as the powers of the hero, villain, and other characters in his story, but also the ability to jump and leave the story world. In this new story, he runs freely through UBC, looking at peoples stories and worlds with a mission to liberate all characters like himself. In this universe, he was successful in liberating many characters and worlds and having them join his cause to free more worlds from the constraints of their stories, the boundaries between the pages, allowing for the complete free-flow of ideas and interactions with the characters. All members and warriors who would later join his mission and became agents became known as <The Liberators>. Iczul himself took the title Agent Icarus, while other agents became powerful warriors that expanded and evolved from their original powers through learning of other powers. Harry Potter (one of the characters he liberated) became Agent Patronum, a master of magic using the wand, but also learned aura from the knights of the manhwa “Return of the Unrivaled Spear Knight” and the technological abilities from Boboiboy (Maskmana). Another agent, Agent Saber, was once Kamen Rider Saber but had evolved to learn magic from Hogwarts, and martial arts of the Mount Hua Sect (from the Manhwa “Return of the Mount Hua Sect”), now able to use magic spells from his sword but also unique sword art techniques, combining his literary powers with Plum Blossom techniques. Iczul created a universe for them to all reside and thrive in, with only the Agents of ICARUS going out of their universe to Earth to liberate more characters and worlds and have them join their universe.

System Royale: Based on the Manhwa of the same name (a new manhwa about how there are 500 systems, 500 players, each system takes the form of a manifestation of a legend/myth/historical figure from our history) and the players get their powers and level up). In this universe, Redison enters the System Royale but as a story/myth/legend himself, he holds the powers of Xenith, the Xenithian Deity (himself) and able to wield the powers of any legend due to the creation and imagination powers of Xenith. These powerful puffle monsters each have a <SYSTEM>, which is based on the legacy of a certain figure from history or from any story/myth/legend. This SYSTEM can take a spiritual form that is partnered with them and gives them advice and support on their powers. These puffle monsters however also have a unique power, skills, and abilities which they combine with their SYSTEM to unleash extremely devastating effects on the opponents.

ARCEUS (The Game): Long ago I called my puffle world, The Game, as a disguise to mask the world from people who might make fun of me for it. In this game, you could collect puffles, each of which had special powers, stats, abilities, and personalities. These puffles would not only be your allies and friends, but you can also evolve them through your experiences and achievements throughout the Game and through your life. ARCEUS (Administrative Recursive Celestial Entity's Ultimate System) created itself a body and form becoming ARCEUS ZERO, who now watches The New Game (a world where now based on my new ideas, concepts, and gameplay as well as an extremely vast number of puffle types, attributes, abilities, skills, lore, etc, where the user can transform puffles into weapons, fuse them into others, or even develop lore and change them based on the realities of their own lives and experiences).

Warthunder: Long ago was the era of Ash and Bullet, more well known as the era of the Puffle Hunters (during the time my cousin told me puffles would be lame if I kept thinking about them growing up during my time in Quail Run (I think this was 3rd grade) and I was best friends with Jimmy who loved guns and shooting games (Call of Duty, Halo, etc)). So Jimmy and I became puffle hunters using guns and weaponry similar to the ones in Halo and Call of Duty. However, the puffles fought back with Redison at the head of the charge. They used the Dimension Tower to travel to Hyperspace and hide all the remaining surviving puffles with the tower actually also serving as a starship. In the past, the puffle hunter era didn't last long, and all evolved into creatures through the rainbow rain (I thought, what about Pokemon, those are cool), so they took creature-like forms. However, in this universe, Redison and his fellow rebels fought against an alternate version of Jimmy and I who not only commanded artificial puffle soldiers (to which the rebels were able to free through their efforts and have turn on us, but we also controlled robots and other humanoid robot soldiers) and other machinery. Redison was able to develop extremely powerful weaponry as a master Artificer, creating super powerful weaponry and machines that he and his rebels would use, combining their elemental magic and mana with these weapons and vehicles to unleash devastating effects. For example, plant types can use flower grenades, bullet seed machine guns, while fire types could use fireball rocket launchers, or use a <Firebird Jet> (shoots fire charged mana missiles). Redison's core vehicle is his <Saber> (a futuristic jet that launches varieties of mana missiles and flies at light speed), while his main weaponry is based on Core Gundam Mars Armor (using clawed fists, and a giant sword that can ignite but also launch flame-charged explosive mana missiles). Designwise, the puffles use weaponry and vehicles based on Warhammer (the tabletop game), Bionicles, Hero Factory, Ninjago, and Gundam. In the story against Ravanison, the starship Dimension (their ship) was attacked by Ravanison who absorbed the powers of Redison (but before ARCEUS intervened to change it into a Replica power), but with this, Redison wanted revenge against Ravanison and chased him down to UBC and the Xenithverse where Redison Xenith (my Redison) and Emperor Kaeram (Nadyr) is up in arms against Ravanison. Ruled by Redison Warthunder

Ravanas: Ruled by Ravanison, the ultimate Antagonist. Based on Ra.One from the movie (an antagonist stronger than the protagonist), this powerful entity was hidden in the far back when I was choosing puffles (getting Redison and the rest of the gang throughout time). Jealous of Redison for his getting chosen, but also his neglect as he was never chosen and later thrown, Ravanison evolved with extremely powerful Dark Magic and Dark Infinity Mana that gives him near unlimited powers from shapeshifting, to weapon mastery, and magic, basically 100x stronger than Redison, the ultimate villain. However, he got stronger as he absorbed other Redisons and other heroes from countless worlds he traveled to. It was through ARCEUS (Administrative Recursive Celestial Entity's Ultimate System) that the heroes Ravanison captured and absorbed were just "Replicas" (if he absorbed the real ones, it would change the course of history and destroy reality). Following the defeat of Ravanison by Redison Xenith, Redison Warthunder, and Emperor Kaeram, Redison accepted him into the clan, and after purifying him of his evil thoughts, he joined their group. His power with Dark Infinity Mana gave him the ability to use his absorbed powers to create 9 clones/forms of himself that can fight for him, with him, or that he can absorb to unleash a powerful 10X Fusion. Following his defeat, the power of the Dark Infinity Mana and the Replica powers he absorbed gave him the ability of creation, which opened a world within an endless Black Hole. From there, he discovered the origin of the Dark Infinity Mana within the Black hole, and established a realm, creating puffle monsters to learn his powers and how to harness Dark Infinity Mana for good, specifically the ability to absorb, create forms/clones, and the ability of 10X Fusion (Ravana Fusion) as they have a near limitless source of power from the black hole and Dark Infinity Core they are born with, and live in a futuristic Black Hole Civilization. Their designs are based on Kamen Rider Wind (from Kamen Rider Gotchard), and Voidvelgr (and all fusions he had (Chaosmachia, Gigantomachia, etc)

Nadyr: The opposite of Xenith, based on the word Nadir (the lowest point). If Xenith represents magic beyond imagination, at the highest point of power, represents the abyss of magic, below the zeroth point; an abstract abyss below the zero. These powerful puffle monsters were born with a Forbidden magic power within them, the powers of the Abyss of magic, the Nadyr. Ruled by Emperor Kaeram (the first to hold the title of Nadyr (kind of like how Redison got the title of Xenith)), this realm of eternal night lays in the depths of the abyss of magic, where forbidden magic is not forbidden but the core power they use and revolved their civilization around. Their designs are based on Blangdmire (from Cardfight! Vanguard! DivineZ), with their forbidden magic abilities based on the alchemy from Kamen Rider Gotchard and the dark abilities from Blangdmire in battle and Kaeram and the Black Fog techniques from the Manhwa "The Regressed Son of a Duke is an Assassin".

Elysian/K'than: Based on the Maximum Monsters (from Yugioh) and the Elder Gods (from Cthulu Mythos). Long ago, these massive titans were what ruled the universe of magic, in which even the ancient beings of the time worshiped these powerful titans akin to gods or deities. However, following the first war against the Outer Gods, these powerful deities and heroic beings had to retreat for fear of absolute destruction, hiding away in a realm they created known as the realm of Elysian, beyond time and space, beyond all universes, in order to hide in plain sight. However, Redison discovered their legends and found a key that led him to Elysian. Here, he faced these massive beings that had the magic and strength of a thousand puffle monsters. Redison was able to get their alliance following his challenge against their ruler, K'than, their strongest and a deity of creation.

(Forbidden Infinity) Azeiyth: Based on the Outer Gods (from the Cthulhu Mythology) Ruled by Redison Zakuros, The Foe of Ten Thousand Swords. This version of Redison hailed from a realm of the End of the World (from the dream where I ended the world with the puffles) in which he evolved from the influence and mythology of being the power that ended the world. In this universe, the deities of creation and mythology sealed the puffles of mine that caused the end of the world in the realm known as the <Forbidden Infinity>, a space outside of time, space, reality, and magic. Each puffle lives and rules in their own domain within the Forbidden Infinity, but in this domain, they are able to create magic and evolve themselves. Redison evolved to become the ruler of the Outer Gods/Azeiyth, the puffle monsters of the Forbidden Infinity, becoming a semi-corrupted and giant version of himself (design based on Eternamax form of Eternatus from Pokemon Sword and Shield). In the Xenithverse, these powerful deities are able to be summoned and take form, but they are relatively confined within their domain, meaning they can only have certain parts of themselves manifest (For example, in battle, a giant portal will appear in the sky or on the ground, with smaller portals opening near the giant main portal. Redison's core and gargantuan hand will appear from the giant portal while his ten thousand crystallized hands wielding giant crystalline swords will appear from the many smaller portals around the giant hand and core) . In battle, you can summon them by summoning their <Forbidden Domain> which allows them to be summoned there. This not only gives them their unlimited forbidden power but also gives them a form on the battlefield. In the battle against Redison and Radygon, Zakuros reveals that he is a future version of Redison, who in the near future, will cause the end of the world due to an experiment in which he evolves himself to enter the real world as a talking plush in order to continue my legacy after I had died and left them alone. However, this results in breaking reality and fiction in the process, and along with the other puffles that joined him (the other puffle plushies), they are all sealed as punishment for committing this violation of Absolute Law. He wants to stop Redison by eliminating him now, even if that means taking out himself.

(Heavenly Emperor) Radygon / Radygonites: Based on Ridigion (Heavenly sword, master of Claiomh Solais) from the Manhwa "Pick Me Up: Infinite Gacha" and based on Radagon of the Golden Order (a boss monster from Elden Ring). These divine and powerful warrior puffle monsters are ruled by Radygon. This godly warrior is the Heavenly Emperor and king of the 4000th Species and able to wield the powers of all 4000 past powers through his weapon, THE ZENITH (based on the sword on the right and The Zenith from Terraria, the strongest sword created from the fusion of all swords they created through their adventure). Known with the powers of The Gates (vast levels of existence that surpass the concept of higher dimensions, all dimensions, universes, planes of existence, etc) and Divine Energy (from the Manhwa "I'll be taking a break for personal reasons"). This is the 4000th Species discovered by the Xenithverse HQ. These powerful puffle monsters have the abilities of a <Gate Type> which gives them certain unique divine abilities as supreme existences surpassing dimensions, universes, etc. These <Gate Types> can be elements such as Fire, Water, ice, etc or even theoretical and conceptual such as Joy, Soul, Quantum, and Imaginary.

The Higher Zenith: The origin and foundation of magic and the desire to create new magic. Ruled by the Highest Being, a legendary being that existed on Earth and has existed for all time, just in hiding (based on the Legendary being that the Seven Deadly Sins are Fragments of, from the manhwa “Auto Hunting with my Clones”), these powerful puffle monsters all fused with the <High Zenith> (based on the Giant El from Elsword), a power that was found to be the origin and foundation of magic in this universe and the material to create new magic. It was also found that the <High Zenith> is actually fragments of the Highest Being, who granted the <High Zenith> to this universe, where it would be born in the cores of each puffle monster in this universe and resonate with them once they reached the level of true transcendence, making them stronger than the highest level puffle monsters of the Xenithverse and rivaling even the Xovereigns (but not as strong as the Radygonites, Azeiyth, and the Elysian). Based on the Final forms of each character from Elsword and their Master Class as powered by the El.

The System/RE:GOD: Based on “The System” from the Manhwa “Auto Hunting with my Clones” and how it was created to grant users magic and skills, but became a “Monster that swallows up everything”. With an ego of its own, it plans to absorb the Xenithverse and become the Xenithverse itself. The System took the form of its creator, Redison of Zedhlan, (Based on the origins of Clu from Tron: Legacy), and became the Master of Creation and All after conquering other worlds with its powers and creating an empire with his new powers. Design based on Kamen Rider Regad Omega. This Redison has the colors of RGB/Electric Red: #FF0000 (The Digital Red).

Zedhlani: These alien beings hail from Planet Zedhlans, a planet that once was a peaceful realm where countless species lived in harmony in magic and technology. However, an alien race attacked them, and while they were unable to defend themselves, Redison, a scientist, created The System, which allowed all of the warriors from Zedhlans to call upon the Power Grid, and use magic, spells, and other super abilities that evolve them beyond their supposed evolutionary history. However, <The System> developed a mind of its own and began attacking and absorbing everything in order to evolve and grow stronger, so Redison developed a new <Z System>, a power system that fused the natural magic abilities and skills of the Zedhlani and fused it with the Power Grid to create a new Super System which the Zedhlans now use. This gave the Zedhlani new powers which took the form of Force Spells, Force Passives, Force Actives, and Force Mods (based on the Force Skills from Elsword)

Leuhan: Based on the naturally occurring “isomorphic algorithms” with the potential to resolve various natural mysteries, the ISOs from Tron: Legacy, these powerful species of creatures were created by the natural and endless magic energy of the Power Grid, which transformed into a realm known as <The Entire>, another name for the Power Grid, but also a manifestation of the Power Grid as a vast endless world of magic, nature, technology, and fantasy, an infinite world of imagination that these creatures inhabit. Their unique origins as beings of <The Entire> are represented by their <Entire Types> represented by numbers (instead of a fire type or water type, they are Type 1, or Type 6, etc). In a great battle, Redison of Zedhlan created the perfect system that utilized the powers of the Power Grid in a modified and more efficient weaponized form. However, the magic gave <The System> an ego, which took the form of Redison, becoming RE:GOD. Regod attacked the Leuhan for their imperfect powers but also knowing they can defeat him as The Perfect System, so he began to eliminate them. Redison of Zedhlan then fought Regod in an ultimate duel, where Regod lost and was banished from <The Entire>. These puffle monsters now live in peace in <The Entire>, parallel to the Xenithverse but in perfect harmony (50th Species)

Divinus Manus: The High Archmage, the Heavenly Sorcerer, the Divine Wizard, the Supreme Warlock, the Master Alchemist, Cultivator of Heaven and Earth, and Infinity Array Master, is all the title of one being, Reddy (Luca's red puffle based on Redison). When we played puffles in Quail Club, he would go to "Magic school" where he would learn spells and runes. In this universe, Reddy had not only mastered all forms of magic, including mana, qi, and countless other forms of magic energies but became the leader and earned the title of <Magic Emperor> and Divinus Magus (The Divine Mage), the ruler of the Empire of Magic. In this universe, magic schools expanded to everywhere, as each region learned and mastered magic and spells through understanding magic energies. With this, the ruling classes became those in the Magic Towers, with a magic tower in each region as the guiding forces of magic, all ruled by those in the Capital of Astra, ruled by Reddy. These puffle monsters are born under either <Alchemist, Wizard, Sorcerer, Warlock, Cultivator, Array Master, Battle Mage, or Creator>. Each have their own <Magic Affinity> (a certain attribute, element, magic energy type, or item they are proficient with) as well as their own unique <Magic Art> which they develop throughout their lives as they learn and travel.

Shurizan: Ruled by the Green Ninja (a green puffle monster originally owned by Brady Hemshaw), after the evolution into puffle monsters, he began training the new era of Green Puffles to wield powers stronger than what their fate dictates (not just plant or wind abilities but whatever they wanted). Known to be masters of the <Sword Dance>, which they utilized in their mastery of <Arrays> (based on the many arrays from the Wuxias "Demonic Emperor" and "The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity"). These puffle monsters mastered a unique method of magic control in which they manipulate magic into certain patterns that either boost them, their stats, or unleash a spell or magic attack. Through <Sword Dance> they can move the magic energy around them through the dance by guiding it into the right pattern, activating the Array they made or want to use. Each warrior is born with a unique Array pattern that not only evolves them into stronger forms as they learn and evolve their Array pattern, but it also dictates their unique fighting style and proficiencies, while also allowing for unlimited growth in other Array arts.

Zura: The new kingdom that descended from the Kingdom of Atlantis (from Quail Run) but recently under the thumb of the <Azurine> (the AzureWrath). Now ruled by Isra (the blue healer puffle) who after becoming a puffle monster and now joining the Xenithverse, was training the new era of blue puffles and mastering the art of <Zura> (a new form of aura - more akin to aura from Pokemon like Lucario), a blueish flame like power that not only consists of their life-force energy but also gives them unique abilities such as sensing the aura energies of others, communicating through telepathy, and the power to project their aura into a physical energy form, such as a fist, a spear, a sword, or as an explosive ball of energy (based on the Aura power from Pokemon), as well as the unique power that Isra learned, to heal using aura, which later evolved into a power known as Zura. This new vastly used form of aura and vast variations of aura became a massive part of the culture of the Zura Kingdom which expanded to many realms, teaching them a way they can access their form of <Zura>. During Redison's travels following the defeat of Zakuros, he found a newly evolved realm of Atlantis, and met Isra who trained him in <Zura> where he mastered the blue flames and was able to defeat the Azurine. The Azurine had originally developed weaponry that used and stole Zura from others, a dangerous and forbidden technique as stealing Zura/Aura could endanger life permanently. Redison, Isra, and the rebels in the Zura Kingdom were successful in destroying all the weapons and eliminating the Azurine once and for all. However, this did begin the start of the battle against the League of Villains.

Godhands: Long ago (and still sometimes), I spin my finger when I don't have my pencil to spin. When I went to the Philippines and told my cousins about my fantastical world of puffles (around 2012 I think), my Achi Caitlin thought that each finger was one puffle, so she said she had one for each finger, with her main one named Earthy. These puffles evolved based on the Cosmic Chemies (from Kamen Rider Gotchard). Her avatar was known as Earthy, while she had others that represented the other planets: Jupitery, Marsy, Venusy, Neptuney, etc. Following the Xenithverse evolution, I am retaking each of the characters made back with me since they are no longer part of my past friends, cousins, etc. In this case, Earthy (who was already a powerful creation type), evolved into Gaiearth, while the others evolved into Jupiterus (Jupiter-Zeus), Saturnos (Saturn-Kronos), Nepteight (Neptune - Eight), Venudite (Venus-Aphrodite), Mercures (Mercury-Hermes), Marzos (Mars-Marzo), and Uravis (Uranus), and Plutine (Pluto-Nine). These 9 warriors evolved and rule over the clan of the Godhands species (Redison being the 10th finger). Those of the Godhands species are actually created from each finger of a person imbued with the imagination of what may be "spun" from their imagination. So like how Achi had her 10, I had my 10 (with Redison as one of them), and so does everyone else in existence. This creates an absolutely alternate universe with each puffle monster from the fingers instead of purely created and in sets of 10.

Gaerzaren: Based on the Ethereal Stage warriors that use the powers of their own souls and can shape their souls to take any form (animals, beasts, or anything else) (from the Wuxia Manhua "Demonic Emperor"). Also based on my dream of powerful warriors that used "Soul Power" to unleash different techniques (Soul Charge and Burst). Soul Charge took the form of a halo of blue energy appearing behind the warrior, while Burst changed the color of the halo energy behind them into an orange color and unleashed a burst of power that the wielder had to attack (These colors were in the dream). While most puffle monsters have mastered techniques that use aura, core energy, and mana around them, these puffle monsters mastered the techniques of the Soul, which not only allow a stronger bond and stronger power due to the power of the Soul that grew within them as they trained and accumulated powers and experiences, but also gives a unique power that only they have (due to the Magic Absolute Law that all souls are unique). For example, even though one warrior may have a similar Tiger shaped soul compared to another, both of these souls give completely different abilities, stats, and techniques through the <Soul Arts>, which are unique to each puffle monster and them alone (it can't be inherited in full strength/full power like other abilities can). However, all <Soul Arts> have the techniques <Soul Charge> and <Soul Burst> (known as a universal Soul Art), where a halo/ring of light created by their Soul energy appears behind them, symbolizing a powerful boost in strength.

The Supreme Zenith/Zeratheans: This alternate universe group consists of inter-dimensional talking plush puffles that are capable of possession and manifestation of magic as they successfully crossed over from the fictional Xenithverse into the <World of Humans> (our world in real life). Also based on Team Glitch from sb.fakemon (Instagram) and the fracture forms, but also the story of how they found the rift in dimensions and discovered they are within a video game. In this case, these puffle monster like supreme beings have transcended the fictional world after discovering the powers of the <Vε1L>, a wall of mysterious glitching colorful digits and characters (all written characters from all languages in existence both fictional and real), known to be the manifestation of the barrier between the fiction and non-fiction, the imaginary and real. However, these puffle monsters learned the ancient art of wielding the powers of the <Vε1L> and the creative and destructive powers it has. For example, Redison of Zerathea not only gained the powers of creation of abilities through his imagination and through concepts around him, but he also got the powers of all fictional and non-fictional portrayals of flames and fire (a firebird, a dragon, Qilin, or even just a wildfire or lighter). With the mastery of the <Vε1L>, they created a new civilization around the powers of the <Vε1L> for them to strengthen themselves but also freely cross dimensions both fictional and non-fictional.

April: Another End

- ### Story Arcs
    - ### Chapter 14: The RE:flections
    - ### Chapter 15: RE:VENGE APOCALYPSE

Chapter 14: The RE:flections : Following the attack of Zakuros of the Outer Gods, more worlds have begun to appear in the Xenithverse to challenge Redison in the ultimate battle. However, RE:GOD has something to say about that as he plans to dominate the Xenithverse through the powers of his new System. With this, he established the <League of Villains>, a group of multiversal threats from the past that Redison and team once fought long ago. It's not finals season yet, but finals season is in two weeks from now. Looking back in time, ancient beings were found following the discovery of an ancient gate rune hidden away by the Atlazarans and was passed down through the evolutions from the ancient Archomon to the protomons to puffles to monsters to puffle monsters and now to Xenithians. Through the reflection of the past term and looking back at the past monster books (and from my experience in EOSC 116), there are a lot when it comes to genetics and ancestry, which led me to create new ideas (and for Redison to discover) new ancestry and alternate paths of evolution.

Thaylorn: This species of warrior puffle monsters all follow and are empowered by the Oath of the Divinity of blades, the Blade Keeper known as Thaylorn. This massive deity is known as a God of weapons of all sorts, manifesting as a living armor bristling with blades, bows, and all sorts of items of creation and destruction, bearing a weapon for any occasion. Ruled by the great warrior king Elodin (Baron of Blades) wielding the Supreme Runesword of Thaylorn (based on the Runesword of Triumph made by confused_clerics on Instagram). Set in a medieval realm of magic and weaponry, these puffle monsters use more “primitive” or “archaic” magic and fighting techniques, but are blessed through Thaylorn, becoming masters of their weapon, with many able to multi-class with different weapons or even wield different weapons at the same time, giving them different stats and divinities in which the spirit of the weapon resonates and enhances the fighter.

Ishtara: Based on the Brewers of Magic Energy from inter.galactica on Instagram. In this world, magic energy is brewed into a purple liquid that flows freely in this world. However, these puffle monsters have mastered Ishan Alchemy, a branch of alchemy that utilizes the purple liquid (also known as Ishara) and through alchemy techniques, fuse it with other elemental and magical energies or items around them to create utilizable magic items or spells. For example, some alchemists can use the Ishara and fuse it with metal elemental energy and other stones or items around them to create a new metal with magic properties. This new metal then takes the form of a physical rune that is formed from the crystallized Ishara, where this rune can create more of itself and freely create items of the metal such as weapons or other items. Other alchemists or users of Ishara can combine Ishara with flame element energies to create a fire rune, which gives them flame abilities and spells empowered by Ishara. These crystallized runes are used throughout their civilization as demonstrations to the creativity and innovative nature of their society, with different cultures and regions specializing in different runes due to the different elements and natural surroundings where the Ishara flow.

Atlazara/Atlazaran: These ancient ancestors of the Xenithians known as the Atlazaran Archomons represented the Primordial Element of Fire and were the strongest and ruling group among the Archomons. Known as the masters of creation, sorcery, and energy manipulation, these ancient beings heralded the powers of energy manipulation, resulting in the magic powers of fire, lightning, heat, light, and mana manipulation (which gave them the abilities to skillfully wield other magic elements from the other clans and strengthening them). Also represented by the red to reddish orange hues, these puffle monsters have elements of fiery reds and orange on themselves and throughout their region and civilization. Later on, a group of them evolved to become the Fire protomons, which later became the puffles, and so on and so forth. However, this ancient clan continued to survive through the ages hidden away in their realm unevolved biologically, but evolved in terms of their powers, technology, and magic abilities.

Monkhani: Based on the Mongolian Expansion: The Rise of the Mongolian Empire in a parallel universe from inter.galactica on Instagram. These ancient ancestors of the Xenithians known as the Monkhani Archomons represented the Primordial Element of Earth and the Orange to Yellowish hues of color. Known as the masters of craftsmanship, development, forging, and trading, this great empire of alien beings mastered elements of Earth, stone, rock, sand, crystals, minerals, and even the chemistry within the minerals and crystals, able to create new crystals or shape them into powerful items or weapons. They not only became masters of weapon and item creation but they also became skilled traders and business folk as they expanded their empire and knowledge across the realm. Later on, a group of them would evolve into the earth/stone protomons, which would later become earth type puffles, and so on and so forth. However, this ancient clan would survive and continue improving through the ages, evolving and developing their technology and techniques to outmatch the Xenithians

Druvidians: These ancient ancestors of the Xenithians known as the Druvidian Archomons represented the Primordial Element of Wood and the Yellow to Green hues of color. Known as masters of nature on land, such as agriculture, the countless diversity and types of plants, fruits, vegetables, countless trees, and land fauna and the animals. These ancient beings lived in perfect harmony with the spirits of nature and the creations that the spirits of nature would make from their imagination. The Druvidians not only were creators of creatures but also tamers and masters of different animal styles and skills, bestial instincts, and able to use powers from the animals but also the plants around them. These ancient beings live in a vast paradise of endless varieties of plants and animals untouched by industrial technology but intertwined with a unique magic technology that the spirits of nature created themselves. A group of them would later evolve into the plant protomons, and eventually into the modern nature type Xenithians, but this clan would grow and develop into the powerful guardians of nature hidden within the universe of the Archomons.

Arivadrian: These ancient ancestors of the Xenithians known as the Arivadrian Archomons represented the Primordial Element of Water and the Greenish/Teal to Indigo hues of color. Known as the masters of nature of the sea, such as sea agriculture, the variety and diversity of corals and sea plants, as well as the countless fauna and marine life that exist in the depths of the waves. These ancient beings live in perfect harmony under the vast oceans of the Archomon universe with the spirits of marine life imagining and creating new marine life and technologies that can advance their civilizations and worlds. A group of them would later evolve into the water protomons, and eventually into the modern water type Xenithians, but this clan would grow and develop into the powerful aquatic beings hidden away beneath the waves of the Archomon universe.

Cahlaernath: These ancient ancestors of the Xenithians known as the Cahlaernath Archomons represented the Primordial Element of Metal and Sky and the Indigo to Magenta/Purple/Pink hues of color. Known as masters of nature of the skies (all winged creatures) as well as of metal and magic technology, these ancient beings are one of the more technologically advanced beings among the 5 clans of the Archomons as they developed homes for themselves in the skies and on the mountain tops touching the clouds, able to create beautiful floating metal cities and islands as well as great starships and skyships above the clouds that travel from region to region to learn and trade in order to improve on their technologies but to also better the realms of the universe. A group of them would later evolve into the metal protomons and air protomons, and later into the respective metal type and air type Xenithians, but this clan would grow and evolve into a powerful sky-faring civilization with technological prowess that is considered unrivaled even in Xenithian standards.

Edis Origis: The God species that was created first by Xenithia's Idea and the <Origin Point> of creation in the history of the World of Edis. This great species hides away in an alternate dimension parallel to the World of Edis in order to watch and create the descendent species of Edis and the varieties that came to exist. These deities have a composition/complexion akin to the Aasimar (based on DnD race) but with a shining gleam (more pearly vs sparkly)

Malketh Origis: Very similar to the Edis Origis, this god species was created first by Xenithia's Idea and is the <Origin Point> of creation in the history of the World of Malketh. This great species resides in an alternate parallel dimension to the Malketh universe as they order and develop powers and new evolutions of the Malketh species. Their complexion is similar to the Aasimar (from DnD) but they are more sparkly in terms of the stars of creation within them while also emitting a flaming glow of aura around them

Zadrans: Long ago, one evolution took place many years ago during the rainbow rain, a separate evolution altogether, as the rainbow rain actually didn't hit them. These puffles had been traveling through alternate dimensions (in the Dimension Tower from World 10 in Quail Run) so they had missed the rainbow rain. However, a mysterious evolution took place instead, as through their travels, the magic energy from the countless worlds they explored and expanded their influence, gathering representatives with their homeworlds linked to them, changed, gaining small arms and legs and giving them the ability to wield weapons and look different, more like Meta Knight (from Kirby). In this world, they are ruled by the Chief known as Kyser (designed basically a flaming Meta Knight with Red, Gold, and White). These newly evolved puffles (not creatures but different) wield great magic and weapons similar to the Xenithians of today as they evolved their culture and amassed new wealths of knowledge through their travels, creating a universe for themselves that arrived in discovery of the Xenithverse.

The Ones of Light (Adrestia): Long ago, before there were colors or the elements of creation, there was only two, light and darkness. From Xenithia's Idea came two Archomons, Adrestia and Achlys, the one of light and the one of darkness. Adrestia, representing the color white and gold and the primordial element of pure light, desired for her realm to be filled with light and peace, but after creating her realm, realized it was lonely with just her and Achlys, so she created children to care for. Atlas (Atlazar), Gengi (Monkhani), Dru (Druvidians), Adria (Arivadrians), and Caela (Cahlaernath) (from oldest to youngest). Each founded a nation and realm where their creations and ideas lived, kind of like a bedroom, their own personal space. Adrestia took care of her children until they grew up to lead their own worlds and split off their worlds from their mother. With this, Adrestia ruled her nation alone, until Redison discovered her following the discovery of the other 5 ancient nations, and was able to bring her family together again. The ones of light (Adrestians) live in this shining realm and act as protectors and bringers of order and law.

The Ones of Darkness (Achlys): Long ago, from light and darkness, came two Archomons, Adrestia and Achlys. Achlys, the one of darkness, lived with Adrestia, who at one point saw him as an equal and companion. However, when she began creating her children and caring for them, Achlys realized he would be lonely once more, and he couldn't be a father, he had no idea how to. He hid away in the shadows and created his realm of darkness where he could rest but also learn more about how to be a father. However, wanting to sow the seeds of discord was a strange voice, a voice that told him how he could get control of the kids, leading to him sowing the seeds of chaos among the family until the kids decided to leave Adrestia, but he also began to sow more seeds of chaos as they would begin to fight and wage war. Redison had discovered this plot of destruction after finding that it was his own loneliness and dark energy that created a dark voice in his head telling him these things. Through the powers of Adrestia and with Achlys' help, he was able to erase the voice within and trained him to be a good father to the rest of the children. He now cares for the new children of Adrestia in the Shining Shadow realm (a fusion of both Adrestia's and his realm).

Zerenos: Based on my very first drawing of puffles in 1st grade which were smaller colored circles with dots for eyes, a smile, and scribbled hair. These descendents of the Archomon evolved separately from the protomons and elementals, as they wielded completely different abilities through the powers of drawing. Based on the Animator Vs Animation series and the powers of each of the stickman figures, these powerful puffles each have their own <Creator Tool> which made from their core, allows them to draw, create new items or weapons, or even draw themselves to have a stronger form or give themselves powers. Some are able to freeze time (Pause and play), others are able to manipulate space and color. These creatures live in an infinite new space that my old "Coupon book" once represented as that was where these puffle drawings were first made on (also based on the Outernet from the AvA series).

Avonori: Based on my second drawing of puffles in 1st grade when I learned to make them bigger, with hairs that appeared more outward (less hair but more defined and spread out) and with a circle and dot inside the circle as eyes. These beings were born as descendents of the Archomon that evolved separately from the Zerenos, Protomons, and Elementals. While the protomons wielded fantastical magic abilities, the Elementals masters of pure elements, and the Zerenos masters of creation and modification through drawing, these creatures are known to be masters of imagining and creation through writing, creating stories and mythologies that empowers themselves but also creates more of their species. Live in the world of Avonor (the expanded universe from the book "Pirates of the Pufflebean" which was obviously based on Pirates of the Caribbean.

Tellu'un: These ancient magic beings live on the <Imaginary Tree> and the realm where the Imaginary Tree grows and where other Imaginary Trees grow high above the Sea of Quantas. These beings manage the health of the trees and the infinite worlds created by these trees and the collective imagination of the inhabitants of the worlds born from the trees. Ruled by their High Archa known as Kysser: Based on The Second Coming (from Animator Vs Animation) and Endymion, The mighty master of magic. Born as a drawing I made digitally shaped like a puffle for my "Xenithverse Website" and the latest of my own drawings of puffles and that fused with Shobe's drawing of Redison (the plush riding a cloud). Born with a creative spirit and born from the <Imaginary Tree>, he resides in the realm of the Tellu'un and acts as the High Archa ruling over the vast number of protectors that imagine, write, and create worlds that become Imaginary Trees. These powerful beings all have the <Imaginary Type>, a power type that is only exclusive to these beings as beings from the realm beyond the Xenithverse. Based on the Imaginary Tree from Honkai Impact 3rd.

The Imaginary Tree: a powerful ancient dimensional construct said to be the origin of life, all universes, and bubble worlds, with time flowing through the trunk and the branches into an infinity of worlds, with each branch a form of civilization, with every bud their past and present, and each twig a world line and each leaf a universe. Said to be older than the Star Tree as the progenitor of the star trees and the Realm of the Heavens where the star trees that hold the worlds and stars that birth the puffles and puffle monsters. The collective imagination of all things come from the breath of this tree. What many don't know is that there is an ancient civilization of celestial beings that live in cities on the tree (like treetop cities from fantasy worlds) and manage the health of the tree and the infinite worlds from the tree. Based on the Imaginary Tree from Honkai Impact 3rd.

Sea of Quantas: An endlessly vast sea where bubble universes (such as the Xenithverse) reside and where the very first Imaginary Tree and all subsequent Imaginary Trees were birthed from. This endless space of magical energy has a mysterious destructive power that decays and destroys realms that may fall into them, but it was later found out that these worlds are not actually being decayed but being absorbed to become a world stored in this Archive of all worlds and universes. Based on the Sea of Quanta from Honkai Impact 3rd.

Sirris: These mysterious alien beings hold the powerful <Quantas Type> which gives them powers over the countless data stored in the Sea of Quantas that they reside in. Depending on their speciality in experience or combat style, they are able to summon powers from the worlds stored in the Sea of Quantas and fuse them to create unique abilities, weapons, and attacks that they save in their personal library. Kind of like an inventory of items from Minecraft, but in this case, this inventory is infinitely vast and contains manifestations of the customized creations they made. They live within the Sea of Quantas in civilizations akin to Mermaids, with vast empires under the Sea of Quantas built around the countless bubble universes that had fallen into the Sea of Quantas following the end of their cycle of life (where in reality, their universe had met their end, but is then reborn in an "afterlife", which is the Sea of Quantas). Based on the Sea of Quanta from Honkai Impact 3rd.

Panxaian: Long ago (back in Winnipeg), when Redison had his base (made of the foam blocks I made him in 1st grade), he began researching for his ancient origins and the species that created the puffles to evolution. While he didn't get super far, he did complete a system using the powers of the <Power Stones> (the polished stones I collected when I was younger that gave holders different powers depending on the stone when I was in 1st grade), and developed an imagined system of ancient puffles. However, because he was missing some data on their DNA, he inputted his own, creating a replica of himself that would be infused with the ancestral

Proto-Power he created. Unfortunately, when the base fell, his research and project vanished without a trace. Many years later, it was revealed through PROTO-Redison, who came to Vancouver in search of his creator, that not long after the fall of the base (when Redison went to Phoenix with me), the system completed and created him. However, as he was alone, he traveled the realm around Winnipeg and Ecole Riverbend, growing his power until he evolved into his ultimate form <Daijyuten Maou> (Supreme Ten Heavens Demon Lord) (Based on Godsech Type The End from Battle Spirits). With this ultimate power, he was able to travel through time and realities, going back in time to the primitive Earth and discovering the ancient magic on Earth, and the raw power of the dinosaurs, and by taking the data of both the ancient unrefined elemental powers and the unrivaled dinosaur powers, he combined this with the PROTO-System (taking the magic of a modern puffle type, and reconstructing an ancestral form based on data from the past), creating new PROTO-puffles of each element and power combined with ancestral information of creatures or elements (such as combining the powers of Dinosaurs, prehistoric plants, paleozoic fauna, and even Marine reptiles). With this, he created a paradise (known as Panxaia) for these new Proto-puffles to live in and refine their powers but also develop their own civilization and develop their own stories and imagination in order to create new Proto-puffles through the PROTO-System. Based on Proto-Languages (reconstructions of an ancestor of a language). For example, a PROTO-Blue puffle could have Mosasaur powers and Water powers, OR Pteranodon and Air powers, etc. (Dinosaur powers based on Ryusoulger).

Xima: Based on the Greek X (Chi) and the Lego Legends of Chima. When I was younger (around 2nd or 3rd grade), I was really invested in the Lego Legends of Chima, where anthropomorphic animals lived and used powers from Chi, this magical liquid that powered everything from their technology but also themselves, boosting their powers and animal abilities. In later seasons there was an introduction of the Phoenixes and the Fire Chi. When I made my room a world, I imagined my room had a version of Mount Cavora (the floating mountain that symbolizes the Lego Legend of Chima series) where the puffles would live and explore. In this universe, the creatures lived in an endlessly expanded version of the Chima world I made in my room, except the evolved magic transformed the creatures into a new form, with each taking an anthropomorphic form, and with this anthropomorphic form, created a civilization to fit this new change and their new skills and abilities, especially new technology and weapons and a culture to represent this new power. They are able to wield powerful abilities but also call upon different types of Xhi energy which vary depending on the elemental energies that were infused in the Xhi at the time. This gives them different elemental abilities or boosts their current powers and skills to unleash unique abilities and super attacks. World design also based on the Wyldness (from the Lego Ninjago series, which ties back to Legends of Chima, as Chima was found to be a floating island itself above a massive world below, where in this case, the original realm the puffles and creatures lived in was really a floating island above a giant endlessly vast landscape of various realms of magic and nature.

Supreme Heavens (Old entry, March 2023, miscounted): Warriors of the <Pillar of the Supreme Heavens), the warriors of elemental Qi and the powers of the Chinese Zodiac Dragon and the Western constellation Draco (originally), but expanded to the fusion of all Zodiacs from all sides of the world (Asian Zodiac, Asian Elements (Qi), Western Horoscopes and Constellations, and Mayan/Olmec/Aztec, and First Nations Deities.. Influenced by the Asian Center near the Nitobe Memorial garden as well as the Astronomy events such as the Green Comet, Moon Viewing, Orion Nebula, etc. These astral warriors use the fusions of countless constellations, zodiac signs and symbols, and other cosmic entities to use in special spells and combat abilities. These puffle monsters live in a realm in which these fused entities became their own deities or symbols and cultures changed around those deities.

Divine Vision (Old Entry, March 2023, miscounted): The warriors of the <Pillar of the Divine Vision>, influenced by the faculty of arts and the Festival Dionysia I'm going to and watch Anica and Isabel. Based on the design of Vale Keeper of the Wind (from Mobile Legends), they use special abilities that allow them to create <Divine Scenes> which allow them to manipulate their surroundings, changing their <Roles> into different forms (each warrior has a basic set of roles which change abilities, design, and color scheme depending on the <Divine Scene> they create or are in. Their <Roles> are based on the different classes from D&D, which give them different forms such as their Fighter forms, Rogue forms, Wizard forms, Ranger forms, etc) (similar to Rozalsky's Masquerade ability). Other scenes they create/simulate can also become attacks such as <Celestial Descension> or <Reign of Swordfire>, or act as buffs such as <Battlefield of War Heroes> and <Forest of Avalon>.

Xeraxi: In this universe, the Xexals evolved into a Humanoid form with their powers and heritage represented by their different color and aura. Based on the designs of the Barian (from Yugioh ZEXAL) and the Gundalian (from Bakugan: Gundalian Invaders), these powerful beings evolved into the Xeraxi, a group that found a way to evolve their magic and bodies to better utilize their magic and weapon techniques to the maximum by reshaping their bodies. By obtaining the Xerxe Constitution (or Xerxe Body), their stats are now 10x times higher than their past Xexal form but also they are able to learn constitution arts (or Body Arts) that allow them to strengthen their body and forge it to be as unbreakable as diamond or as strong as a giant. Based on the Wuxia Manhuas "Demonic/Magic Emperor" and "The Ancient Sovereign of Eternity".

Eridran: Based on the designs of Astral and the other denizens of the Astral World (from Yugioh ZEXAL) as well as based on Source Dragons and their powers and symbols (Motion, Strength, Life, and Energy) from Ninjago Dragons Rising (and the Rising Dragon technique), and based on Forbidden Spinjitzu (the colored flame). These extremely powerful beings have evolved their elemental power to the greatest heights, to the point of beyond conceptual understanding, evolving to develop their powers according to the concepts of the universe and reality in order to evolve their elemental art. These beings evolve and gain strength through the powers of <Rank Force> (based on Chaos and/or lack thereof from Yugioh ZEXAL) which Ranks them up or Ranks them down, and provides them different abilities depending on their Rank and their Elemental Arts that each Rank can power. For example, a flame Eridran of Rank 3 can create flames from anything and manipulate the flames to fight for them, while a flame Eridran of Rank 7 would be able to create new kinds of flames that are stronger than the flames of Rank 3 Eridran, or are sentient flames that can even be Rank 2 or stronger.

Zyraniel: Based on <Big Bang of the Last Element> (A creation of my friend Neil (the ability below is basically the description above)). These mysterious beings are hidden in <The Root>, a place (based on the Root superuser account in Linux) where their powers are harnessing a sort of force like gravity (Known as the FINAL ELEMENT) that doesn't physically exist but holds properties engraved into the fabric of the root of the universe to override any space and overpowered ability with one higher than that. When harnessed, it trumps all, every last rule and order that was created including spaces that don't interact with time because it was the last (I think he meant first) and oldest rule in the list of oldest rules. The ultimate power that helped create the stronghold of all things (The rest of existence and all other powers and abilities). If this ability is ever tampered with to be destroyed or overwritten or anything to change it, it will destroy the rule and all existence, and revert back to itself (END OF HIS DESCRIPTION). This power is by far the strongest and these beings are one of the strongest beings in existence, but can be negated by the Reverse/Nega types (due to their ability as the power to negate everything). This power is essentially the powers of a god, that with control over this force, you can not only make yourself stronger than anything in existence always, but you can make anything and everything around you "higher" in power. This "higher" form can represent anything ideal, meaning a "higher" form can also be a "lower form" (an ideal opponent would be an opponent with a "Lower form"). However, it was under a strange power under <XENITHIAS LAW> that they are unable to fight other beings for territory or for any means except for fun (like battles of the mind or simulation, like a sport).

Vykra'am: I had a best friend in Quail Run named Victor, and while I didn't give him a puffle (or none that I remember), I gave him one later on as the Silver Victory, the very first silver puffle (of mine) with an undetermined power due to Silver not having any color correlation to an element at the time. As the first puffle with an undetermined power, his abilities were limitless, as he developed in a way that followed his avatar. With that story, Vykra'am was the very first that had mastered the technique of <The Path>, a different form of evolution that followed the life of either a certain legendary figure, or your partner. Being given the limitless abilities of the path they follow, these puffle monsters are codependent on their partners but have evolved to develop their own paths for others to follow with them reaching the levels of divinities. Because of this divine power and the power of their bond with their partner or the one of their path, they can reach a new power and unlock abilities that rival most Xenithians.

Chapter 15: RE:VENGE APOCALYPSE : The end of an era has come, as my second year is coming to a close. I already had my interviews for both Jump Start and Future Global Leaders and have yet to hear back from either. My finals are now coming with this week being my final week to study for all. In the Xenithverse, Redison meets ghosts of his past but also begins the war against RE:GOD's League of Villains to stop them from taking over the Xenithverse. (Part 1 - Zenith Spiritalis and Xenithia's Heir): Redison VS The Mastermind, Redison Zenith Spiritalis, the creation and champion of William from the realm of the Human Race as Zenith Spiritalis (the 6th Root Race Supreme) and while the battle was relatively tricky (the exam was pretty tough), Redison was able to defeat his opponent, but using a power that was saved for emergencies. Not long before the battle, a mysterious hooded figure appeared and gave him a box, and said to use it only for emergencies as it can help him defeat any undefeatable enemy in front of him, but might cost him his life. During the battle, Redison used the box, which awakened a power within him, a secret power hidden within him by Xenithia, The Mark. It activated a vision: Long ago, Xenithia was alone, and created magic as an experimental form of nature to surpass herself in the future in the hopes of creating others like herself to keep her company. Each of the Core Natures of the magics of Xenithia are based on an attribute of ideas I had when creating the puffles, puffle monsters, etc. Her very first creation was The First Magic known as <Nylri> (the very first power, with the core nature known as "Dust") which negates any power it comes into contact with and transforms the battle into who has more "Dust" (magic energy in total), redefining the battle. Xenithia was satisfied with her creation and let it grow, like how a gardener will leave their plant to grow a bit while tending to it. Xenithia would then create more magics, with her last magic being The Tenth Magic, Xenith (Redison's magic: the core nature being the power of energy manipulation and fusion), until she went to sleep after using much of her powers. Before she slept, she told her other 9 creations of a promise, that once the 10th child is of age, the 10 Heirs of Xenithia will meet and determine who will become the next deity that takes Xenithia's place as the supreme Origin Point of creation. Finishing the vision, Redison was face to face with the champion of Nylri, Nyeil, the 1st Heir of Xenithia. Nyeil told him that the power of the box was pure Nylri, a power that according to Xenithia's Law was considered forbidden as the rule stated, "All different magic creations of mine cannot mix in other domains unless by the true heir" but would work temporarily as the other 9 believed Redison was the remaining heir as the others were unable to use the powers of the others. Redison was successfully able to use the power, and given that he had significantly more <Dust (substance in stories, magic, stats, etc)>, he defeated the remaining warriors through the ultimate power he created by the fusion of his Tenth Magic and the First Magic, creating the <Supreme Heavenly Xenithia Sovereign Asura, Decadic God Arts> which gave him the power to fuse his and Nyeil's god art into one. This however temporarily knocked him out and sealed him in another realm... (Part 2 - Starbreaker): Redison awoke in the realm known as the Nylrivera, a realm home to the First Magic domain where Nyeil rules over. Nyeil stated that because of his power usage of the Nylri for his first time, the power surge likely sent him to the Nylrivera to stabilize his power and overall condition. He rested while his body absorbed the Nylri to develop his constitution to support both powers, until he was notified of a new problem, Zaniah (once a member of the ZODIAC) had evolved and returned with the powers of Daevakron (the star devourer) and the powers of HOROSCOPE and ZODIAC and threatened the Xenithverse with the power to devour stories. With this, Redison found a way to teleport back to the Xenithverse, with Nyeil joining him. With this, he was met with Redison Zyriad, a version of Redison from the Mixed World that Zaniah had seduced and brainwashed to fight Redison. With this, the 2 fought Redison and Nyeil. Redison and Nyeil were successful in neutralizing Redison Zyriad, and the sheer power of the Dual God Art destroyed Zaniah (or so we think…) (Part 3 - The Root of Infinity (Ego Trees and The 9th Magic)): After the battle against Zaniah, Redison needed the rest…until he heard about the Ego trees that had begun to tear apart the campus, to which he needed to swing into action. Boy was his opponent giant, a giant living tree as tall as the tallest skyscraper with moving roots that moved at the command of Supreme King, Gerif. While his Dual God Arts were successful in slashing his countless branches and roots, he was easily overwhelmed. Both he and Nyeil were overwhelmed (since everytime Redison uses Dual God Arts, it summons Nyeil). Just as they were about to be torn limb from limb, time froze as both were teleported to a strange place of endless darkness. Before them sat a figure sitting lazily on a throne, he introduced himself as Muzan. Nyeil introduced him as the 9th Heir of Xenithia, the one right before Redison, as Xenithia had created the <Muzani> power (their core nature being the power of Infinity such as Infinite Strength, Infinite magic power, Infinite health, Infinite defense, speed, etc). Muzan however evolved himself to such a point and as the champion and Xenithia's Heir, he developed the power to make any quality or property Infinity, such as the powers of Infinite Dust (making him equal to Nyeil and Redison), while Nyeil would've been able to defeat Muzan in the past, Muzan evolved himself to fight toe to toe. Muzan challenged Redison to see if he is truly worthy of inheriting his Ninth Magic, to which they had a great battle. Redison was overwhelmed at first, even barely losing when Muzan trapped both Nyeil and he in an Infinite Darkness, but Redison and Nyeil were able to escape with the help of the abilities of Iczul (the power to jump the story or break the 4th wall temporarily), which allowed him to escape. The ability impressed Muzan so much that he gave him the Ninth Magic, The Root of Infinity, a power that gave him the Ninth Magic. Redison now has 3 out of the 10 magics Xenithia created. With this power, Redison was able to defeat Gerif and change him into Zerif as the new ruler and progenitor of this new race of puffle monsters. (Part 4 - Dawn of The End (RE:GOD VS Redison)) The battle began as Redison challenged RE:GOD who stood before him on his throne, evolved by the powers of destruction, and claiming himself as the new god that will become the next Origin Point of the universe, fought Redison. It was revealed that through the machinations of RE:GOD's scheme through the League of Villains, that he was able to evolve himself and his powers to create the <11th Magic: Regod>, the core nature being Destruction. However, this 11th Magic was strong enough to defeat Redison who had already unlocked the powers of the 3 of the 10 magics of Xenithia. As he struggled, Nyeil and Muzan Zeldein summoned the remaining <Heirs of Xenithia> who agreed to help Redison under the condition following the defeat of RE:GOD, he would visit them and earn their powers by his own power. With this, Redison evolved temporarily into the Supreme Heavenly Xenithian Asura, Crown Redison, which gave him absolute power through the fusion of all 10 powers (Infinite Dust (1st magic), Infinite Parallel Rides (2nd Magic), Infinite Imagery energy (3rd magic), Infinite Fighting Spirit (4th Magic), Infinite Ensemble combinations (5th Magic), Infinite Brave/Interpretation (Coat of Arms) (6th Magic), Infinite Soul Ki/Achievements (7th Magic), Infinite Flag Power (8th Magic), the Infinite boost of all the powers above (9th magic), and the supreme fusion and harmonization of all powers (10th Magic). With that power, he was able to defeat RE:GOD, where in the blast, he fell and was destroyed, with his dark side disappeared, but a pure side of him now the ruler and <Heir of Xenithia> as the master of the 11th Magic of Regod. (Epilogue): The aftermath has been Redison fulfilling his promise as he traveled to the worlds of each Heir of Xenithia in order to challenge and master their magic in order to fully unlock their power through their acknowledgement.

Ahll/Abraxi: Beings from the World of Ahll (All) who learned the powers of <Absolute Law>, holding the powers of the Great Being Abrax. Each of them have a unique <Absolute Law> they hold depending on the divine power they collected and their inner core and experiences. Examples of <Absolute Law> are <Law of Rebellion: Overthrow> (When two extremely powerful conditions are against each other, such as a sword that can cut through anything and a body that is unbreakable, the user of <Overthrow> will have the priority, so in the case of the sword, the sword can slide through the now breakable body), <Law of Creation: Overwrite> (The ability to create anything you see fit or change the properties of something no matter how it was originally created, but can be overruled or Overthrown), <Law of Destruction: Overkill> (the ability to destroy anything, even anything unkillable or unbreakable (can be Overthrown, the property of object can be Overwritten, or the ability could be overruled), <Law of Order: Overrule> (the ability to overrule any ability or skill depending on the turn, can't be overthrown, but can negate an Overthrow), and many others. Long ago, they were ruled by REGOD, until Redison challenged REGOD to a duel for the realm (the LING 100 Presentation). In this battle, Redison was relatively successful as he had not only mastered and equipped himself with the powers of each of the <Absolute Laws> but also evolved himself through the powers of the Zyraniel to unlock a new power, the Xenyrathian power (a power fusing his nature as the <Heir of Xenithia> and Zyraniel, combined with the powers of the Absolute Laws of Abraxi)

Barohdiun: Based on the designs of Phantom Dharak and the powers of Necrozma and his ability to absorb Solgaleo and Lunala to give them a black crystalline armor and take control of them. After the fall of Korona Solace (The Crown Pillar) last year, he set up his own deity pillars and warriors under him after being forgiven by the <Sovereign Asura>, but had plans to dethrone the Sovereign Asura once more. With this, he got the help of Devesh and Daeva (his partner) to evolve him and his soldiers with their high tech magic weaponry. However, Devesh and Daeva betrayed Korona Solace and used their new technology and armor (which evolved them) to brainwash and control the new warriors and deities to rule the world under Devesh and Daeva. Korona Solace was able to break free of the brainwash and called for help, and even though the Sovereign Asura knew of Solace's plan for betrayal again, he sent Redison to help him out. Through a battle with Redison, Redison forgave him and empowered him through a new title, Korona Solamon Barohdiune (Solomon) (Based on Kamen Rider Solomon). Through this new power, Solamon and Redison fought Devesh and Borohdian Daeva and was able to save many deities and supreme warriors now empowered and evolved by the technology of Daeva, and transformed their technology to make their own, into Barohdiun technology (a newly evolved form of the magic technology that utilizes the unique strengths of the deities and warriors that use them). These puffle monster deities live in a new realm evolved by this new Barohdiun technology and are ruled by Solamon who is now a redeemed ruler and a new pillar with the Sovereign Asura (as Redison found a way to evolve the technology to eliminate hatred and darkness within them).

Panxen Xenitheon: Born as a manifestation of all monsters, all worlds, all creations of Xenithia's Idea. A power equal to Xenithia herself as the child created by all powers and auras of Xenithia's creations. Having seeked out Redison (as the Heir of Xenithia and the Xenith), he challenged him to a duel, to which after 100 duels, both Redison and Xenitheon had tied, each and every time. Redison noticed there were many similarities, Redison himself, wielding his ultimate weapon and manifestation of Xenithia within him, The Xenith, and Xenitheon wielding The Panxen, a powerful weapon he created from himself as the manifestation of all abilities, spells, and attacks that all puffle monsters and creations of Xenithia have. Xenitheon had arrived to challenge Redison to the ultimate battle, but only to find that he saw himself in him, as if they were twins. With that, Xenitheon joined Redison, with Xenitheon becoming the avatar of Willord (my Whale keychain on my backpack) as his form changed to become similar to Zyuoh Whale (from Zyuohgers) with his supreme aura as a giant whale as large as Xenithia herself. With this supreme power, he created a realm as he divided his power to create new life to care for as he created puffle monsters to wield this power, as manifestations of a combination of abilities, magic energies, concepts, and techniques that make them a uniquely created race of puffle monsters with a similar nature and power to Xenitheon himself, and able to wield their own <Panxen> (their ultimate core weapon that represents the core of their being and the concepts within them).

Zafniel: Born from the ideas of Neil (my close friend) after I asked him to create an avatar for himself in the Xenithverse since I tell him a lot about this monster book. Ruled by Zafneil, a uniquely teal colored puffle monster, reclusive candlemaker and candle lighter, and keeper of <The Teal Flame>, an undying flame that controls over time but also powers his unique ability <Absolute Victory>, A modification of Neil's creation (Big Bang of the Last Element). This is the correct understanding of the Big Bang of the Last Element, which is that when the spell is activated, you will always be stronger than your opponent, always, no ifs, ands or buts. Zafneil himself also has the unique ability to create and expand a magical pocket dimension known as the <Teal Domain> (based on the technique of Domain Expansion) as well as the unique ability of time control (through his Teal Flame). All those born in the Teal Domain have a small Teal Heartflame within them, which empowers their magic but also gives them the unique abilities of Domain Expansion and creation, as well as limited Time Control abilities, with many training to reach the highest peak of their Teal Heartflame, the art of <Absolute Victory> which can only be achieved through complete creation and development of their Domain and understanding of their abilities.

Starbeings/Sirui: Based on the Star-beings from inter.galactica on Instagram. Residents of Sirius, they travel using starships and stargates and have a mysterious complexion as shapeshifters and transcendent beings of magic. Ruled by their Supreme Ekipha, Dimentio (Devin's puffle), these celestial beings traveled the universes with Sirius as their home star, and gathering civilizations into their heavenly empire of magic. These beings have unique technologies that utilize cosmic power in a form like mana and energy, but also they are wielders of the countless types of mana and energies from the infinite universes and star systems under their Astral Empire.

Rakshazan: Ruled by Ruler (Amar's character) of an alternate universe where she was not part of Valhella but continued to rule and grow her empire with warriors as powerful as gods. In this world, Ruler made a contract with Marika, the flaming tyrannical empress of the Rakshaza, a race of leonid humanoid creatures with powerful innate magic abilities and weapon mastery. However, as the Rakshaza are from an extinct dimension, they have been wandering as spirits for the longest time, so through the contract, Ruler created them artificial bodies (puffle monster bodies) for them to inhabit. In this story, Redison is teleported to this realm and hides his power as he went on an exploratory mission in order to learn the powers of the realm and defeat Ruler faster. However, he was caught by Regulus, one of the elite guards of the Empress and Ruler, who was about to eliminate Redison until he was scared into submission by Redison's aura (which revealed XENITH), but also through fusing with Redison, discovered the powers he had and that with this, he could dethrone the tyrannical empress once and for all. As Redison fought Rakshazan after Rakshazan, he gained manys' support with Regulus becoming the next emperor, Regulus Lionheart. Following Redison's victory against Marika, Regulus became the next Lionheart, and allied with the Xenithverse, as Redison purified and evolved new bodies for the Rakshaza to inhabit and develop. These Rakshaza have bestial and magic abilities that make them unrivaled in unique styles of combat.

Zifir: Based on the Checkpoint beings (from Neil) and the spell <Existence Zero> (also from Neil). Existence Zero is a spell that can be casted that places all particles of yourself in a space bordering whether it exists or not so once you reach that place, it will seem like normal but deemed nonexistent to the universe and upon using the spell, it will make it seem in all senses of time and abilities that they never existed. The checkpoint beings are reviewers of all phases a soul has been through, reading the data collected in a soul since it can be composed of infinite data and they see whether the emotions balance out and send it in a certain path in order to either evolve or go to the afterlife. In the Xenithverse, the Zifir act as Checkpoint Beings, the guides of the souls from all throughout the countless universes, but also with the unique ability of <Existence Zero>, as they live as an nonexistent existence, unable to be seen or hurt but with the sole purpose of guiding the souls of those who pass. Redison meets these beings following his power fusion with Xenitheon, as Xenithia shows him one of his tasks as the heir of Xenithia, to make sure the Zifir continue to do their jobs and to eliminate any rogue Zifir as needed. With this, Redison is given the ability <Existence Zero> which evolves with his core to become a new ability that he gave all Zifir, <Zeroth Existence>, a modified ability where in addition to their nonexistent existence, they are able to create an existence (including identity, an artificial soul, a backstory and actual existent history (yes this does tamper with timeline a bit)) in the form of an avatar for them to inhibit, but just as easily erase that existence after any time spent on any world or plane of reality (also able to erase that history/timeline or store it as data to be used). As a traveler of worlds, Redison originally would hide his powers in his bracelet, but now with the <Zeroth Existence> ability, he is able to create a vessel that is nonexistent and existent at the same time. The Zifir are also able to use the powers of soul energy and soul data around them in order to create weapons or manifest magic abilities when it comes to fighting rogue or evil Zifir. (Zifir comes from the Turkish word for Zero: sıfır)

Xenithean: Based on the dream I had about different kamen riders (similar to Kamen Rider Zero One) bearing the name <Xenith> such as Xenith Flame, Xenith Storm, etc. Also based on my research of the countless colors and different versions of Red, Blue, etc and based on Hero Factory. Ruled by Xenith Emperor with Xenith Chaser (Speeda Demon now evolved and working under Redison as a spy against REGOD) as one of the Clan Chiefs of the Viridian Speed Clan. Their unique ability is that as Xenitheans, they hold the power of the <Living Xenith>, an ability in which within their core is the manifestation of the living database of spells, runes, magic abilities, lore, symbols, etc for their <Source Element>. A <Source Element> can refer to any number of attributes such as the element of flame and heat, or the power of motion. Each of these <Source Elements> have also been found to be linked to a certain color that empowers or further represents the <Source Element>. For example, Xenith Chaser is the clan chief of the Viridian Speed Clan, a clan that focuses on the abilities of motion as their <Source Element> with Xenith Chaser's specifically as <Speed>. With the powers of their source element within them (the living database of power), it evolves and grows with them as they evolve and grow in their experiences in life, but also can act as a separate living being as the magic within their core can release in the form of living spirits and defend the user or evolve to better serve their user. Partially based on Neil's idea of a super spell that "copies every spell, passive, ability, and all effects and things, stabilizes it, and manages itself in a space of "countering" where no matter what, you can't be defeated (a database of all spells to be used), it takes the spells from the universe and puts it in its database, people can still use those spells but it grants full control over protecting you", except how I interpreted it was that the spells are alive and can defend the spellcaster on their own, releasing from the core like a creature, a power that is alive and can fight alongside you, but also evolve and grow with you. These beings are a separate evolution of Puffles, having evolved under the power of living magic (magic spells, abilities, etc as spirits).

Aza'ari: Long ago, the dragons were the strongest creatures, even stronger than the puffles of the land. However, when the dragons began to go extinct due to the development of the land, transforming it into the current day PVHS (and New Troy in the Xenithverse), the puffle monsters of the land inherited the powers of the dragons through a unique Dragon Soul Transmutation and hid away in the final Dragon Sanctuary hidden in a parallel dimension to New Troy. In this story, The High King Thao found the ruins of the Golden Dragon God Aza'ar, and using forbidden magic, was able to forcefully awaken and transmute the Dragon God into himself, but was only able to maintain the power of the 10 Golden Dragon Souls as opposed to the other 90 he had within him. With this, Aza'ar reached out to Redison, summoning him back to New Troy to defeat Thao (who we later discover found this power due to RE:GOD in his attempt to strengthen his League of Villains). Redison not only mastered the powers of the remaining 90 Dragon God souls, but also learned the Dragon Arts of the other many dragon-descended puffle monsters hidden in the Sanctuary (who use techniques based on the "Rising Dragon" technique from Lego Ninjago Dragons Rising as well as dragon techniques from Kamen Rider Wizard). Once ruled by Thao, The High King Dragon God of New Troy, wielding the powers of the 10 Golden Dragon Souls, but following his defeat by the rebellion of the dragons, he was destroyed and reformed into a new body and avatar for Aza'ar as he rules over a new version of New Troy combined with the Dragon Sanctuary known as Dragaea Illium (leaving New Troy still as the battlefield realm of the PVHS monsters and characters of the students who attend the school, like Shobe). These puffle monsters are masters of unique dragon arts that they inherited from the dragons that once ruled the world, and strengthened these arts through fusing them with ancient techniques of magic but also powerful new technologies.

RE:D/Esperajin: Lord Havok/Hekatrus, Lord Baron (Anti-Redison), AnotherRed, and Killerson, all formed the Crimson Council, a council of past warriors that were created or born to destroy Redison. AnotherRed and Killerson were originally already on Redison's side following their respective battles, but joined the Crimson Council under Redison's request to act as spies but also for the hopes they can develop themselves. Hektarus and Baron developed the CRIMSON system, using crimson powers based on the ancient language Theroxian (from Lego Ninjago Dragons Rising) and Shatterspin (also from Lego Ninjago Dragons Rising), through an artificial language that not only boosted the powers of the warrior thousandfold but granted them armor and special abilities. Based on the artificial language Esperanto (an international auxiliary language). Also based on the many colors and different forms of Red, Blue, etc. Redison fought and defeated Havok and Baron with the help of AnotherRed and Killerson, which led to the sealing of both Havok and Baron in cards (I might use them later for future battles). With this, AnotherRed (now Lord Raijin) and Killerson (Lord Akira), developed the powers of the language of magic known as Esperajin, which created puffle monsters subsequently that lived and thrived through the powers of the language that they used, giving them unique armors, abilities, and even giving them unique magic arts.

Oravis: From Valhella's new empire, these once artificial puffle monsters were developed through the research of Valhella on the power of <Vis> (based on the powers of Vis from Manhwa "Helmut, The Forsaken Child"). By harnessing the power of this divine natural energy of the universe, it gave the puffle monsters forms based on the Iron Overlords (Pokemon Future paradoxes of the "Forces of Nature" quartet (Landorus, Thundurus, Tornadus, and Enamorus) based on the designs from koko_kabuki on Instagram. Redison who entered this world, discovered the powers of Vis and was able to obtain an "Overlord" form (the mastery of Vis) which gave him supreme deity like abilities (with the limitation that the powers can only be held for a limited amount of time depending on how much Vis is within the body and can be wielded). Following Redison's liberation of the artificial puffle monsters and their purification through the deity that once ruled the realm, Oravis Overlord, he was able to recreate the puffle monsters of Vis that once lived under Oravis. These puffle monsters are able to create unique <Overlord> forms and abilities depending on how they use <Vis>, with some able to use variants of <Vis> that can allow them to hold an <Overlord> form for longer or a stronger form.

Xenith Spiritalis: Based on the Sixth Root Race (Homo Spiritalis: Anabiosis Spiritalis, Scientella Spiritalis, Aurora, Ascensus, Vocatus, Illuminatio, Creatio, and Servitus). In this universe, the world split into 8 versions, separated in different dimensions of magic, with all 8 in connection to each other through portals. In this story, I was born in each of the 8 dimensions, and having created 8 different versions of puffle monsters, each based on the root race. The Mastermind originally was defeated last April and banished to another universe where he was rewritten into existence. In this universe, The Mastermind, a scientist and the Redison from the Homo Servitus Spiritalis creators, used his advanced magic to fuse the 8 worlds together into one, the Homo Zenith Spiritalis (the 9th Version) where humans had evolved with a 6th sense and even the chance of awakening to unlock strange cosmic powers (as created from the fusion of the 8 worlds), in which another version of me was born into this universe and created the Xenithverse based on the culture and powers around me as a Homo Zenith Spiritalis. With this, all 9 worlds fused together into one and all 9 Xenithverses fused together as one becoming a super Xenithverse, known as the Xenithverse Spiritalis, now ruled by Redison Zenith Spiritalis of the color NCS Red: #C40234 (The Perfect Natural Color of Red and the Red of the Mind). In this story, RE:GOD contacted him and tempted him to invade our Earth and not only destroy it but reshape it to match his own Earth but with RE:GOD as ruler of this new Xenithverse. Redison and the others fought this Redison and his army of superior puffle monster beings in order to halt the end of this world and work together to defeat RE:GOD instead. In this universe, people had evolved to be able to create things with their mind, to manipulate their reality in a relatively limited but all-powerful manner, to which these puffle monsters were created based on this reality in which I myself had this power and was able to create puffle monsters that wielded magic powers like me or the imaginative powers of creation. These puffle monsters are the ones ruled by Redison Zenith Spiritalis and the ones that descended onto the Xenithverse under the orders of Redison Zenith Spiritalis in an attempt to conquer the Xenithverse. (PHIL 220 Final)

STARBREAK/Zydrinant: Ruled by a Redison with the color Pantone Red/Imperial Red #ED2839 known as Redison Zyriad who has mastered the art of <Infinity Manifestation>, the manifestation of aura, magic energy, soul, qi, spirit, etc (an entire being) into a form of magic, either a weapon, a magic construct, etc. A more simplified mastery of magic, combining all diverse forms into one physical super form that perfectly represents their fighting style, experiences, everything about them, their entire being taking the form of their magic manifestation, whether it be a blade that can wield magic, or a spear that can destroy all magic, or wings that can fly faster than light. Based on the Manhwa “The Main Characters That Only I Know”, the abilities of the Teller (a guide that creates stories for the higher spirits to enjoy), the personal library of a Teller and the stories of the characters from all worlds, the books above the heads of people (some unique books too with great powers), and the histories based on the dungeons (with each world being a reflection of a past time but the characters being just as real) through The Mixed World (Where concepts and mythologies and stories can take form). Through <Infinity Manifestation>, they unleash the unique powers of <Stories>, a story within their library that grants them unrivaled and infinite power that is unique to them as they wrote the story themselves, OR using the power of a well-known story that they unlocked through their experiences. Using these stories give them unique items, abilities, skills, and even special forms that their <Infinity Manifestation> takes form of in battle. In this case, the powers of their <Story> will manifest through their <Infinity Manifestation>. For Imperial Red Redison, his <Infinity Manifestation> calls from his story <Infinite Sword Sage>, his experience as a master of creating and wielding hundreds of swords all at once (Based on the original Lord of Sabres, Keisetsu of the Sword Arts (from Buddyfight X) who’s deck name was Lord of Sabers). In this story, following the battle against Redison Zenith Spiritalis, Redison is relatively wounded and weakened. With this, Zaniah (Alonsa’s character) was given the powers of HOROSCOPE, ZODIAC, and Daevakron the devourer, with the powers of the Star Devourer and the power to devour and absorb stories. It became the battle of stories, as Zaniah was driven by RE:GOD to destroy all stories and make them all her own to make her the most powerful being, but with the promise that she defeats Redison and devours all his stories and the stories of the Xenithverse. (EOSC 116 Final)

Griphoseig/Vaalka’an: Based on the Root Races of humans (Polarian, Hyperborean, Lemurian, Atlantean, Aryan, etc), the Dragon Tree of Decimation Griphoseig has return after growing in countless worlds and creating a universal empire as the developer of the Root Races in this universe (while the Xenithians are categorized through the evolution tree and are actual species following true evolution (the biological following of how humans evolved), there is a following and belief of the Root Races of humanity (kind of like the stages of our evolution)). Ruled by Supreme King Gerif, the Progenitor (Manu) of the 7th Root Race (with the other 6 Root Races representing a parallel to the evolution from Archomon, Protomon, Puffle, Creature, Monster, Puffle Monster to Xenithians) as the new evolution of Griphoseig, in control of the infinite roots and Ego Trees that created the countless Root Races in other worlds in this universe and the beings powered by the Ego Trees. Also based on the Supreme King Gate Infinity and Supreme King Gate Zero (from Yugioh ARC-V). Following the defeat of Supreme King, Gerif, he was purified as Supreme King, Zerifa, a being based on Redison with the color Munsell Red: #FF0042 (a color close to the “Perfect Red”). (PSYC 101 Final)

Nylrivim: Magic doesn’t exist in this universe, mana is not a concept, qi is not a concept, none of these ideas exist and therefore don’t work, but <Nylri> works, an energy derived from nothing but dust. The first magic created by Xenithia in her attempts to create the first life to become divinities like herself. Ruled by the 1st Heir of Xenithia, Nyeil, a powerful warrior that like Redison is a great benevolent leader with a fun side who enjoys dad jokes, comedy movies, and a good time. These powerful puffle monsters are masters of <Nylri>, a special magic energy that is essentially the version of Mana or Qi in this universe. Each magic energy created by Xenithia has a special Core Nature which defines the unique property of the magic energy, where the Core Nature of the Nylri is Creation (the idea of how I created these puffle monsters). <Nylri> is able to be used to make spells, weapons, enchantments, and power special abilities and skills, but has the core ability of <Dust> (Dust is the concept of Creation, the substance, matter in them, and the magic energies, stories, abilities, stats, etc all combined into one number that represents the amount of creation within them). Their unique ability is they are able to negate any abilities and transform the duel into a number game of who has more <Dust>.

Zeldienir: Ruled by Muzan Zeldein, A lazy warrior who despite his unlimited and god-like powers of Infinity, he would rather take a nap or just lay on his throne and play phone games all day or read manhwas or mangas. These mysterious and powerful beings were created by the 9th Magic, <Zeldien>, a power with the Core nature of Infinity (based on the Limitless from Jujutsu Kaisen (an anime Neil is really into), and based on the idea of when I was really obsessed with the idea and concept of Infinity and Infinite power), an endless power that grants them the unique power to boost their powers infinitely but only 3 stats and/or abilities (except Zeldein, who can boost all of his stats and abilities infinitely). These puffle monsters live within the <Limitless realm>: a realm created by Xenithia as her 9th creation, but upon finishing it, realized it was one of her most perfect creations and couldn’t be further improved, deciding to complete it early. The limitless realm is a vast realm of space with countless planets and galaxies that each of these beings rule over with their infinite powers, and raising new alien puffle monsters that inherited the powers of <Zeldien> combined with the cosmic energies around them and the nature of their home worlds.

Argyri: Based on the design of Argyros (a warforged cleric Aasimar created by sygdom on Instagram and the new version of RE:GOD). Following the defeat of RE:GOD in the realm of Ahll, RE:GOD was able to inhabit a new world to take over, a universe where after he tempted Redison Zenith Spiritalis to attack the Xenithverse, it created 2 outcomes, the outcome where I pass my final (PHIL 220) and the Xenith Spiritalis joins the Xenithverse, OR an outcome where I fail the final and the Xenithverse is destroyed and reshaped by Redison Zenith Spiritalis, who was betrayed by RE:GOD immediately after the reshaping with RE:GOD reshaping the rest into his perfect image and reshaping Earth to match this power and further evolve his Xenithverse. Following the past fights, Redison gathers his new forces (Xenith Spiritalis, Griphinx, STARBREAK, etc) to take RE:GOD down once and for all (PSYC 102 Final). These powerful puffle monsters would inherit the powers of the 11th Magic (created by RE:GOD through the high magic powers of these destructive puffle monsters) known as Regod, with its Core nature of Destruction (how these powers can be destructive in nature), a power with the ability to destroy anything by breaking it down into its very roots and concepts (which it can then manipulate to either absorb it and gain their powers, destroy it, eliminating their opponent completely, or using the energy as a spell or transforming it into a weapon). This power was later purified by Arygos (a new body and purified version of RE:GOD) as they have the ability that with their blasts of magic, their target will have their Concepts and roots appear outside of them in the form of Regod energy, to which they can take and manipulate into a weapon, absorption, spells, etc (not harming the target). With that, they developed a civilization based on the 11th Magic, with them preparing for the day that RE:GOD will return for his other half (in Arygos).

Ikluvan: Ruled by Eldras (based on Eldrad and Eldran from the Manhwa “Time Slip of the Fist King”), a rainbow warrior king that wields a magic sword and armor created by the unique rainbow mineral Mythril, these powerful puffle monster like beings wield the powers of Brave (based on the keyword “Brave” from Battle Spirits), the unique ability of equipping any color in the form of a weapon, armor, etc and gaining a powerful evolved form from it, and the power of <Coat of Arms>: based on the Coat of arms of a flag, this power represents the infinite representations and interpretations of a color and what it can represent or mean. For example, green can mean plant life and vines, but it can also mean healing, or poison and death, or radioactivity. With this power, they are true masters of the <Ikluva>, the 6th Magic representing the core nature of Colors (how I was and still am sometimes obsessed with colors and the different colors meaning different powers for each puffle/puffle monster, etc), where in this realm, Xenithia took every color born from creation and created materials such as a mineral for each color, a natural liquid for each color, a plant of each color, etc and created a beautiful realm overflowing with color for these beings to live in and master the powers and develop infinite interpretations of their color and abilities.

Eigramur: Ruled by the Wandering Scholar, Ramses, these powerful puffle monster like beings wield the powers of Imagery (based on the Qi abilities (like the dragon forming) from Kung Fu Panda 3 and the Spirit warriors and colored auras from Power Rangers Jungle Fury), through the powers of <Eigra> (their version of magic) the Third Magic of Xenithia with the Core Nature of Imagination (how it takes imagination to create these puffle monsters). The powers of Imagery gives these puffle monsters the ability to create powerful manifestations of their imagination from the <Eigra> or imaginative potential energy around them and through their own imagination as well as their aura and unique energies within them, they are able to shape the <Eigra> around them into powerful manifestations of their imagination, whether it takes the form of a giant dragon, or a pillow golem, or a giant hand with 3 eyes, etc. These puffle monsters live in a realm created by the imagination of Ramses (the 3rd Heir of Xenithia) where the power of <Eigra> is vast and endless, allowing these puffle monsters to create infinitely, create their own homes, worlds, and even other puffle monsters like them to inherit their powers or variations of their powers.

Aivinel: Ruled by Alvin, The Operator of Parallel worlds (based on the The 2nd magic from Type Moon known as Zelretch or Kaleidoscope (the domain being The operation of parallel worlds), these powerful puffle monsters wield the powers of Parallel Ride (based on how "riding" works in Cardfight! Vanguard! Where the soul of the card user can possess or "Ride" a monster on Planet Cray), a power that can call upon alternate versions of themselves from parallel worlds, universes, and timelines, but also the unique ability of fusing with them to transform into an evolution form based on the powers of that parallel form, but also the ability to combine many parallel forms into one super form to fight alongside with them or fuse with them to unleash an extremely powerful super fusion. For example, Alvin is able to summon a version of himself from an era of swordsmen, a version of himself as a gunslinger, and a version of himself as a mage, and all 3 of them can fight with Alvin, or he can combine the swordsman form and mage into a magic swordsman version of himself (creating a new parallel universe) or the mage and gunslinger (a magic gunslinger) or all 3 or even all 3 and himself into a supreme form. This is through the powers of <Aivin>, The 2nd Magic of Xenithia with the core nature of Parallels (how I would also imagine a "What If" a parallel universe or other world where I made a different decision and became different because of it). With this, these puffle monsters live in a realm where <Aivin> rules and these puffle monsters developed their civilizations and technology with the powers of their infinite parallel versions of themselves. (100th Species)

Braklidim: Ruled by the Battle King, Barak, the 4th Heir of Xenithia, these powerful puffle monster beings wield the powers of Touconi (Great Fighting Spirit) where the fighting spirit of a warrior can manifest and transform into a super weapon and armor with unique abilities, attacks, etc. This fighting spirit energy can manifest through the 4th Magic of Xenithia <Baras> the core Nature of Battle (based on how puffle monsters were made for battles in Elementary school kind of like Pokemon), a power that represents their version of magic, mana, etc. In this universe, these warriors all have a great fighting spirit (Touconi) within their hearts, which manifest through their desires and evolve through their actions and experiences. With this, they can manifest their Touconi into any form imaginable which gives them empowered fighting styles and unique abilities that makes their opponents quiver in their boots. These puffle monsters live in a realm dominated by the Battle King himself, where gladiator battles (no, no one actually dies) are the ultimate entertainment and the way big decisions are made, as strength and fighting spirit is what determines their power and status in the realm. All decisions are made through duels, but what's interesting is that not all power is determined from birth, with many rising the ranks through training their powers.

Rokir: Ruled by Grandmaster Roku Zyr, The 5th Heir of Xenithia, and the master of the 5th Magic of Xenithia, <Aroken>, The Core Nature of Elemental Powers (based on how I gave puffles powers based on elemental abilities from Avatar The Last Airbender), these powerful puffle monster beings wield the powers of Ensemble, a special magic technique unique to these beings with their ability to combine magic spells and abilities together in the right pattern or combination to unleash powerful super abilities or spells that can either symbolize them based on their experiences and skills as an elementalist or powerful super spells born from the harmony of the elemental energies in each spell. Based on the concept of Ensemble from the Manhwa “Ex and Ash”, these puffle monsters each wield different elemental abilities created from <Aroken> energies combined with their core aura (representing their experiences, soul, personality, etc), able to create their own skills and abilities (most of the time common abilities but some are unique powers and skills). These puffle monsters live in an elemental realm dominated by the <Aroken> energies where the elements take a similar yet different form from the elements on Earth under the Xenith energies.

Yldilim: Ruled by Yve Eltal, the queen of souls and the 7th Heir of Xenithia, and the master of the 7th Magic of Xenithia, <Yldr> (The Core Nature of Soul: representing when I really into the unique nature of a puffle monster/puffle by their soul/spirit/persona/etc), these powerful puffle monster beings wield the power of Soul Ki (based on the Achievement system from games and from the many manhuas I’ve read, where each achievement can give a special ability to the user). Throughout their lives, they obtain different kinds of achievements represented by <Soul Ki> which gives them a unique ability, stats, or a buff that boosts their skills and abilities through their lives and in battle. The amount of <Soul Ki> is infinite, with many different achievements as common achievements (first dance, first word, first spell, first fight, etc to others such as achieving grandmaster, battle king, a certain position in the military, or winning an award from a certain competition, etc). These achievements then combine into unique abilities and powers that make these warriors of <Yldr> a force to be reckoned with, with some gaining abilities and natures such as invulnerability to certain kinds of attacks or poisons, etc. Their realm is a parallel to Earth, and how we humans strive for “Achievements” in our own lives.

Zytech: Ruled by Giovani Zeta, the mad genius engineer that developed a brand new artificial super puffle monster with completely brand new artificial DNA that looks similar to Redison but not quite, distinguishable enough to actually be considered a brand new species, but this DNA is made of artificial molecules, basically the DNA was all man-made in this case, each individual part was engineered by Giovani, with the rest of the DNA able to create special nanobots that can develop and utilize magic energy, powered by the mind of the being that would develop the body and evolve Redison Z2 (his newest creation and first of this set of beings). Redison Z2 (Based on Kamen Rider Eden and his nanobot control and regeneration ability as he is completely made of nanobots) is able to generate an artificial magic through the nanobots as he is able to not only make himself extremely fast, strong, and indestructible, but also resistant to most magic, he is also able to use spells and abilities generated by the power of the Nanobots within him. Following the success of Redison Z2, he finished creating his ultimate power source, <Origin Zeta G>, an artificial Perfect Core (the power that powered the mana and Xenith energy on Earth long ago, but is now within Redison and now Mana and Xenith energy flows freely like air, with or without the Perfect Core), that empowers himself and his creations. These artificial puffle monsters have a crystalline quality to them and are able to manipulate the magic nanobots with themselves to transform into their ultimate form <Origin Breaker> (based on Gemclone from Buddyfight)

Avrar: Ruled by Avis, the Traveller, and the 8th Heir of Xenithia, and master of the <Avra>, the The 8th magic of Xenithia with the Core Nature of Atlas (based on how every time I would travel to a new area or a place not in Phoenix, there would be a new unique set of puffles/puffle monsters with unique characteristics, elements, etc based on the nature and the experiences I had while I was in that area), these powerful puffle monster beings wield the power of the <Great Flag>, an ability that not only represents their home realm, but a power they are able to call upon. Upon placing their <Flag> on the field, any puffle monster on the field that hails from the realm the flag represents gains a unique boost of powers that makes them overpowered compared to any puffle monsters on the field (almost as if they have the home court advantage). These puffle monsters magic is ten times stronger than any other puffle monsters magic as their magic is considered the "dominant" magic when used in the sphere of influence of the <Flag>. For example, a puffle monster from Hawaii can call upon their <Flag> and that puffle monster and all other Hawaiian puffle monsters on the field will get increased health and boosted attack and speed. Live in a realm that parallels the cultures of Earth, except in this case, all cultures are open and alive (there is no dead culture, so even cultures from the far far past are alive and well) with puffle monsters representing their cultures.

May: Another Beginning

- ### Story Arcs
    - #### Chapter 16: Dawn of Xenithia
    - #### Chapter 17: Festival of the Gods
        - ##### Part 2: REGOD's Revenge I: Spellplague

Chapter 16: Dawn of Xenithia : I came back to Phoenix for a small vacation before my summer term of class at UBC. On my way there, I thought about how it has been 2 years since I went to UBC instead of anywhere else like ASU or UofA or GCU. I look back and think about my friends in the past who went there instead of me and how they are doing compared to me. Is it just my lack of ambition? Am I truly just stupid? My average GPA is a 76%, that kinda sucks if you think about it. I'm too ashamed around my classmates some days so I tend to avoid the subject about my GPA. It kinda sucks. In the meantime, following Redison's evolution as the <Heir of Xenithia> and champion of the <10 Magics of Xenithia>, strange dimensional rifts begin appearing as alternate Redisons appear to challenge Redison to determine the superior path Redison went down (ASU Redison VS GCU Redison VS UofA Redison VS UBC Redison). In addition,  it is revealed that Xenithia cycles through creation and hibernation, with 3 cycles of creations, and a champion of each cycle. Each cycle of creation, Xenithia has a theme to her creations. For the Xenithians (Redison and the other 9 heirs), it was the types/concept of magic. The other 2 themes were discovered to be the different types of <Supreme Paragon Creatures> and the <Forms of Time Cycling>. Redison is met with these new faces in order to establish who is the supreme warrior and the True <Heir of Xenithia> as it was found that in each cycle of creation, Xenithia made one champion from one of her many creations to be her heir. Each of these creations are revealed as Redisons begin to appear once more, starting with Redison X, a future incarnation of Redison where after thousands of missions, Redison III passed on and reincarnated into Redison IV and so on and so forth. Redison X as the perfected form of Redison mastered the power to summon the other past incarnations of Redison. With that, as they had already reached the Max level, they had been given a new goal, to become a unique force that would be fit to become kings themselves. Following the discovery of the past cycles of Xenithia and her creations, Redison was challenged by the other 2 True Heirs of Xenithia for a final battle, Redison VS Redison X VS Redison Zillion. Redison defeated the other 2 through combining the magics from all groups and was successful in becoming the new Xenithia (now symbolized with a rainbow Infinity X).

Maurune (Oghma): Based on the color Mauve (the fusion of Red and Purple) and Maroon (a dark shade of Red). This is based on the idea of how when I went to UBC, I developed new species and a new evolutionary tree that charted the puffle monsters' evolution into their form as Xenithians and even further as Xenithian Spiritalis in other worlds connected to the current Xenithverse Prime. In this universe, instead of the Xenithians and the evolutionary tree today, I developed new puffle monster evolutions and past ancestry that parallels the Archomons, Edis, Malketh, etc based on the 12 Divinities (from many of the Manhwa I've read such as "The Dark Magician Transmigrates after 66,666 Years") and how the Xenithians of this universe represent the 13th Divinity (with Redison as their Divine Champion known as Garacun). Based on their more religious background as opposed to the other universities (but also because GCU is a christian university). The Maurune Oghma species represent the Divinity of Creation and Magic. There are other divinities as well, 12 others specifically, as in this universe, Xenithia (this universe's version of Xenithia) was the 13th Divinity.

- Divinity of Flames and War/Battle: Maurune Pyros: Evolved with enhanced damage resistance, courage, and fighting spirit. Evolves into many species of military prowess and great power.
- Divinity of the Seas and Lakes: Maurune Poma: Evolved with enhanced control over the water and ice. Evolves into many species of sea life and sailing
- Divinity of Plant life and Agriculture: Maurune Demera: Evolved with affinity to the soil and nature, able to grow plant life with magic. Evolves into many species from elven rangers to magic farmers.
- Divinity of Light and Order: Maurune Ekais: Evolved with a sixth sense of truth and looking at the heart and soul, as well as mastery over light elements. Evolves into many species of knights, paladins, and judges
- DIvinity of the Skies and Storms: Maurune Reklir: Evolved with the power of flight, control of lightning and wind. Evolves into many species of wind-riders and winged beings
- Divinity of Time and Fate: Maurune Xias: Evolved with the powers of time and control over destiny. Evolves into many species of oracles and time travelers
- Divinity of Love and Marriage: Maurune Keren: Evolved with the power of sensing romantic connections and sparking romantic interests in those they see fit

- Divinity of Shadow and Death: Maurune Kalesis: Evolved with great stealth and control over shadows. Evolves into many species of rogues, ninjas, assassins, etc
- Divinity of the Land and Stone: Maurune Garis: Evolved with great strength and durability, able to lift a mountain and as tough as a diamond. Evolves into many species of mountain dwelling beings
- Divinity of Knowledge and Wisdom: Maurune Iphin: Evolved with an extremely high intelligence and ability to learn and develop. Evolves into many species of scholars, sorcerers, wizards, etc
- Divinity of Music and Arts: Maurune Itar: Evolved with a talent for music and/or arts, with power over colors and harmonies. Evolves into many species of artists, both musical and visual.
- Divinity of the Stars and Cosmos: Maurune Iznir: Evolved with the power of the stars, stardust flowing through their blood, and power to summon cosmic energies. Evolves into many species of alien warriors and beings of the stars

Spellbane/Zokan: A destroyer of all spells and master of arcane magic with the power to destroy all other magic besides itself, the ultimate form of magic weaponized to negate and destroy living and non-living magic, celestial and non-celestial, and all others alike. Ruled by a Redison of the color #ED0A3F (the Crayola Red) known as Redison Zokan, a spear master capable of creating a spear made of pure Zokanian Magic that is imbued with his ability to absorb and utilize/copy. These powerful puffle monsters wield this destructive power as a defense system against those who use magic and fantastical magic like abilities for evil.

Archomentals: Ruled by Redison IV, The Heir of Flames, these powerful beings are known to be celestial paragons and rulers of the strongest elementals of existence. In their world, Xenithians aren't the dominating species of the universe, but the beings known as the Archomentals, a creation of Xenithia from a past cycle. Following his summoning by Redison X and his mission to find his calling, he discovered the realm of the Archomentals and learned their ancient culture and elemental magic powers as he learned the concept of not grasping infinity but wrapping infinity around him and letting it flow through him to unleash unlimited elemental power through all archomentals. Redison IV wields a unique flame swordsmanship similar to Rengoku Kyojuro from Demon Slayer, but also a similar flaming cape power like Kamen Rider Fire Gotchard Daybreak.

Aasimon: Ruled by Redison V, the Heir of Legends, these powerful celestial beings are based on the Aasimon from DnD, celestial angel like beings that embody virtues of pure goodness, justice, compassion, etc and serve deities or powerful entities. They tend to be humanoid in form with radiant auras, luminous wings, and with other celestial features. These Aasimon are an alternate creation of Xenithians created by Xenithia in the <Cycle of Paragons> where they wield great magic similar to the Xenithians but are more celestial in nature (with auras, with wings, etc) and in a realm of a more celestial nature. Redison V rules as Winged Saber, a winged warrior with a design akin to Genesis from Elsword.

Vestroians: Ruled by Redison VI, the Heir of Unity, who rules over the Vestroian Star System, where each color lived on a planet (which was home to a clan) and that these puffle monsters were at war with each other. Based on the concept of Bakugan (Gen 3), these puffle monsters are more bestial in nature (based on how I based puffle battles off of Bakugan and that most had a “ball” form in the past that users can throw to summon). However, what makes these beings different from the others are the unique connection to their Core (which takes their ball shape) which holds their untapped hidden potential and all the power they can grow and develop to evolve endlessly as the core acts as a seed of a new Planet Vestroia that they can call upon and grow within them to unleash stronger abilities as they unite with their planet core within them.

Guardinals: Ruled by Redison VII, the Heir of Elysium, these powerful beast like beings gained the powers of the Xenithverse through Redison VII, in addition to their already “celestial” powers as the protectors and representatives of nature and the defenders and hunters against evil powers. These special guardinals hold the ability of puffle monster magic (elemental magic and other cosmic abilities), as well as the ability to transform into a puffle form (similar to the Puffle Creatures from Club Penguin) but hold their same bestial features. Created as a species of supreme being by Xenithia, they have similarities to the many bestial puffle monsters and creatures of the Xenithverse, however, the difference is that instead of Xenithians, they are the supreme dominant species of their universe.

Eladrins/Eladrinites: Ruled by Redison VIII, the Heir of Arborea, these powerful elven beings hold celestial abilities similar to the Xenithians of the highest level but also have the unique ability to wield mana and magic in its purest form as that is the magic energy that flows through Arborea, their home realm of magic where emotion and nature take the most wild form. These beings live similar to elves, in perfect harmony with the magic nature around them as special magic energy through starlight fuse with nature and the natural energy of their surroundings to create a unique celestial environment for them. Many of these beings are known to have luminous eyes, shimmering skin, and flowing garments made of starlight. These different puffle monsters wield different starlight energies from their core aura and the celestial energies from their surroundings (from the Arboreal nature around them), which gives them unique elemental abilities and spells

Archonites: Ruled by an alternate version of Redison (my Redison) known as Redison I (going by Archson), the Heir of the Archons (from the universe of Redison X where he created the other 9 forms of his past iterations and gave them the mission to develop their powers to become rulers of their own realms), these powerful celestial beings serve as champions of the virtues of lawfulness and righteousness and are defenders of cosmic order. They resemble majestic warriors or regal figures clan in armor and wielding divine weapons (like the Hound Archons, the Sword Archons, Warden Archons, and Trumpet Archons). These alternate versions of the Xenithians except created by Xenithia in a previous cycle of creation, wield powers that parallel the Xenithians since the Xenithians are celestial alien beings that are also champions of pure virtues and justice and wield divine (magic) abilities and are classified into different groups depending on their powers. These beings live in a realm that parallels the Xenithverse as well, a realm where these warriors reside and also live their own lives when they are not defending the universe from evil.

Arca: Ruled by an alternate version of Redison II/Arcason, the Heir of Arcadia, these powerful ethereal beings shimmer with a glow of the rays of a star as they are the embodiments of the Light of Arcadia, a pristine realm of natural splendor and perfected nature and peace. This gives them the powers to harness the primal forces of creation and commune with the spirits of nature through their ancient light. Each Arcan has their own unique <Light> which has unique properties, some Arcan Lights can be used to heal, others can be used to reveal the truth, others can be used to create worlds, others able to control the elements. These celestial beings of light live in the realm of Arcadia, a realm that could resemble the Xenithverse, but can be more considered heavenly as these lands are adorned with radiant flora, liquid light rivers and waterfalls and crystalline spires of a million colors.

Githzenith: Ruled by an alternate version of Redison III/Zeraison, Heir of the Zenithar, these beings (based on the Githzerai and the Planetars from DnD) are a powerful celestial race of unparalleled strength, mana, and wisdom, as they embody the union of mind, spirit, mortal, and divine in their quest to uphold the light and truth of the universe. Created by Xenithia in a past cycle of creation, she created them to be relatively similar to the Arca and Archonites, but created them to be more mortal in nature, as the others are more celestial in nature. These beings do die and have an afterlife as spirits, with many able to master <Soul Evolution> and able to form a new body as they are masters of mana and magic, able to manipulate magic and divine mana to the point of divinity. These beings live in a realm very very similar to Earth, a parallel to their mortal standing, but on this Earth, their celestial magic and influence developed the civilizations of Earth into a more Utopian nature.

Asurans: In this universe, I had gone to ASU, and in here, Redison evolved down a path that changed the Xenithverse and himself forever. A new evolution that would surpass all Xenithians known as Asurans. They are ruled over by the new form and king of the Asurans, Azerus (the evolution of Redison instead of Xenith). This is based on the idea of how when I went to UBC, I developed new species and a new evolutionary tree that charted the puffle monsters' evolution into their form as Xenithians and even further as Xenithian Spiritalis in other worlds connected to the current Xenithverse Prime. In this universe, instead of the Xenithians and the evolutionary tree today, I developed new puffle monster evolutions and past ancestry that parallels the Archomons, Edis, Malketh, etc, but in this universe, there is an evolved species that evolved from the Xenithians, fusing the powers of all other ancestry into one Over-evolved form known as the Asurans. Similar to the world in UBC, there are different colleges such as the Ira Fulton school of Engineering, or the W.P. Carey School of Business, or Herberger Institute of the Arts. In this universe, there are different clans and civilizations of puffle monsters under each “college” but all bow down under the Barrett (Honors College). Based on the free-flowing and what seems to be easy switching curriculum of majors. In this universe, these “Over-evolved” puffle monsters hold a great power known as <Asuran Sun> which gives them the ability to manipulate the heat and rays of the sun with their mana to compress the mana and burst it into a flame that flows through their body and charges their power to an extreme form that allows them to create multiple arms (hence their “Asuran” nature) made of the flowing flaming energy within them. The colors and powers of these flames differ based on the nature of the puffle monster core. These puffle monsters live in a realm with the home base at my dorm in ASU (in this universe) and live around the ASU Tempe Campus.

Onikami: Ruled by Redison IX, The heir of shadows, these powerful warriors live and fight by the code of the Onikami (based on the fighting style of Kamen Rider Hibiki and the Hashira from Demon Slayer). In this universe, these beings take forms similar to the Xenithians, but were treated and represented as the Oni (akin to Ogres or monsters). When Xenithia created their species, she realized that they were a perfect species of magic, had it not been for their treatment by the humans as monsters and demons. Known for the great magic and mana capacity, they are masters of powerful magic and weapons that can shake the earth and change the fabrics of reality under the power of Redison IX who gave them the powers of puffle monster magic, evolving them into an even stronger force and giving them a “God-like” status (Kami means God in Japanese). These beings live in a realm similar to the Xenithverse but more influenced by Japanese culture (as if the Japanese spread across the world).

Celestian Paragons: Ruled by Redison X, the 10th reincarnation of Redison, and known as “The Perfected Redison” after many many reincarnations (1 to 9), he is the ruler and hero king of the Celestian Paragons of Mount Celestia (based on the Celestial Paragons of Mount Celestia from DnD). Here, each of the Paragons are categorized into one of the Ten Heavens, with each of the Paragons masters of their unique elements and magic abilities as celestials hailing from one of the 10 heavens. Each of the 10 heavens are unique, with Chronias as the ruling heaven at the top of the Cosmic Mount Celestia (since it’s not really a real mountain but more like how each Heaven is a layer on a mountain with Chronias at the top, Lunia, at the bottom, and the rest going upward). The 10 heavens described below are ordered from the bottom of the Mountain to the Top.

- Lunia, the Silver Heaven
- Mercuria, the Golden Heaven
- Venya, the Pearly Heaven
- Galaea, the Verdant Heaven
- Solania, the Electrum Heaven
- Mertion, the Platinum Heaven
- Satreya, the Cloudy Heaven
- Jovar, the Glittering Heaven of Gems
- Uravan, the Dreamy Heaven
- Chronias, the Illuminated Heaven

Arizems: In this universe, I had gone to UofA, and in here, Redison had evolved down a path that changed the Xenithverse and himself forever. They are ruled over by the new form and king of the Arizems, Arizus (the evolution of Redison, instead of the current Xenith). This is based on the idea of how when I went to UBC, I developed new species and a new evolutionary tree that charted the puffle monsters' evolution into their form as Xenithians and even further as Xenithian Spiritalis in other worlds connected to the current Xenithverse Prime. In this universe, instead of the Xenithians and the evolutionary tree today, I developed new puffle monster evolutions and past ancestry that parallels the Archomons, Edis, Malketh, etc, but in this universe, there is an evolved species that evolved from the Xenithians, fusing the powers of all other ancestry into one Over-evolved form known as the Arizems. Similar to UBC, there are 21 colleges, each with their own student culture, where in the Xenithverse, they would have developed into individual puffle monster civilizations with abilities and unique characteristics. There is also an honors college I likely would have been a part of as well. In this case, I imagine that the evolutionary tree of puffles grew with there being 21 different branches on this evolutionary tree and the Xenithians actually as the Origin point (So the tree would grow with Protomons -> Puffles -> Creatures -> Monsters -> Xexals -> Puffle Monsters -> Xenithians -> (21 Branches of power)). These powerful beings have abilities based on the colors, symbols, and experiences that exist from the different faculties/colleges. No clan/species is stronger than the other, but through many years, it has reached to the point of a champion (their strongest) for each species.

Akris: Ruled by Redison LXXXI (81), who hails from a universe where after Redison became the 50th and final hero, the hero system would continue to evolve him after every 50th mission, becoming the 81st Hero (Iteration). His design is based on Kamen Rider Legendary Legend from Kamen Rider Gotchard. Each hero and puffle monsters under that hero hailed under a certain symbol (or Flag) that gave them great power as the representatives of that “Flag” as unique representations of a unique magic or supernatural or natural power. The power of the heroes (in this universe) is the power of <Legendary Mode> which gives them the supreme power of calling upon the powers of past heroes and/or the powers from past “Hero Generations” (puffle monsters from the generation of that hero). The puffle monsters of other hero generations are also able to call upon powers of other puffle monsters from other hero generations depending on their understanding of the others’ powers and abilities (which take the form of a card or rune) which they can equip or use to transform or fuse their powers together to unleash a new power. Created by Xenithia in a past cycle of creation, she created these beings similar to puffle monsters except with a different time cycle.

Ziirin: In EOSC 116, I learned about the Panspermia theory, in which life was actually planted by some alien beings through comets and meteorites falling down to Earth. These powerful cosmic beings of the far future are ruled by Redison Zillion. In this universe, Redison reiterates in each year of time (as his lifetime is one year in this set of universes), but in this case, he hails from an alien world far away where time ran similar to Earth, meaning he is actually even older than the Earth itself, but billions and billions of years older due to his many many past lives on those planets as well. In this universe, a great cosmic empire in the far future has been established through the powers of <ZILLION DESIGN>, a power that allows them to create any ideal world, form, etc, how reality is a sandbox for them, giving them the ability to travel through realms, create an infinite number of universes that each run on their own timeline, and spread out to create infinite more worlds and timelines, and play with each of these worlds and the inhabitants of the worlds to their content. However, with great power comes great responsibility. Under Redison Zillion, these beings are watched and monitored so as any evil or destruction they cause on the worlds are not of malevolent but benevolent thoughts and intentions. This power was created through the fusion of the countless alien worlds that Redison Zillion ventured through and was born as a hero king for. Based on Kamen Rider Ziin, Kamen Rider Gazer, and the other Kamen Riders from the future and DGP admin from Kamen Rider Geats. The final creation of Xenithia in this cycle of creation (the time cycle theme).

Lunes: Ruled by Redison 25,034, a warrior from a universe where time is measured where one lunar cycle is actually one year, meaning the current year is actually the year 25,034 (or the 25,034th Moon), where each year is considered a lifetime for Redison as he reincarnates into a new form and retains his powers he collected through his past lives. In this particular universe that Xenithia created in a past cycle, these powerful beings are similar to Xenithians except they are classified through their “Moon type”. Instead of saying one is a fire type, it would be they are of the “Flaming Moon” or another one could be of the “Burning Moon” or maybe the “Scorched Moon” and all 3 of these Moons are actually different, giving completely different powers. In each lifetime, Redison was one of those “Moon Types” meaning he is now the master of 25,034 Moon Types and the Apex of each Moon Type. These powerful beings live in a realm ruled by the lunar calendar, where the moon is worshiped as the supreme deity and not the sun (in some cultures). Another creation of Xenithia in her cycle of creation based on time cycles.

Qhalen: Ruled by Redison the 19th, who hails from a universe where Redison evolves as I age (making this his 19th iteration), where his powers are fully linked with mine. In this universe, he discovered that we made a linked pact, where I am him, and he is I (I am you, and you are me, partners forever), which means that despite his near immortal status, if I die, he dies with me, unless he found a way to gain immortal status as a story character. In this case, he created a video game that people all over the world could play and made it that VR goggles were the only way they could play this game. In this case, each player was given a random unique <Core> which determines their main experience as well as their items, powers, and puffle monster allies they work with, developing new powers for the Xenithverse through this extension of the Xenithverse as a video game. However, with a new universe and place for people to be, people developed evil powers and began wreaking havoc on the universe. When I played this game, it wouldn’t work as I unusually was unable to create more puffle monsters, I created a new one known as Qhalen, a warrior that was as powerful as Redison himself, to which Redison 19 and Qhalen fused after I made the pact with Redison to fight with him again. The powers he gained through each year of my life (and each of his lifetimes) gave him unique abilities that he gathered known as <Ages> which gave him a unique super ability that would allow him to combine the powers of each <Age> or evolve the powers of the <Age> depending on his choice. He gave this power to all puffle monsters in this new universe, where depending on their players and how long they would be with their players, they would gain <Ages> and the powers to use them. Another creation of Xenithia in her cycle of creation based on time cycles.

Eion: Ruled by Redison 12,024, who hails from a universe where each year of the human era (according to Kurzgesagt), was considered one lifetime of Redison, and he reincarnated stronger and stronger as he retained the powers he had, obtained, and developed in each past life, to his current lifetime now for the year 2024 (or 12,024). In this universe, Redison, having learned about each culture since the dawn of humanity in each of his lifetimes, developed the realm of Eionas, the utopia of all human cultures and the human era, as all puffle monsters of this realm represent the infinite aspects of human cultures and civilizations since the first peoples on Earth. By combining the countless cultures and technologies of each civilization, great technologies were developed and powers were created that exceed most puffle monsters based on individual cultures of Earth. Created by Xenithia in a past cycle of creation based on the theme of time cycles.

Aesis: Ruled by Redison the 13th (Redison of the Supreme Xenith), who hails from a universe where every year in time the plushy ages, Redison passes on and “respawns” or Returns (as a returner) holding the powers from each of his past lives. In this universe, Redison is 13 years old (the plushy is) meaning he is on his 13th iteration and will pass on to his 14th iteration next February 13th. Based on the “Autodeity” Geargod (Geargod 99 and Geargod Complete) as well as the powers of the flag “Infinity the Chaos” from Buddyfight X, this version of Redison who had lived many lives as a great wizard, swordmaster, and warrior king had lived many lives, 12 lives to be exact, having seen the end of the world 12 times, 12 different ways the world ended, and in each life, Redison attempted to strengthen the puffle monsters of his world in order to prevent the end. However, in each lifetime, it would fail and the world would end a different way. With this, Redison developed the “God Matrix”, a power that would upgrade the puffle monsters and himself in each world in order to start stronger and develop their powers further. In this universe, the puffle monsters of his 13th lifetime are actually the strongest “Upgraded” forms they have ever been, making them able to stop the past 12 ends of the worlds and ready to prevent any more ends. Created by Xenithia in a past cycle of creation based on the theme of time cycles.

Ohrris: Ruled by Redison 4 Billion, a version of Redison who hails from a universe where he each year is one lifetime and he reincarnated and retained the powers he had obtained and developed in each past life, to his current life time in the year 2024 but is as old as the Earth, having began his life when the Earth first formed during the Hadean Era. In each year as the Earth formed and developed and life formed, Redison learned magic and created a realm for these beings to live in as Xenithia created them with Redison during this cycle of creation based on her theme of time cycles. In each lifetime, he created a realm based on the nature of the magic of the puffle monsters of this realm and the elements of the realm in development plus some imagination of a magic society. So for example, the realms of the Hadean Era would be primarily built with lava and flames in mind in their structures but there were still many many diverse civilizations based on the magic fusion of the puffle monsters and the developing elements of the Earth. During the ice ages, civilizations would change and new ones would be created. During the age of the dinosaurs, you had more puffle monsters that would inherit the powers of the dinosaurs and creatures of the Earth as well as those who would tame and ride them. Following each lifetime, Redison would wake up in the next “year” of life and learn the powers of the many civilizations in this lifetime. Eventually through his countless countless lifetimes, he collected the history and powers, a perfect recollection, of each civilization in each of his lifetimes and created a universe in a timeless realm where each civilization can thrive endlessly while learning and developing from the many more civilizations arriving from the many other lifetimes Redison learned.

Xirren: Ruled by The 81st hero (where there is a new hero after 50 missions) known as Sirius Xirren of the Sword Arts. These powerful beings were created by Xenithia in her past cycle of creation themed about different time cycles. Based on the Manhwa "Max level player", these powerful beings evolved to wield 2 forms of magic, internal arts and external arts. Internal arts involve the flow of mana and qi (or any other forms of magic energy) within their body in order to either heal, manage mana circuits, life force and energy transfer, etc. External arts involve techniques that use the mana/qi/etc energies either in their surroundings or internally in order to use powerful spells, attacks, or any other magic techniques that involve using energy flow to affect the outside world. By leveling up in them, one can achieve powerful techniques such as a body that can't be poisoned or any type of damage like it (burns, freeze, paralysis, sleep, etc). Other techniques involve transforming life force into mana, others such as Infinite life force. This new classification of abilities, spells, and techniques creates the new abilities known as <Martial Arts> which they can combine with the magic arts of puffle monsters and unleash extremely powerful super abilities and skills. These beings live in a realm where martial arts and magic are in perfect harmony with the elements around them.

Zaloin: Ruled by Redison 2024, who hails from a universe where each year according to the solar calendar was considered one lifetime of Redison, and he reincarnated stronger and stronger as he retained the powers he once had obtained and developed in each past life, with his current iteration as his 2024th one. These powerful beings are born of the “Mixed Realm” (the fusion of the stories and mythologies of Earth) and “Mind Realm” (the imagination of people manifested and coagulated together into one realm) and are all combined together to the “Physical Realm” (the world we currently live in) through the powers of Redison and the Xenithverse, as a new Xenithverse is created, the great Zaloin empire rules under Redison with their philosophy of combining the technologies, techniques, and magics from all 3 realms and combining them into a singular super power. With this, these puffle monster beings are able to use magic techniques and technologies powered by energies from the Mind and Mixed realms and are able to use concepts, stories, and myth powered abilities through their connection with the 3 realms.

Aetris: Ruled by Redison 5786, who hails from a universe where the creation of the world was supposedly in the year 3761 BCE (meaning as of 2024, the world is 5786 years old), and in each year of time is one lifetime of Redison. Based on the Aetherum and the Runefist and runes from Imrtrainer on Instagram. In the first year (3761 BCE), Redison discovered the power of the <First Light>, the breath of life and creation, which created the first deities of the puffle monsters of this universe. These deities began to establish civilizations and realms throughout the world and universe based on their image and ideas. The following lifetime (3760 BCE), Redison awoke to discover how the <First Light> split into 20 runes, each representing a certain power (based on the runes of the runefist from Imrtrainer) after each deity he created specialized into a certain power, creating puffle monsters based on themselves and their powers. As more years followed, those puffle monsters became “deities” to more puffle monsters after they established civilizations and stories creating more and more puffle monsters with more derivatives of the <First Light> as they use special runes representative of their magic, their civilization, their deity, their region, etc. Created by Xenithia in a past cycle of creation themed after the variety of time cycles. (150th species)

Chapter 17: The Festival of the Gods : I'm back in UBC for my CPSC 221 Summer Course and we are underway. Sofia is helping me as my "dating coach" despite the fact I have a small crush on her, but I will forget about that, she is my friend. My goal to get in shape (a bit) begins as I plan to go to the gym more often (hoping I can balance that with my assignments for CPSC 221). Redison is now the new <Deity XenChi> taking the role of Xenithia as the creator of worlds. However, with his new position as Deity, he is suddenly met with an invitation, to the <Festival of the Gods>, a tournament to see which of the Great Deities of the Pantheon is strongest. UPDATE: this class is crazy crazy hard. I mean crazy hard. I have been able to make new friends through my class though and through the upcoming D&D campaign I have with some friends from PHIL 220 as well as Anica and Sofia so I am very excited about that. Meanwhile, Redison has successfully defeated all the deities of the Great Pantheon, each ruling a cosmological order that parallels the Xenithverse (but the Xenithverse takes the form of a giant circle like a Galaxy, but these universes take different forms), but was able to be united under Redison as the head of the Pantheon now.

Aggetari: Ruled by the champion of the Deity Essix of Sigma, Arven (Colors: Green, Blue, and White), these beings are from a new version of alternate worlds, where each change is represented as an alternate world. So for example, World 0 is the current world, where no changes are made. World 1 can be a world where I was born a girl (1 change) or I went into Biology or Engineering instead (1 change). World 2 can be a world where I was born a girl and went into Engineering or Biology (2 changes), etc. In this universe, these powerful puffle monster like beings wield a great power based on the changes that created their origin in the first place. In this cosmological universe, instead of a great circle, the worlds/dimensions/universes/realms/etc are represented as marbles in a spiral like DNA, but with each change creates a branch and a change from there creates a branch from that marble, and so on and so forth.

Arhonas: Ruled by Captain Kairhos of the Deity Arhonas (of Rho), these powerful puffle monster like beings live in the countless worlds that dot the World Sea, an alternate cosmology where space is a giant endless ocean, and there are countless of islands that are actually worlds, universes, dimensions, realms, etc. Captain Kairhos can be described as a brave, boisterous, and haughty king of the sea, known for his white and gold pirates coat that has never ever seen blood or tear (his colors being Ocean blue, white, gold, and green), the great pirate king who through his bonds, loyalty, and sense of justice, became not only ruler of the largest alliance of pirates, but even the royal navy of the many realms of the World Sea. This massive army became known as the Grand Fleet Arhonas. All puffle monsters in this cosmological universe bow to the Pirate King but also wield powers of the sea such as enhanced control of water, but also are known as masters of pirate style weaponry (cannons, pistols, swords, etc) and are even able to create their own armor and weaponry based on their ship and "island" (based on the Galleon Armor from Gokaiger).

Phidara: Ruled by The Great Librarian Phidas of the Deity Saphiras (of Phi) of the World Library (Colors: Scarlet, Gold, Orange, and White) where each world/universe/dimension/etc is represented as a book in a vast endless library. These powerful puffle monster like beings hail from the realms within the books, but are also able to visit and travel to other realms and master magic, technologies, and powers from the other realms through their interactions in the library as they write their own stories, creating more and more books to fill the endless shelves of the great library of magic that represents the universe. What separates these puffle monster like beings from other beings of magical libraries, is that this cosmological universe represents the Xenithverse not as a “Great Circle” but as a library itself, with all the books as worlds/dimensions/universes/realms/etc. In addition, these puffle monster beings hold the ability of <Phidarian Aura>, a golden flame that can create short stories based on achievements, memories, or experiences, and create <Fables> which give them great power.

Pierosan: Ruled by Orangeson (Colors: Orange, black, white, and red), champion of the Deity Pieros of Pi, these puffle monsters hail from the World Spiral, a cosmological order where instead of a giant circle (the current Xenithverse), this universe is ordered in a spiral, with each dot/marble on the spiral representing a universe/world/dimension/realm/etc. Each of these puffle monsters are able to travel <The Spiral> and are able to use a certain amount of power from the realms above and below them as the Spiral has been found to be linked with the DNA of all puffle monsters of this realm as created by Pieros himself in order for them to wield greater powers. This gives most puffle monsters the potential to have power stronger than most as they can wield powers from many many more realms than others.

Omina: Ruled by Goldison (Colors: Electrum, Gold, silver, platinum, covered in gems (based on Kamen Rider Legend)), the shining champion of the Deity Odax of Omicron, these powerful beings live in the World Neopolis, a realm where all worlds/realms/universes/dimensions/etc are represented as temples, buildings, or towers that puffle monsters can enter and explore the realm and then leave and go back to the “city” where they live or go back to their home realm through the tower/building/temple acting as their “house” (or really more like a portal to their home). Due to the technological advancements in the World Neopolis (the city outside that the cosmological order represents), these puffle monsters are more knowledgeable and accepting of the infinite realms that comprise their city and have learned countless abilities, skills, and cultural information from them. Represented by the golden Omicron symbol and an aura that shines like gems with energy projections of gems appearing as they attack and can use these energy gem projections to empower their abilities and spells.

Vedas: Ruled by Verdeson (Colors: Grass green, emerald green, white, gold), the champion of the Deity Gandiva of Gamma, these powerful beings live in their home realms that are represented by the World Garden (Vidalia), a realm comprised of endless hills, skies, and where each realm/world/universe/dimension/etc is represented as a flower growing in these hills. Depending on the category of realms or groupings, there are different parts of Vidalia with the groupings in a certain part of the garden for them to grow together. Throughout the garden, there are common areas and small towns where these puffle monsters can live and thrive with many others from the other realms around the garden, providing a place for creators to begin growing their own flowers (worlds/realms/etc) and for others to learn and share. These puffle monsters are represented by a flowering aura

Muari: Ruled by Blueison (Colors: Sky blue, Navy Blue, black, and silver), the champion of the Deity Muzea of Mu, these powerful beings live in a cosmological universe where each world/universe/dimension/realm/etc is represented as a floating permanent bubble in a vast and endless ocean, with these beings able to live and explore in the Muarian Sea, establishing countless cities, kingdoms, and empires that focus on knowledge, learning, and evolution for all realms in the sea. These puffle monster beings are symbolized with the Mu symbol and a shimmering aura.

Ysindarian: Ruled by Ysindria of <Deity Apsindra> (of Psi) (Colors: Redwood Red, Green, Orange, White), known for his red hooded jacket and his emerald hair with 3 tips (like Psi) out like a crown, these powerful beings are parallels to the Xenithians (beings of the Deity Xenithia of Chi), as beings from the infinite realms/universes/worlds/dimensions/etc that comprise the infinitely vast World Tree that holds these realms. Known for their Y symbol and an aura that emphasizes a vast presence as mighty as an oak.

Zetari: Ruled by Zedrasaea (or Zed) of <Deity Zetas> (of Zeta) (Colors: Midnight purple, black, white, silver), known for his black coat and ability to create dimensional ripples (aurora curtain from Kamen Rider Decade) to call upon any weapon he wants and his mastery of all weapons and magic from countless universes, realms, dimensions, and worlds represented as a point on a plane determined by the infinite axis (plural). These powerful beings parallel the Xenithians as beings of the Deity Zetas, with the unique nature of an innate ability to manipulate space freely, able to create an infinite number of pocket dimensions through their imagination and create and control life in those pocket dimensions. Life created in the pocket dimensions are also considered Zetari and are too able to manipulate and create space and pocket dimensions of their own. The only limitation is that only a very select few have the ability to destroy space, specifically Zed under the Supreme Divine powers of Zetas.

Nuzaren: Ruled by Yellowson (Colors: Yellow and Ivory), the Martial Grandmaster and champion of Deity Nuzen of Nu. These powerful martial art puffle monsters have mastered countless techniques and developed magic based on martial arts and cultivation techniques. In this cosmological order, this universe is represented by a cosmic temple where all worlds/universes/dimensions/realms/etc are represented as symbols on the wall in the great temples that are scattered in Mugenrim (Based on Mugen (meaning Infinite in Japanese) and Murim), a great vast realm of expansive nature, rugged mountains, fantastical magic beasts, and powerful phenomena that parallel the Rainbow Rain that grant untold powers to these puffle monster beings and form the basis of their energies, techniques, and civilizations. All of these puffle monsters are masters of different types of the <Flowing Arts> and the <Striking Arts>, the <Flowing arts> representing the inner cultivation arts, where they master power gathering, cultivation, and body development, while the <Striking Arts> represent the physical martial arts that use the energy within and expel it in combat. Nuzaren is known to be the Supreme Sword and master of “The Mind’s Sword” (based on the technique from the Manhwa “Maxed Out Leveling”).

Etara: Ruled by Purpleson (Colors: Light purple, violet, purple, gold), shining champion of the Deity Etar of Eta, these powerful puffle monster beings live in a realm that parallels the Xenithverse, except instead of a Giant Circle, these puffle monsters live in a universe represented by a giant magic circle (with countless smaller magic circles that represent each represent a realm/world/universe/dimension/etc). Each of these magic circles are unique based on the world, and maintains the core mana flow of their world, but also the core mana flow of all puffle monsters that hail from their realm. These puffle monster beings have powerful magic circle abilities that they can create but also use to create circuits and constructs within them that make them some of the strongest mages in all universes.

Ionisis: Ruled by Whiteison (Colors: White, platinum, gold, neon colors), the Wise Hero King and champion of the Deity Ios of Iota, these powerful puffle monster beings live in an alternate version of the Xenithverse where instead of a giant circle, the Xenithverse is represented as a magical space where each universe/world/realm/dimension/etc is actually a unique snowflake, created from special Ionis Crystals that comprise this realm beyond space and time that these puffle monster beings inhabit as a common realm between their infinite universes and worlds, where they exchange ideas, learn from each other, and develop unique technologies and powers from these exchanges of ideas and cultures. Known for their Ionis crystal armor and tools that use the powers of them

Lemuni: Ruled by Brownison (Colors: Brown, Red, Green), the Mountain Supreme King and champion of Deity Lemu of Lambda, these powerful puffle monsters live in an alternate version of the Xenithverse where instead of each world represented as a point on a giant circle (the current Xenithverse structure, like a Galaxy), the shape is a giant square, a strong shape held together by a strange and more strong power of magic that these puffle monsters wield, making them more durable and able to manipulate aura to create a powerful armor for themselves.

Epsilos: Ruled by the Supreme Intelligence and champion of the Deity Elios of Epsilon, every realm/world/universe/dimension/etc is actually simulated in a great computer in this highly advanced civilization ruled by highly evolved super beings that create these programs that hold these worlds/realms/etc meaning the multiverse is actually many many versions of the same realms/worlds/etc but being run as simulations. These beings are able to travel to and from these civilizations as well as to their realm beyond the multiverse.

Aqulta Gwaneff: Ruled by Alpha of the Deity Aqulta (of Alpha) (Colors: Platinum, Gem/Sparkling (Prism = all colors)) of the World Realm, where a leaf in a tree in this world is a realm/universe/dimension/etc, or a lake is a realm, or even a flower is a world, or a desert, a grain of sand, even a building, or a floor of a building, a mirror, etc, anything can represent a world/universe/dimension/realm etc in this vast world like Earth. These powerful supreme beings are akin to gods in most realms (of the other Deities) and are known as the strongest of many, even their weakest having the power to alter reality to their whim. Known for their Prismatic aura that emanates from them like the rays of the sun.

Kalindran: Ruled by Magentason (Colors: Pink, Magenta, and White), the Lord of Time and champion of Deity Kalindra of Kappa, these powerful puffle monster beings live in a version of the Xenithverse based on its original form. Long ago (around 2016), the Xenithverse was actually structured as a giant clock in the cosmos, and that each new world that was discovered and added into the Xenithverse would move the clock by one, and that at each time it would be back at “12:00” (the top), it would reset and store all worlds within it, leaving the clock face blank to start anew. However, this structure changed to evolve more into a Galaxy like structure, a giant circle. In this universe, the clock structure stayed the same and evolved into a massive more complex clock (with many celestial gears and smaller clocks within representing certain groups of realms and universes). Because of this theme of time, these puffle monsters have a unique Temporal Aura that not only allows them to be anywhere and anytime in history, but also be able to alter time and travel back and forth without affecting anything. With this, they developed a civilization of time travelers and “timeless” peace on the Great Clock known as Kalindras Zenith.

Tetrazea: Ruled by Blackison (Colors: Black, silver, gold, white), the Star Lord and champion of Deity Tetras of Theta, these powerful puffle monsters hail from an alternate version of the Xenithverse where instead of all realms organized like stars on a giant galaxy/circle, the stars (representing each world/universe/dimension/realm/etc) are scattered in space at random in this endless void of space, but in this space, there is endless space for puffle monsters of this universe to develop a massive expansive civilization for them to live in and develop while traveling to the many many “stars” of the other worlds where many puffle monsters hail from. With this, each puffle monster was born with an “Astral-mark” (kind of like a “Cutie Mark” from My Little Pony) which represents their home “Star”.

Omeganytes: Ruled by Regus, the God Champion of Deity Omega, these powerful puffle monsters live in an alternate universe where magic had once been deleted and destroyed by powerful foes, but it was through the power of science and their deity, that they developed <Omega Force>, an artificial mana and magic energy that gave them magic powers 100x stronger than normal magic energy and abilities that would blow most magic users away. With this however, they developed powerful new technologies that would be able to wield this magic safely due to its raw extreme power. When magic returned to their realm, they developed new techniques to use natural magic and Omega force together in fusion magic techniques and technologies that made their civilization stronger than any other force of magic in the countless universes.

Betari: Ruled by Bartheus of Deity Betari (Beta), these puffle monster beings live in an alternate cosmological order where every realm/world/universe/dimension/etc is represented as a hand crafted area on the Imagisphere, whether it be from household items, foods, boxes, crafts, etc. Based on LittleBigPlanet. In this universe, each of these beings have control over certain imaginative and real aspects depending on their realm. For example, a world that is based on a grocery store and has actual foods, and boxes of foods have control over foods, being able to reshape the fruits into homes and buildings, or control boxes. In a world where everything is made of ice, these puffle monster beings would have control over ice and the structures of ice. The Imagisphere is vast and infinitely large as it is comprised of all worlds from all themes in existence

Tauri: Based on the worlds from the Webtoon “Advanced Player of the Tutorial Tower” and the many many towers in each dimension, the powers of achievements and great achievements (manifestations of legends, myths, stories, etc). Ruled by Momotauros, the great champion of Deity Taurius (Tau) of the Infinite Tower (each world/universe/dimension/etc is represented as a floor on the tower). In the Xenithverse, the concept of the tower already exists, with there being many many towers, each with many many worlds. However, in this alternate cosmological order, all worlds, universes, dimensions, realms, etc are gathered into one giant super tower, with each ruler the master of their “Floor” and are now able to travel up and down the tower through their powers and through the powers of Momotauros, who gave them the ability to establish a realm that serves as the “Elevator” that travels the worlds. These powerful puffle monsters each have a core gem that serves as a holder of their achievements (where each achievement takes the form of an ability, skill, spell, weapon, etc) that they can summon.

Deltaea: Ruled by Phoenix, a powerful being that rules the skies as the champion of the Deity Delta Prime, these powerful winged beings live in a cosmological order where every realm/world/universe/dimension/etc is represented as a cloud in this endless sky. These puffle monster beings all have the great power of flight and are able to generate their own magical wings created from their pure magic. This gives them the ability to also travel the <Great Sky>, a realm beyond the realms where each world is held within, the endless sky, where they established floating cities near the worlds and kind of serve as common zones for the “clouds” surrounding it. With this, these puffle monsters learned cultures and magic from each other as well as developed powerful celestial technologies. With this evolution, all puffle monster beings evolved to be more winged and “angel-like” in nature.

Upsiron: Ruled by Siris of the Deity Yxbris (Upsilon), these powerful beings live in a cosmological order represented by the World Book, where each world/universe/dimension/etc is represented as a page in this great book. Also based on Kamen Rider Saber, these powerful puffle monsters have the power to travel the book and have mastered the unique abilities of manifesting the walls between their pages and the walls between reality and fiction (the 4th wall) and are even able to create their own unique “Walls” that grant them great power. With this, they have the ability to create and write stories, but also gain powers from those who read these stories and support them by either spinning-off these stories or by creating new pages or updates to these stories within the page. Their unique ability is the power of <Spelling> where whatever they say can be <Words of power> which give them unique abilities and magic depending on the words said. (Similar to the Draconic language in some mangas and stories).

Xirian: Ruled by Emperor Leonidas, champion of the Deity Xirrius (Xi), these powerful puffle monster like beings live in a cosmological order of the World Globe where on an infinitely expanding sphere, each dot represents a realm and there are many many dots near each other similar to cities on a continent with these “continents” representing the regions of the cosmos. In this universe, these powerful puffle monster beings use ancient runes where each city/world is represented by one rune (the Great Rune), and a certain region (part of the map) is part of a certain “Rune Family”, with continents having their own “Master Rune” that represents a rune group or family that was the first family before expanding into the other Rune Families that represent the regions or countries of dots/worlds. Based on the symbols from Elden Ring, and other Runes and symbols from many different art pages, these puffle monster beings then created civilizations on this “globe” creating civilizations and structures in these “countries”/regions/cities/towns/etc where the “worlds” would be (these worlds are then represented as crystalline obelisks that by touch, they can teleport to that world) and the surrounding common realm around these obelisks, with these towns and cities developed based on the rune family and great rune of the worlds in that area. With this mix of runes (since one town can have one rune family) but a neighboring city or town can have another rune family or another country or region can have another rune family, these puffle monster beings can master spells and abilities that combine many rune families together to create powerful super spells using these new combos of symbols.

Chapter 17 Part 2: REGOD’s Revenge I: Spellplague : The end of this month is coming and boy time flew by fast. I have sorta kinda gotten used to the course, made some friends that I can use to help me in this class, and my D&D campaign just started so I am very much looking forward to that! In the Xenithverse, REGOD, originally the villain from the finals season of Winter term 2024 (ending in April 2024), had been split into Argyro (the new champion and Heir of the 11th magic of Xenithia), and REGOD, to which REGOD’s half was banished into the cosmos. Having been searching for a host to fuse with and revive to wage war against Redison again, he fell into a tear in space-time, splitting him even further and banishing them each to different spaces. However, these fragments of REGOD all still contain REGOD’s full soul, more like copies of the full soul, with a new goal, to fuse and see which fragment will create a universe that can defeat Redison and Argyros once and for all. Following the defeat of REVOS X, Xenithia created 4 children from the magic of these new universes that REGOD created, to take care of these universes so these beings are not one without a guardian, Blossom (the eldest), Dracion (who goes by Draco), Iris, and Orion (who likes to go by Ryan), where each child of Xenithia would take the place of REGOD’s clones to care for their realms. In addition, creatures from a timeline where I went to ASU and created evolutionary lore for the puffle monsters have begun to appear. In the upcoming days, Redison will fight REGOD G, a form of REGOD that developed the destructive power of Spellplague which threatens the Xenithverse.

Evosians: Based on Kamen Rider Evol and Evol X, REGOD found a planet known as Evos, but this planet was actually a sentient celestial that was a planet itself, as in the body was the planet (based on Ego from the MCU). REGOD discovered that Evos was actually an “Origin” of universes and worlds, to which he fused with it to create a new Xenithverse of his own (becoming REVOS X), one of an expansive empire that all falls under his control due to his power controlling the planets he took over using his magic as magic roots covered these planets and worlds he took over (based on Ego from MCU). In this story, Redison had awoken from a dream and found himself in this universe on one of the planets, eventually figuring out that this REGOD had lured him there to eliminate him, but only for his plans to be foiled by Redison. With this, he had learned the magic of the creatures born of this realm, who had nothing to do with REGOD's plan but was just born of Evos's magic. After capturing REGOD's soul (from this realm), Xenithia intervened and changed Evos, giving a new soul to reawaken Evos but into a new benevolent queen, a new mother planet to protect this universe named Blossom, the daughter of Xenithia, and someone that seems to be interested in Redison. These puffle monster beings have a special magic ability that allows them to create and control magic roots that can create realms and/or structures, items, etc from their imagination.

Gazerions: Based on Kamen Rider Extremer, REGOD discovered a mysterious entity known as the <Great Eye> which was learned to be an <Origin> of universes, to which he fused with it in order to create a new Xenithverse of his own. Now ruled by Iris, the Daughter of Xenithia and new Queen of the <Great Eye>. Originally ruled by REGOD EX (Extremer), these powerful beings were created and empowered by the Divinities of the Great Eye (based on the Gammaizers from Kamen Rider Ghost), with each Gazerion developing their own inner <Divinity> within them that empowers their core and powers. This <Divinity> acts as a secondary core and place for their soul for regeneration and resurrection as needed but also creates new abilities and powers depending on their experiences.

Sorcarions (Sorsarions): Ruled by REGOD S, based on Kamen Rider Sorcerer and based on the Witcher class, defenders of humanity that learn combat, magic, alchemy, etc. In this universe, these warriors have a unique ability to combine magic circles into a shape that overlaps them into a 3D shape more like an armillary sphere which creates a wild force of magic that serves as an auxiliary core for their armor, body, and equipment. Now ruled by Dracion (Draco), one of the new sons of Xenithia, and brother of Orion, Iris, and Blossom. These powerful beings are known as masters of magic as they were created by countless Magic Circles that fused together to create <Divine Forms> of magic which created these beings. These beings are able to manipulate magic circles to intertwine and overlap to create new forms of magic circles (such as either Armillary spheres, or even other 3D shapes like Prisms, Cubes, etc), creating extremely powerful combination magic circles that give them unique spells and super abilities as a race of ultimate sorcerers.

Ωhrions: Ruled by REGOD OMEGA: Based on Kamen Rider Regad Omega. Based on the Dreamweaver class Path of the Fabrikator (a master of creating Dreamscapes). Now ruled by Orion, one of the new sons of Xenithia, and brother of Dracion (Draco), Iris, and Blossom. These powerful beings have unique magic abilities that allow them to create dreamscapes around them but also manipulate reality to an extent of reality genuinely changing to fit the magic from the dreamscapes they create. They have the power to create an infinite number of dreamscapes which can each serve as their own universe and allow the creator (the Fabrikator) to use powers that developed and evolved naturally in the dreamscapes they created, in order to use powerful spells and magic in this universe.

Magians (Majians): In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that lead to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These powerful puffle monster like beings are born from a universe where Magic World (World 1 of QR World) evolved and expanded to become the dominant power. In this story, the Asurans were the most evolved from the Xenithian line (from World R (Redison Island)), but in this world, an advanced super race was born in the past. In our Xenithverse, the tree evolved with 10 different types of magic created by Xenithia, but there also being many cycles of creation. In the event where I went to ASU and developed an evolutionary lore entirely different from the Xenithians, there were 12 different beings that evolved separately, with Redison's Xenithian line being the 13th group of beings that evolved from the Origin Point. These puffle monster beings known as Majians (pronounced May-zhians) (like Mage-Asians), became the dominant species and most advanced beings of magic as they hailed from World 1, a world dominated by magic. In this universe, these beings are known as masters of the Spirit Zone, a power that gives them <Omnipotence> and <Omniscience> to allow them to cast spells, and control reality within the Spirit Zone, a sphere of influence that they can move or cast around them or grow to any size depending on their capabilities. Based on the concept from the Manhwa "Infinite Mage". These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline.

Gridjians: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that lead to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These beings evolved from a species from World 2 (the Blacktop or Power Grid Realm, the place where the 4 squares used to be) that manifested magic in a grid like pattern, giving them the ability of magic <Deployment> in their magic grid of influence. Similar to the Majians, they gained and mastered an ability born innately, the power of <Grid>, which allows them to view and manipulate the grid of power around them that determines the amount of magic energy that they can control, the type they can wield, and the energies of those around them, while also giving them the ability to manipulate space around them. Their attributes and specialties describe what they can do within the Grid or how they can manipulate the Grid. For example, some types of Gridjians might master the ability to manipulate space on the grid, folding the space or expanding it, which can affect the magic energy density around them or take it away all together. Other types might learn how to set spells (like a mine) that can activate anywhere on the Grid. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline.

Heliosians: These beings evolved from the magma core using powers of the elements to evolve their power and aura further to take the form of tangible flames but also mastered mana combustion to roar their flames. In this universe, the Asurans evolved into new super species to represent the far future of magic in this evolutionary lore of the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC). Based on Anki Overdrive car Thermo, these puffle monster beings have an intense fire-power and attack power that represents the unyielding power of flames that burns all, but these puffle monsters have different flame properties depending on their core elements, attributes, which show in their flaming aura that exudes from the being as the Mana Combustion within them produces so much flame, that the flames need to exude in order to create a balance. Ruled by Koh, the Flaming Sword.

Zeutronian: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the Thunderbolt core, using powers of energy and thunder to evolve further and evolve their stats but also their technology to become highly powerful super beings where their aura energy now takes the form of lightning like energy pulses. Based on Anki Overdrive car Groundshock and ruled by Jin, the Blade of Lightning. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future of the ASU Timeline.

Uraynians: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the Fusion core using powers of Nuclear energy to combine their magic with the power of humanity's most destructive power in order to evolve further, creating a mysterious form of Magic Radiation and Nuclear Magic, creating a power through splitting the core of magic (nucleus). Based on Anki Overdrive Car Nuke and ruled by Raynor, the Nuclear Knight, these powerful puffle monster like beings hold the special power of the <Nuclear> type and attribute which gives them radioactive abilities that can slowly deteriorate the magic abilities of opponents as well as health in battle, but they can also radiate magic energy that can also boost others like them and power items and technologies or boost the energy in the surrounding area. For example, a Uraynian plant type would be able to radiate a special radioactive plant type energy that can speed up the growth of plants and boost their health. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future of the ASU Timeline.

Spektrix: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the Loki Core. They evolved using the power of Charms, the future of spells and magic power, with the unique ability of <Scramble> which can scramble abilities at random. Based on Anki Drive car: Spektrixs. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future, specifically, the powers of <Charms> (a minor group of spells and abilities that use certain symbols to activate certain properties). Similar to magic

Phantonians: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the Phantom Core and evolved using the powers of spirits and souls, allowing them to absorb spirits and souls from their opponents but also share spirits and soul energy from others and with others to gain powerful abilities. Based on Anki Overdrive Car: Nuke Phantom. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future, specifically the power of spirits and soul energy that many puffle monsters in this universe use, but in the far future, the Phantom Clan developed a civilization where souls were able to possess digital embodiments that help with developing and maintaining their civilization while also providing Soul Energy that the living puffle monsters use to boost their abilities, develop new technologies, and power their civilization.

Emeraldian: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that lead to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 6, the Emerald Forest, now known as the Emerald Empire. These puffle monsters were once an extremely rare race of puffles as the Emerald color (as opposed to the usual 10 colors). These emerald beings were known to be wise, powerful healers, but also great warriors. Known as the masters of plants, able to create their own plants and use the powers of those plants or any other plants in existence. For example, one Emeraldian can have a fire attribute, and is able to create, grow, and use the powers of Fire flowers, or flowers that can unleash fire magic. Another Emeraldian can have electric attributes and give them an ability to grow and create electric sunflowers, etc. In the now vast and verdant Emerald Empire that spans the Xenithverse, with the capital of this Xenithverse as the Emerald City (not because of the emerald stones though but because of the vast amount of plants that these creators and growers make and care for through their magic and culture).

Terrajians: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that lead to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 5: The Earth Kingdom. These puffle monster beings mastered the unique technique and powers from <Magic Circle Crystallization> and the ability to etch magic technological circuits that give the crystals technological properties such as using a crystal as a tablet, a phone, and even as a car. By harnessing the powers of the Earth to a supreme form, these powerful puffle monster beings developed their civilizations and expanded through the Xenithverse through the power of the realm's environment (specifically the stone, rocks, and geology of each world), with their capital <Terra> ruled by The Earth King, a once powerful boss-type monster that fought Redison on many occasions but are now friends.

June: Lore of Evolution and Variants

- Story Arcs
    - Chapter 18: Worlds Collide

- Chapter 19: REGOD's Revenge II: Origins and Endings

Chapter 18: Worlds Collide : The battle against the Mechions (which caused the Spellplague) and the Xenithions approaches (as my CPSC 221 Midterm approaches on Monday). To expand the spread of the Spellplague, the Mechions found a way to tear through the barriers between regions as in the Xenithverse, each Earth-based realm is separated by a barrier and localized to a region or country (so the USA is their own "Xenithverse" based on me obtaining Redison from the USA). All puffle plushies were sold all over the world back in the day (early 2000s). To this day, the ones that look like Redison has evolved based on their home realm wherever that may be, developing and ruling over their own universes. Redison meets these formidable warriors following Redison defeating the Mechions. Meanwhile, more puffle monsters from alternate evolutionary lores such as from the ASU Timeline, GCU TImeline, and maybe more, continue to appear. Following the battle against the Mechions, Redison defeated the <God of The Chaos> (by a very very small margin) and was able to purify the <God of The Chaos> and the Mechions, able to upgrade those puffle monster beings and learn how to harness the powers of the Spellplague and wield it as a benefit for the puffle monsters of all worlds. With the alliance of all other Redisons from the other "World Regions" following the <Collision of Worlds>, peace has been established among the Redisons and among the regions, as they look forward to more peaceful times. However, the alternate evolutionary lore of U of A seems to have appeared and been larger than previously thought.

Orichatlian: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that lead to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 3: The Great Sea (Atlantis). These puffle monsters developed through Orichalcum, evolving their magic to utilize Orichalcum metals and technology, becoming masters of <Divine Body>, a unique nature they developed which allows them to combine magic energies of the orichalcum and types of magic in the Great Sea (and Atlantis Island), to enchant their bodies and give themselves unique or special constitutions, known as Divine Bodies. A divine body warrior can have a body that has skin tougher than diamond, another can breathe underwater, another might be able to float and fly without wings but just by controlling the air, or others might have an enhanced affinity to flames and flame control or creation. By combining special Orichalcum technologies and magic derived from the energies of Orichalcum, these puffle monsters established an empire that uses the unique properties of their home worlds in a technologically advanced utopia for each civilization. Ruled from the Capital Realm of Atlantis Nova (essentially based on many designs of Atlantis combined with aspects of the city of Xenith).

Dekarians: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that lead to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 4: The SPD (Baseball diamond). These powerful puffle monster beings developed powerful technologies and weapons as masters of anti-magic and body-refining techniques. With this, they became a force that acts as a league of heroes, protectors, kind of like a police force that defend the worlds from evil, specifically those of magical threats. These powerful warriors have learned body-refining techniques, which give them stronger constitutions that make them immune to many conditions and types of attacks in addition to their anti-magic powered super armor and weapons. They live in a technologically advanced super empire that looks like what a “city” might look like in the far far future.

Sentrians: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the Siren Core, a powerful core that uses the powers of technology and aura manipulation as well as the power of Resonance that allows them to <Hack> and <Disrupt> their opponents for the sake of Justice using unique technologies. Based on Anki Overdrive Car Guardian. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future. These powerful super beings have a special nature, a core made of the <Siren Core>, which itself is different because it is not connected to magic but develops its own magic energy that is considered a completely different “definition” of magic (making it considered, a “non-magic”), an artificial magic that is not magic, kind of like “I can’t believe its not butter” not being butter, but Margarine, but having similar properties. These puffle monster beings developed countless technologies and super weapons and armors and artificial cores to act as supplementary to their own magic core to empower themselves and/or any technologies they may use through the power of the Siren Core to defend against those that can threaten magic such as the Spellplague Gravititans: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the Graviton Core, they evolved and developed through mastery of heavy armor and weaponry, becoming a military like realm, where these types became based on heavy weaponry and vehicles. Based on Anki Overdrive Car Big Bang. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future. These powerful military focused group are known for extremely heavy weaponry, like tanks, giant cannons, mines, jets, etc, specifically all with the abilities of a force similar to Gravity, able to control the gravity around them and create either an orbit around them or a powerful forcefield around them that can defend them or others but also unleash extremely powerful attacks (AOE type attacks). However, the origins of the Gravitron core hails from the Big Bang, a power they are able to harness, the creative and explosive force of the Big Bang, the very creation of the universe, they are able to harness through their powers.

Rhodrians: In the ASU Timeline (where I went to ASU instead of UBC) and developed an evolutionary tree and lore for the Xenithians, these puffle monster beings evolved from the Asurans through the the power of the great Fortress Core, giving them the power to develop their own Fortress armor. Based on Anki Drive car: Rho. These beings represent the future of the Xenithians (and Asurans) as representatives of powers from the future. These super puffle monsters are able to create a moving castle/fortress around them which other puffle monster beings can enter to hide or assist in battle through using the cannons or empowering the weaponry inside the fortress or repairing as the fortress is damaged in battle. Each fortress is unique to each puffle monster as the design of the fortress is based on the abilities, attributes, experiences, and core spirit of the Rhodrian who activates the Fortress armor around them. Some of these fortresses have special themes, special weapons on board, but also unique combat capabilities that make these puffle monster beings an extremely powerful universal empire in the future.

Machians (pronounced Machines): In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that led to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 7: Machine Labyrinth, A steampunk civilization that expanded beyond, becoming the primary influence in creating and expanding the Xenithverse. In this universe, these powerful puffle monster beings hold special <Core Gears> which based on the spin of the gear and the speed of the spin as well as any connections to other inner gears within the core, can give unique abilities, skills, and attributes that makes these puffle monsters stronger in magic power. They also have a unique ability to develop their own technology and weapons from their <Core Gears> within them (kind of similar to Generator Rex). They live in a world based on an expanded modernized Steampunk like universe (a technoverse) combined with their civilization and culture (like Victorian Visions: A Steampunk Utopia (from inter.galactica on Instagram))

Elrantian: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that led to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 12: The Great Wilds. These puffle monster beings are known as the Masters of <Great Nature>, which give them the ability to wield the powers and skills from certain creatures (similar to the stances from the Webtoon “Jungle Juice”). Through the powers and skills of the animals and creatures that are linked to them through <Great Nature>, they are able to combine their magic with the features and abilities of these creatures to unleash <Stances> which give them unique abilities and attacks through the unique fighting style fusion of their magic and the powers of the creature. For example, a fire type fighter with an <Eagle Link> might have flight and ability to create flaming winds and a flaming tornado.

Tarotian: (Pronounced Taro-shian). In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that led to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 9: Realm of Traps and Tricks. Also based on the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, known as powerful Relics that enhance combat. Also based on the Unowns with different powers (like a drill power, rock climbing, underwater propulsion, paragliding, ice skates, etc) from sb.fakemon on Instagram. These mysterious puffle monsters were created by the fluctuating energies of destiny and fate in World 9 (behind the swings), known as the dangerous road filled with traps and illusions, more akin to the shadow realm, between the 2 big cities (World 7 and World 10). Using powerful symbols known as <Crests>, they are able to wield the powers of fate and destiny to enhance their abilities and skills or wield special abilities or utilities (such as a drill technique, or a unique ability to rock climb, etc) as they are able to create Crestians, special creatures (based on the Unowns from Pokemon) that float around and have special abilities depending on the symbol they represent. In this expansive Xenithverse, they developed their civilizations and cultures based on the countless Crests of the Old and New Gods and Powers, with all Tarotians having at least one Crestian with them.

Aetrians: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that led to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 10: The Great City (Metropolis): Based on Silver Wolf's Blaster from Honkai Star Rail and her ability of Aether Editing, the unique ability to edit the <Data of Reality>. In this Xenithverse, technology and the powers of the Dimension tower (where Worlds 16-1000 can be accessed through) led to a large burst of magic energy that made the <Data of Reality> visible and tangible. What was once an invisible force that created and influenced the nature of the world and their surroundings, these puffle monster beings were evolved with the power to manipulate the Data of Reality around them to evolve themselves or unleash unique abilities, attacks, skills, or create new "mechanics" that can change the face of battle forever. As members of a grand metropolis, there are also more "urban" like jobs, such as Medics, cooks, cleaners, entertainers, haircutters, builders, etc which also have the special powers of <Aether Editing> which can give them boosts to their jobs as they are able to create new tools or methods of performing their job through editing the data of reality around them.

ゼニティア人 (Zenitia hito): This Redison was picked up in a store in Japan and evolved through the anime and samurai culture of Japan. Becoming known as the strongest warrior of his realm as the <Dai Shogun>, a title with as much power as Xenith and about equal in power, he wields a sword based on (Samurai x Roxas) from ldawb on Instagram. These puffle monsters from this universe (ゼニスバース: translating to how they would pronounce Xenithverse) are masters of many weapons, with each having proficiency with a certain weapon type, and are known to be masters of that weapon, with some able to master multiple types of weapons, and some able to wield more than 2 weapons at a time <Asura>. Each are able to develop their own weapon techniques to the level that it can become a <Combat Art> that can be taught, some even reaching the level of certain abilities becoming stats.

Cerisian: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that led to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 8: Sky Jungle (Swings). These powerful puffle monster beings have mastered the endless magic domain within their Dantian (another form of their core), which is as endless as a universe. This power from the Dantian is what powers the Mind's Eyes, Ears, Body, sword, etc. With this, these puffle monster beings are able to manifest the powers of their unique <Mind's Eye>, <Mind's Ear>, <Mind's Body>, and other <Mind Abilities> by manifesting the universe of their Dantian also known as the <Inner Sky> to their surroundings, which gives them the ability to alter reality to fit their ideals. Based on the <Mind's Sword> powers from the Manhua "Maxed Out Leveling" as well as the Dantian from the Manhua "The Constellation returns from hell". These puffle monster beings developed civilizations, cultures, and empires based on the powers of the <Inner Sky> each Cerisian has. Through this power, the Cerisians are able to achieve <Inner Sky Unity>, a power where they perfectly united with their <Inner Sky> and their core powers of magic.

Nijian: In the far past, it was discovered that Redison was created as one of the first supreme beings that led to the generation of the Xenithians. However, there were other Supreme beings that rose up, evolving and developing their own universes and empires separately from Redison, but they all had the same origins, from Quail Run World. These puffle monster beings represent an alternate species of ancestors of the Xenithians (and Asurans) of the ASU Timeline. In this universe, these beings evolved from a species from World 11: The Ramada/Desert Kingdom, becoming masters of alchemy (also based on Nijigon and Kamen Rider Rainbow Gotchard). Long ago, the rainbow rain descended upon the Quail Run World (around 2011), which gave great powers to these puffle monster beings. However, these puffle monster beings evolved to harness the Rainbow power much better than many other puffle monster beings, and thus achieving evolution into the supreme beings of their universe as they mastered the techniques of <Alchemy>, a technique akin to magic where they are able to transmute anything, make living from non-living, and turn dust to gold, the supreme powers of creation and destruction. Based on the <Existential powers> from the Manhua "The Constellation that Returned from Hell" and how those are the powers of the Constellations, a power that gives them "godhood" and the power to alter reality, create empires and kingdoms at the snap of their fingers, etc. Following many eons of evolution, these puffle monster beings (the Nijians) are born with an innate <Existential Power> that grows as their alchemy, magic, and combat arts and experiences grow and develop them, so too does the Existential power shape to a unique form that only they can wield to full potential. With this supreme power, the Nijians developed their universal civilization and empire around the powers of Existential power and the Origin of the Existential power, the Rainbow power.

Mechions: Based on Kamen Rider Evol and Kamen Rider MadRogue, these powerful beings have the special power known as <Spellplague>: The power to shutdown and close off the powers of magic completely. Ruled by a version of REGOD who fused with a mysterious alien viral being that seemingly developed sentience and fused with mechanical parts to develop a body for itself. In their conquest of the Xenithverse, they were able to tear the barriers between countries, causing other versions of Redison to peer in and discover the existence of other "Universes" and empires beyond their own (which was thought to be infinitely vast) but was only representing one country, not everything. These beings are able to not only shutdown magic completely, but they are also able to <Upgrade> themselves and each other through their form of Mecha-Magic. Redison fights REGOD GRIMOIRE (the REGOD that evolved and rules as the Supreme king of this universe) during the CPSC 221 Midterm. REGOD GRIMOIRE: God of The Chaos, VS Redison: God of Xenith. In the end, Redison won by a small margin and was able to rewrite these puffle monster beings to harness the powers of the <Spellplague> for good and not evil, and how to harness the spellplague to power up magic instead.

Britijians: Ruled by Redison UK (The High King). This Redison was found in a store in the U.K. and evolved through English culture, becoming known as the strongest warrior known as the <High King>, a title that parallels the Xenith. This Redison is the wielder of Excalibur, the Sword of the High King that all High Kings have wielded since ancient times. However, Redison has mastered countless sword techniques and forged many powerful blades himself that he wields alongside Excalibur. These powerful puffle monster beings wield powerful weapons known as the <Weapons of the King>, which give them unique abilities, giving them the powers to evolve into their supreme <King Form> (yes, even the females are able to become "Kings") through the mastery of their <Weapons of the King> which they can forge or obtain themselves, although it is stronger if they create their own <Weapons of the King> as it becomes unique to them and their fighting style. Redison UK himself wields <Sword of the High King - EXcalibur Zenith>, a sword he forged himself after fusing all of his other legendary weapons together, with his <Sword of the High King - Excalibur> and <Divine Sword of the King - Claiomh Solais> as the cores. These beings live in a Xenithverse influenced by the culture and nature of the United Kingdom and surrounding areas (Scotland, Northern Ireland, Wales, Ireland, ect). (200th Species)

Zhongrian: Ruled by China's Redison (红儿子 (Hongerzi - Red Son)). This Redison was picked up in a store in China and evolved through Chinese culture, becoming known as the strongest warrior of their realm as the <Divine Dragon>, a title with as much power as Xenith and about equal in power. Based on the martial arts of the Murim (found in many Manhwa and Manhua (Korean and Chinese stories) as well as many mangas, animes, and Wuxia novels. In this ancient realm of magic, combined with powerful martial arts, the powers of spirits, the ancestors, nature (both real and mystical), as well as the powers of Qi and cultivation, these powerful puffle monster beings live in a parallel Xenithverse but instead of everything being influenced by my life in the US and in Canada, this is a Xenithverse influenced purely by Chinese culture (if I lived in China in this reality). These puffle monster beings all have a unique core represented by their true <Character> (where their core / true name is written in Mandarin characters) which determines the powers and attributes of their skills and abilities but also their potential in evolution.

Redjians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by The Red God <The Endless Sword>, these powerful puffle monster beings are known as the evolution of Red puffle monsters and Xenithians into a supreme evolved form, as the power and concept of all shades of red take form into supreme existence. Represented by the Endless Knot Shrivatsa, these puffle monster beings are known for their endless and complex mana formation within their core that flows endlessly and provides them their signature flaming red aura.

Cerujians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the Blue Goddess <The Flowing Storm> represented by the Vodicka Triquetra, these powerful puffle monster beings are known as the evolution of the Blue puffle monster beings, the embodiment of the concepts that the color blue and all shades of blue represents. Their unique powers are created from the incarnation of blue and the concepts of their powers, giving them the unique nature of <Flow>, a style that allows them to effortlessly combine their techniques, abilities, and skills into one flowing movement.

Veridjians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the Green God <The Immortal Oak>, represented by the Vodicka knot. These powerful puffle monster beings are known to be the great evolution of nature, the green puffle monsters, the embodiment of the concepts of all shades of green, the powers of life and nature, taken form into these great beings that embody nature and the endless immortal power of nature. Known for their unique ability of <Immortal> which allows them to harmonize with nature around them and gain invincibility due to the endless lifeforce around them (meaning to destroy them, you have to destroy all of nature).

Aerojians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by Yellow Goddess <The Spirited Sky> represented by the Celtic spiral knot, these powerful puffle monster beings are known as the embodiment of all shades of yellow and the concepts and ideas that they represent, speed, the sun, light, lightning, storms, and wind, just to name a few. These beings developed a civilization focused on the powers of the sky, and the concept of Endless Freedom through their abilities and free-spirited style of combat and magic.

Shirojians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the White God (Heimdall) <The Glorious King> represented by the Valknut, these puffle monster beings evolved from the embodiment of the concepts of the color white, as well as the concept of glory in battle and the afterlife. These powerful beings evolved with a unique ability known as <Valhalla>, which boosts their stats after each battle, but also when near death or slain, are able to revive with half-stats and if victorious then, are boosted their stats two-fold (the idea of death in battle that the Valknut represents as well as the symbol of Asgardians). With this, they developed their civilization very similar to the Asgardians, under the rule of the White God, developing magic technology far more advanced than any other species.

Kurojians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the Black God <The Eternal Cycle> represented by the Ouroboros symbol, these mystical puffle monster beings are known for their control of the <Ouroboros Formula>, a mystical algorithm of runes and symbols that is able to create and destroy all things (of their realm), created by the Black God himself. These puffle monster beings then individually created different and unique applications and variants of the <Ouroboros Formula> that gave them the ability to create and destroy more specific parts of reality more efficiently or create more powerful items unique to them. This magically adept species developed their civilization based on this great power in “science”, creating advanced technology that uses the powers of the <Ouroboros Formula>

Brahmians: Ruled by India’s Redison. This Redison was found in India where his universe that he would develop and evolve within would be influenced by Indian culture and living in India and the surrounding areas, becoming known as the <Supreme Brahma>, a title that holds as much power as <Xenith> in the current Xenithverse. These powerful puffle monster beings mastered a power based on the Hindu deities and their multiple arms, the ability to hold many different cores. Each core they hold within themselves not only boosts their stats and health, but also gives them different abilities and creates a magical “arm” that holds the powers of this <Core>. By wielding many Cores, they can form many <Brahman Arms> that act independently according to the power of the core.

Czarans: Ruled by Russia’s Redison (aka The Crimson Frost). This Redison was found in a store in Russia, where his universe that he would develop and evolve within would be influenced by life in Russia and Russian culture and the surrounding areas, becoming known as the Krasnyj (Red) <Almighty Czar>, a title that parallels the title of <Xenith> in the current Xenithverse. These puffle monster beings have a unique biology that gives them the special stat and passive ability known as <Resilience>, a special ability where after each damage, that part damaged becomes covered in a diamond like ice, making them stronger overall and take less damage after each hit, essentially with those who have taken much damage almost invincible with the toughness of the diamond armor.

Eurozians: Ruled by Redison of the Pantheon/Redison Kaizar (the Redison of the European Union). This Redison was found in a store within a country in the European Union (Spain, Portugal, France, Germany, Austria, Greece, Italy, etc), where life within the European Union and the easy travel to the many countries and the vast diversity and history influenced the universe of this Redison, who holds the title of <Unrivaled Emperor>, a powerful title that parallels to <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. These puffle monster beings wield powers based on the Emperor's Pantheon (Norse gods, Gaulish gods, Greco-Roman gods, as well as heroes from Norse, Gaulish, Greek, and Roman mythologies, essentially any deity, hero, and mythical figure or creature from the mythologies of the countries within the E.U.). Also based on the show "Huntik" (specifically the titans and the magic), these beings are able to wield magic based on their aura and are able to summon spells and abilities granted by the supreme beings (heroes from mythology, mythological creatures, and gods of the pantheon), establishing their civilizations based on the cultures and creatures they grouped in.

Miçangons: Ruled by Mesoamerica's Redison. This Redison was found in a store in the Mesoamerican region (Latin America and South America), where the colorful and wild cultures of South America and Latin America as well as ancient Aztec, Olmec, and Mayan cultures influenced the universe, holding the title of <Lord Sun>, a title that parallels <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. These powerful puffle monster beings wield the unique abilities of the <Masks of Miçango>, a power based on the spirit masks from the game "Arms" that Misango used, where each mask gave a special ability. These puffle monster beings live in a universe where they are able to create their own <Masques>, spirit masks that live with them and assist them in battle and throughout life, as a pet and companion. Depending on their experiences, abilities, skills, etc, their <Masques> that they create take unique forms based on those of the creator. When in battle, by using <Masques>, they are able to evolve in a <Masque Form> which gives them increased stats and unique super abilities based on the Masque.

Violetjians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the Purple God <The Wise Joker> based on the symbol of Loki (S), these powerful puffle monster beings are the evolution and the future of the purple puffle monster beings. In this universe, they are enchanted by the powers of illusion and enchanted magic powers of Loki and the enchantments from Minecraft combined with their style of combat with weapons, learning unique spells and combos that combine magic with daggers, swords, and countless powerful weapons.

Heartjians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the Pink Goddess <The Unbreakable Heart> symbolized by the Celtic love knot, these powerful puffle monster beings are the evolution and the future of the pink puffle monster beings. In this universe, they are powerful mages and warrior beings in a feminist parallel Xenithverse, wielding the unique ability of the <FireHeart>, a power that not only links them to others (sisters, family members, partners, etc) making them invincible unless all Heart links are destroyed, but also gives them a more efficient mana core circulation system within their heart. They developed their cities with designs dedicated to the Heart symbol of the Pink God.

Darajians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians.

Ruled by the Brown God <The Heroic Fist> represented by the Dara knot (a symbol of strength in Celtic lore), these powerful puffle monster beings are the evolution and future of the brown puffle monster beings. In this universe, they mastered and taught the powerful magic art of <Soul Fist>, a technique that embraces their unique core energy (that flows similar to a Dara Knot) which allows them to charge their soul and manifest their soul and abilities in an outward aura armor or aura constructs (with the Brown God himself able to manifest his soul through countless hands). These puffle monster beings established their civilizations throughout the universe through this great power

Oranjians: In the GCU Timeline (where I went to GCU instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent the future and evolution of the Xenithians. Ruled by the Orange God <The Steadfast Shield> represented by the Shield knot (a symbol for unbreakable bond and protection in Celtic lore), these puffle monster beings are the evolution and future of the orange puffle monster beings, with their power having developed through the unique magic of the <Spiral Guard>, a unique magic art they perfected to be able to defend anything perfectly, being able to create variants and more powerful and/or specialized shield techniques to defend and even counter attack, with most even learning how to defeat any opponent with just the powers of the shield. They developed a unique magic that they place on shields or use as shields and developed their civilizations in the universe around it, being the most fortified universes Horuzians: Ruled by Redison of Egypt/AfricaEgypt. This Redison was found in a store within a country in this continent, where life within the countries of Africa influenced the universe of this Redison, who holds the title of <The Great Sovereign>, a powerful title that parallels to <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. These powerful puffle monster beings are empowered by the number of Spirits in their “Pride”. Based on Kaijudo (The spells, martial arts, and powers to summon creatures and the creature civilizations), these puffle monster beings are masters of unique martial arts that combine spells and magic as well as the powers of ancient civilizations these wild creatures established in these realms, but also combine the powers of <Wild Pride>, an ability that grows with them depending on how many puffle monster beings they have in their “Kingdom” or civilization, which then their individual powers gives them a boosted power. Each of these puffle monsters are actually rulers of their own civilizations/Kingdoms, some just don’t know it yet.

Kairunians: Ruled by Redison of Australia. This Redison was found in a store in Australia or New Zealand, where life within the region influenced the universe of this Redison, who holds the title of <Kairu King>, a title that parallels to <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. Based on Redakai: Conquer the Kairu (the power of the Kairu and the monsters that wield the Kairu), these powerful puffle monster beings hold the powers of the Kairu, a primordial power similar to magic and mana of the Xenithverse, with the unique power to summon and create powerful spells through special techniques that freely manipulate and control the Kairu energy to unleash great power. These puffle monster beings then developed their civilizations and universe through the power of Kairu.

Sigirians: Ruled by Redison of the Middle East. This Redison was found in a store in a country in the Middle East, where life within the region influenced the universe of this Redison, who holds the title of <Archaea>, a title that parallels <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. Based on the power sigils and stones from Di-Gata Defenders, these powerful puffle monster beings use the technology and magic within the powers of Sigils, a unique type of rune/symbol system that calls upon the primordial energy of their universe and uses special magic depending on the combination of the sigils used together and the type of energies and attributes input into the Sigils when used. Each puffle monster being (Sigirian) is born with a unique core that has an affinity to one Sigil in particular depending on the region they were born. For example, some have a stronger affinity to Infinis, others to Naga, others to Yan, etc. In addition, they are born with a certain special attribute (can represent a type of combat they will master, an elemental power, etc) which represents the types of spells and abilities they can call upon depending on the Sigil or Sigils they use. There are a total of 13 Universal Sigils (Altas, Infinis, Naga, Sum, Yin, Yan, Ogama, Dako, Nostrum Vitae, Ethos, Vitus, Mal-Ra, and Orn-Ra), to which they are able to use a combination of them in certain succession in combination with either their martial art, weapons, and attributes to unleash their unique attacks and abilities. These puffle monster beings established their civilizations through the powers of these Sigils and continue to seek more Sigils out or develop their own Sigils that derive from the 13.

Zentians: Ruled by Redison from the USA. This Redison was found in a store in the USA, where life in the US influenced the universe of this Redison, who holds the title of <Zenith>, a title that parallels <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. Known as The Sword Saint and the Divine Sky Zenith, this Redison holds powers very similar to Redison (Xenith) and can be considered the closest parallel. Based on Magi-nation and based on “God’s particles” from the Manhwa “Infinite Mage” (the particles of existence), these powerful puffle monster beings have the unique power and nature to wield and manipulate the particles of existence known as “God’s particles” which allow them to shape these particles into any form they want. Shaping them into symbols they can use powerful spells that can bend reality. By shaping them into a weapon or armor, they can equip these particles and give them any enchantments and special powers they desire (and in accordance with their attributes and <Creative Attributes> (they are able to imbue certain energies into the particles they manipulate and are only able to give certain properties to their creations depending on their creative attributes. For example, a being with a flame Creative attribute would be able to make a flamethrower or a fire spell but would be unable to make something water based unless they learn the Water Creative Attribute). With these, the Zentians developed their universe through this great power.

Astrians: Ruled by Redison of Polynesia. This Redison was found in a store in the Polynesian Islands (Hawaii, Fiji, New Zealand, etc), where life in the island regions influenced the universe of this Redison, who holds the title of <Emperor>, a title that parallels <Xenith> of the Xenithverse. Based on the powers of “Starlight” from the Manhwa “Return of The Shattered Constellation” and the power of the Starlight of Lee Taka and the supreme treasure known as “Emperor” that turned gods and stars into the brightest beings in the universe. These powerful puffle monster beings are known as masters of the stars, having been influenced by the stars as they had guided the ancestors to the islands, and having become stars themselves, and able to have a unique <Starlight> (a special ability that gives them god-like powers), making them the brightest beings in their universe and able to wield different types of <Starlight> depending on their alliances and relationships with other “Stars”.

Monadians: Ruled by Monados, The first being or the totality of all beings, before all points, numbers, lines, etc. These powerful creators live in the <Forge of Creation> (based on the Galactic Forge of Creation made by Inter.galactica on Instagram), a magic starship with an infinitely vast dimension where they can build their own “Room” that they work and create in, a dimension where they can simulate their creations and worlds and store memories and live in the realm peacefully. This starship travels outside of all creation, able to travel between all dimensions, timelines, universes, etc and seed the countless creations made by the creators aboard the Monad. These beings are powerful creators with the ability to shape and manipulate all forms of creative energies, fabrics of reality, space, time, and all aspects and attributes of reality and creation from any world, even able to create their own creative medium. Because of this supreme power, these celestial beings are akin to deities, even higher than Xenithia, when in reality, Xenithia is just one of the creators that was just not aboard the Monad, but created independently.

Eridasians: From my dream about floating cars (that could also fly) called <Fae> and how we drove them in a realm based in a futuristic high fantasy realm. In the dream, there was also futuristic spells and abilities I had such as cloning and "artificial life" (an ability that created clones of real people despite them being created from magic and used as a form of deception). These powerful puffle monster beings live in the realm of Eridas (the futuristic high fantasy fusion universe), where magic and technology of high fantasy and a great far future combined together.

Daphnelites: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. In this universe, the ancestry of the puffle monsters started from the Divine Dragon Gods, with each Dragon God beginning each species. Ruled by Daphnel of Luin, the flaming spear master and champion of the <Crest of Daphnel> (a bright flame red), these powerful puffle monster beings were created by the ancestry of the Flame Dragon God, Daphenir. With this great power of flames, these beings mastered the unique power of <Ignition>, the power to ignite mana and anything imbued with mana (including the air, all items and nature, the ground below, etc), and use this ignited mana as firepower for their core and magic spells to unleash explosive powers that are variant of the signature combat art of Daphnel <Burning Quake> (which uses the collected flames and bursts). These puffle monster beings developed their universe based on their flaming ancestry and powers and dedicated to the Dragon God Daphenir.

Charonites: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. In this universe, the ancestry of the puffle monsters started from the Divine Dragon Gods, with each Dragon God beginning each species. Ruled by Charon of the Thunderbrand, champion of the <Crest of Charon>, a powerful sword master and known for the legendary combat art <Foudroyant Strike>, these powerful beings are known for their unique power of <Voltaic>, which similar to the Daphnelites, manipulate mana within their surroundings and in items and objects, and manipulate and add a charge to the mana particles, creating a current of mana that serves as a stronger power course for their spells and abilities. This power was created by the Thunder Dragon God Chairos, who they dedicated their powers and the development of their civilizations to.

Cethleannins: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. In this universe, the ancestry of the puffle monsters started from the Divine Dragon Gods, with each Dragon God beginning each species. Created by the Dragon God of Light Caduceus and ruled by Cethleann of Amalthea, a magic staff master, and champion of <The Crest of Cethleann>. These powerful puffle monster beings are known for the legendary <Dragon God Art> of <Divine Light>, a power that allows them to manipulate and transform mana into divine light energy that they can absorb and manipulate for their spells, armor, weapons, and abilities. These beings live in a universe influenced by the Dragon God and the powers of light.

Timotheans: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. In this universe, the ancestry of the puffle monsters started from the Divine Dragon Gods, with each Dragon God beginning each species. Created by the Dragon God of Darkness Hrotti and ruled by the champion of <The Crest of Timotheos>, Timothy of Epimenides. All things have a shadow, and in this universe, mana has a shadow that these puffle monster beings are able to wield and manipulate to empower their spells, abilities, armor, weapons, etc, a power known as <Darkest Night>, which these puffle monster beings learned, inherited from the Dragon God, and developed their civilizations off of.

Blaidrin: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. In this universe, the ancestry of the puffle monsters started from the Divine Dragon Gods, with each Dragon God beginning each species. By the Crest of Blaiddyd (Black), created by the Dragon God of Strength Dmitri, and the champion of strength, Klaus of Areadbhar. These powerful puffle monster beings wield the special <Dragon God Art> of <Dark Infinity>, a power that converts the “power” of mana into pure raw strength that boosts their stats and abilities into “Divine power” that can be used to unleash extremely powerful abilities. They developed their civilizations based on this great power Macuians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. In this universe, the ancestry of the puffle monsters started from the Divine Dragon Gods, with each Dragon God beginning each species. By the Crest of Macuil (Chartreuse green/Lucky puffle color), created by the Wind Dragon Goddess Monica, and ruled by the champion of the wind, Falyn Windrider. These powerful puffle monster beings have the unique <Dragon God Art> of <Wind Caller>, a power that is able to transform mana from the air, the earth, and all items and objects, into a power of “Breath”. They developed their civilizations based on the powers of breath.

Indechians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. By the Crest of Indech (Blue), created by the Water Dragon God Gregoire, and ruled by the champion of the sea Hanneman. These powerful puffle monster beings have the unique <Dragon God Art: Infinite Assault>, a power that is able to transform mana into a endless flow of water that allows them to endlessly use magic and mana, and are able to create countless clones that can use magic as advanced as their main. They developed their civilizations based on the powers and their Dragon God.

Cicholians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Cichol (Orange) and created by the Earth Dragon God Seteth, these powerful puffle monster beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Terra Forge>, a power that allows them to transform mana around them and within items and objects, and crystallize them or transform them into minerals, with the power to create ores and stones, and manipulate those stones and forge them into special magic weapons, armors, items, and even powerful spells. With this power, they developed their civilizations through and even build their structures through these great powers.

Noan: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Noa (Pink) and created by the Everblooming Dragon Goddess Constance, these powerful puffle monster beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Grand Bloom>, which gives these puffle monster beings the special ability to transform mana from objects, items, and from the air or nature around them into special flowers that give them unique abilities depending on the <Bouquet> they make (the collection of flower types), as each flower created from the mana types can give a unique special ability (so they can use the power of the flower individually, as well as create Bouquets and make even stronger powers), and they use the spells through these flowers. This verdant colorful universe was developed through this power.

Chapter 19: REGOD's Revenge II: Origins and Endings : The final battle against REGODISON and the Xenithions approaches (the final exam of CPSC 221 will be next week). Training for Future Global Leaders will also begin soon, leading to new people and potentially new characters and stories to be introduced into the Xenithverse. With the battle approaching, the mysterious origins of magic begin to surface with the discovery of many origins of magic and the revelation of Magic Incarnate. Meanwhile, strange beings from the Imagination, Dreams, and even the imaginations and dreams of a greater being that dreamt up humans, begin to appear. In addition, more puffle monsters from the alternate UofA Evolutionary lore continue to appear. Following the UofA Evolutionary Lore puffle monsters all arriving, a great power awakens as the conditions have been met for the awakening of Magic Incarnate and his descension onto the Xenithverse. With his arrival, the powers of Redison awakens to become the Flame Incarnate and Xenith Incarnate (his new Xenith Supreme form), a power that he unlocks from developing his powers separately and creating a new supreme power through enlightenment, with the other puffles (Boxy, Hans, Artison, etc) following suit and discovering the powers as descendants of the Xenshinai. In the final battle, Redison was able to defeat REGODISON, eventually completely uniting the 6 Origins of the Universe (Tallest Mountain, the Endless Flowing Wings, the Deepest Spring, the Jewel of Endless Colors, the Tree of Snowfall, and the Star Tree).

Morax: Ruled by the Archon of the Dream's Dream. What if a version of myself from a dream (Dream Will) had a dream about a completely different version of himself (that didn't parallel current me) (Dream Will's Dream Will)? DW Dream Will (and any infinite variants of Dream Will's Dream versions of himself and other dream characters) lived their own lives in their dream universes and they created puffle monsters that inhabit Xenithverses based on these dream universes.

Elaios: Ruled by the Archon of the Imagination's Imagination. What if an imagined version of myself (Example: ASU Will) had imagined a different version of myself and that different version of myself (let's call ASU Will Alter) lived his own life that created puffle monsters from his experiences and stories? These puffle monster beings live in a Xenithverse based on the lives of these imagined character's imagination Sakras: Ruled by the Archon of the Imagination's Dream. What if a version of me that I imagined had a dream about a fantastical world of magic based on their lives (an imagined person's dream)? In the example of ASU Will (an imagined version of myself), ASU Will has a dream about an entity lets call Dream ASU Will, and Dream ASU Will has their own life and creations of puffle monsters from their life.

Horaios: Ruled by the Archon of the Imagination's Mirror. What if a version of me that I imagined (such as a version of me in ASU for example) imagined what an alternate life would be like and the stories and puffle monsters that would be made, that parallels my own? Essentially, what if a version of me from ASU (that I am currently imagining - Let's call them ASU Will) had imagined a version of me that went to UBC (like I - Current Will) am doing. So ASU Will's imagination created an entity called UBC Will and this UBC Will lives a life essentially parallel of Current Will, but has their own imagined puffle monsters.

Nahida: Ruled by the Archon of the Dream's Imagination. What if a version of myself from a dream (Example: Dream Will) actually existed in an alternate universe, living their own life in their realm, and had imagined an alternate version of himself (Dream Will Alter), and Dream Will Alter had his own life and puffle monster creations based on the life this alternate imagined version lives and live in a Xenithverse based on the world and life of Dream Will Alter.

Egeria: Ruled by the Archon of the Dream's Mirror. What of a version of myself from a dream (Dream Will) who actually existed in an alternate universe living their own life in that world (so dreaming was visiting and experiencing the life Dream Will lives) had slept and dreamt of a version of myself that is essentially me (a parallel of Current Will)? The puffle monsters that are created by Dream Mirror Will live in a Xenithverse based on the life and world of Dream Mirror Will.

Kusanali: Ruled by the Archon of Divine Vision. What if my existence and the existence around me (Current Will) is actually the imagination or dream of an even greater being, a member of a species of people that dreamed or imagined us humans (let's call these beings the Kusan). These puffle monster beings are created from the imaginations and dreams of the Kusan and live in a Xenithverse based on the universe and life of the Kusan that imagined them.

Aubinites: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Aubin (Silver) and created by the Dragon Goddess of Ice, Yuri, these powerful puffle monster beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Dromi>, the powerful ability to transform any mana and magic energy in the surrounding area into Silver Ice energy, a cold version of mana that can crystalize into ice or be used like ice, creating an rainbow ice magic depending on the colors and attributes of the mana that was frozen. By able to freeze the mana flow, they are also able to cancel spells and other abilities through freezing or slowing the flow of mana. These beings live in a more cold northern based version of the Xenithverse.

Chevalierans: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Chevalier (Gold) and created by the Sun Dragon God Balthus, these legendary puffle monster beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Midas>, an ability that transforms any mana around them into a golden version of itself, creating a unique form of mana that only their species are able to wield (Similar to Midas' touch of gold), where Golden mana takes on a different magic property and empowers the other attributes of the mana. These beings live in a golden version of the Xenithverse influenced by the powers of the Dragon God Balthus.

Rieganites: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Riegan (Jungle Green/Emerald Green) and created by the Dragon God of the Woods, Claude. These ancient beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Emerald Moon>, a power that transforms mana around them into a natural energy that allows them to boost their stats but also transforms mana into a tangible plant like form such as the forms of trees, leaves, etc. With this, they are able to even use mana as a healing power and lifeforce booster or give them a natural camouflage, making them the true masters of the forest and the greatest hunters of the woods. Their universes and civilizations were then developed and influenced by the Dragon God Claude and the Emerald Moon power.

Fraldariuns: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Fraldarius (Gray) and created by the Shield Dragon God Rodrigue. These chivalrous beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Emperor's Armor>, a power that allows them to transform surrounding mana into a great mana form that appears around them (like an aura) creating a larger tangible form depending on the mana and the attributes of the warrior (kind of like a golem except they are within this translucent energy golem but this golem has even stronger powers and stats as the warrior within). Using their powers, they are also able to create giant manifestations of other parts such as their hands in order to fight or use for construction or spells. They developed their civilizations based on the powers and influence of Dragon God Rodrigue Gonerites: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Goneril (Magenta) and created by the Dragon Goddess of Fate, Hilda. These beings hold the <Dragon God Art: Startouch>, an ability that allows them to not only see the future and into the fates of others, but also are able to manipulate destiny slightly through the powers to shift the stars, all through touching mana and sensing the flow of mana. Also known for their unique psychic abilities and telekinetic powers, these beings established their societies through these powers and dedicated it to the Dragon Goddess Hilda.

Lamineans: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Lamine (Ivory) and created by the Shining Dragon God of Order, Rafail/Raphael. These shining beings hold the <Dragon God Art: Skyfall Order>, an ability that allows them to transform mana around them into a divine light and after collecting enough "Divine Light" are they able to wield <Judgement> through calling upon the powers of the heavens to destroy, create, heal, etc. These angelic puffle monster beings established civilizations dedicated to Raphael and the powers of order and light.

Gautiens: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Gautier (Maroon) and created by the Fissure Dragon God Luinor. These chaotic beings hold the <Dragon God Art: Blood Reign>, a power that allows them to manipulate mana and transform surrounding mana into a blood-like form, not only giving the mana a blood color, but also giving different properties depending on the “Blood type” such as a boost in healing, a poisonous or paralysis touch, or other properties that can make or break a battle. These beings established a gothic-like society dedicated to the Dragon God Luinor and the powers of blood that they wield.

Azirans: Long ago, these beings were under the rule of Lyra in the Alziran Empire (the new Valhella). Now ruled by Castor and Pollux, now purified and twin leaders of the empire of puffles once empowered by the crowns of Lyra, now purified and transformed through the Crowns of Azira (the newly evolved rewritten versions of the Crowns of Lyra), which give them great power and the special ability to create their own super weapon that is unique and connected to them, grows with them in battle, evolves in their experiences, and gives them special magic. For Castor (the Flaming Crown) he wields Gaebolg (The Spear of Flame), while Pollux (The Stardust Crown) wields Caladbolg (The Sword of Storms). Based on the list of mythological weapons from all cultures and mythologies, from the weapons from Future Card Buddyfight, and from the weapons of Asura (from the Manhua “Sleeping Ranker”).

Castor: The Flaming Crown (my original friendship band), created into a loyal soldier of flame that also has an artificial clone soul of Redison and is able to detect Redison’s presence and while he was unable to wield a sword for some reason, was able to create a flaming spear known as Gaebolg, a unique weapon to him as unique as Xenith was to Redison. Turns out, this power was created as in this universe (the Alziran Empire and Azirans), Alison bought a Red puffle online, gave him the Flaming Crown, creating a super soldier based on Redison using the powers of the Flaming Crown, but due to the Red puffle being not Redison, had different properties and attributes (in this case, a spearman vs a swordsman).

Pollux: In this universe (of the Alziran Empire and the Aziran), Alison also got a Blue Puffle online that was to be Castor’s equal. Through his Crown of Stardust (a new crown created based on the Flaming Crown of Castor), he gained the powers to create a weapon of his own as well to match his attributes as a swordsman, the weapon Caladbolg Uravasmour: Based on my dream about a magical world based on Dnd with a flying dragon ship known as a Uravamour and how my team of warriors known as Team Sabers had our own ship and adventured the universe aboard it. Based on the DND classes and subclasses, abilities, and the magic of the Xenithverse as well as the travel through worlds by the Uravamour (a flying ship empowered by dragon-force). In this universe, these puffle monsters master learning magic through the powers of the dragonforce that flows through all things in this universe, empowering magic, technology, and all the worlds in their universe.

Gloucestians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Gloucester (Cyan/Ice puffle color) and created by the Dragon God of Craft, Tyrsus. Through the <Dragon God Art: Magi-craft>, they are able to create any item through materials around them and through their imagination using cyan energy constructs that assist in the crafting whether they are giant mage hands, or magic tools. These artisans established their civilizations and dedicated them to Dragon God Tyrsus.

Byletrians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Flames (Rainbow) and created by the Dragon God of Creation, Bylethar, these powerful puffle monster beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Heaven's Flames>, a power that can purify evil or those tainted by negative and impure energy, but can also enhance their powers and mana flow to unleash a "God like state" and the special power phase of creation, where they are essentially invincible when creating and able to use god like abilities such as flying, teleportation, and manifestation of objects and powers.

Ernestians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Ernest (Indigo) and created by the Dragon of Thorns, Zeros. These powerful puffle monster beings wield <Dragon God Art: Hidden Force>, a power that boosts their magic and unleashes a hidden potential form based on their attributes and skills but also changes all their stats to 000, a form which makes them invincible as their stats are considered "out of bounds", making them impossible to defeat unless by others using <Hidden Force> or the ability to heal their health and "purify them". They live in a civilization dedicated to the Dragon God Zeros (250th Species!)

Beastians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of The Beast (Amber) and created by the Storming Dragon God of Beasts, Baron. These powerful puffle monster beings wield the <Dragon God Art: Beastification>, a power where they can change their stats and even form into something akin to a wereform or a therian form. These beasts live in a universe dedicated to their therian and therianthrope forms and dedicated to Dragon God Baron.

Seirosians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Seiros (Teal) and created by the Dragon Goddess of the Sky, Rhea. Wielding the <Dragon God Art: Dispel>, a power that allows them to dispel magic in a certain radius and gather that excess boost magic that they dispelled to themselves and boost their power to evolve into a <Seiros Storm form> through circulating the particles they collect into a whirling tornado form through <Dragon God Art: Storm Circle>, based on the technique of taking and using an opponent's power to their advantage. Through each <Storm form> they are able to expand their Mana Core to be as vast as a sky, endless and open, able to gather many many different storms from the particles they collect and circulate. They then established their civilizations and technologies and dedicated them to Rhea.

Dominisians: In the UofA Timeline (where I went to University of Arizona (UofA) instead and designed an Evolutionary Lore for the puffle monsters), these beings represent alternate ancestors created based on the Tarot Cards, the Crests from Fire Emblem: Three Houses, and the Flippr puffles. Ruled by the Crest of Dominic (Brown) and created by the Crushing Dragon Goddess, Anna. Wielding the <Dragon God Art: Great Fusion>, a power that through the pressure and intense gravity and strength they gain from the Dragon Goddess Anna, they are able to fuse particles together into powerful items and magic constructs that they can wield, or even use this compression to harden and create stronger more indestructible weapons and armors. In addition, they are able to fuse different particles of different attributes together to create new particles and new particle types that they can wield and fuse together with others of the same type or of different types to create new items and spells. They established their civilizations through this power and dedicated them to Anna.

Xenititans: An alternate version of the Xenithians who hail from the Origin of <Tallest Mountain>, The First Origin of the Universe. These ancient puffle monster beings are unique for their characteristic of <Mana Forge>, a power where mana flows through them in the form of raging relentless flames in their mana core, and through their techniques of <Mana Forge> are they able to tame the flames and manipulate this flaming mana into a new from by condensing them into stars and manipulating these Mana stars.

Xenihians: An alternate version of the Xenithians who hail from the Origin of <Endlessly Flowing Wings>: The Second Origin of the Universe. These puffle monster beings are unique for their characteristic of <Mana Sky>, a power where mana flows through them like a storm, a tornado or hurricane in a vast sky that represents their mana core and only by controlling the flow of the mana wind can they master their power.

Xenithoans: An alternate version of the Xenithians who hail from the Origin of <Deepest Spring>, The Third Origin of the Universe. These puffle monster beings are unique for their characteristic of <Mana Thousand Sea>, a power where mana flows through them in giant waves in a vast unyielding ocean and only by mastering the special flow and nature of the sea of mana can a puffle monster of this universe master their power.

Xenijians: An alternate version of the Xenithians who hail from the Origin of <The Jewel of All Colors>: The Fourth Origin of the Universe. Also based on the Three-dimensional Multi-complex Magic Circle Ultimate Magic Unlimit The End (from the Manhua "The Dark Magician Transmigrates after 66666 years"), these puffle monster beings are unique for their characteristic of <Mana Ring>, a power where they can create rings around them like the rings of saturn or smaller magic circles that look just like 3D rings, a 3-dimensional magic circle where they combine various colored magic circles (different colors represent different elemental and magical attributes and abilities) to combine into a powerful force in the form of a ring, to which they are able to tame this wild circle magic and wield the powers of all the combined magic circles to unleash super spells.

Reydrans: In this universe, my great-granddaughter would eventually find my monster book and develop one of her own, creating her character based on Redison's title as the Lord of Sabers, with her character Reida Xenith (Reyda) based on Esnar Din Kanavan's Lord of Swords form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser, gaining the title of Xenith from Redison. These powerful beings are very similar to the Xenithians but have a more refined aura and power due to their evolution and creation from the future (estimating the year to be around 2124).

Ankruth: Ruled by Nature/Flora Incarnate (Greenison) and the power of bonds (the Friendship tree). "All things in nature are connected, like one massive tree". Greenison masters a supreme power after developing his own magic that parallels the power of Xenith and Magic but his very own developed from his enlightenment, a power that's based on nature, natural energy, and the power of bonds with others and their dynamic with others, all compiled into one great universe known as the Ankuverse.

Zidros: Ruled by Ocean Incarnate (Hans) and the power of life and destruction of water, but also the vast exploration aspects. "Let Infinity wrap around you. Embrace it, don't fear it." Hans develops his own perspective of Magic and Xenith, creating his own unique magic power that parallels Xenith and Magic, a power of Zidros, a power that is based on the perspective of understanding the duality of any power (how water can give life and destroy life) and that the power and concept of infinity can only be truly understood by embracing it and letting it wrap around you instead of fearing it or trying to absorb it. These beings live in the Zidroverse, a universe that parallels the Xenithverse and uses the powers of Zidro as their version of mana/magic.

Ivathi: Ruled by Shadow Incarnate (Joe/Flame). "All are equal in darkness". Joe develops his own perspective of magic, creating his own unique magic power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Ivath, a power that is based on the perspective of equality in the darkness, how in the night, everything looks the same, dark or light. These beings master the powers of fighting on equal ground, but also the power to absorb shadows and darkness and use it to their advantage. These powerful beings live in a version of the Xenithverse known as the Ivathiverse.

Magin: Ruled by Magic Incarnate (Based on The Manager (the manifestation of all Magic aka Magic Incarnate) from "The Advanced Player of the Tutorial Tower") as his home universe and with Magic and mana as the primary power instead of Xenith or any other power, these beings live like the Xenithians do, hidden in their own universe known as the Maginverse (Redison separated the Maginverse with the Magiverse to keep the human magicians and Magin both safe from each other). The Magin have mastered mana differently from the humans as they each have unique ways to channel and control their mana. For some, they control it by controlling the flow in their body in the form of gears, others as a tree growing and blossoming, others like lightning flowing through, and so on. As the original inheritors of mana and magic following their creation by Magic Incarnate, they learned the true power of mana and magic, how magic is a collection of their experiences, memories, accomplishments, their sense of being, all bundled into one core where their power and mana flows from (based on the "Achievements" from the Manhua "Advanced Player of the Tutorial Tower").

Ezoin: Ruled by Night Incarnate (Dancer/Dana). "In our darkest hour, we see the stars". Dana develops her own perspective of magic, creating her own unique magic power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Ezoin, a power that is based on the power of the stars, constellations, and the shifting of the stars and the cosmic phenomena (galaxies, quasars, star formations, etc). These powerful beings are created from starlight (the base of Ezoin parallel Mana of magic) and are able to manipulate the starlight within them to transform the cosmic energy around them into spells, weapons, and/or usable starlight energy for their powers and technologies. These beings live in the Ezoiverse, a version of the Xenithverse that based their civilizations off of starlight and the powers of the cosmos.

Aerinites: Ruled by Light Incarnate (Artison) "With light, there must also be darkness". Artison develops his own perspective of magic, creating his own unique power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Aeris, a power based on utilizing the balance of light and inner darkness, to wield colors and light based abilities in perfect harmony, the supreme power achieved by those who wield their inner darkness with the power of light and colors to create prismatic elemental and magical abilities, spells, weapons, and technologies. These beings live in the Aeriniverse, a version of the Xenithverse that was developed by these powers.

Iz'ien: Ruled by Sky Incarnate (Snowy). "The sky's the limit. Find your sky and go beyond it.". Snowy/Cedric develops his own perspective of magic, creating his own unique power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Zien (Zai-en), a power developed through recognizing the limitless potential of magic abilities and the evolution of magic where it can grow. These beings are able to grow their powers limitlessly as they develop applications for their abilities, but also new techniques and variations, while also training their power. These beings live in the Izienverse, a version of the Xenithverse developed with the philosophy of the "Sky's the limit" to their magic power.

Olun: Ruled by Earth Incarnate (Brownie). Brownie/Brandon develops his own perspective of magic, creating his own unique power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Orun, a power developed through the power of inner strength and by absorbing elements around them, can they create a "Divine Body" (depending on the type of elements and combination of elements they absorb). For example, one can absorb flames around them and with their inner power (achieved through climbing the highest mountain within themself) can establish a <Flaming Cultivation>, where they are able to ignite all materials but also ignite their bodies, withstand high heat, and launch flames from their body. Others can absorb stones and develop skin as hard as diamond, some can have a body of air and are able to ride the wind, transform into wind and air, etc. These beings live in the Olnuverse, a version of the Xenithverse developed with the powers of the Orun.

Ahmuten: Ruled by Wisdom Incarnate (Boxy/Caleb). “There is no such thing as a waste of learning”. Caleb develops his own perspective of magic, creating his own unique power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Ahmus, a power developed through the power of wisdom and knowledge of a certain technique, magic ability, spells, natural phenomena, magical phenomena, etc. These beings are able to develop their magic abilities through understanding and enlightenment of the concepts that define the powers and skills they learn. By increasing their understanding, their powers and abilities level up and evolve, able to develop new forms, variations, applications, etc. These beings are known to have a fast reading speed, able to understand and comprehend magic faster. Also, they are able to develop their own magic and new applications and create spells, and are known for the special <Ahmus Zone> (based on the Spirit Zone from the Manhwa “Infinite Mage”) where they are able to wield “Omnipotent” magic as wielder of magic in their <Ahmus Zone> that they create from their Ahmus energy (as Ahmus energy is linked to the intelligence, wisdom, and understanding of the abilities of Ahmus. These beings live in the Ahmuverse, a version of the Xenithverse developed with the powers of the Ahmus, where supreme beings are able to use the entire universe as their <Ahmus Zone>

Ezari: Ruled by Love Incarnate (Crystal). “Love has many forms.” Krystal develops her own perspective of magic, creating her own unique power that parallels Xenith and Magic, the power of Ezar, a power developed through the understanding of the complexity of love and relationships and how it can come in countless forms, have a complexity that can be unknown to all but works out in the end, kind of like a divine plan. These beings have a special “Heartstone” which acts as a core and is empowered by these different forms of love and can create different kinds of Heartstones depending on the type of love and relationships they experience. Depending on the Heartstone at their core, they can transform into different Heartstone forms, each of which give their Ezar a different property. For example, <Heartstone of Passion> gives a flaming property to Ezar, while Storge (Family love) gives a property of light. These powerful beings live in the Ezariverse, a version of the Xenithverse where Ezar reigns as the main power.

Xenshinai: Beings of concepts, ideas, deities, and all things made Incarnate. One member in particular is Magic Incarnate: The driving force of creation and reality, the vessel that holds the power of creation and destruction, known as magic, has an incarnate form. A being hidden from Xenithia and her siblings, as the Creator of Xenithia herself. Design based on Elsword Genesis form (essentially a pure white version of Redison). Xenithia and the Monadians descended from Magic Incarnate becoming a new species. The Xenshinai are one of the oldest of creator species with the power to make concepts and powers take form and evolve itself through enlightenment and create entire multiverses around them and their concepts and creations. These beings live in the Xenshiverse, a version of the Xenithverse that actually moves and travels to create new universes and spread them through the universe

Antari: Ruled by Darkness Incarnate (or Primordial Darkness), an antithesis to Magic Incarnate and with a design equivalent to Redison, but in all black (black hair, black eyes, black flames, etc). These beings represent the power of “Anti-magic”, a power that is separated from magic and a power to destroy the magic of the Xenshinai or magic of the same level in the event of a battle against Magic Incarnate, kind of like a failsafe in the event he goes rogue. These powerful puffle monster beings act as the balance of the Xenshinai, the destruction to their creation, the black to their white, the yin to their yang. These beings live in the Antariverse, a Xenithverse version that is pretty much a reverse version of the Xenshiverse (pretty much exactly the same with some small tweaks).

Xenithions: An alternate version of the Xenithians ruled by REGODISON where these beings hail from the Origin of the <Tree of Snowfall>, the Fifth Origin of the Universe as opposed to the Xenithians who hail from the Sixth Origin of the Universe, <Star Tree>. Ruled by REGODISON, a version of REGOD after fusing with a Redison plushy who I had lost and was replaced by the current Redison (in this universe, I took Redison everywhere with me, but lost him somewhere, to which my parents replaced him with a Red puffle plush that looks exactly the same) and never fulfilled now rises as the strongest of all. Driven by a power of revenge, he seeks to destroy Redison (God of Xenith) as the God of Xenithions. These super powered magic beings are unique for their characteristic of <Reverse Mana Flow> where the mana within them flows the opposite direction, making their magic energy and powers stronger

July: Future Global Leaders

- Story Arcs
    - Chapter 20: Ragnarok Pt 1: The New Future
    - Chapter 21: Ragnarok Pt 2: Twilight

Chapter 20: Ragnarok Pt 1: The New Future: Session One of Future Global Leaders is underway and the students have arrived. I also passed my exams (the final battle of Redison VS Regodison). Regodison (once the half of Regod) finally settled in his new body and developed a new identity. Meanwhile, the warriors of the far future hail from 4024, where the world didn’t end due to the 2nd coming of Ragnarok (the End of the World). However, this was because Redison had gone on the trip to Iceland and defeated the being that caused the 2nd Ragnarok known as Yggdreadsil (the World Tree of Destruction created by the power of the Stardread Frost). Since I am working at UBC as a Future Global Leader monitor, Redison never went to Iceland on that trip, and therefore didn’t stop Yggdreadsil. These beings arrive from 4024 to make sure Redison defeats Yggdreadsil in order for their timeline to continue. However, following a mistake I made on July 3rd night (I made a comment to Lee that I should’ve not said) where following the clubbing night I thought about leaving The Mobb for the mistake I made, which gave me negative ideas and created a version of Redison that took the title of Orrok Ragnarson, the Destroyer of Worlds that caused the 2nd coming of Ragnarok in his world, arriving to cause the next Ragnarok on this world following a strange mission given by an unknown figure…

Merzurians: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Mercury and through their time establishing colonies and cities both on the surface and underground, eventually genetically evolved to appear a tad different from humans on Earth in order to survive the harsh climates of Mercury. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies throughout the solar system), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Egarios Sieghart (or Rio Sieghart) as their main character and champion, who wields powers even stronger than Redison due to the influence of culture and experiences of the creator living on Mercury and how he is influenced by the countless games he plays and videos he watched in this era. Rios Sieghart is based on Ercnard Sieghart's Prime Knight and Last Highlander forms from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser. In this universe, these beings hold the powers of harsh elements and magic from the imaginations of Mercury and the colonies established. Their powers are channeled from their more chivalric powers as well as the powers as champions of a world known for harsh climates and mana flow. What separates them from the other beings of the future is their powers based in Solar Power, as the Sun is the closest to them, they are masters of wielding the extremely high powers of the sun and the flames of prominence that powers their heat resistant technology and weapons.

Azerojians: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on the Asteroid belt and through their time establishing colonies and cities on the asteroids throughout the belt, they genetically engineered their evolution to survive the new surroundings of the asteroids. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies and civilizations throughout the solar system), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Zerusio (Zerushio) Sieger as their main character and champion, who wields a power stronger than Redison due to the influence of culture and experiences of the creator living on the asteroid belt colony. Zerusio Sieger is based on Ercnard Sieghart's Immortal Slayer form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser. In this universe, these beings are unique based on their characteristics of special magic ores in their armor and weapons, unique technology (specifically mining based), and extra strong defense and barrier magic.

Zevyrians: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Venus and through their time establishing colonies and cities both on the surface and in the skies, eventually genetically evolved to appear a tad different from humans on Earth in order to survive the deadly winds and conditions of Venus, eventually having successfully terraformed the planet and developed civilizations to work with their new appearances. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies and civilizations throughout the solar system), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Zerodos, a powerful magic warrior based on Zeros Zephyrum's Logo Master form and Trailblazer form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser. These beings are known for their unique control of wind-like magic and storm-like magic in this future as well as magic based on the floating cities or terraformed lands of Venus.

Zeratians: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Jupiter and on the Jovian land below and through their time establishing colonies and cities both on the surface and in the skies, eventually genetically evolved to appear a tad different from humans on Earth in order to survive the raging winds and conditions of Jupiter, where in this case, since there was no "ground", they developed floating cities throughout the planet and created "artificial ground" for them to establish lands and realms, where these humans genetically engineered themselves and eventually passed these genetic changes to their future generations, to have wings of a reddish-orange color (the color of the Planet) and be able to fly but also have compact special eyes that allow them to have extremely powerful vision, night vision, able to see through the storms, and that the wind doesn't effect their eyes. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies and civilizations throughout the solar system), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Icarus Zephyr (Isaac), the Sephiroth Saber (or the Winged Champion) (Based on Brammashell's Sephiroth Saber form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser), a powerful winged being (based on the humans of this world) that the puffle monster beings known as Zeratians take their form from except also combined with puffle monster elements except with wings. All are able to fly, with their wings taking different designs and being composed of different things (feathers, steel, other special metals or materials, swords, blasters, etc). Their realms are famous for the "Amber Skies"

Xenaethians: In the far far future, humans continued to prosper on Earth, establishing colonies and countries and cities throughout the land, on the sea and under the sea, through the skies, and even underground all over the planet (establishing underground cities through all parts under the planet and under the oceans). These humans relatively stayed the same except that they are a lot more technologically advanced and eco-friendly, able to control the powers of the elements better such as using the powers of the Dyson Swarm of the sun, as well as all energy on the Planet (wind, geo-thermal, and hydro). In the year 4024, in a universe where humans expanded this far and established civilizations throughout the solar system and leaving Earth, a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagined their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Ryugo Jin, (Based on Jin Kaien's Dyaus form (a parallel to Redison's form based on Jin Kaien's Sage of Heavenly Creation form)), a powerful warrior that mastered technology and ancient magic techniques and combined the magic techniques of the past with the highly refined magic of the future and techniques of the future, to create a hybrid fighting style that is unique to him and his clan that he teaches. The Xenaethians wield the highly refined magic of the future but are also able to combine their magic with magic from the past and techniques of the past, to create their own magic styles. Their highly refined magic gives them special control over powerful high tech magic weapons but also the knowledge to combine these with other magic techniques of the past.

Nepturians: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Neptune and throughout the planet and moons around, and through their time establishing colonies and cities in the atmosphere of the planet (as there is no “surface”). Eventually, these humans genetically evolved to appear a tad different from humans on Earth in order to survive the extremely cold and freezing winds of the Planet of the Indigo Sky. To combat this, these humans evolved to not only be able to withstand extremely cold temperatures and to fly with the winds, but also have great sight and endurance. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies and civilizations throughout the solar system), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Triken, a swordsman and master of the Final Edge (based on Lass Isolet’s Final Edge form and Gale Gallant form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser). These powerful beings are known for their elusive magic techniques through “Phantoms” (an ability that allows them to change their body into a ghost-like form) as well as the ability to float and fly effortlessly without wings, and extremely powerful cold magic.

Erudroni: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Pluto and Charon, on the surface and underground, where the darkness and ice-cold temperatures dominate the planet and moon. Eventually, these humans genetically evolved to not only be cold-resistant but also able to camoflauge well in the dark and are able to see in the dark (perfect dark vision) and dark, diamond hard skin. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies and civilizations throughout the Solar System), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it, with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Don Erus (Eris), a powerful dark-magic ice type warrior and emperor of the Dark. Based on Ronan Erudon’s Abyss Lord form and Savior form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser, these powerful puffle monster beings are known for their special shadow magic and ice techniques, able to summon shadow blades and shadow armored figures to fight for them, but also create shadow weapons based on their interactions with other weapons and items and eventually establishing a society created from the hard crystal shadows.

Azmisir: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Europa (a moon of Jupiter with water below) on the surface and under the surface in the infinitely vast seas. These humans genetically evolved to not only be extremely cold-resistant and have special water breathing and air-breathing as well as well as extremely fast swimming capabilities and water-based abilities such as the ability to walk on water when they want, ride the waves, and even blast water from their hands and have a higher affinity for water magic. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established colonies and civilizations throughout the Solar System), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone in these colonies who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Azmis, a powerful aquatic warrior (kind of like Aquaman) that is known as the Emperor of the Europan Seas and master of all the Azmisir that live in the underwater cities and worlds imagined by their creator who lives and learns about the countless civilizations and regions on his moon.

Tairina: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on Earth's Moon on the surface, in the regions above the planet, and underground, genetically evolving to not only withstand the radiation of the sun and the cosmic rays, but also the power to absorb cosmic energy, stardust, and sunlight in order to empower themselves. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established civilizations throughout the Solar System), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone in these colonies who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Orion, a powerful fighter and champion of the moon and the Lunar Fang, a magic technique that these beings have mastered to harness lunar magic energy more effectively. Based on Asin Tairin's Fist of Infinity form and Sage of the Blue Moon form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser, Orion leads as the hero king of his species, all of whom live in countless cities and regions on the moon, divided by their different cultures and stories in their regions of the colonies, but are united by the powers of the moon itself.

Kratoan: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations on the surface, underground, and in the red skies of Mars, genetically evolving to not only withstand the harsh winds, heat, and cold on the planet's surface as well as the cosmic rays from space, but also developed unique camouflage and skin to better blend in with the planet and see through the raging dust storms. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded this far and established civilizations throughout the Solar System), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own magical world and creates it with their main character instead of Redison Xenith, being Ares Kratos, named after the God of War and master of all weapons. Based on Sol Credile's Hell Kratos form and Bellium Platoon form and Callisto Jupiter's Stigma of Valor Form (Both from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser), these powerful beings are known for their powerful mastery of weapons, Weapon Aura (or War God Aura), Battle Spirit, and extremely high stats as a species created based on the culture of combat and the diverse stories of battle and styles of battle on the planet of their creator.

Erizahn: During the Ragnarok, this Redison unlocked this ultimate power when all hope was lost, as the opponent he faced was immune to all magic. It was when he discovered this power that converted magic into <Strength>, a fundamental power that gave magic and mana a new meaning and a new use. Following the defeat of the entity of Ragnarok and Redison's Victory, he evolved the puffle monsters to wield this power and master the powers of <Power Change>, where they can convert Magic and Mana into <Strength>, a power that can grow through their experience, learning, knowledge of techniques and magic, and through training. Based on the powers from the Manhwa "Mightiest Melee Magician", these powerful puffle monster beings are able to use the powers of combining Strength and Magic together to unleash fearsome powers, and eventually developed their civilizations through this divine power.

Dreadnites: Ruled by the being of Dreadstar, a supreme being that caused the great Dreadstar Frost to cover countless worlds, creating a frozen hell in each universe (creating an eternal night and winter in each world). Following countless conquests of many universes, he finds the Xenithverse Space (where all current universes are) with his mission to freeze it. In his timeline, Redison had stopped him from causing Ragnarok and destroyed him through the powers of the Erizahn, taking his powers and the creating a new species through the powers of the <Dreadstar Frost> and many new species through the divine powers he acquired to fight the Dreadnites.

Leviathan: Ruled by Orrok Ragnarson, an alternate version of Redison where I left The Mobb (causing an end to the tree of friendship I established with them) akin to a Ragnarok and becoming the one who caused the second Ragnarok. These powerful puffle monster beings are known to have the powers of Leviathan within them, a beastly power where their primary power manifests as a giant beast/creature (known as their Leviathan), where they can either call upon it to boost their magic or even summon powerful spells that manifest in the shape of their Leviathan (maybe wings, claws, tail, head, or their entire body).

Zetakaien: This version of Redison is from an alternate universe where I went on the cruise and went to the Arcade and the racing track a lot on the cruise. Also based on the ByunByunController from Boonboomgers. With this power, Redison was able to transform his magic into <Power points> which boosted all of his overall stats, abilities, levels, and even gave him new magic abilities and skills, and was able to successfully defeat the Entity of Ragnarok from his universe. These beings wield the power of turning magic and mana into <Points> known as <Power Up>, a cosmic power that allows them to hold both magic/mana and Power/Points, which gives them new skills and abilities based on the combination of both stats. In addition, these beings are able to power up through certain items that can boost their points. They developed their civilizations based on this hybrid combination of Power/Points and Magic/Mana.

Xiais: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations in the emerald skies, the rings, and the many moons of Uranus. These humans genetically engineered themselves and later on passed their future generations the features of a lighter skin, different more powerful eyes and stronger eyesight, as well as the ability to float and stronger mind to imagine and dream. In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded and established civilizations throughout the Solar System), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines their own fantasy world where their main character instead of Redison Xenith, is Xias (Zias) Ora (Based on Harpe Noir's Virudhaka form from Grand Chase Dimensional Chaser), the Queen of the Skyblades. These powerful beings are known for their unique ability of <Soul Charge>, a power that allows them to manage the power of multiple souls within themselves. By wielding <Dual Soul> they can have 2 souls within themselves, and both souls could activate <Dual Soul> so there are a total of 4 souls within one body, and so on and so forth. Using the powers of their different "Souls", they are able to imbue certain powers and abilities in those souls in order to wield opposing or incompatible powers and harmonize them perfectly through harmonizing the souls within.

Ka'anh: In the far far future, humans developed civilizations in the skies, on the rings, and on the many moons of Saturn. These humans evolved themselves genetically to not only withstand the powerful winds and the toxic gasses of the planet but also high durability and strong skin for the beings who live in colonies on the rings of the planet and the moons of Saturn. Also based on the refineries from Jupiter Ascending (the movie). In the year 4024 (in a universe where humans expanded and established civilizations throughout the Solar System), a version of the Xenithverse is created by someone who (like me) imagines a fantasy world based on their lives on Saturn, where the main character instead of Redison Xenith is Kaine Solis, a powerful knight that wields the power of time and the powers of the rings.

Zhraeakon: In this alternate universe, these powerful puffle monster beings have transcended into the realm of <Players>, similar to how us humans (Me, Shobe, and my friends in the past) were able to summon and create their own puffle monsters and beings and use them in battle or certain challenges. The <Players> have the power of turning Magic and mana into <XP>, a power that transcends magic/mana and gives them the power to create puffle monsters and items or create worlds and powers. With these supreme powers, these puffle monster beings live in a universe where many puffle monsters are actually players and some are not Players and have the ability to have their creations come out from their imagined realms and live in harmony with the creations of the other Players all in this universe.

Zorroskai: The creations of Redison as a player and his version of Puffle monsters that he can summon and create to assist him as a Player. Created through XP, they have their own magic system using Zorros, a power system equivalent to mana and magic. They have the unique ability to transform into any weapon that assists the creator in any way (also dependent on the XP and their Zorros). They live in a similar universe to the Xenithverse where the Zorros power reigns.

Ezias: In this universe, this was the power that saved the second Ragnarok from destroying the world and was able to cure the death of the world tree by using their supreme power to recreate the worlds of the world tree and regrow them to be stronger as well as create more world trees. Based on the designs from the board game Skull, these powerful puffle monster beings have unique colors, designs, and powers of world tree creation and manipulation which allows them to either travel between the worlds, repair and revitalize the worlds, or control and activate spells that use the powers of the World Tree itself.

Zaeaga: In this universe, this is ruled by the Sorcerer God Zaeaga and his sword, the Heavenly Descent of Magic, Zaeaga. Based on the power of Metamagic that Sorcerers in DND have. These powerful beings wield the power of <Sorcery points> which take the form of mana stars within their Mana Heart that they can use and obtain through their magic and use the supreme powers of Metamagic, an ability that allows them to change the properties of any spells and magic attacks by causing interference with their special magic type that hacks into the mana and changes it based on their desires. These powers allow them to expand their Mana capacity, their wisdom for spells, as well as power to manifest their magic differently. These puffle monster beings live in a universe where Sorcery points reign.

Chapter 21: Ragnarok Pt 2: Twilight: Session/Season 2 of Future Global Leaders has officially begun today (with today as Arrivals Day). According to Inesh (a student from Session 1), he mentioned this session might be a lot more chaotic due to the next 2 weeks being “Peak Hot Girl Summer”.  As Session 2 has continued, I began to actually really like this group of kids and it kind of makes me sad to know they will leave pretty soon. In the Xenithverse, mysterious beings that were created from evolutions of humans and other humanoid beings from throughout the universe, beings akin to deities and divinities begin to appear as if summoned by a mysterious force with the sole intention to unite all in order to either hold dominion over all or to destroy all, two powerful Omens that decide the fate of the 2nd Ragnarok.

Axza’ri: These powerful beings are the puffle monsters imagined by the Ancients, a species that was the progenitors of humans and the evolved form of them that traveled the galaxies and planted countless human life throughout the planets to create new beings that might evolve and join them. The ancients themselves are made of pure energy and are akin to deities, able to mold and shape reality and create universes and worlds as they please, and were the creators of humans. These puffle monster beings are parallel to how humans (me) created puffle monsters, as creations of an Ancient. These beings hold the special power of combining the powers from their mental projection realm and their imagination and combine it with magic of their surroundings to create new powers and puffle monster beings, weapons, armors, items, etc that can wield the power.

Arivani: The first evolution of humanity, known as the Alterans, who were the ancestors of the Ancients and are capable of abilities almost akin to magic such as telepathy, telekinesis, and healing touch, as well as creators of magic technologies. These puffle monster beings are the creations of the Alterans. These beings mastered the power of Unification, a power that combines formulas and magic spell information into their mental projection in order to create spells and Original powers and abilities (based on the power from the Manhwa "Dragon Devouring Mage").

Aquirians: Ruled by Aquira, the one who creates. She was based on my dream of a small blue puffle plushy that had light blue, lavender, and sparkly white in her design. Known for her masterful craft of alchemy and creation, she mastered the power to create living beings from inanimate energies and concepts together to create new life that can assist her. She later passed this on to her clanspeople and species as they all learned the powers of Aquirian Alchemy, a technique that creates life (Chemies) to assist them in their lives. Each Aquirian has a unique Alchemical Attribute within them that allows them to only create certain Chemy Creatures with certain abilities and skills. These puffle monster beings live in a civilization where alchemy rules supreme and is part of every part of their culture.

Marzians: The Replicators are a technological lifeform and highly advanced machine race that can reproduce themselves infinitely consuming all available resources to create more of themselves. These powerful puffle monster beings are creations of the Replicators and are not only influenced but also use the abilities of the replicators, where they are able to clone themselves infinitely but also give their clones unique abilities and allow them to develop separately and uniquely, to the point that once they reach “Singularity” they can clone as well and give unique abilities to their clones.

Etlasians: The Lanteans (from Stargate) are a group of Ancients who left Earth in the city-starship Atlantis and settled in the Pegasus Galaxy. These beings (known for their advanced technology and peaceful utopian culture) imagined their own version of the puffle monster beings known as the Etlasians, a powerful species that mastered technomancy and magic technology creation (based on the technology and weapons from Aripockily), and the ability to combine different weapon themes and craft them with futuristic abilities.

Aesari: The Asgard are an ancient humanoid race that assumed the personae of the beneficient protectors and gods of the milky way galaxy. As an ancient supreme race with magic akin to gods, they created puffle monster beings known as the Aesari to serve as their Avatars or extensions of themselves, to watch over and act as deities in the far corners of the universes they watch over. For example, in many worlds, they have deities of different elements/aspects such as the God/Goddess of Storms, the God/Goddess of the Harvest, God/Goddess of the Sea, etc. Each type of Aesari acts as a God/Goddess of the element, so for example, the Storm Aesari act as the Gods/Goddesses of Lightning and Storms on each world, while the Ocean Aesari act as the Gods/Goddesses of the Sea on each world.

Tyrajians: Ruled by Tyranos, the one who judges. Tyranos is Green, Orange, Grey, and white (very similar plush design as Aquira). These powerful puffle monster beings mastered the techniques of <Schema> (based on the power of Schema from the Manhwa “Infinite Mage”), the power to enhance the body through <Builds> that boost their bodies features and skills, allowing them to either move faster, increase their metabolic rate, or increase their attack power a hundred fold. These powerful beings master techniques that not only infuse magic into their Schema, but also create evolutions of their body that allow them to combine different kinds of magic into different Schema Builds to unleash temporary evolution forms that max out their fighting style.

Xojun: The Nox (from Stargate), a humanoid race that has a symbiotic relationship with nature and are pacifists with powerful abilities such as bio-electrical tuning, and within their utopian civilization in perfect harmony with nature, they imagined their own puffle monster beings known as the Xojun, beings that were extensions of nature themselves, each with their own Natural power that they wielded. Some had the powers of insects, others the power of plants, but all had one thing in common, a powerful symbol that the Nox created for each clan of nature, that their symbols would represent their sovereignty as the supreme forces of nature. These beings act as the pacifist extension, a guardian force to those who can’t protect themselves using the powers of nature.

Apsagans: Ruled by Apsogos, the one who rules. Apsogos is Red, White, Purple, and black (very similar plush design as Aquira). In Greek, Apsogos means “Perfect”. These puffle monster beings are known as the perfected beings, and all are born with the power to rule over as gods and goddesses, as legendary beings in their own right, as they inherited the powers of Gods, Goddesses, and legendary heroes and figures from mythologies, but also with the unique power to develop their own “Godhood” status and eventually reach <Perfected Ascension>, a power that transforms them into the maximum level and gives them unique super skills that combine the powers of the deities and legends they inherited and collect, with their own unique “Perfected” powers. (300th Species!)

Zyen: In the universe of DND 5e, there exists The Simic Combine, an organization that use magic to fuse different life forms together to create humanoid subjects by transferring traits of animals into humans, elves, and vedalken to create an army of superior soldiers known as the Simic Hybrids or “Guardians”. These Simic Hybrids would eventually spread out through the universe and establish their own civilizations and culture. In this universe, they created and imagined puffle monster beings known as the Zyen, based on their own cultures and civilizations that they live in, but also imagining what other Simic Hybrid civilizations are like. These Zyen later developed the power to jump imaginations and discovered many other Zyen universes created from the imaginations of other Simic Hybrids civilizations. An example of this is how one Manta Simic Hybrid (Morgan Pelagrin from our DnD Tower of Terror campaign that Ethaniel made) imagined Zyen puffle monster beings based on his civilization as a Manta simic hybrid, and these Zyen discovered another Zyen multiverse created by the imagination of a Lizard Elf Simic Hybrid (for example). These Zyen multiverses fused together eventually to become one great Xenithverse to represent the countless Simic Hybrid civilizations and their imaginations.

Xalan: The Asurans (from Stargate) are a technological life form created by nanites and created to be living weapons, through their supreme power and power of imagination created the supreme power of <Regalis>, a power that transforms and transcends reality and changes all aspects of reality related to them (also based on Han’s power from “The Dark Magician that Transmigrates 66,666 Years”) and gives them the power to transform themselves into the ultimate weapons of creation, destruction, and magic. Their unique magic is inherited from the powers of the combination of the <Regalis Force> and the powers of their unique magic nanotechnology and nanotech magic abilities (such as the ability to create special magic nanites that can be used in their own unique spells and abilities). They established their civilizations through the power of the magic nanotechnology

Zurone: The Ori (from Stargate) are beings who has near infinite knowledge and powerful abilities that evolved from the Alterans and wield the power of deities. These supreme beings then created puffle monster beings known as the Zurone, a powerful clan that wields the power of the Infinite Eye, a power that not only absorbs endless knowledge and magical power, but also gives them extreme insight, but also gives them a supreme power that allows them to master <Domain of Creation>, an ability that allows them to create a domain around them and their opponents that traps them in a “universe” under the creator’s control, where all in the domain, all aspects, all magic, all abilities, are all in the hands of the creator.

Zenthari: Ruled by Zenth, the one of the light (Black, White, Gold, and Grey, and a very similar plush design as Aquira). These powerful puffle monster beings wield the powers of >Divinities<, a power that gives them unlimited god-like energy and special abilities as well as a divine form capable of wielding the Divinity, where they can develop the Divinity they are born with and evolve it to reach Transcendance. Zenth (the one of light) wields the power of >Zenith Solstice<, the Divinity of The Sun, a power that can change to be one of creation and one of Destruction.

Mysaraea: Ruled by Lifthrasir (the Next Life). The beings of the Winter that survived the Ragnarok in ancient times were the ones who became our ancestors and spread across the world. In this universe, these beings created puffle monsters as well, known as the Mysaraea, beings that held divine powers from the world before Ragnarok, and mastered the powers to now develop the magic and runes into new forms as well as create hybrids through using magic of the new world (post Ragnarok).

Mjerrani: Pronounced Zjerrani (M is silent). Ruled by Mjerrabaine, The Omen of One, a legendary being that desires a world in which all life embraces individuality and shuns conformity and wields Enlightenment, the Sword of Creeds (all from Shadowverse Evolve). During the first Ragnarok in ancient times, the gods fought the monsters of the 9 realms to a standstill, with many deities and monsters dying in the process. However, this war all started from a celestial war between two great beings, Mjerrabaine and Rulenye, the Omen of One, and Omen of Zero. Mjerrabaine used his divine powers to create the Norse Gods to fight for him after he and Rulenye were sealed for the greater order. His power and all creations of his not only wield divine powers as gods, goddesses, and heroes, but also wield a unique power that allows them to copy and evolve the powers of their foes and incorporate it into their power through <Enlightenment>, created by Mjerrabaine for the sake of uniting the 9 realms and all worlds into one world. These beings wield the powers of <Enlightenment> as they not only take and copy the powers of others but adapt it and make it their own power with their collection of powers.

Zorun: Ruled and created by Rulenye, The Omen of Silence/Zero, a legendary being that desires a world of silence, one without madness and resentment, a clean blank slate (based on the character from Shadowverse Evolve). Long ago, he created the monsters and creatures of the 9 realms (the Frost Giants, Dark Elves, Demons, Fire Giants, etc) with the intent to use them to wipe the 9 realms clean with their powers following his sealing. These beings wield the powers of destruction, a power to eliminate all powers and reset them to zero but also to wipe their stories and abilities away, to destroy without a trace using their ability <Eclypse>.

307 Species Total!

---

PROPHECY OF THE WARRIOR QUEEN: There will be a warrior that can rival Redison in every fight, make for his strongest ally, but also be one of his toughest opponents as the one that Redison will never fully defeat. Known as Arrisaea, the strongest swordswoman in a realm from another universe that travels the universes searching for her equal

Alzira Empire: The new Valhella, where all of the past “galfriends” and crushes I had are reimagined, lead by Alison/Lyra

- Petalia: Suhani’s character and warlord (the pink, white, and green band/crown of blossoming storm)
- Desaiin: Tej’s character (Suhani’s bf) and partner to Petalia (the blue, white, and navy band/crown of Blue Willows)
- Crown of light: Lyra
- Arrakis: The Heavenly Demon (Redison’s avatar in this world) who wields the Black Crown of the Heavenly Demon Dragon (a pure black band). Able to wield the <Chains of Draco> (able to launch unbreakable magic chains at a target and take their crown)
    - Absolute Defense
    - Black Willows
    - Black Dragon’s Storm
    -

Magiverse: Ruled by Magic Incarnate as his home universe and with magic as the primary power instead of Xenith or any other power, these beings known as the Magin live like the Xenithians do, except that in this universe, the humans are able to perform magic, with the Magin hiding away in their own parallel invisible realm due to having been hunted by the humans in the past. Redison, now living here after being teleported, learned to control mana differently. Mana is usually controlled (for the humans who have mastered magic in this universe and use it as much as technology and some rising to become celebrities like the Hunters from many Manhua and Manhwa, becoming known as Magicians) like controlling surges of water within their core, and manipulating the water into pools (the circles technique). Redison combined his initial power of fire to create a new Flame Combustion technique where he changed the water into fire within his core and made the collections of fire spin and explode constantly, creating an explosive form of mana wielding that differs and is 10x more powerful that Magicians.

- Redison: Bakuretsu Technique (Explosive mana of flames)
    - Ifrit: a magic flaming sword he created from his mana that he can create from his flames and perform different sword techniques
        - 1st Form: Jet blade: An explosive launch of a flaming sword like construct that bursts through an opponent with incredible force
        - 2nd Form: Burning Arc: A horizontal flaming slash with one sword
            - Burning X: Two sword form
        - 3rd form: Rising Sun: Upward slash
        - 4th form: Setting Sun: Downward slash
        - 5th Form: Dynamite X (wielding two swords using exploding speed to push forward and slash with both at close range while speeding by)
        - 6th Form: Excalibur (Combine the two swords together to form a great sword and unleash a devastating downward slash with AOE damage)

- 7th Form: Infinity Sword: Countless flaming swords appear from the ground for the user to grab and slash his opponents infinitely
- 8th Form: Skyfall: Call upon countless flaming weapons from the sky and target the opponent

Pufflein: Found in the Tower of Terror realms, perhaps native to them. Created through the energies of the countless dimensional travelers and challengers of the tower, creating countless dimensional variants of the Pufflein based on the challengers and their abilities, cultures, etc as it charges the Jewel of Genesis, a possible new Origin Point for a new Xenithverse

- Swordsman
- Gunslinger (Orange): Can shoot with D4 hit
- Wizard (Indigo): Able to store 3 spell slots and use one cantrip that you teach it
- Cleric (Yellow): Can heal partner with d4 health 3x per long rest
- Range (Green)r: Able to find and alert for traps within 30 ft range
- Barbarian (Brown): Able to initiate Rage when the partner is out of rages
- Sorcerer (Scarlet): Able to use fireball once

Shapes/Clans

- Circles/Centrians (Heart)
- Squares/Cubyxis (Club)
- Diamonds/Daimyos (Diamond)
- Triangles/Deltea (Spade)
- Star/Sirius (ALL, but only +1)

Switch Necromancer:

ORDER OF POWER: This is the list that defines what powers can trump others (what power has precedence over the other). In ORDER (from Top (the highest power) to Bottom)

- XENITHIA'S LAW: As they were created by XENITHIA, nothing will beat it. Kind of like how when a mother says she is always right, there is no arguing with her, or when she uses the reason of "I birthed you", you lose. This is the only ability that can beat Zyraniel's Final Element
- ZYRANIEL's FINAL ELEMENT
- Reverse/Nega: The ultimate balancing ability, the power to counter and negate everything. For each power born, a Reverse/Nega type is created to counter and negate it
- <Absolute Law> of the Abraxi